Fort Henry Camp Has Been Closed

OTTAWA, Nov. 17.—(CP) — The prisoner-of-war camp at Fort Henry, Kingston, Ont., has been temporarily closed in a move connected with the current fuel shortage in Eastern Canada, it was understood here today.

Fort Henry is an old structure, and for that reason is hard to heat, it was said. Accordingly, the prisoners housed there have been moved to modern barracks elsewhere — for their own comfort and to conserve fuel.

Destination of the prisoners was not made public immediately.

Japs Are Claiming Heavy U.S. Losses

LONDON, Nov. 27 (CP)—The Tokyo radio claimed today Japanese planes had sunk a large Allied aircraft carrier, two-medium-sized carriers, three cruisers and a "large warship" not otherwise identified in a dawn attack south of Bougainville.

The claim was in keeping with other recent Japanese reports of heavy losses inflicted upon the U.S. Navy, all of which American authorities have branded as gross exaggerations.

The Tokyo broadcast claimed Japanese losses in the action, which it designated "the fifth air battle of Bougainville," were five planes.

Another Japanese broadcast said American planes had raided the Hanoi district in French Indo-China last night.

Alberta Premier Warns Dodge Socialism

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Nov. 17 (CP)—Premier E. C. Manning has warned Canadians to beware of any party, under whatever name it chooses to call itself, which preaches the principles of socialism.

In an address last night Mr. Manning said "we are at war to defeat the aspirations of a socialistic nation trying to force their ways of government upon us. Are we going to be blind and let it sneak in the back door in our very midst."

"Socialism is socialism wherever it is found, under whatever thin veil or name it tries to hide itself," he said.

The premier said aims for creating a better world could be summed up in two words—security and freedom.

The one clear road, both to security and freedom, he declared, was Social Credit.

"All efforts that we have made have either been disallowed by Ottawa or declared ultra vires by the courts. Our only course now is to get to Ottawa ourselves, and to implement and put into practice our principles."

Would Spread Tax To Cover Every Voter

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP)—Delegates to the seventh annual conference of the Ontario Property Owners' Association today urged the government to give consideration to the advisability of extending the burden of municipal taxation directly upon all persons enjoying the municipal franchise and the need for over-all property tax limitation.

The resolution further urged that adequate measures be taken to ensure the price ceiling policy of the Dominion Government is enforced in regard to municipal spending and "to prevent the dissipation by municipal councils of provincial grants intended for the relief of the taxpayer."

North must have counted on some help from the opponents when he made that last bid, raising his partner to a game which could not be made without assistance. West furnished all the aid necessary, by merely following the rule in old books which prescribes the bottom card from three to an honor when you lead your partner's suit.

The spade 3 brought the 9, J and Q, and South then played to the heart K, which East ducked. The diamond 10 then was covered by the K and A, and South led the diamond 3 to the Q, which set up dummy's 9 as an entry. The spade K was taken by the A and then the declarer led his heart J, overplaying the Q from dummy, East winning with the A. Back came his spade 7, but West had to win it with his 8. If West had led the 8 originally, he would have had the 3 left to put under the 7, so that East could have scored two more spade tricks.

West returned the diamond 5 to the dummy's 9, and South scored two hearts in the dummy. He was wise enough not to cash the last heart there, as it would have squeezed him. Instead, he put forth the club J, covered by the Q, K and A. West had only a diamond and a club to lead, into the declarer's established cards, so the contract was made. It would have been impossible if West had led the spade 8 originally.

Canadian Anti-Aircraft Units Have Little To Do In Italy

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Oct. 31 — (Delayed). — (CP). — The Italian campaign has proved a dull war for Canadian anti-aircraft gunners who have had practically nothing to shoot at.

A few enemy planes attempted to bomb the landing beaches early in the campaign, said gunners in a battery commanded by Maj. Jack Pepall, Toronto. The gunners shot down three.

Since then there have been few enemy aircraft in the skies. Of those that have flown over the Canadian area five have been destroyed by the battery commanded by Maj. Jimmy Archibald, of St. John's, Nfld., and one by the battery commanded by Maj. J. C. Whitwill, Brantford, Ont.

Gunners on Duty Regularly.

But the gunners have been on duty regularly through the campaign, in rain or shine. Usually they have sat by their Bofors for hours without any excitement at all.

A lieutenant-colonel from Calgary, commanding the anti-aircraft regiment, expressed admiration at the way the gunners kept up morale despite their long, dull vigils.

To break up the monotony of their guard which is essential no matter how unexciting, the colonel took a troop commanded by Capt. J. H. C. Warren of Toronto up to the front to provide ground support for a Western battalion which was putting in an attack.

The Bofors, their barrels pointed horizontally, were set up quietly on a hillsid hile the attack was organized and went into action as the troops went forward.

Germans Quickly Retire.

Their sudden tracer fire on the German positions proved effective the infantry commander reported later. The Germans quickly retired, leaving weapons, ammunition, and kit behind.

Headquarters of the regiment is established in the house of an Italian artist in a town captured by the Canadians two weeks ago. The artist spends a lot of his time painting portraits of members of the headquarters staff.

He did one of the colonel when the town was under shellfire which disturbed him, so he painted the colonel all over again when things quietened down.

He's also done good portraits of Maj. W. G. Ledingham, Calgary, who is second in command; Capt. Andy Sharp, Montreal, the Adjutant, and Capt. J. V. Baird, Peterborough, Ont., the Quartermaster.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS IN ITALY have in recent days told how fighting there has involved hard climbing over hilly, rocky country by the infantry. These Canadians, under German mortar fire, are here beginning a long march to the crest of a hill and new positions.

Captain Clarke U-Boat Nemesis

LONDON, Nov. 17 — (CP). — One of the youngest captains in the Royal Navy, 45-year-old C. P. Clarke, has been revealed as the man behind the operations sweeping the seas comparatively free of Nazi U-boats.

A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty disclosed in a speech at Weston - Super - Mare that Capt. Clarke has been director of operations against U-boats for two years.

Now with success of the job assured, he is going to sea to command "a great ship" which, naturally, Mr. Alexander did not identify.

Paying tribute to the young captain, who joined the Royal Navy as a midshipman before the First Great War began, Mr. Alexander said he had earned "an important share in the great success we have hewn out of the massive danger which confronted us."

Modern Robin Hoods Captured By Police

HAMILTON, Nov. 17 — (CP).— Two 15-year-old boys, who emulated the deeds of Robin Hood, have been arrested here and will shortly appear in juvenile court, police said Wednesday.

Some days ago, an arrow was shot through the window of the Truth Gospel Church, crossed a room and lodged in a pile of papers. Attached to the arrow was a message: "You done us wrong Now the black avengers will punish you." The note was signed, "The Black Avengers" and appended to it was a drawing of a skull and crossbones.

Investigation of the incident led police to the homes of the two boys. They admitted shooting the arrow and said that they had "meant no harm." Police said today the arrow might have killed anyone it had struck in the church.

Police seized five well-made bows, each about five feet long and capable of shooting an arrow with considerable force, and a set of brass-tipped arrows.

More Guerillas

MADRID, Nov. 17 — (AP). — Guerillas sworn to stamp out the German and Vichy domination now are operating over Eastern France from the Maritime Alps northward to beyond Pontarlier, an area more than 300 miles long and from 30 to 100 miles wide, according to advices reaching Spain yesterday.

GOES TO ALGIERS—The first Frenchwoman ever to hold a position corresponding to that of member in the Canadian House of Commons, Mme. Andre Simard of Quebec City, ABOVE, has been appointed to a seat in the new French provisional consultative assembly, and will leave shortly for Algiers, where it is in session. She is well-known in Quebec, where as early as the fall of 1940 she was instrumental in uniting sympathizers of General Charles de Gaulle into an active Fighting French committee. Her appointment is to one of the four seats through which more than 800 of these committees now established throughout the world will be represented on the French consultative body.

Fears Aircraft Industry Slump

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP).—Canada's aircraft industry "will be in a mess" after the war when existing government contracts for the production of planes and parts are cancelled, Frederick Smye, executive assistant to Ralph P. Bell, controller of aircraft production in Canada, said here last night.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Air Industries and Transport Association, he told of aircraft production and said that the Curtiss Helldiver program "had slipped" but the work now was being carried on with renewed vigor. Rumors in Canada and the United States that the Helldiver "was no good" were false.

"In Ottawa, we're out on the limb on commitments," he said, "especially in the construction of PBY flying boats for the United States Navy. The Lancaster bomber program is just getting started and we hope Mosquitoes will really get going soon."

Mr. Smye told plane-builders not to fear the cancellation of contracts because "victory is in sight" and to concentrate all their efforts on turning out as many units as they were able.

20,000 Children Deprived Of Milk

MONTREAL, Nov. 17.— (CP).— The Catholic School Commission said yesterday that unless immediate action is taken by Federal authorities about 20,000 school children will be deprived of their daily milk ration during school hours "until at least the end of the month."

At a meeting of the School Commission officials with officers of the Quebec Dairy Commission and J. P. Nadeau, Deputy Administrator of Dairy Products of the Prices Board, it was decided to refer the matter to Prices Board officials in Ottawa so as to have the milk distribution resumed in Catholic schools as soon as possible.

At the meeting, it was learned that the dairy which had contracted for the distribution of milk in some 30 schools had been compelled to take over a government contract and thus was unable to supply milk to the schools.

Protestant schools are not affected by the lack of milk.

Britain Turns Publicity On Scourge Of V.D.

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 17.—(CP).— The German smacked at London through the lengthening October nights with a fair degree of consistency, but London, injured to trouble from the sky, wouldn't take him seriously.

He came across the capital with his swift fighter-bombers in sneak raids by one and two, sometimes three and four and twice by as many as 15 machines, dropping a few bombs, destroying homes, killing a few people. London wondered what he was up to.

Was he simply making propaganda to sooth the bomb-shattered nerves of his people in the cities being razed by the great Allied night and day assaults? Was this Hitler's promised retaliation or was this a test of London's defences for a renewal of big raids later in the fall and yinter?

Whatever it was, it didn't shake London or cause undue concern. Most people thought there would be bigger raids before the long nights ended, but they would have to be much bigger, it seemed, before the people were going to move into shelters.

Wartime problem: October has also been a month in which the full glare of publicity was turned on venereal disease, one of Britain's most troublesome wartime problems which, so far, has beaten every attempt to halt its spreading.

The B.B.C. broadcast a talk described as one of the frankest put on by the Corporation, between Dr. Charles Hill, the "Radio Doctor," and Rev Ronald Selby Wright, the "Radio Padre." The Archbishops of Canterbury and York issued a public statement.

Though blaming the young girl more than the prostitute for the spreading of the disease, Dr. Hill said prostitution must be stamped out because "it seems to suggest that the community sanctions promiscuous intercourse."

The "padre" said: "I'd like to see an appeal made not in threats and precautions, in caveats and cures but in the word of a grand old man of former days, 'men for the love of God, be men'."

The Archbishops, saying disease will bring "ruin to the nation" if unchecked, called for more instructions, more clinics and more women to aid in the drive.

Formby Is Angry

Formby Storm: It was also the month in which George Formby, ukelele-playing comedian, brought down the wrath of the London theatre world by telling a service paper correspondent in the Mediterranean who asked him where were the other theatrical stars, "most of the stars are where we left them — in the West End (of London)."

He wouldn't retract, either when he returned to London. In fact, he suggested that if the stars wouldn't go to North Africa and Italy to entertain the troops, "Something ought to be done to make them."

"No matter how much work a star does in this country, he is still not doing the job where he is essential — in Africa and Italy among the troops," he said, telling his critics "if the cap fits, wear it."

The theatre world as a whole felt the cap didn't fit.

PREDICTS TURKEY WILL FIGHT NAZIS

Red Forces Retreat At Zhitomir

Moscow Claims Withdrawal Not Extensive

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 18 (AP)—Confronted with stiff counter-attacks, adverse weather conditions and difficult terrain, the Red Army has given up ground in the Ukraine for the first time since it began its successful offensive four months ago.

The withdrawal was executed yesterday in the Zhitomir-Korost-Yshev sector at the tip of the Red Army's salient west of Kiev, and came on the eve of the first anniversary of the launching of the great Soviet counter-offensive at Stalingrad on Nov. 18, 1942.

The retreat followed a series of heavy Nazi counter-attacks southeast of Zhitomir and in the Fastov sector.

(Advices from London said the Germans were reported to have thrown at least 150,000 troops into the Zhitomir counter-assault.)

The depth of the withdrawal was not given in the Russian communique.

Moscow military observers, however, believed the withdrawal was not on a large scale, but was simply a tactical manoeuvre designed to prevent the encirclement of a comparatively small advance guard.

Moved Too Fast

They explained that a light, mobile column of tanks and motorized infantry had led the Russian drive through Korostyshev and Zhitomir and that the bulk of the Red Army forces was not able to maintain the pace.

Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukrainian Army, which carried out the retreat, has been one of the fastest moving Russian units in the present offensive, begun on July 12 in the Belgorod sector.

While the tip and left flank of the Kiev salient sagged slightly under the heavy enemy pressure, other Red Army forces pushed forward on the right flank toward the strategic rail junction city of Korosten to the north.

The Russians captured the towns of Narodichi, 28 miles northeast

SEATTLE, Nov. 18—(AP).—With the distinction of being the first reported member of the United States armed forces to escape from a Japanese prison camp, Capt. Samuel C. Grashio, 25, of Spokane, came back to his home state yesterday after almost a year behind barriers.

Captain Grashio, then a lieutenant, was captured in the fall of Bataan in the Philippines. He remained tight-lipped about how he escaped.

Yugo Partisans Capture Nazi War Gear

LONDON, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Fighting against strong German attacks, Yugoslav Partisans nevertheless scored some offensive successes including the capture of a coal mine near Lazaravac which supplies fuel to war factories and power plants in Belgrade, a communique broadcast by the Yugoslav Army of Liberation said today.

A German breakthrough was acknowledged in Eastern Bosnia and successful defensive operations were listed in Dalmatia and Croatia.

The Germans left 319 dead on the various battlefields, the communique of Josip Broz (Drug Tito) asserted, and huge stocks of war gear were captured.

The Germans crashed the Partisan lines between Doboj and Tuzla and the bulletin said fighting was continuing in this region.

Sharp clashes were reported near Posusje and in the Cetina Rive valley inland from Split. Units of the 11th Yugoslav Brigade repulsed a strong German sortie from Klis, northeast of Split. More than 200 Nazis were killed there and two enemy tanks were damaged, the communique said.

Hull Declares Stalin A Genius

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—(AP).—State Secretary Cordell Hull, addressing a joint session of the House of Representatives and the Senate today, said the decisions made at the Moscow conference point the way to a world freed of "spheres of influence for alliances, for balance of power or any other of the special arrangements" through which countries formerly strove to safeguard their security or promote their interests.

Hull, the first Cabinet member ever to address Congress, said "We can and will remain masters of our own fate" through co-operation with other countries likewise intent upon security.

"We of today," said the 72-year-old State Secretary, "shall be judged in the future by the manner in which we meet the unprecedented responsibilities that rest upon us—not alone in winning the war, but also in making certain that the opportunities of future peace and security shall not be lost.

He declared that the four countries have "laid the foundation for co-operative effort in the post-war world toward enabling all peace-loving nations, large and small, to live in peace and security, to preserve the liberties and rights of civilized existence, and to enjoy expanded opportunities and facilities for economic, social and spiritual programs.

Close Co-operation.

Hull said that military discussions which took place in Moscow were aimed at closer co-operation.

Rumanians Seek Visas To Flee

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS.

BERNE, Nov. 18—(AP). — Thousands of Rumanians are crowding neutral consulates seeking visas to go abroad as a result of tensions created by the nearness of Russia's armies, the revival of a dispute with Hungary and increasing indications of a government crisis.

A Bucharest dispatch to the Gazette de Lausanne said 30,000 persons had asked visas to Turkey, and 35,000 to Switzerland.

Rumors of a government change slanted more toward a "democratic regime" have increased, the Bucharest dispatch said, with the report that King Michael saw Juliu Maniu, peasant leader and chief of the opposition, who fought the Nazi alliance from the beginning.

The dispatch said Michael Antonescu, vice-premier, was expected to be charged with forming a new government. Antonescu was reported early this year to have lost favor with Hitler, who was reported to have demanded his removal because of his luke-warm attitude toward the Axis.

R.A.F. Renews Piledriver Aerial Blows

Ludwigshafen Hit In Heavy Raid Mosquitoes Active

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 18 —(AP)— The heavy night bomber fleet of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F., on its first raid in a week, attacked the great German chemical centre of Ludwigshafen on the Rhine last night while Mosquitoes simultaneously bombed Berlin for the third time in seven days and other targets in western Germany, the air ministry announced today.

The big R.A.F. bombers' last trip over Germany was the night of November 3, when a record weight of 2,000 tons of explosives was dropped on the big industrial city of Duesseldorf, making it probably the world's most heavily bombed city outside of Hamburg.

Since then British heavy bombers have been out only twice, attacking the Mount Cenis railway tunnel at Modane, France, on the night of November 10, and hitting the French rail centre of Cannes the following night.

Last night's assault on Germany kept the two-way aerial offensive from Britain and the Mediterranean going full blast and underscored the latest warning of worse yet to come.

At the very moment the R.A.F.'s great four-engined bombers were roaring through the darkness toward their target, Allied radio stations were telling the people of France to stay away from factories producing war materials for the Germans.

Speaking over the BBC in a broadcast beamed to Europe, a spokesman for the Allied high command named 36 French cities and towns—including Paris—which he said would be made targets of mass blows by day or night in the near future.

Other cities where Frenchmen were warned to take precautions included Metz, Nantes, Lemans, Limoges, Toulouse, Mountauban, Fiveslille, Denian, Strasbourg Molsheim, Albert, Lyons, Ivry, Colombes, Billancourt and Argenteuil.

The warnings were repeated several times.

The night attack was followed up in daylight today by an attack by heavy United States bombers on Hitler's northern war industries in Norway.

Norway Suffers

It was the second time in three days American bombers had blasted at the section of German war industry hitherto relatively free of aerial poundings.

A power station at Rkukan, about 80 miles west of Oslo, and a molybdenum mine at Knasen were blasted Tuesday.

To-day's targets were not identified immediately.

Kennedy Urges Farmers To Cut Firewood

CLINTON, Ont., Nov. 18.—(CP)—Ontario's fuel shortage could be relieved if farmers would keep their sons and hired men on the farms to cut firewood during the winter, Agriculture Minister Kennedy said here to-day in an address prepared for delivery before the Huron County Federation of Agriculture

Describing the fuel problem as "very serious," Mr. Kennedy said the plan would help to keep young men on the farms, "where they are needed as never before," and by so doing would be of ultimate benefit to the whole future of Ontario agriculture.

"Young men are being urged to go to the bush to cut lumber and pulpwood," Mr. Kennedy said. "They are also being asked to go into war factories, and some of them are doing that. The trouble with that is that many of them who leave the farms for the winter may never come back. By keeping your hired men and sons on the farms to cut all the firewood possible you will help make up the fuel shortage and help keep young men on the farms."

A Planned Economy.

County agricultural committees, approved by county wardens at a Toronto conference Monday, can organize a planned economy for the agricultural life of each county, according to its production possibilities and its needs, Mr. Kennedy said.

"In nearly every case the majority of the members of the committees will be the representatives of the organized farm groups within the county," he said. "The farmers themselves will have the controlling voice in the committee and the members will be selected in a democratic way by the farmers themselves. Now that the principle has been approved by the county wardens we hope that in the very near future the committees will be set up and will be able to go to work for the improvement of agricultural conditions in each county."

Farmers Help Themselves.

The time has passed when farmers should look to the government for advice on how to run their farms and market their crops, Mr. Kennedy said, adding that the men who have been successful farmers are best qualified to help their neighbors in these matters.

"We believe that the farmers know how to run their own business better than we do," he said, "and we will be behind them to give them help when they need it. That is why the Agricultural Inquiry Commission is a body chosen, except for the chairman, by the farmers themselves, and I think that before it has finished its work the Commission will have done a great deal to improve the position of agriculture in Ontario."

Huns Unleash Attack On Last Island

Allied-Held Samos Battered By Dive Bombers

LONDON, Nov. 18 — (AP). — The Berlin radio said to-day that the Germans, switching their attack from Leros, have begun an aerial assault on Samos, last of the Aegean islands in Allied hands.

The broadcast asserted German bombers and dive-bombers dropped bombs of all calibres on the military targets on Samos, a Greek island less than 20 miles north of Leros, which capitulated Tuesday.

London morning newspapers sharply criticized the loss of Leros, with the Herald urging a full official explanation.

"We shall gain nothing by glossing it over," said the Herald.

All the editorials were filled with questions and stressed that the fall of the island to the German attacking froces, announced yesterday constituted a political set-back to the Allies in Turkey and the Balkans.

The News Chronicle put its criticism into blunt terms. "It is hard to resist the conclusion," it said "that some body has blundered."

The Daily Mail declared the failure "is bound to have an unfavorable effect upon neutral and satellite opinion."

Morley Richards, the Daily Express' military expert, pointed out that Leros was out of easy reach of Allied aircraft and observed that it could have been saved only "by use of air bases on the Turkish mainland . . . these airbases were not available to us."

An Associated Press dispatch from Cairo last night quoted Marsland Gander, London Telegraph correspondent who escaped from Leros in the early hours of Nov. 16, as saying that 10 German landing craft had been sighted near the island's tip as a destroyer carried him away.

Gas Fumes Kill Toronto Girl

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Jessie Henderson, 21, of Toronto, died from coal gas fumes and four other persons were rushed to hospital suffering from effects of the gas early today after being discovered in an unconscious condition in the basement of a North Toronto home.

Miss Henderson's sister, Marie 17, was revived by firemen and gas company officials, and taken to hospital with Mr. and Mrs. John Larwill and their 14-month-old daughter, Shirley who had arrived in Toronto only last night from Edmonton.

Mrs. Robert Cook, wife of the owner of the home on Woburn Avenue discovered the unconscious bodies when she went to look at the furnace.

She told firemen that the two Henderson girls were sleeping on a cot in the basement because of the shortage of space in the home. They had given up their beds to accommodate guests.

Dehydrated Vegetable Shipments Overseas Increase By 4 Times Over 1942 Total

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 — (CP).—Dehydrated vegetables valued at about $3,750,000 — almost four times the total for 1942 — are being produced by Canadian plants this year, mainly for shipment to the United Kingdom it was learned today.

Officials said this production represents a major achievement in wartime food output, since it is based on Canadian experimental work of past years and has met an urgent need in quick order.

Dehydrated vegetables, easily shipped vitamin-rich and readily stored, are required chiefly for the armed forces in or near the front lines and of the 6,400 tons produced this year, some 5,600 tons will go to Britain.

About 1,600 tons of dehydrated vegetables were prepared last year for the United Kingdom and armed forces.

Officials said the dehydrated vegetable shipments, represent "major" stocks of the fresh product. One pound of the dehydrated product required ten pounds of fresh beets; 18 to 19 pounds of cabbage; 10 to 12 of carrots; 14 to 16 of onions; six to eight of potatoes and 13 to 14 of turnips.

48th Highlanders Fighting Across Italian Mountains

By WILLIAM STEWART—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Nov. 16 (Delayed)—(CP Cable).—After long, wearying marches that marked the first weeks of the invasion of Italy, the 48th Highlanders of Canada came to grips with the Germans in the mountains northwest of Motta which lies on the edge of the Foggia Plain.

The Toronto battalion landed at Reggio Calabria September 3 with the second wave of the Canadian assault force from Sicily. They headed into the hills of the toe of Italy.

Encountering slight Italian opposition, they took Gambarie high up some 15 miles inland, but the withdrawing Germans managed to keep out of reach.

There was practically no contact with the enemy for weeks after the landing until the Canadians raced across the Foggia Plain and up through Motta.

A company of the 48th commanded by Capt. Jeardley Wright of Toronto formed part of a strong reconnaissance force, including tanks, which led the Canadians to Motta.

Royal Canadians There.

The battalion remained on the plain below while another eastern Canada regiment (The Royal Canadian Regiment) pushed through and captured the town. Then the 48th took the lead and marched four miles beyond to the neighboring town of Volturara, halfway down the Catolo Valley.

Here Germans were closer than at any time earlier in the campaign, but were still fighting only a rear-guard action with every advantage of ground.

On the night of October 4 three companies of the 48th crawled down to the Catole riverbed while the Germans shelled Volturara and attacked along the river line. A fourth company was given the special task of fighting its way to crossroads on high ground to the right.

The valley march was made through thick, rainsoaked undergrowth which gave scattered German machine-gun nests perfect concealment. From farther back the enemy dropped mortar fire and shells into the valley.

One of the liveliest actions of the campaign was fought by a company commanded by Maj. Ian Wallace of Toronto in its push toward a road junction above the town of San Marco stride a hump running up from a valley.

Wallace's men moved unmolested along a winding gravel road leading to the crossroads until trees disappeared and the road led out in the open, crossing bare rolling country. Then mortar bombs started to fall.

Lieut. Blair Eby led his platoon off he road in a circling move to

Adjourn Inquest In Murder Case

MONTREAL, Nov. 18—(CP). — A coroner's inquest into the death yesterday of Mrs. Andrew R. Webster of neighboring Westmount today was adjourned indefinitely shortly after it was opened.

The adjournment was made at the request of Police Chief W. W. Gough of Westmount "because we have not yet completed our investigation." The chief's request came after court identification of the body was made by her brother-in-law, Charles Albert Hale, a Westmount lawyer.

Meanwhile police and alienists were questioning the dead woman's 14 year old son, George, while his young sister and brother and a house-guest were being treated in hospital for clubbing wounds. The sixth occupant of the house, eight-year-old Jeannette Brown, a British child war guest, was not hurt.

The Brown child was in her room unmolested while George Webster was sitting alone on his bed in a dazed condition. He has been incoherent since then and his first words were said to have been addressed to his father, who flew back from Toronto and visited the boy at police headquarters. There was no indication as to what father and son said to each other but it is known they were not together long.

Police Chief Gough told reporters before the inquest opened that they were still holding young George at police headquarters.

He said the lad was cheerful and would talk "about anything else but the murder." The only person who has talked with him, other than police, was his father.

"He spoke to the boy briefly," Chief Gough said, "but he didn't hear any of the conversation. We were watching all the time but we couldn't hear what was said."

The chief said he had learned the boy had been reading "murder and mystery stories, but I've read them too when I was a boy and I've never killed anybody."

Forecasts Delay In Defeating Japan

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 18—(CP).—A long delay between the end of the war in Europe and the concentration of Allied might to crush Japan was forecast today by Maj.-Gen. R. H. Dewing, chief of the British-Australian army liaison staff.

"If time has been necessary for the concentration of Allied forces for the second front in Europe and the North African campaign," he said in a speech, "even more will be needed to move major forces from the European theatre to the Far East."

Declare War By Spring Report Says

Giving Allies Aid Already In Her Own Manner

By WILLIAM B. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 17 — (Delayed). — — (AP).— Turkey is moving toward war with the Axis.

Turkey's sub rosa assistance to Allied armed forces, which closely approximates that which the U. S. gave Britain in the months before the United States entered the war, is rapidly carrying the nation toward a war footing.

Details of the help which already is being given naturally cannot be disclosed, but this correspondent is convinced that what was only friendly neutrality a few months ago is rapidly approaching genuine co-operation.

That this co-operation may grow into Turkish participation in the war on an all-out scale is recognized by the Turkish Government, which is making its plans for that eventuality.

(This is the broadcast indication of Turkey's new attitude to come direct from Ankara through a censorship which, so far as it concerns Turkey's foreign relations, has been one of the most cautious and rigid in Europe. King's findings are supported by information supplied by a man in London with authoritative connections, who cannot be identified. He said two weeks ago that outright Turkish participation in the war, qualified though it might be, was in the cards.)

Real war may not become Turkey's lot for several months.

A few weeks ago I was convinced that Turkey would not enter the war before spring, but now I am convinced she will be in the war by spring. I have reached this conclusion despite the fact there has been no visible effort by the government to pre-

Allies Probing Hun Winter Line

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press War Correspondent,

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Nov. 18—(AP).—Determined to hold their Garigliano River line all winter if possible, the Germans have concentrated the bulk of their defensive strength along the 5th Army front in a desperate bid to halt the Allied advance on Rome.

The strategy became increasingly clear today as British and American patrols probed the enemy's so-called winter line—a deep series of pill-boxes, gun emplacements, trenches and barbed-wire entanglements blasted out of the mountains.

For the first time since Allied troops fought their way ashore on the beaches of Salerno early in September the Germans have fallen back while they fortified six positions—and no one has any illusions about the bitter, bloody battles that must be fought before the enemy is dug out of the hills.

Because the Cassino valley is the natural avenue to Rome the Germans have thrown up their heaviest defences and massed the greater part of their troops in the vicinity, with the Apennines on their left flank standing as a guard against the British 8th Army.

In addition to holding the strong positions on heights commanding the valley the enemy has had an ally in the weather. Steady cold rains have swollen streams and inundated bypasses along the 5th Army's supply lines as well as subjecting troops to exposure in muddy slit trenches.

Says Press Must Be Free

Frowns On Subsidized Press Agencies

MANCHESTER, Nov. 18.—(CP).—The right of newspaper correspondents to send uncensored dispatches from any part of the world must be a part of the peace, John S. Knight, publisher of the Akron (O.) Beacon Journal and Miami (Fla.) Herald, declared last night.

"As part of the peace we must protect the right of our world wide news agencies to gather honest, unbiased, truthful news in the reborn and reconstituted countries now in the hands of the enemy," Knight told a meeting of the English speaking union.

The people are entitled to honest, accurate news, he said, and after the war should not be forced to swallow governmental propaganda handed out by national press agencies subsidized to distribute official government news.

W. P. Crozier, editor of the Manchester Guardian, told the meeting he believed the American press, more than that of any other country, represented the freedom of expression and boldness of opinion essential to a true-governing community.

Aegean Sea Islands Vital to Allies

Lack Of Air Coverage Responsible For Loss Of Leros

By DEWITT MACKENSZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Since the dawn of history men have engaged from time to time in bloody battle on the rocky shores of the little islands of the Aegean Sea.

One would think that these eruptions on the face of the waters were endowed with priceless wealth instead of being mainly barren volcanic upheaval.

Still the battle of the Aegean Islands goes on. The Germans have stormed Leros in the Dodecanese group by air and by sea and have wrested it from British and Italian troops after a fierce five-day struggle. Small Kos, 20 miles south of Leros, likewise fell to the Hitlerites about three weeks ago.

Why such an expenditure of men and material for a handful of rocky islands?

If you will glance at your maps of the Near East the story is there plain enough. Taken as a whole, these islands have great strategic importance in relation to the Near East, the Balkans and even to the greatest battle of all time which is being waged along the Russo-German front. They have yet another value, and that's psychological, for they lie close to Turkey.

Note the big Mediterranean Island of Crete, which stretches like a watch-dog across the mouth of the Aeagean. Then as you go north into the Aegean there are the Italian Dodecanese Islands on the right and the Greek Cyclades on the left. Beyond these are still others.

Key to Black Sea

He who holds these islands controls the Aegean—a fact which is doubly important because this is the only water route to the Black Sea. And it's Hitler who now possesses all the important islands, including Crete, with the exception of Samos.

Naturally one of the first questions that arises is why the Allies, having got their foothold in the Italian Dodecanese when Italy collapsed, should be thrown out by the Nazis. Well, that's a hot question which likely will irk Allied High Command. The loss presumably was due to lack of air coverage, main Allied bases being far away, but whether this handicap of distance should have been overcome is a point which somebody undoubtedly will have to answer on the carpet. Certainly this exhibition of Nazi strength is a warning that Hitler still is dangerous.

Gigantic Assault All Set

Day And Hour Of Invasion Ready Soon

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 18 —(CP Cable)—Decisions of immense importance are believed to have been made recently by Allied leaders on the final plan for invasion of northwest Europe and preparations have undoubtedly been pushed forward for a gigantic assault that will dwarf every other Allied military effort so far.

The day and hour of the grand offensive against Germany will probably be decided soon along with Germany's immediate future in defeat.

The allocation and organization of forces selected for the assault goes forward. The forces are assembling and training in Britain and elsewhere. Hundreds of families have been evacuated from southern England and in that part of the country invasion armies are hard at work.

Lt.-Gen. Jacob L Devers, United States Army commander in the Europe theatre, referred in a speech Monday to a "master plan that will set into motion what may be the greatest military undertaking of all time."

Sea-Roving Bombers Hit Outposts

Nimitz Reports No Losses In Latest Sweeps

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 —(AP)— Sea-roving Allied bombers now are banging along more than 2,000 miles of Japan's supply-strained outpost defences in the South and Central Pacific — from northeastern New Guinea to the Marshalls—to deal mounting blows at the enemy's ships and air bases.

Latest advices embraced the probable sinking of a 2,500-ton enemy ship off New Guinea, a 6,000-ton vessel off New Britain, the dropping of 40 tons of bombs on an airfield on Bougainville, and harbor and hangar fires set during the third raids in as many days on the Marshall and Gilberts.

Those Marshall and Gilbert raids presently catch the eye. For they are being made from undisclosed bases by land-based heavy bombers of the United States Air Force, which has headquarters in Hawaii. But Hawaii is more than 2,000 miles removed from the raiding scene.

Although Japan has air bases in the Marshalls and Gilberts, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported no enemy interception encountered by the big bombers which struck Monday at Jaluit and Mili in the Marshalls and Makin in the Gilberts. On the preceding Saturday and Sunday, the bombers bombed Mili in the Marshalls and Tarwa in the Gilberts. None of the big bombers has been lost or damaged in these raids.

Post-War Homes

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Post-war Canadian homes will not have radically changed exteriors, but will contain many prefabricated units such as kitchens, bathrooms, and closets, said the presidential report read yesterday before the annual meeting here of the Canadian Builders' Supply Association.

pare the public for approaching participation in war.

Result of Conference

Actual war likely will not come until this necessary preparation has been taken. The new Turkish position naturally stems from the Moscow conference of foreign secretaries and subsequent Cairo talks between Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, and Numan Menemencioglu, Turkish Minister of Foreign Affairs. The best information on the subject, however, still is that Eden made no specific demands on Turkey.

The Moscow conference was so obvious a turning point in the war that Turkey is believed to feel it politically necessary to change from her quiet role in neutrality — which every Turk will remind you has been of tremendous benefit to the Allies.

One unsubstantiated but logical explanation of the Cairo talks is that Eden told Menemencioglu that Soviet Russia wanted Turkey as an active war participant to protect the Russian flank and as a guarantee of Turkey's adherence to the Allied cause.

The Turkish foreign minister is said to have replied that the Turks were already helping the Allies but were not prepared immediately to accelerate an aggressive role to a point where the Germans could take provocation.

Time Uncertain

Menemencioglu is further reported to have said that Turkey would go on helping the Allies sub rosa and would eventually enter the war, but the time and conditions could only be decided later.

When Turkey grants air and naval bases to the Allies it will be tantamount to open warfare. This will doubtless not be done until Turkey's coast and large port cities are fully protected against aerial assault.

There already are developed in Turkey large airports and landing fields which need hardly more than the arrival of Allied bombing planes and servicing crews in order to become bases for far-reaching operations against Axis-held territory.

Turkey's army, made up of some of the bravest soldiers in the world, probably will get no opportunity to go into action before spring in any event, since winter definitely is not fighting weather in Thrace, the adjoining Axis-held territory, even for foot soldiers.

Von Papen Goes Home

(The Nazi-controlled Paris radio said today that Franz Von Papen, Nazi ambassador to Turkey, has been received by Hitler. Von Papen, one of the trickiest of Hitler's diplomats, returned to Germany two days ago.)

One straw in the wind was the extended session last night of the parliamentary group of the people's Republican party, only party in Turkey, which met to hear a report from Menemencioglu on his Cairo talks. President Ismet Inonu also attended the meeting which lasted well into the night.

A communique said the party group "approved unanimously the conduct of the government."

British engineers are reported to have been engaged in supervising the construction of airfields in Turkey for many months, presumably under the terms of the alliance. Britain also has been under contract to deliver important war materials to Turkey for her 1,000,000-man army.

Strategically, Turkey's territory is a natural bridgehead into the Balkans and southeastern Europe. She controls the Dardanelles, the water link between the Mediterranean and the Blark Sea.

Painters Protest Five-Cent Increase

OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—(CP).— An appeal by the Ottawa Master Painters' Association against a five-cent wage increase granted Ottawa painters by the Ontario War Labor Board was dismissed Wednesday by the National War Labor Board.

The increase moved the basic rate from 75 to 80 cents an hour, a rate which the Board found was similar to that paid in Kingston, Ont., and Hamilton.

The Association maintained that many firms would face deficits if they had to pay increased wages and stay within the ceiling price for their services.

Youth Is Found Insane In Murder Trial

HALIFAX, Nov. 18 (CP)—Cleared of murdering his father, 20-year-old Charles M. Welsford of Halifax faced today the likelihood of committal to the mental institution where he has spent the last four years.

He was held in custody pending an order from Lieut.-Governor H. E. Kendall after a Supreme Court petit jury last night found him "not guilty because of insanity" at the end of his two-day trial for the killing of his father, Charles A. Welsford.

In the late stages of the trial the Crown developed the theory that Welsford, a 16-year-old Dalhousie University student when his father was slain March 31, 1939, had planned to kill his father and mother and himself because he had been found cheating in college and had been dismissed from a chemistry class.

The mother was shot twice in the head at the same time her husband was killed in their bedroom, while they slept. She testified to finding her son standing over the bed with a revolver in his hand.

Crown Prosecutor R. M. Fielding, in his address to the jury last night, suggested the one remaining bullet in Welsford's revolver — which his mother took from him—had been meant for himself.

Welsford, described as a brilliant school student, was pronounced insane at his preliminary hearing in 1939 and was committed to the Nova Scotia Hospital at nearby Dartmouth. Recently, he was declared fit to stand trial.

Doctors testifying for both the prosecution and defence at his trial declared him insane. Two expressed belief he was a victim of dementia preacox.

the right but came up against a high German position too strong for his men. Wallace followed up with the remainder of the company including platoons commanded by Lieut. G. A. Fraser of Toronto and Ken Hudson of Grimsby, Ont.

Tanks Opened Path

The company lay low for a while then Eby took 15 men off in another march around to the right with tanks leading the way. This combination overcame the German position but another on a taller hill just behind opened up. The tanks headed for it and the Germans except for two machine - gunners scurried when the tanks mounted the rest of the ridge. A Canadian sergeant and private moving up with Bren guns killed the two who had remained.

The 48th had to withdraw when the Germans farther back organized a counter-attack two companies strong and returned to the hill. However the enemy abandoned both the hill position and a ridge overlooking the crossroads during the night and they were taken by the Canadians the next day.

The Catolo Valley area was drenched by rain during the next few days but the Canadians advanced under mortar and shellfire across the line of the Fortore River, eight miles west of Motta.

The 48th took part in the drive across the Fortore mounted its western heights and conducted patrol activity around little hill towns while the main advance proceeded along the Catolo Valley road.

Fought In Farm Houses

An artillery duel between German guns and batteries supporting the Canadian occurred at heights when the Torontonians took the lead in the advance toward Campobasso and its important road junction.

Fighting developed around a group of farm houses in which the Canadians took cover and in which some were surrounded by Germans with machine-guns and grenades.

L. Cpl. Norman McKay of Southampton, Ont., installed himself in an outhouse with a machine-gun and defied capture. At his side were Ptes. Jim Armstrong and D. Young, both of Toronto and Garnet Brown of Timmins, Ont.

The 48th moved on an under command of Maj. Don Banton of Toronto during a brief illness of its coloned, helped other Canadians break into a German position in depth along the broad valley.

The battalion came under intense shellfire and suffered some casualties while it occupied Campobasso, within range of German medium guns, on Oct. 14.

Huns Musn't Talk

MADRID, Nov. 18—(AP).—German merchants have been ordered to refrain from advising clients and wholesalers when they have been bombed out of their premises, dispatches from Germany disclosed today. Henceforth, the German press announced, merchants whose places of business have been destroyed by bombs may advise their clients of their change of address but must not say why they moved.

CRUCIFIED — "I know how Christ felt on the cross" — that message scrawled in a letter to his parents was found in the pages of a small notebook beside the body of Captain Herschel Horton, 29, in the steaming jungles of New Guinea. The tragic document continued: "A Jap shot me in the shoulder and neck as I weakly sat there, and I thought my time had come. But, no, I sit and lie here in this terrible place, wondering not why God has forsaken me, but why He is making me suffer this terrible end. I am not afraid to die."

HongKong, Crete Hit By Bombs

CHUNGKING, Nov. 18—(AP). — Bombers of the United States Air Force attacked strategic targets in the Hong Kong area Tuesday for the second time in less than 24 hours, it was announced today.

The heavy bombers, a formation of which hit Hong Kong only the night before, were accompanied by medium bombers which made a low level sweep over the harbor area, sinking an 11,000-ton cargo vessel and two 1,000-ton freighters, the announcement said.

Meanwhile fighter planes attacked a Japanese airdrome northwest of Hanoi in French Indo-China. All planes returned safely.

R.A.F. Hurricanes and Spitfires swept over Crete and Rhodes in the Aegean area yesterday on offensive and reconnaissance patrols in the wake of the Allied loss of Leros, hitting numerous targets, including motor transport, a British Middle East communique announced today.

A small supply ship was attacked east of Crete and left smoking.

9 German Officials On Criminals List

LONDON, Nov. 18 — (CP)—The names of nine German officials wanted as war criminals for the massacre of students at Prague Nov. 17, 1939, were broadcast from London last night in a Czechoslovak transmission.

The list was headed by Baron Konstantin Neurath, "first protector" of Bohemia-Moravia and included deputy director Karl Hermann Frank and a number of Gestapo officials.

Saying the names of many others held responsible for crimes in Czech lands will be announced later, the broadcaster called on Czecho-Slovakians to complete their own list of war criminals for trial in their country in accordance with the principle laid down at the Moscow conference.

Hull Declares

Hull paid personal tribute to the efficiency of Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, who arranged for the business of the conference, and to Britain's Foreign Secretary, Anthony Eden, for his qualities of statesmanship.

"I found in Marshal Stalin a remarkable personality, one of the great statesmen and leader of his age."

He said he was deeply impressed by the Russians and the epic quality of their patriotism.

"A people who will fight against ruthless aggression, in utter contempt of death, as the men and women of the Soviet Union are fighting, merit the admiration and good will of the peoples of all countries."

Hull said the Moscow discussions did not, and were not intended to, bring about the solution of all the problems before the conference.

"There were other problems such, for example, as questions relating to boundaries, which must, by their very nature, be left in abeyance until the termination of hostilities."

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP). — C. M. Meek, chairman of the Ontario Milk Control Board, yesterday reported a 54 per cent increase in milk consumption in the province this year over the 1939 figure. Damage Heavy In Fire At Film Exchange

TORONTO, Nov. 18—(CP)—Herbert Naymon of Toronto, a projectionist, died in hospital early today from shock and burns suffered last night when fire swept through the film exchange building in downtown Toronto.

Naymon was trapped in a third-floor projection room and later rescued by firemen. He suffered severe burns about the face and hands.

Officials investigating the blaze today said damage was in excess of $150,000.

The fire was followed by three terrific explosions which shattered every window through five of the six floors of the structure. Also taken to hospital was Capt. Edward J. Tierney, who suffered serious burns to the face.

Firemen Ernie Barber and Harold Elliott, were knocked off an aerial ladder but did not require treatment.

Some disruption of film distribution to Canadian theatres was predicted following the brief, but spectacular blaze in the Victoria Street building which houses about 70 per cent of Canadian head offices of film companies. The explosions were belived to have originated in some of the thousands of films stored in the building.

Thousands jammed adjacent streets as firemen, summoned by three alarms, worked in the glare of searchlight batteries to control flames shooting 100 feet from an air vent in the roof. Searchlights were brought into play after five electric power transformers outside the building blew out.

Marigny Guilty On Gas Charge

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Just one week after he was acquitted of the murder of Sir Harry Oakes, Alfred de Marigny was convited in Magistrate's Court to-day of illegal possession of gasoline.

Magistrate F. E. Field said he took "a most serious view" of the offence and ordered De Marigny and his close friend, the Marquis Georges de Visdelou, placed under $100 bond each until to-morrow, when they will be sentenced. De Visdelou pleaded guilty to similar charges when they were arraigned yesterday.

De Marigny indicated he might appeal the conviction to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Sir Oscar Bedford Daly, before whom he was tried on a charge of killing Sir Harry, his wealthy father-in-law.

Await Application To Broadcast Close

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 — (CP). — A spokesman for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation said, last night the CBC expects a "formal" application from Radio Station CKLW at Windsor, Ont., for permission to carry broadcasts of Upton Close, American news commentator.

He was commenting on a Washington dispatch which said the Senate Interstate Commerce committee was informed that CKLW was not permitted to carry Close's Sunday evening broadcast, November 7.

The spokesman said that under CBC regulations Canadian stations must apply for permission to carry commentaries from the United States and that, in the case of the November 7 broadcast, the station did not make application in the "prescribed fashion."

The station, he added, decided itself not to carry the broadcast.

The CKLW application is expected here shortly, possibly today and will be considered, he added.

Monsignor Denies Story By Nazis

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—(AP)— Monsignor Evasio Colli, Bishop of Parma and director-general of Catholic Action in Italy, has written a letter categorically denying a Nazi-circulated story that his organization had advocated loyalty to the puppet government of Benito Mussolini, the Swiss Telegraph Agency said today.

The letter, read from the pulpit by Italian priests, evoked an angry attack by Robert Farinnaci, published in Regime Fascista, said the Swiss Dispatch, reported to the United States Office of War Information.

Farinacci declared Monsignor Colli's letter of denial "made common cause with Badoglio" and complained that certain priests had deliberately given the letter "undue prominence."

Cheese, Produce and Livestock

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Sales of wheat to exporters, mills and United States interests late yesterday and to-day were 3,000,000 bushels, it was reported on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Exporters, negotiating for the United Kingdom, purchased 2,000,000 bushels, mills more than 500,000 bushels and the United States Commodity Credit Corporation more than 100,000 bushels.

Selling by locals early in the session brought about losses in the rye pit, but later scattered buying prompted by reports a small amount of Canadian rye would soon be shipped to the United States, boosted futures over previous closing levels.

Final quotations were ¼ cent to ¾ cent a bushel higher.

Bad Weather Hampers Allies

ALGIERS, Nov. 18 (AP)—Aircraft attacked two German airfields in the Athens area yesterday while heavy rains and flooding rivers reduced ground operations in Italy, it was announced today.

One of the sweeps across to Greece was made by four-engined bombers which hit the Elevsis airfield in the third attack on that objective in as many days. At the same time mediums bombed the Kalamaki airfield.

Despite adverse conditions, the Germans mounted several counter-attacks on the eastern end of the Italian battle line but all were repulsed by the British 8th Army.

Many rivers near the front swept out of their hands.

Many small creeks, bridged by temporary structures, were turned into torrents, and the heavy rains effectively washed out traces of the thousands of mines planted in front of German positions.

Enemy preparations for a counter attack along the middle sector of the Sangro River front were smashed by 8th Army artillery a mile northwest of Atessa near the villages of Archi and Perano.

From the entire 5th Army front only intermittent fire, in which small German boats on the Garigliano River were hit, was reported.

Fighter - bombers and fighters carried out offensive patrols along the battle front despite the adverse weather and light bombers hit industrial targets at Piombino on the west coast opposite Elba.

Ideal Weather Aided Harvesting

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Nearly all Ontario crops have been harvested and the season has been more satisfactory generally than was predicted in the spring, the Statistics Branch of the Department of Agriculture stated in the monthly crop report released today.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed in October for the harvesting of late fall crops, with frost damage negligible. Most counties reported a substantial increase in the acreage sown to fall wheat, with normal seedings of fall rye.

From an increased acreage of beans the yields are averaging from 15 to 18 bushels an acre, the report said. Soybeans were not sufficiently mature in many cases, and the output is likely to be less than last year.

In general, corn for silage did not yield well, but there were exceptionally good crops of mangolds and turnips. Shortages of oats, barley and concentrates are greatly interfering with livestock production on many farms, and it will be difficult to maintain normal outputs of beef, pork, butter, eggs and cheese under the circumstances.

Dry weather for a month preceding October 15 retarded the size and growth of many late vegetables particularly cabbage, cauliflower, celery and root crops, and expected production will be somewhat lowered, the report said.

Allies Facing Tough Job Across Italy

Progress Expected To Be Slow Against Winter Line

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 18 —(CP Cable) — The Allied 15th Army Group in Italy faces the toughest obstacle since the Salerno Bay fight in September as it edges into position to assault the German winter line along the Sangro River.

The Nazis have been ordered to stand fast there. Winter weather, mud and roads turned into quagmires have proved a timely ally to the enemy defensive positions and a major deterrent to the British and American forces trying to push ahead.

Spectacular Allied successes cannot be anticipated. A tedious and slogging job for weeks is probable But the situation is not stalemated as during the Tunisian fighting last winter for the Allies have a greater force in central Italy. Nevertheless the going will be slow.

Some military authorities here believe the Allied attack on the Sangro line might be delayed until weather conditions are more favorable.

Some Critical

Several London newspapers have editorially expressed some misgivings over the progress in Italy but provincial papers generally are taking a broader view and do not indicate that they are viewing the situation with any alarm.

The Manchester Guardian says: "Though it would be pleasant to be contradicted by events, one would say the Italian campaign promises to be slow business. We might even have to meet a counter-offensive. In any case we can never have expected to come to a real decision in Italy. The value of this campaign may be seen in the future when, by having diverted so many German diivsions to ward off our two armies, it will be found to have enforced weak defence of a coast elsewhere and to have allowed our other forces to break into a country where military issues may be more easily settled."

Always Felt "Dead Tired" Weak, Listless, Rundown

Lost Time From Work, Suffered Stomach Troubles and Constipation, But Is Like New Person Since Taking Syntona.

There is scarcely a person who at one time or another has not suffered from functional stomach, kidney, liver or bowel disorders and the long train of symptoms that often follow. Such people suffer from gas, bloat, indigestion, nervour irritability, dizzy feelings, backache, rheumatic pains, get tired easily and feel rundown.

For example here is the experience of Mr. Elwood R. Hill, King William Street, Hamilton.

"I was badly rundown and felt so miserable I had to lay off work. I seemed to have lost all my energy, and, although I felt dead tired at night, my nerves were so upset I couldn't sleep. There were aching pains all through my back, limbs and joints. My appetite was very poor, yet what little food I ate caused gas and heartburn followed by belching up of hot, sour liquids. In fact, I always had a bloated, nauseated sensation in my stomach. I often had dizzy feelings and was badly constipated. Being only a young man, I knew I should be enjoying good health and couldn't figure out what was wrong.

"Finally I read in the paper how other people were being helped by Syntona, so I began taking it, too. I think it was only a matter of a few days when I noticed an improvement. The troubles with my stomach and bowels then grew less and less as I kept taking it. My appetite picked up and I began to regain my lost strength. One by one my other troubles went away, until now I am like an entirely different person. I work steadily without feeling tired or nervous and am surprised how good I feel when I am through for the day. I think more people should know about this fine medicine."

MR. ELWOOD R. HILL

Go to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out how Syntona can help you, too.—(Advt.)

With Three Sons In Services Remaining Family Has Given 21 Blood Donations

Not content with having three sons on active service, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Henwood, 124 Lansdowne street, and their three sons still at home, are contributing their resources both to the Blood Donors' Clinic and with Victory Bonds.

"Our country is at war, and these few things are the very least we can be expected to do," Mrs. Henwood said.

Two of their sons in the Army are still stationed in Canada. Sgt. Arthur Henwood enlisted in April, 1942, with the Prince of Wales Rangers (A.F.), leaving his job as a driver at Campbell's Dairy. His brother, Bdsmn. Kenneth Henwood, is with the District Depot Band at Kingston, having enlisted in May, 1942. He is the youngest member of the band, and played in the Salvation Army Band for several years. Prior to enlisting he was at the C.G.E.

The third boy, Leading Stoker Sidney Henwood chose the Navy, and has spent two years on a mine-sweeper. At the present time he is back in Canada taking a course as a petty officer. Formerly employed at the Ventilating Shade Company, he enlisted in June, 1941.

Regular Donors

Mr. Henwood, who is working in the armature department of the C.G.E., has made six donations at the Blood Donors' Clinic and now proudly wears his silver button. His family, not to be outdone, are following closely on his heels. His wife expects to give her fifth next week, his son Harry, who is employed at the Peterborough Automotive, has given five and another son, Ernest, at the Quaker Oats, has also made five donations.

When war broke out, Mr. Henwood enlisted in the local unit of the Veterans' Guard, and two of his sons, Sgt. Harry and Drummer Gerald Henwood, are with the Prince of Wales Rangers (R). The latter is 17 and is anxiously waiting until he can join up. He is employed at the Raybestos.

Realizing the important part money plays in the war, the Henwood family, which came from England in 1929, subscribed nearly $1,000 for Victory Bonds in the last loan.

Friends Honor Two Families

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 18 (ENS) —English Line residents honoured Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Beggs and Mr. and Mrs. John Beggs at a social evening on Tuesday. The two families recently announced their plan to move from the community where they have lived for many years and upwards of 150 friends joined in paying tribute to them and spent the evening playing cards and dancing. Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Beggs who are moving to Norwood, were presented with a bridge lamp and electric iron while their two children each received the gift of a silver knife, fork and spoon.

Mr. Willis Haig made the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Beggs and Mr. Alex Stephens the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. John Beggs who are moving to Campbellford. The address was read by Harry Stephens, and refreshments brought an enjoyable evening to a close.

Farm Forum

The English Line Farm Forum, most active of the rural groups that meet in the district, will hold its initial gathering of the season next Monday evening. The group, which met once a week last winter with an attendance running anywhere from 30 to 40, is described by some as a guiding post for the Federation of Agriculture, and some lively discussions take place at these meetings. The group will name a new secretary to replace Miss Grace Anderson who is now teaching at Cobalt.

Mission Circle

Contributions of five dollars each towards the purchase of ditty bags and to the local branch of the I.O.D.E. were announced at the November meeting of the Stanwood Sewing Circle on Wednesday afternoon. There were 17 ladies present and Mrs. Carmen Redden conducted the business of the day. It was decided that in place of the usual quilting they would hold a bazaar in connection with the December meeting and for this members were asked to bring some sewn or knitted article which could be sold among the group. The election of officers will also take place in December rather than January this year. One quilt was completed during the afternoon.

Conservatives And Labor Men Near Cross Roads

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 18 — (CP). — There were those who thought the time had come for labor to make up its mind, who thought that the political tide was full for a break from Winston Churchill's coalition governmment and a return to straight left vs. right conflict.

The dilemma of men like Herbert Morrison, Clement Attlee and Ernest Bevin was this: They could forsake their Cabinet seats and risk cries of destroying national unity, or they could continue as they were and possibly jeopardize the future of their Labor Party.

The parliamentary labor group was reported in favor of their withdrawal, there were no outward signs that a showdown was coming. Its individual members made use of the argument that the labor program and policy were being prejudiced and sold by continued participation with Conservatives in a merged Cabinet.

The vehemently leftist Tribune states flatly that labor faced a post-war election against a Churchill-led Conservative party and that "the relations between Tories and Labor in the government are bound to be influenced by the assumption that they will be fighting each other at the next general election."

"As a physical fact," said the Tribune, "the coalition continues. As a mental and spiritual entity it is already dead."

The Leftist Statesman and Nation printed an article by Prof. Harold Laski, Socialist intellectual, saying "it becomes difficult to see the purpose served by Labor's presence in the government except to save it from fighting by-elections against a real opposition with a real program."

These were reactions to Mr Churchill's statement in the coal debate that the government would support nothing "controversial that is not bonafide needed for the war." The Statesman's case was that Prime Minister had shown that he sought to "win the war, so far as possible, for the Britain of 1939." And Labor was tagging along with such reactionary thought.

The Tribune's equally vehement editor, Aneurin Bevan, a Welsh M.P. carried into the Commons his growing criticism of Labor members of the Cabinet. It was around him that a rebellion grew up over a temporary workmen's compensation bill being guided through by Mr. Morrison.

He and the Home Secretary hooked in the fiercest Common squabble of the war and Bevan was the official loser when an amendment was defeated on a division 153-42.

The revolt came as a surprise because representative Labor bodies in and out of the House had agreed to the bill's provision of £4,500,000 as a stop-gap improvement until permanent proposals are brought in with the report on the Beveridge plan.

Both Morrison and Mr. Churchill intimated the bill would be withdrawn if the Oppostiion oersevered It came chiefly from the mining M.P.'s.

More Blood Donors Are Needed

More Blood Donors are needed at the local Red Cross Clinic. We make a strong appeal to those who are not donors already to enroll themselves for this vitally necessary war work.

We use the word "vitally" in its fullest, most literal meaning. The blood which you give at the Clinic may be the means of saving a fighting man's life; in any case it will relieve the suffering of a wounded man and make it easier for him to recover his full health and strength. If, on a battlefield, you were asked to give a small quantity of your blood—less than a pint—you would not hesitate for an instant in making your decision to do so. You do precisely the same thing when you go to the Clinic and have the blood drawn off there. Why do you hesitate?

Some people, we know, fear to become blood donors. They think that it may be painful, or injurious to their own health. These fears are entirely groundless. Every prospective donor is examined by a physician before he is allowed to give blood, and no one is passed for that work who is not capable of giving blood without injury to himself. There is no pain greater than that involved in an ordinary hypodermic injection. Giving blood could not be easier or safer than it is in the Red Cross Clinic.

This is a war job which every able-bodied citizen of suitable age should be willing and eager to undertake. Once you have become a donor you are asked for a donation about once every three months. You will not be asked for blood more than five times a year at the very most. The sacrifice is infinitesimal. But the good which you do cannot be estimated by any ordinary system of reckoning. Men whose lives have been saved by timely transfusions of blood will tell you from their own experience how the blood of ordinary citizens made the difference between life and death to them.

A seriously wounded man may need a large blood transfusion to make his recovery possible. Perhaps the contribution of four donors may be needed to do the job. The quantity of blood plasma needed for shipment overseas has no limit set on it. The case is simply this: the overseas medical units need all the blood for transfusion that we can send them.

We all know that an invasion of Europe is coming, and we have been told that the cost in men will be very heavy. Blood transfusions will be able to cut down that cost. That means that it is directly in your power to save the lives of Allied soldiers who have been wounded defending you. Why do you hesitate? Phone the local Blood Donors' Clinic—the number is 8284—and put down your name at once. The need is urgent.

Cheaper Power For The Farms

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission has announced a simplification of its scale of charges which will mean cheaper power for 129,000 of the 133,000 rural users of electric power. It goes without saying that this will be a very welcome alteration. Plenty of cheap electric power can work wonders in reducing the drudgery of farm work and in speeding up farm production; Ontario will now offer electric power in its rural districts at the lowest basic prices maintaining anywhere in the world.

At present Ontario is divided into 120 districts, for the purpose of power distribution, and each district has its own scale of charges. Under the new plan the whole of rural Ontario will be treated as one district, with the same rate everywhere. The service charge which was formerly paid by farmers for their power will be eliminated.

How the changes will be financed we do not yet know, but we assume that Premier Drew has not merely taken the burden off the farmers in order to lay it on some other section of the population. There may be a provincial subsidy to make up the loss, or reserves built up under the old system may be called upon; it may be that rates will be increased in urban districts, though it is not likely that a great increase would be welcomed by urban users. Perhaps a combination of all three schemes is in prospect.

It is estimated that this change will save the farmers of Ontario more than $500,000 every year. It should certainly do much to increase the comfort of farm life, and reduce the sense of injustice which farmers have felt for so long on the subject of electric power.

"Canada's Fiscal Miracle"

It is under the above flattering title that the New York Times speaks of our war finance. Referring to the Victory Loan which has just been closed it says:

"Canada's Fifth Victory Loan has just raised $1,350,000,000. This is a small amount by our own standards, but when considered in the light of the size of the Canadian economy and the magnitude of its war effort, it represents an achievement of considerable importance. Canada like the United States is devoting about half of its economic efforts to the war. The budget for 1943-44 calls for the record total expenditures, including aid to the United Nations and non-war spending, of $5,500,000,000. Taxes will cover approximately 50 per cent of this amount; the balance is being raised by the sale of securities. The two victory loan drives held this fiscal year have yielded approximately $2,660,000,000; an additional small amount will be obtained from the sale of war savings certificates. These securities have been sold to the public and buyers other than commercial banks. The fact that such relatively large amounts have been raised from the sale of securities to non-banking purchasers despite the heavy burden of taxation is a magnificent tribute to the Canadian people."

Having dealt with the Loan, the Times goes on to commend our general finance of the war, in these words:

"In the current fiscal year, therefore, the Canadian Government will have only minor recourse to the banks to meet its fiscal needs, and thus only a moderate credit expansion will be required. This in turn means that the price ceiling will not be subject to the irresistible pressure which develops when a substantial wartime expansion of bank credit occurs. It is easy to understand why Canada has been able to use subsidies without the great dangers inherent in such a policy in this country. A major difference is that fiscal performance here has been so much poorer. We could study Canada's fiscal policy with profit. Its amazing record, indeed, is one of the fiscal miracles of this war."

In all modesty, we may say that Canada has shown its great neighbour a few new wrinkles in war finance since 1939. The great bulk of credit for our achievement must go to the Finance Minister, the Hon. J. L. Ilsley; whatever remains the Canadian people may take to themselves, for having backed up the Finance Minister in every Loan and in every tax he has seen fit to impose on us. The praise of the Times will be proudly received everywhere in this country.

"Pink Pill" For Seasickness

Sailors used to say that the only sure cure for seasickness was to sit on the shady side of an old brick church in the country; other highly recommended cures were beefsteaks, pickles, soda biscuits and ginger ale—not all taken together, of course, but separately and in small doses. Medical science, particularly as represented by ships' doctors, usually disregarded seasickness, though some physicians prescribed capsules containing minute doses of hyoscyamine to sufferers; the sedative effect of the drug prevented seasickness, but it also prevented normal enjoyment of life on board ship. But now Ottawa announces a 'pink pill' has been found which is effective in seventy-five per cent. of cases, and which makes travel by sea and air easy for most soldiers. The pill will be available for civilians also.

The military value of such a discovery is considerable, for when men set out on an invasion it is essential that they should reach their destination in the best of condition, and not weakened and exhausted by the nausea of seasickness. The discomforts of that ailment have been widely disregarded; many people are prostrated by it, and suffer far more than mere vomiting. A soldier who crossed the Channel in that condition would need several hours of rest before he would be able to do anything of a strenuous nature. But unless he is the unlucky one in four the pink pill will make his journey as easy as it can possibly be.

The news that the pill is effective for air-sickness will please many people who have looked toward a future of air travel with dread. Ottawa does not exaggerate when it calls this benevolent pellet "one of the major medical advances of the war."

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Windsor Star speaks of "the man-power pool, or puddle". Because it is dark and murky?

"Truth", says a writer, "is no respecter of persons. It's mutual. Many persons are no respecters of truth.

There is a publication in Moscow called Thud. With such a name how can it escape being dull and sickening?

A Missouri man of 69 says he has had eight wives "since he was 17". He started rather late; but he may make it an even dozen yet.

A Good Word For Proofreaders

(NEW YORK TIMES

THE recent death of Harry Williams offers an appropriate occasion, perhaps, to say something favorable of proofreaders. He was a man who made a profession of proofreading, having been foreman of this newspaper's proofroom for a solid twenty-five years. Twenty years before joining The Times he came to New York City and read proof on the New York Press, but even then he had already had eight years of composing room experience in Louisville, Des Moines, Kansas City, St. Louis, Washington and elsewhere.

Now it might be assumed from this impressive record that Mr. Williams was an old man, and so he was as some count years, for he was 82. But there was something youthful about him—perhaps it was his persistent enthusiasm—which accounts, probably, for the fact that the account of his passing said he had died "unexpectedly." He had in fact, worked as usual the night before and was characteristically "cheerful."

THIS was an excellent way to round off a useful life, and some emphasis should be placed upon the cheerful conclusion of it. Proofreading is, alas, a singularly thankless line of work. It would not be inaccurate to say that nobody pays any attention to it whatever until something goes wrong with it. One does not think of any proofreader as being a genius, yet even the commonplace reader must have that infinite capacity for taking pains that is supposed to pass for genius.

The amount of proofroom sweat, for instance, that went into making this single edition of The Times ready for the street would stagger the uninitiated.

A COMPARATIVELY small percentage of humankind has the qualties of patience and omniscience that make a first-class proofreader. It is thought of, at least in some shops, as an "old man's job," and there may be more than one good reason for this. While it does offer sanctuary of a sort for a man who has passed his physical prime, it may well be that only the old possess the wisdom that good proofreading requires.

For there is more than the mere correction of the many mechanical errors that may occur in the hasty transition of manuscript into type, a tedious task in itself. The proofreader is the court of last resort on all textual questions before the pages are locked up on the stone and whirled away to mold the mats that will, in a few minutes, be transformed into your newspaper. The writers and the editors have had their chance, and in some cases a very brief chance it is. The proofreader is the final backstop as grammarian, stylist and historian.

IT IS monotonous work, and therein lies the danger of error slipping by. Off in a room or section by themselves, they sit in pair under bright lights, one reading to his partner—at least on "first" proofs—comparing copy which may in some cases be so edited and interlined with corrections by the copyreader as to be confusing if not illegible. Particularly is this true with dispatches that have come in skeletonized by cable and have been "filled in" on the desk.

But after this first proof is corrected the job has only begun. The proof goes back to the linotype machine, the corrections are set in type—and these may mean the resetting of whole paragraphs—the galley is corrected and a new proof goes back to the reader to see if the corrections have been made and inserted without error.

IT MAY happen that this correction is satisfactory in every detail, but the sheet may have to make several round trips between linotope machine and proofroom before the reader can finally initial his "O. K." on it.

You may be under the impression that his job is now, at long last, done. But the piece must be checked again when the first edition comes off the press, because in handling the type several times before the page was locked up accidents may have occurred, type may have become battered or if the metal did not have exactly the right balance of alloy, parts of lines may occasionally begin to sink and fail to make a solid impression on the paper.

◇ ◇ ◇

THIS may seem an exaggeration of complications, but it is still not all. News stories do not stand quietly hitched through a whole evening. They are, indeed, frequently torn apart from end to end as new breaks occur, and all this means further and frequent trips to the proofroom. One change is hardly sent up to the composing room before another comes chasing after it. Sometimes these corrections inadvertently overlap on each other, contributing a headache no aspirin will allay.

All this a proofroom takes (more or less) cheerfully in stride. Newspapers would be funnier without proofreaders, but hardly so satisfactory.

No Justice for Negroes

Last Monday a Negro soldier at a camp near Lewiston, Illinois, was shot dead by farmers who thought he was the man who had attacked a woman. A few hours after the killing, another Negro confessed to being the culprit. But the following night a Lewiston coroner's jury returned a verdict of 'Justifiable homicide." In other words the jury said the farmers were justified in killing the man merely on suspicion without arresting him and giving him the benefit of a trial under the laws of the country.

About a week ago two Negroes in Detroit were sentenced to long terms in the State penitentiary for their part in the riots which cost the lives of about half a dozen whites and some 30 Negroes. No whites have been tried for their part in the proceedings. Negroes may have started the disturbances, as has been alleged, but whites carried the outbreaks to excess. The 30 Negroes were not all killed by misadventure. Some of them were hauled from their automobiles and beaten or kicked to death in the streets. A reporter of one of the Detroit papers recorded that he heard a white man boast: "I have just killed a Negro."

Strange that no whites were arrested and convicted when the deaths were in the ratio of six to one. Or is it?—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Tokyo's Anxieties

Tokyo must by now have no hope of holding Rabaul, unless a good proportion of the Japanese fleet is risked in the attempt. The crippling or sinking of 42 vessels within the past month, to say nothing of 800 planes, suggests that the strength of the fleet has been impaired. The toll is enough to put furrows of anxiety on the blandest Japanese countenance. — Hamilton Spectator.

Along Guildford High Street

TO arrive at Guildford by train is like walking into a garden....In the grace of its building, the charm of its colour, the fascination of the prospects of its hillside High Street, no town in Surrey, and perhaps only Oxford in England, is comparable with it....

Beyond the turn of the road is the most delightful street in the south of England. It rises from the bridge crossing the Wey steep into blue air over the hill. Each side of it is a stairway of roofs up the slope, a medley of facades, a jumble of architecture astonishing in sheer extravagance and variety. Gabled houses, red-tiled and gay with rough-cast and fresh paint; dull, sad-faced houses with sleepy windows like half-shut eyes; square, solid Georgian houses for doctors with white chokers and snuff-boxes, and prime old ladies with mittened wrists; low, little dolls'-houses, red brick neatly pointed; tall, slim houses graceful with slender casements and light shafts of wood; casements nobly elaborate in wood-carving and heavy with leaded panes; bay windows which should belong to nurseries and high, square-latticed windows which should light a library, delicately fastened with wrought iron; painted pillars supporting window seats for cats and demure young ladies; broad-stepped entrances to hotel halls....Guildford High Street is a model of what the High Street of an English town should be. Has it a single dominating feature, or is its air of distinction merely compact of the grace and old-worldiness of its shops and houses? Perhaps the single extreme impression left by the High Street is its clock, swung far out over the road. Massive, black and gilt, and fastened to the face of the old Town Hall with an ingenious structure of steel stays, it has told Guildford the time for two centuries and a quarter.—From "Highways and Byways in Surrey," by Eric Parker. Italy Came to Shakespeare

VERONA has a market-place full of umbrellas under whose shade a number of old ladies are prepared to sell vegetables on a sliding scale of prices. English travellers have a habit of painting pictures of this market-place and hanging them on their spare-room walls when they return home. Verona also has the Romanesque church of San Zeno, that impressive bulldog of a building. Verona has a Roman amphitheatre, and a castle, and a swirling river, and the Scaliger vaults, and the steep Giardino Giusti—but for us English she first and foremost has Two Gentlemen and Romeo and Juliet.

Verona knows this well enough, and we are invited to admire a statue of our poet sitting aloof on a pedestal, while beside him the sentimentalists of two worlds drop visiting cards and little bunches of flowers into a stone trough that passes as the Tomba di Giulietta. "O Romeo, Romeo, wherefore art thou Romeo?" But the question that presents itself to us in considering Juliet's stone tomb is "Were you ever Romeo at all and was Juliet ever Juliet?" Shakespeare had the story originally from Luigi da Porto who published his tale at Venice in 1535, and it is highly probable that the famous lowers were creatures of da Porto's brain. He may have had some real event, and, to a lesser extent, real characters in his mind, but we cannot prove it and rather doubt it.

I once knew a man who told me that on his first visit to Italy he said to himself, "Now I understand Shakespeare!" And in very many of the Shakespearean plays the Italian atmosphere is so pronounced and so true that we come to the conclusion that the poet must have known the country at first hand. Yet it is hard to believe that if this were the case he would have sent Valentine in the Two Gentlemen of Verona from Verona to Milan by ship, or embarked Prospero in The Tempest at the gates of Milan for the open sea. Nevertheless, who does not recognize the very spirit of the old Venice in the play Othello? It is only another instance of Shakespeare's universal understanding that makes every reader claim him as a fellow in his own particular interest....

Whether Shakespeare went to Italy is doubtful, but there is no doubt that Italy came to Shakespeare. Through books, through acquaintance with Italians in England, in the Italianate spirit of the time, he drank deep of the Southern fount of the Rennaissance. His actual borrowings for the plots of his plays were considerable—no fewer than eight plays are either wholly founded on pre-Elizabethan Italian stories or contain incidents derived from them. These are Romeo and Juliet, the Merchant of Venice, the Merry Wives of Windsor, Much Ado About Nothing, Othello, Measure for Measure, Cymbeline, and All's Well That Ends well. Still others show indication of Italian derivation. Exactly in what way many of these stories reached Shakespeare we do not know—whether in their original form, in French or English translation, or embodied in the works of other authors. It is always a strange puzzle to know how stories creep about the world. Good stories, like rumours, have their own mysterious ways of spreading; they are handed by children from one nursery to another and across the widest oceans as stowaways in seafaring memories. — From "The Italy of the Italians," by E. R. P. Vincent. (New York: Dutton.)

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl in my last year of high school. My mother believes it very necessary for me to have a personal chaperon when I attend dances of any kind, even the high school dances which are chaperoned by the teachers. She refuses to allow me to attend a party, no matter where it is, unless she goes along, which makes me feel queer and as if I were being watched and couldn't be trusted, though I would never do anything that she would disapprove of, for I am not that sort of a girl. What do you think about the chaperon?

JOEL B.

ANSWER: The personal chaperon in these days of emancipated youth is about as much out of fashion as hoop skirts, and any mother who insists on going everywhere with her daughter will soon find that she has eliminated daughter from all the good times of her set.

In former days a mother was supposed to keep her daughter tightly clutched by the hand until she turned her over to the watchful eye of a husband. Like Mary's little lamb, everywhere daughter went mother was sure to go. Mother accompanied the girl to the movies. She made an undesired third when they went riding, and she even sat on the side lines and watched them when they played games.

Nowadays it is all a young man can afford when he buys theatre tickets for two, and if he found mother with her hat on ready to go along with them when he went to take Mary to the play, it would be good-night for Mary from then on, so far as ever being taken out was concerned. For the rumour would spread and no youth would feel called upon to spend his hard-earned coin in entertaining mother.

All of this watching of girls never amounted to a row of pins, anyway, because if a girl wanted to deceive her mother she could always do it. Somewhere the spy system always breaks down. No mother is Argus-eyed, nor can she stand perpetually on guard.

Lock a girl in a room and she will climb over a transom or out of the window. Forbid her to see boys at home and she will find a way to see them on the sly. If she is frivolous she will kiss behind mamma's back, and if she is a rotter not all the policemen in the world could keep her on the straight and narrow path. It is futile to watch a bad girl and useless to watch a good one.

The duenna is particularly ineffectual now because she can go such a little way with a girl. She cannot follow a girl to her business and stand at her elbow all day. Nor can she follow her in her sports. So what's the good of watching her at a party for an hour or two when you leave her to take care of herself the balance of the time?

The truth is that in these times every girl has to be her own chaperon, and the time for her mother to get in her good work is before her daughter is 12 years old. If from the time a girl baby could understand anything at all, her mother has bred into her a high ideal of conduct and taught her to hold her honour above her life; if her mother has impressed it upon her, precept upon precept, that she must keep herself clean and pure and sweet; if her mother has taught her to have a horror of vulgarity in manner, and dress, and speech, then she doesn't need to be watched. She has that within herself that will keep her safe whereyer she goes.

Mother can't watch the modern girl, but she can teach her to watch her step, and that is the best chaperon of all.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I have been married four years. I knew when we were married that he did not love me, but I loved him so much that I thought I could win his love. He is good and kind and considerate to me, but I realize now that he will never love me, though he seems satisfied and contented.

We are both still young and have no children, and I am thinking of getting a divorce so as to leave him free, but he protests against it. Do you think that the time will come when he will really fall in love with someone else?

DISTRACTED WIFE

ANSWER: If your husband is happy and contented, let matters rest as they are. Surely you are happier with the man you love, even though he only gives you friendship, than you would be if you were parted from him and eating your heart out in loneliness. Just to be near those we love and to be able to minister to their comfort is an ineffable joy in itself.

It is not given to everyone romantically and passionately. There are many people who go through life without ever having the waters of their souls stirred by any great passion. Their affections are spread over a great number of persons, instead of being concentrated on one particular individual. They have the genius for friendship and comradeship, but not for love.

Perhaps your husband belongs to this type, and he is really giving you all the affection that he is capable of giving to any woman. He finds you congenial and a pleasant companion. You make him a comfortable home, you flatter his ego by your devotion and he is content and happy and doesn't want the arrangement broken up. And you will be wise to accept his viewpoint on the matter.

Certainly you are going out of your way to hunt for trouble if you are going to leave him and break up your home on the theory that he may some time meet some woman with whom he will fall in love. Wait until that evil day comes, because it is highly possible that it will never arrive. Most of the things we dread never happen to us.

A Bible Message

Hear my cry, O God; attend unto my prayer. From the end of the earth will I cry unto thee, when my heart is overwhelmed: lead me to the rock that is higher than I. For thou hast been a shelter for me, and a strong tower from the enemy. I will abide in thy tabernacle for ever: I will trust in the covert of thy wings. Selah. (Ps. 61: 1-4.)

Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. (Ps. 90: 1.)

How amiable are thy tabernacles, O Lord of hosts! My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God....

Blessed are they that dwell in thy house: they will be still praising thee. Selah. (Ps. 84: 1, 2, 4.)

Optimists May Be Right

Naturally, the optimists may be right. As Lord Halifax said last week, anything may happen now. But Winston Churchill is, presumably, in a better position to know than you or we or the man down the street, or even our overseas correspondents. Winston Churchill says a German collapse now would be a "crowning mercy" of Providence "on which we have no right to count." He says 1944 will be our most triumphant but also our most tragic year, our year of greatest glory and greatest loss. He says "this is no time to relax."—Montreal Gazette.

Fighter's Opinion

We probably would not dare to print the comments of the men in the armed forces when they read of the strikes in Canadian coal mines and in aluminum plants. They won't be pleased to learn their families are freezing or nearly freezing and that war production has been cut because miners are taking advantage of the emergency.—Niagara Falls Review.

Work Of Children's Aid Society Lauded In Department's Report

The Ontario Department of Welfare in its annual report on the work of the Children's Aid Society in Peterborough brings to the notice of the citizens the splend'd work that this organization has been doing and places the society in "B" category. The report is as follows.

Board. The genuine interest of the Board is attested in the comparatively high average attendance at meetings and the action taken or contemplated towards enlarging service. The representative character of the Board membership brings to the Society a broader viewpoint and promotes a wider community understanding and support. An extension of the general membership among the citizens of the County as well as the city would further enlarge the opportunities for more widespread participation.

Field Staff: It was the leadership of your Superintendent and the self-sacrificing efforts of all the members of the staff that carried the work of your Society through a most difficult year and enabled reasonably good standards of service to be maintained. You early recognized the need for more staff, but not until October did you succeed in securing the services of a very suitable, though untrained person. We sincerely regret the circumstances attendant on Miss Skenfield's resignation but it is gratifying to know that the vacancy will be filled by another qualified person. Notwithstanding the recent enlargement of staff, the greatly expanded demand for both regular and war services creates definite need for a fourth worker. Equalizing staff with present heavy case loads would permit your Superintendent more time for administration, to the benefit of your work generally.

Volunteer Workers: The assistance given by Mrs. Paige Rowell in Dependents' Allowances Board investigations and providing the transportation, and by Mrs. Waddell in preparing reports was very valuable.

Stenographic and Clerical: By employing additional, part-time services, the extreme pressure in the office was eased. The marked increases in field work caused a corresponding need for stenographic and clerical services. It would appear that at least two full-time office workers are necessary if social records, office routine and bookkeeping are to receive needed attention.

War Services: The contribution which your Society has been able to make on behalf of the soldier's family through your work for the Dependents' Allowance Board and Dependents' Board of Trustees, is most creditable. In many instances administration of the allowance became necessary. The quality of investigations and supervision, throughout has been most satisfactory.

Protection: The volume of regular protection work, as well as war services steadily mounted during the year. Although the staff was enlarged it was not proportionate to the unprecedented volume and pressure in work. It naturally followed that acute situations were given first attention resulting in remaining services being thinly spread and consequently less effective. The constructive protection program which your Superintendent is capable of organizing and carrying out will only be possible with more adequate staff.

C.U.P.A.: The generalized comment on protection work is also applicable to this department. The welfare and interest of the child born out of wedlock is always the concern of your staff, and as limited time permitted, advise and assistance were given the unmarried mother in working out a plan for herself and the care of the child. The extent of the problem and need for service here is indicated by the fact that approximately seventy-five new cases were reported to your Society last year. A very satisfactory effort is made in obtaining financial settlements from the putative father and, when necessary, bringing the case before the courts.

Child Care: Despite extreme pressure from every side your staff rightly gave first place to the welfare of one hundred and twenty-five children under your care. Supervisory visits remained at a satisfactory level and an exceptionally friendly, understanding relationship between workers, children and foster parents was noted. Where maladjustment was indicated, good judgment and consistenty of effort characterized the handling of the problem. The placement of children in more advantageous forms of foster home care was slowed down because workers could not find sufficient time to search out and investigate new homes.

Records: Good recording is recognized by your staff as a vital part of a well balanced social work program. Because of this, and despite the urgency of work in the field and indequacy of stenographic services, a determined effort was made to record the important facts respecting every active case. That all information in detail was not entered and gaps in records sometimes appeared was understandable. Recording on unmarried parents' work and foster home investigations suffered most. However, towards the close of the year the enforced lag was being overtaken and in the case of children's individual social histories, credit is given for improvement over the preceeding year.

Health Services: Confronted with many obstacles, not the least of which is the present shortage of practising doctors and dentists in your community, medical services respecting both initial examinations and re examinations were well maintained. Dental services, while not quite extensive, are not approached systematically and the exact coverage was not clear. The introduction and use of a simple system which would show at a glance when both medical and dental re-examinations are completed and recommendations, if any, carried out would prove a time saver from the administrative viewpoint and afford a ready check on coverage.

Clothing: The genuine interest of your workers and their understanding of how clothing may be used to stimulate and encourage children to better endeavors, plus the average amount spent on each child, assures uniformly good standard of clothing for your wards.

Publicity and Finances: The leadership which the board and your superintendent have given in expanding and co-ordinating local social work services is an outstanding contributoin to the welfare of your community. That a true perspective of the values of the work of your Society has been kept before the public is proven in the recognition given your agency by the Community Chest and the fact that your allocation was increased again last year. The steadily expanding demands give you a legitimate claim on generous support from private sources at this time. The accounting of all Society's monies, including trust funds, is on a satisfactory basis and further protected by an annual audit by a chartered accountant.

Grading: New and regular services in unprecedented volume have made extremely heavy demands on your society. The support of the Board and the unsefish efforts of staff throughout the year have, in the face of these circumstances, made a highly creditable showing, with the result that the standing of your society has been well maintained in "B" category.

F. Menke Denies Kingston Claim

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 (CP) — Frank F. Menke of New York, publisher of the Encyclopedia of Sports, says that there is "no basis in the Kingston claim for recognition as the site for the Hockey Hall of Fame."

The New York publisher made the statement in a letter to E. M. Orlick, McGill historian, who has been doing some investigating on the origin of hockey.

"I am amazed over the action of the National Hockey League (in choosing Kingston). I believed that this was precipitated largely through the fact that the folks in Kingston tried to influence me into the idea that hockey originated there," Mr. Menke wrote.

"I told them flatly that there was no basis for the Kingston claim in the report which they circulated so widely and which dealt with the 'origin' of hockey."

Mr. Menke did not name the town of his selection.

Injured Fan Claims Damages

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 — (CP).— A wrestling match of two years ago was reviewed in superior court today when a spectator claimed damages of $6.684 for injuries received when one of the wrestlers was thrown into a ring-side seat.

Marx Maritzer claimed he suffered a fractured skull when wrestler Jack Britton was pushed against him by an opponent named MacNab after MacNab had thrown Britton from the ring. Maritzer claimed the promoters of the bout, Lucien Gregoire and Mathias Larose, were responsible.

The promoters claimed Maritzer caused the trouble by arguing with Britton after Britton went through the ropes and that while the argument was on MacNab kicked Britton into Maritzer.

The case is continuing.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP).— Texas always does things in a big way, so it's no surprise to learn that the State will present two championship football games next week....Besides the Texas-Texas Aggies tilt for the Southwest Conference crown Thursday, there'll be a "service title" clash between the Randolph Field Ramblers and the Southwestern Louisiana Institute trainees at San Antonio, Nov. 27.

Observation Post.

The Oklahoma football players, who upset Missouri recently after receiving farewell kisses from a bevy of beautiful co-eds when they left for the game, now insist they won't play unless the girls repeat the act before each game....That shows the difference between this year's football and the old fashioned variety — when the boys woudn't play unless they received their pay envelopes first.

Scrap Collection.

Verne Atkins of Youngstown, O., apparently is out to set some sort of a record in local boxing circles. He has been knocked out in his last four starts....The New York Rangers are bidding $20,000 for an experienced defenceman in hopes of winning just one game....Morton Bogue, who will become U.S. Golf Association president in January, was coxswain of the crew for four years at Columbia....The National Horse Show has been called off this winter. Apparently all the nags worth their oats are racing somewhere while the fans send a million bucks through the mutuel machines.

The leadership of the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. will be at stake Friday night when St. John's and Payne's Transports clash in the second half of the weekly double-header. These two teams emerged victorious from the opening twin bill last Friday night, the Saints just nosing out the strong C.G.E. team and the Transports shellacking the Y Cadets. Thus the winner of tomorrow night's meeting between the two will have hold of top place in the loop standing. It should be a lively exhibition all the way. While the Transports have a power-packed club and include in their ranks most of the scoring aces the Church team is composed of battlers who have had a lot of experience and who check hard and fight all the way and they are liable to throw the Transports off their stride. At all events they should make the game a real contest. It is billed for 8.45 o'clock. In the first game, called for 7.45 the Normals and Y Cadets will meet. This year's Normal team will of course be a brand new outfit and there has been no line on their possible strength. The Cadets are a young team that will improve steadily with experience and they are hopeful of pulling off a win at the expense of the future pedagogues.

One of the Military Training Centre cage teams made its appearance last night when Camp team No. 1 met Pete McArthur's Fairmiles in a House League fixture in the Y.M.C.A. gym. While the Soldiers were eventually beaten 30 to 19 they put up a determined battle and held the ultimate winners practically even in the first period. Tony McIlveen, McLaren and Mortimer of softball fame all played for the khaki team, with a number of new comers. Friday night the No. 2 Military Training Centre team is slated to make its debut, with Gord Johnston's Cruisers as the opposition. It has not been announced how the camp team will line up for that battle. The Cruisers have in addition to Gord Johnston who is captain of the outfit, M. Geraghty, Roy Johnston, Bill Sisson, D. Ketchebeau, M. Campbell, J. Hardill, T. Kaye and A. T. Best. The Friday night game is a single fixture and is billed for 7.15 o'clock. Saturday night Algerines will play Training Centre No. 1 and the Frigates will tangle with the Corvettes in the second half of the bill.

They're Back Again

Whipper Billy Watson and Jan Gotch the stormy petrel of the Tunney troupe will renew their warfare here next Tuesday night in the feature bout on the usual weekly wrestling card at the Brock St. Arena. Promoter Tunney had other ideas about next week's show. He wanted to give Peterborough fans a chance to get a look at Vic Holbrooke, the American skyscraper who has made a big hit in Toronto. But it was the Whipper who changed the plans. He begged for another crack at Gotch. The reason was readily given. Watson was far from satisfied with his showing here Tuesday even if he did eventually win. "That unexpected attack Gotch made on me before the start of the second round nearly cost me the bout," said the Whip, adding that he was lucky that he was able to keep from being thrown twice and to eventually win when Gotch was disqualified. "That tough egg will never get me like that again," declared Watson, "and I want a chance to hand him a receipt. He made me look bad after that attack but I think the customers will see something different next week."

* * * * * *

Gotch on the other hand, while he welcomes the return bout is highly indignant over the developments here Tuesday night. He has been telling all and sundry that he was given the well known works. "Dempsey talked a lot about the long count he was supposed to get in his second bout with Gene Tunney," said the Pole. "I wonder what he would say if he was robbed half a dozen times on long counts. That fellow Nelson is more help to the Whipper than his famous Commando grip. I had Watson out of the ring four or five times and went back to my corner. And what did Nelson do? Instead of starting to count Watson out he'd come over and argue with me until the Whipper recovered enough to climb back in. And look what happened after I took the second fall to even up the match. There was an interval long enough to set a broken leg before they'd let the match go on. And then to cap it all they disqualify me for something that is done all the time." All of which seem to indicate that the rowdy Gotch is still plenty hot under the collar. Anyway the battle is on for Tuesday and it should be the tid-bit of the whole grunt-and-groan season.

The Champions Listed

A special bulletin issued by Secretary F. R. Feaver of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association names the official list of champions for the season just passed. There was, of course, no award in the senior A series in which Hamilton and Toronto Peoples got into an argument and abandoned the competition. The junior B series did not operate. The other winners were as follows: Senior B—St. Catharines Thompsons, senior B (Northern)—Sudbury Shamrocks, intermediate A (Southern)—Oshawa Colts, intermediate A (Northern)—Sault Ste. Marie Esquires, intermediate B—Jarvis R.C.A.F., intermediate C—Grimsby Peach Kings, Junior A—Hamilton Tailors, junior C—Toronto Prince of Wales. Secretary Feaver also announces that the congratulations of the O.A.S.A. are being sent to the 30th Anti-Aircraft Battery for winning the championship of the Canadian Army Overseas. Pitcher Atanasoff, Toronto led the team to the championship without a defeat and the champion Army team was composed entirely of former O.A.S.A. players, indicating that the best softball in the country is played in the Ontario loop.

Four outside entries have already been received for the Peterborough city swimming championships to be held in the Y.M.C.A. pool this Saturday night and the appearance in the events of competitors from out of the city will add considerably to the interest in the program. Swimming Director Gord Minty expects that all the events will be well filled and that some good performances will be given. In fact he intimates that some Canadian records may go by the boards and as this meet is officially sanctioned any marks set will be recognized by the swimming authorities. There are four junior events and three senior contests with an open diving contest also on the program. The city championships are open to anybody and it is possible that some of the titles may go out of town.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Peterborough had two winners in the bat and ball fund prize drawing promoted by the O.A.S.A.....War Saving Certificates have been won by the Peterborough City Softball League and by A. V. Vass....Bill Cowley of the Boston Bruins is once again qualifying for the title of hockey's Mister Playmaker....He has already registered ten assists and promises to lead the loop by a wide margin in that department....Bill Calladine has scored two goals and hung up an assist. ....Pick Hines will be more sad-eyed than usual today. His Navy squad took a 7 to 1 hooking at the hands of St. Catharines' Saints last night.... The Sailors were hot favorites at that and the bull ring must have taken quite a lacing....Although the R.C.A.F. Hurricanes did not make the O.R. F.U. playdowns they placed four men on the season's all-star squad, topping all other clubs in that respect.

Quebec Aces Team Upsets New Schedule

MONTREAL, Nov. 18—(CP)—Just after officials of the Quebec Senior Hockey League thought they had a tentative schedule ready, the Quebec Aces Wednesday said they would not be able to play Ottawa Commandos in two games planned for this week-end.

Previously Aces were to play at Ottawa Saturday and a return game was scheduled for Quebec Sunday. Instead, Montreal Royals will go to Ottawa for a battle with Commandos Saturday.

The Q.S.H.L. is expected to draw up a new schedule at a meeting tonight.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Described by assistant District Attorney Whitman Knapp as a "neighborhood bully" Angelo de Sarza, former lightweight boxer of New York known in the ring as Terry Young, yesterday started his prison term of 2½ to five years after pleading guilty to taking part in the holdup of the Democratic Club, New York, last February.

With manager Art Ross of the Boston Bruins in New York for an important hockey meeting, the team is in charge of Captain Dit. Clapper for the games at Chicago tonight. Centre Don Gallinger, injured in the game with Canadiens was expected to play against the Chihawks.

Judge Investigates

Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis announced at Chicago he was checking upon major leaguers who are playing winter exhibition games in Southern California. It was brought out yesterday Johnny Lindell of the New York Yankees was taking part in the matches for $3 per game. Lindell's recent world's series share was $6,139.

Following a salvia test of his horse Appeal Agent after a race at Pimlico, November 11, F. C. Jones, trainer-owner, Washington, D.C., was summoned yesterday to appear before the Maryland State Racing Commission at Baltimore.

Bader Field, a High school football field at Atlantic City, has been selected by the New York Yankees for spring training, it was announced yesterday at the club headquarters in New York.

The Canadian government derived a revenue of $1,657,250 from pari-mutuel betting during the past season of 283 racing days, representing five per cent. of the total wagering, $33,145,013. The provinces receieved $1,779,707 and the tracks received $2,320,150, the latter representing seven per cent of the betting total.

Western senior hockey suffered another setback last night in the withdrawal from the Alberta Senior Services League of the Calgary R.C.A.F. Mustangs. The reason for dropping out, as announced, was that a considerable number of the airmen-players were about to proceed to another part of Canada. Three teams remain in the circuit, two Army and one Navy.

Fairmiles Whip Soldiers

After a hard-fought first half in which the scoring was practically even, Pete McArthur's Fairmiles opened out a lead in the second session of last night's Y.M.C.A. House League game to defeat the Military Training Centre No. 1 team 30 to 19.

It was a good battle. The Soldiers with only Tony McIlveen left of last year's squad fought all the way and at the half were down only one point, the count being 14 to 13 for the Fairmiles. However, the McArthur gang got an attack rolling after the rest period and pulled away from the khaki team. The latter however gave reason for believing they will improve steadily with a few workouts and will provide plenty of opposition before long. Baird with 10 points, Pete McArthur with eight and McCuaig, a newcomer to the league, with six, sparked the winners' attack; Graham piled up eight points for the Soldiers and Lynn contributed six points.

The teams:

Fairmiles 30—Baird 10, J. Csumrik 4, Ellis, Courtney 2, McCuaig 6, McArthur 8.

Military Training Centre 19—Graham 8, Lynn 6, Kropp, McLaren, McIlveen, Esson 5, Partington, Mortimer.

Referee—S. Csumrik.

More Power To Him

TORONTO, Nov. 18—(CP).—Controller Fred Hamilton today protested the "annual police crusade" to seize hockey sticks of boys who play shinny on Toronto streets. He said it seems strange that police can be spared to pick up hockey sticks "at a time when the police department is complaining of a lack of personnel to protect the lives and property of Toronto citizens."

Toronto Leafs Face Busy Week-end

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs face their sternest test of the young National Hockey League season this week. Now sharing second place with Chicago Black Hawks, four points behind Montreal Canadiens. Leafs are slated to play two games against the undefeated Canadiens—in Montreal tonight and in Toronto Saturday. For these important contests Leafs will present one of the weakest lineups ever to represent Toronto in N.H.L. play.

For Thursday's game, Coach Happy Day will dress only four players boasting more than a full season's hitch in the bigtime—Babe Pratt, Bucko McDonald, Lorne Carr and Bob Davidson. The others are recent rookie developments except for Netminder Benny Grant.

The fifth experienced Toronto player, Mel Hill, will not be in action against Canadiens because of a broken nose suffered in practice Tuesday. He will be replaced by Ted (Tester) Kennedy, youthful Port Colborne, Ont., rookie. Kennedy will be flanked by Frank Dunlap of Ottawa and George Boothman of Calgary.

Detroit Red Wings, tied for fourth place with Boston Bruins two points behind Leafs and Chicago, meet Rangers at New York and Boston plays at Chicago in other Thursday games.

Montreal Fliers Defeat Aces

Alan Ladd just got a medical discharge from the army and will be back in films soon. . . Such old-time operettas as "Blossom Time" and "The Student Prince" are drawing large crowds on the stage right now, which caused Warners to remake "The Desert Song" in Technicolor with Dennis Morgan and Irene Manning. . . Mary Pickford's return as a producer will be featured by "Junior Miss" . . . Do you remember Elmo Lincoln, the first Tarzan of the screen? He'll be seen again in "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," which features Lynn Bari, Akim Tamiroff, Francis Lederer and Nazimova. . . Fans will get a laugh when they see Bugs Bunny, the cartoon flash, show up in one of those George Pal Puppetoon shorts called "Jasper Goes Hunting." Bugs Bunny appears suddenly in the middle of the film, turns to the audience and says, "Hey, I'm in the wrong picture!" The right to use the cocky rabbit was given Pal by Leon Schlesinger, his owner, who used to manage a Toronto theatre. . . When Walter Pidgeon of St. John came to Canada for the Victory Loan his wife asked him to bring back a set of French Canadian hand carved and painted wooden ducks for suit ornaments. Walter tried Toronto, Montreal and Quebec without any luck. When he got home he dropped into a Beverley Hills store—and found a set of the ducks!

April of next year will mark the 50th anniversary of the motion picture in Canada. The first showing took place in New York city in 1894 and was followed a few weeks later by an Ottawa performance.

The first Edison Kinetoscope was a peeping device and the financial results of the first day's showing was $5.35. Edison was somewhat indifferent to the possibilities of his invention. He didn't join in the race to alter the machine so that it would project on a screen. With his permission another man did and the first such showing was held in 1896.

Edison, when asked to invest $50 to secure patent rights in Scandinavia for his invention, refused!

Richard Quine, who was Judy Garland's brother in "Me and My Gal," will be married to Susan Peters any day. . . Eddie Buzzell, who danced so well in "Stage Door Canteen," just threw away the brace he has been wearing on his leg since a recent accident. . . Hollywood will make a film about the discovery of penicillin, the wonder drug, which will also be produced in Canada soon. . . Captain Clark Gable, home on a visit, was mobbed everywhere but went out of his way to praise Bob Hope, the English-born comedian, for the way he has entertained the boys and girls overseas—which is a nice thing to do on Gable's part, considering that Hope is a rival for screen popularity. . . In the USA many war workers' movie shows after regular hours had to be discontinued because of the lack of help. In Canada theatres have been hit so hard for experienced personnel that the Selective Service has declared managers to be key men worthy of special consideration. . . Lionel W. Payne, who operates a theatre in Listowel, Ontario, has raised $30,000 for war causes and soldier comforts so far. Payne is a big man with a limp he has had since he was a boy. The other day a lady asked him if his theatre would show "The Constant Limp." "Don't have to," answered Payne. "I've had it all my life!"

Hamilton Fans Optimistic Over Next Game

HAMILTON, Nov. 18 (CP)—Hamilton football fans—they never have been known to lack optimism—look to their potent Flying Wildcats led by the versatile Joe Krol to brush aside Lachine R.C.A.F. in the Eastern Canadian football final Saturday in Toronto and represent the East in the annual East-West game a week later.

However, Coach Brian Timmis is less optimistic. As a veteran of nearly a quarter of a century of football strife, he looks on the Lachine team as strong enough to command the utmost respect from his charges.

"I've looked over their lineup and they have 12 mighty useful players," he said of the Quebec Rugby Football Union champions. "Our club won't have any walkover—and Lachine might just be strong enough to win."

Had Stiff Competition

Hamilton's chief advantage, Timmis believes, lies in the stiff competition they faced from two Toronto teams—Balmy Beach and R.C.A.F. Hurricanes—in winning the Ontario Rugby Football Union championship while Lachine had a much easier march to its title.

Wildcats boast a creditable season's record. They played 11 games—10 in the regular schedule and one play-off contest—and won nine, losing one and tying another. They scored 230 points while their opponents tallied only 73.

Biggest scoring threat on the team is Krol, who scored 48 points this season. But the triple-threat star from Windsor has sound backing on the backfield and along the wingline.

Backfield mates include big Paul Miocinivich, hardest hitting line plunger in the O.R.F.U.; OS. Doug. Smith, who kicks, runs and passes well; Mel Lawson and Paul Peterson. PO. Jimmy Smith, the regular quarterback, was injured last week in the O.R.F.U. final against Balmy Beach, but PO. Art Stollery will take his place. However, if Stollery should be injured Timmis will be hard put to find a man for the position.

Chief among the linesmen are Eddie Remegis, O.R.F.U. all-star inside wing this season and last, and Bill O'Breaza, snapback. They have been getting adequate support from such players as P. J. Santucci, Abe Zvonkin, LAC. Walter Gibb, place-kicking specialist who scored 35 points this season; R. Bovaird, Lou Travelle and others.

At outside wing, Wildcats have the hardest-tackling combination in the O.R.F.U., in a pair of Jimmies—Simpson and Fumio — while Sgt. Dick Groom and Don Irvin are almost as deadly.

Gable Speaks

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18 (CP). — Capt. Clark Gable, former film star, was quoted yesterday as saying that the Germans have nothing to compare "with our aerial machine guns and cannon."

ST. LOUIS — (AP). — Catcher Walker Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday was accepted into the U. S Army under a limited classification, nuderstood to be the result of a fractured finger sustained in the World's Series. Cooper, 28, is married and has one child.

St. Kitts Sock Toronto Sailors

St. Catharines Saints socked the Sailors in surprising fashion last night at Toronto, with the Saints emerging from the cellar position in the Senior O.H.A. race with a 7-1 win against H.M.C.S. York for their first success of the season.

It was not until 8:55 of the second stanza that the Tars were able to find the cage, with Klukey flipping the pass to Livingstone for the sole tally by the Toronto Gobs. Before and after that stage of the tussle it was all St. Catharines.

Except for Leo Sargent replacing Grosskurth in the visitors' net, the winners lined up as previously but it was not this change that made the difference.

Chief marksman of the engagement was Norm (Jud) McAtee who rounded out the evening with two tallies, both in the third frame. Adamson, Delmonte, Mason and Reynolds registered the other goals.

Navy is now in third spot in the senior standing, below Kingston and Hamilton, with one win and one defeat. The Saints stand fourth on one victory and two losses.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Brian Timmis, now 43, looked back over his 24 years in senior football and made these startling statements:

"The big football teams of 15 or 20 years ago were tougher, more powerful than our teams to-day. Playing against one of those big, old teams the kids of to-day would never get the ball";

"Regina Roughriders of 1920-21 were 'as good as any team I've played with or against'";

"Joe Krol is the greatest football player I've ever seen in Canada when he wants to be."

Brian's statements will raise arguments but they're backed by an 18-year playing career and six years as coach. As a Hamilton Tiger until his retirement as player in 1938, Timmis was one of Canada's greatest middle wings. Now he's proved himself as coach by guiding Hamilton Wildcats to the O.R.F.U. title.

Timmis doesn't under-estimate strength of teams such as his Wildcats. But he recalls that when he returned from overseas and played football in Ottawa in 1919 and in Regina in 1920-22, the players were mostly men matured in mind and body by war. The body contact of the tough old two-bucks-and-a-kick game was a physical outlet for men trained to violence. Timmis figures the charging lines and the smashing line plungers of the old days would "run right over" teams of to-day.

"Maybe these kids of to-day would pass and run them dizzy for a few minutes but give old-timers the ball once and the kids would never see it again."

Timmis recalled the men with whom he played in Regina where he spent three years with the "Mounties." The Roughrider teams of 1920-21 won Western titles before the East-West game was inaugurated, but Brian figures those 'Riders never were surpassed. They had huge linemen— men of long experience like Bill Ryan, Tiny Skyles, Bill Creighton, Tare Rennebohm, Jerry Crapper, Al Urquhart.

Timmis was a line-smashing flying wing then in a backfield that included Heinie Rogers, Freddy Wilson, and Cece Browne. Many of the players of that day, both East and West, were 60-minute men, yet they carried on in top company year after year. Brian himself played until he was 38.

Timmis acknowledges present teams are weakened by lost manpower and believes that when the war is over, returned men will give the games renewed vitality.

His confidence in ability of Canada's younger athletes is shown by his opinion of the 24-year-old Krol. Timmis played against the best in his day and he claims the Wildcats halfback is the most versatile of them all. "Joe has no peer as a forward passer. He can run, kick, plunge, receive a pass or a punt. He's an expert at pass defence and a sure tackler."

"Canada is building men," says Timmis. "Maybe the depression was responsible but a few years ago the athletes were on the small size. Now we're on the upswing of the cycle and there's a trend toward tall, well-built youngsters. You can bet the future of Canadian football is in good hands."

Larry Temple Dies

NEW YORK — (AP). — A former outstanding negro welterweight, Larry Temple, 69, died at Meadowbrook Hospital, Hempstead, L.I. He fought Sam Langford four times in his career, winning and losing once, with the two other bouts inconclusive.

BASUTOLAND GENEROUS

DURBAN, South Africa (CP). — In addition to the free gift of about $440,000 presented to the United Kingdom government by Basutoland toward the cost of the war the Basutoland government has now lent about 377,200 free of interest for the duration.

All-Star Team Takes Ten From Big Three

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 18—(CP)—The stirring battle waged between Hamilton Flying Wildcats, Toronto Balmy Beach and Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes for the two play-off positions in the Ontario Rugby Football Union this season today had its natural sequel in the Union's annual all-star team.

The "big three" took 10 of the 12 positions on the team, selected for The Canadian Press by the six coaches and seven sport writers in the three Union cities and announced last night. Hurricanes, nosed out of play-off contention in the closing stages of the schedule, placed four players on its lineup and the champion Wildcats and runner-up Beaches had three each. The other two positions went to players from Toronto Navy and Ottawa Combines. Toronto Indians were not represented.

Youth and age were combined on the potent mythical lineup which included the Union's two leading scorers of the season—Annis Stukus whose placement kicking skill enabled him to amass 64 points in the season's play and triple-threat Joe Krol of Hamilton who scored 48 points.

The lineup:

Flying wing—Sam Sward, Balmy Beach.
Half—Joe Krol, Hamilton.
Half—OS. Royal Copeland, Navy.
Half (secondary defence)—Sgt. Fred Kijek, Hurricanes.
Quarter — Annis Stukus, Balmy Beach.
Snap—LAC. Bob Cosgrove, Hurricanes.
Inside—Eddie Remegis, Hamilton.
Inside—George Fraser, Ottawa.
Middle—Harry Sonshine, Balmy Beach.
Middle—Cpl. Paul McGarry, Hurricanes.
Outside—LAC. Jack Buckmaster, Hurricanes.
Outside—Jimmy Simpson, Hamilton.

Three In '42 Also

Only three of the players were on the O.R.F.U. all-star team of 1942—Sward, who was secondary defence half a year ago; Cosgrove middle last year when he played with Balmy Beach; and Remegis, back at his inside post.

Youngest of the 1943 all-stars was Copeland, the 19-year-old passing and running start of the Navy team. Graduate of Toronto interscholastic ranks, this was his first season of senior football.

Oldest player was the 34-year-old Simpson whose fierce tackling and all-around aggressive play has been a feature of Hamilton clubs since 1928.

Closest to a unanimous choice was Stukus, whose brother Bill—a pilot officer with the Royal Canadian Air Force—held the position last season as a member of the Hurricanes. Krol and Copeland were easy choices for the two halfline posts.

Voting for flying wing and secondary defence half was close between Sward and Kijek—both great booters and hard tacklers. Sward tied with Krol in voting for flying wing and with Kijek for secondary defence half. However, Krol was much more emphatically the choice for half and his place there put Sward at flying wing and gave Kijek the other position.

The burly Cosgrove—one of the best linemen in Canadian football ever since he came to Calgary from Montana about five years ago—led the voting for snap by a wide margin. Remegis and Fraser were easy choices for inside wing while Sonshine and McGarry at middle completed a thumping wingline flanked by Simpson and the capable Buckmaster

"Weighted" to give equal voting strength to the three Union cities, the vote provided a team of great offensive strength, its members having scored 179 points this season. Their records: Stukus 64, Krol 48, Fraser, 23, Kijek 18, Cosgrove 10, Remegis 5, Buckmaster 5, Simpson 4, Sward 2

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Winnipeg's Blue Bombers smashed through Calgary Bronks four years ago to-day at Calgary for a 28-7 victory and their third successive Western Canada senior football title. Calgary had won the first contest of a two-game titular series 13-7. Bombers went on to win the Canadian title, defeating Ottawa, 8-7.

Major Leaguers Get Playoff Cut

CHICAGO, Nov. 18. — Members of the New York Yankees Baseball Club, winners of the 1943 World Series, received $204,962.41, and the defeated St. Louis Cardinals $136,641.61 as their share of the total receipts of the five-game series this fall, Commissioner K. M. Landis announced yesterday.

The World Series participants' share represented 70 per cent of the players' portion of the total receipts, which amounted to $1,205,784. This total included $100,000 received for broadcasting rights to the series and the gate receipts. Attendance at the five games totalled 277,312.

Distribution of the total receipts was made four ways: $102,079.98 to the commissioner's office, $488,005.74 to the players, $30,324.98 to the clubs and leagues, and $308,373.48, including the $100,000 broadcasting receipts, to War and Relief Service Fund, Inc.

Members of second-place teams in the American and aNtional League pennant races received 15 per cent of the players' share, the Washington Senators and the Cincinnati Reds each getting $36,600.43. Ten per cent went to third-place team players, the Cleveland Indians and the Brooklyn Dodgers each receiving $24,400.29, and the remaining 5 per cent was turned over to fourth-place team members, the Chicago White Sox and the Pittsburg Pirates each getting $12,200.14.

Referee Named

TORONTO — (CP). — President Laddie Cassels of the Canadian Rugby Union last night selected Seymour Wilson of Hamilton as referee of the Eastern semi-final between Hamilton Flying Wildcats and Lachine R.C.A.F. at Toronto Saturday. Harold Platt of Montreal will be umpire and Ralph Adams of Toronto head linesman.

Hershey Bears Regain Top Position

By The Canadian Press

Hershey Bears regained their leadership of the American Hockey League last night by defeating Pittsburgh Hornets 4-0 on home ice.

The win gave them a total of 13 points and a one point lead over Cleveland Barons, who marched to the front when Bears suffered defeat last week-end.

Now Hershey has an eight point lead over the other two teams in the eastern section—Buffalo Bisons and Cleveland Reds.

Starting in rare form last night Bears' powerful forward line, headed by Capt. Wally Kilrea, displayed the same winning power they have turned in right along. Just 52 seconds from the opening whistle Paul Gauthier scored on a pass from Kilrea and Patterson.

In the second period Patterson banged another into Hornets' net and Kilrea and Gauthier drew assists.

A second forward line sparked by Bert Hodgins stormed Pittsburgh's net in the same period and scored another counter. His wingers, Hank Lauzo and Ed Grinke drew assists.

In the third period, Kilrea came out of the penalty box mad. So, aided by Defenceman Moe and Winger Hergert, he banged a counter into the net less than a minute after returning to the ice.

Tough Fritzie Zivic Nears Trail's End

AKRON, O., Nov. 18 — (AP). — Fritzie Zivic has averaged better than one ring appearance a month in his 13 years of trading punches, but he may put on the gloves for the last time to-night.

The 31-year-old former welterweight champion took his Selective Service test in Pittsburg Sunday, and if the United States Army accepts him there's little prospect of his returning to action after a year or two in the service. To-night he keeps a 10-round date in Akron with George 'Red" Doty of Hartford, Conn.

Disastrous Fire Sweeps Hospital Wing

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 — (CP).— Fire investigators sorted through the burnt out section of the old administrative wing of venerable Hotel Dieu Hospital here today trying to establish cause of a fire which for a time last night had threatened major catastrophe.

Established by "Canada's first nurse," Jeanne Mance, in the middle of the 17th century, Hotel Dieu is the oldest hospital in Montreal and probably the oldest in Canada.

Three alarms were turned in and quick action on the part of the staff and firemen had 45 patients safely evacuated in twelve minutes and the fire under control within an hour in the old wing of the 500-bed institution.

However the blaze spread from a cellar of the four-story building on mid-town Pine Avenue and had destroyed valuable X-ray equipment, an operating theatre and valuable administration fyles before it was checked. Damage was set at $400,000.

The evacuated patients were all comfortably housed in the new modern wing of the big gray-stone building and no use was made of 50 ambulances — staffed with nurses and interns—which converged on the scene from Montreal's other dozen hospitals.

of Korosten, and Chernobil, 50 miles east of Narodichi near the junction of the Pripet and Dnieper rivers. The German garrison in Korosten was thus threatened from the south, east and north but fought on stubbornly.

On the Lower White Russian front to the north, Soviet columns were fighting their way through the suburbs of Rechitsa, strongly fortified city on the west bank of the Dnieper, the communique said, and had gained ground on the east bank of the river north of Gomel, tightening their grip on that beleaguered stronghold. A new Soviet drive was also reported under way near Orsha, Dnieper river city 70 miles southwest of Smolensk, and the Junction point for the Leningrad-Odessa, Moscow-Warsaw railway lines.

The Russians also were attacking in the Southern Ukraine, continuing their drives to clear out the Dnieper Bend.

London Editor Praises News Coverage

By J. E. HOLDSWORTH
Canadian Press Correspondent

MELBOURNE, Nov. 18. — (CP Cable.)—A. R. Ford, editor of the London, Ont., Free Press and president of The Canadian Press yesterday praised the foreign news coverage provided for their readers by newspapers in Sydney and Melbourne.

Speaking at a dinner given by the Melbourne branch of the Australian Newspaper Proprietors Association, Mr. Ford said that newspapers of Australia are spending enormous sums in collecting foreign news.

Canadian newspapers also give a fine service of world news, he said, but outside a few great newspapers in the United States the average American newspaper gave very little world news, which was probably one reason there had been an isolationist movement there.

"I think the time has come when there should be a greater interchange of news within the Empire," he said. "I hope the time is not far distant when some arrangement will be made for better exchange of news between different parts of the Empire so that people may obtain a clearer understanding of what is going on in the different countries.

"Co-operation can only be obtained by knowing each other better."

B. T. Richardson of the Winnipeg Free Press also spoke. He and Lorenzo Pare of L'Action Catholique, Que., with Mr. Ford make up a Canadian newspaper party now visiting Australia.

Mr. Richardson said the people of Canada and the United States have heard much of the fighting Australians, but the delegation had been greatly impressed by what it had seen of the home front in Australia.

J. B. Aitken, chairman of the Melbourne Argus, said that if the British Empire is to continue to be the greatest factor for peace and security in the world it is essential there should be closest understanding and friendship among peoples of all Empire countries.

Senator J. B. Keane, Australian Trade Minister, said the Australian Governmetn's action in inviting the Canadian newspaper delegation here should be repeated in future.

In Sydney the Daily Telegraph has displayed a two-column article by Mr. Ford headlined "War Builds Canada into a Lusty Young Giant."

In a summary the newspaper said: "In this article Arthur R. Ford tells how Canada's war effort which can show us some points has revolutionized Canadian secondary industries and placed her fourth among the United Nations as a producer of war materials."

Narrow Escapes

Film executives said "scores" might have been trapped if the explosions had occurred minutes later, as 50 were awaiting admission to a screening when the flames broke out at 8:25 p.m. A second scheduled screening had been postponed until 9 p.m.

Some of those awaiting admission to the screenings were showered with huge slabs of plate glass shattered in the explosions.

In hospital are Capt. Edward J. Tierney, who suffered first degree burns about the face, and projectionist Herbert Naimon, whose head and ear were injured. Firemen Ernie Barber and Harold Elliott, helping Tierney fight the blaze, were knocked off an aerial ladder but did not require treatment.

Urged To Stay.

Naimon, trapped in a third-floor projection room, was persuaded not to jump by a passerby, Harry Mountain of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, who told Naimon an alarm had been turned in.

"I'll be cooked alive if I stay here," Naimon shouted. He remained and was rescued shortly after by an aerial crew.

An mergency meeting of Film Exchange Company managers was held to-day to protect Ontario theatres who receive films from Toronto. It was believed service disruption elsewhere in Canada would be slight.

"Theatres in several Ontario centres may have to continue showing what films they have on hand until the situation is clarified," said David Coplan, general manager of United Artists Corporation. "New film programs will have to be arranged to replace prints destroyed and advertising releases will have to be changed."

An investigation has been opened by Detective John Houston of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department.

Forum Speakers Trace Progress In Past Year

By S. G. BLACKMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt headed the list of important personages from Great Britain and the United States who yesterday addressed messages reflecting growing confidence in Allied might to the New York Herald Tribune's 12th Forum on current problems.

Mr. Churchill, observing that the forum was held "in the glow of one of the most cheering developments in international affairs, the Moscow Conference," sent assurances the four great powers who had met there had pledged "to work together not only in winning the war but in building the structure of a lasting peace."

President Roosevelt recalled that a year ago he told the forum the turning point of the war had been reached, and in his message said "the great advances that have been made during the year since they can be measured by the fact that now the important events of the war—and in the building for the peace—are being impelled by us of the United Nations and not by our enemies."

Have Advantage

The United Nations now hold "the supreme advantage of the initiative" in the war, the president continued, and must never lose it.

Messages were also read from Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Gen. Charles de Gaulle, president of the French Committee of National Liberation, while speakers at the final session included U.S. Vice President Henry Wallace and Wendell L. Willkie.

Mr. Eden commented that the Moscow four-power declaration "made it plain that there was and there would be no attempt to impose a sort of great power dictatorship on the other states."

Wallace declared that "lack of planning and the selfishness of so-called hard-headed men can turn Peace II into World War III."

"We must resolve," he said, "that we shall not again produce world-wide explosion by allowing certain private interests to high pressure Congress into higher tariffs while other private interests are financing unsound loans abroad at the expense of the small investor."

DRIVE FOR BALKANS—U.S. bombers are making daylight raids on the Balkans with Sofia, Bulgarian capital and railroad centre, as the target since this is the hub of the German supply system for the Balkans.

The Russian drive into Balkans continues southward and advices indicate that when the Odessa corner has been turned and Rumania entered, the Reds will head straight for Bulgaria. It is understood that Turkey will be heard from when the Soviet troops reach that vicinity. To the north, Nazis are in full retreat beyond Kiev.

With the odds hopeless, the Island of Leros (1) in the Aegean has been given up to the Germans, after severe fighting on the part of the British and Italians. There is now only one British-controlled island in the Aegean, Samos, which observers say will be the next to be attacked by the Germans. However, R.A.F. fighters and bombers are making extensive raids over the Aegean and have hit the airfields at Kos (2) and Galato (3) on the Island of Rhodes.

Allies Facing

Allies are emphasized by most papers. The Cardiff Western Mail says "The road to Rome still is long," and adds, "The enemy seems to be preparing to give the Italian and Balkan fronts a more important place in their strategy and if they are satisfied there will be no attack in the west until next year and they can avert a rout in Russia, a full-scale counter-offensive in Italy, must be reckoned with as a possibility."

The Yorkshire Post says: "It must be admitted slow progress of the Allied force in Italy during the past two months caused a good deal of disappointment and some questioning."

The Glasgow Herald refers to the slow progress and observes that more severe fighting lies ahead.

The assault was the first heavy attack on Germany since Americans blasted at Bremen in daylight Saturday.

Last night's secondary raid on Berlin was the 17th visit the R.A.F's twin-engined plywood bombers have paid the German capital since mid-August, and the first since November 3.

Labor Defeats Its Own Cause

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 —(CP) — Judge Enright said in criminal court yesterday that "labor has defeated its own cause in this country by holding a proverbial gun not at the enemy but at the head of Canadian industrial leaders since the beginning of war."

He made the comment in sentencing Omer Gaucher, organizer for the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, to a fine of $500 and costs or six months imprisonment after Gaucher had pleaded guilty to a charge of suggesting to employees of Dominion Rubber Company that they reduce production by 20 per cent during a wage dispute.

"Labor leaders seem not to realize the consequences of their doings," the judge said. "The whole population, strikers included, must bear up nobly until victory has been attained even though the cost of living has increased and is increasing gradually. It is not with labor strikes all over the country that we will improve our situation and that is why I believe that in instigating strikes labor leaders have hurt their own cause."

Teen-Age Boys Given Year Sentences

Reformatory terms were handed out by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to two youths who had previously pleaded guilty to theft of a motor vehicle and also of bicycle thefts

Max Stevens, 17, Nassau, was sentenced to one year definite and two months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory on a charge of stealing a truck from Hood and Cumming Motors.

On each of four charges of stealing bicycles he was sentenced to four months definite and two months indeterminate in Reformatory. These four sentences will run concurrently but will not commence until the expiration of the sentence imposed for stealing the truck.

"I hope you don't think there was anything clever or sharp about what you did," commented Magistrate Langley after reading Stevens' record. "You would have been much better off if you had been earning the money to buy a car instead of stealing one or to buy a bicycle instead of taking some other person's bicycle and throwing it in the river."

Stevens said that he was going to join the army.

"That's getting to be an old excuse around here," commented the court.

William Nicholson, 19, of Rockcroft, had also pleaded guilty to the theft of the truck and also to one charge of stealing a bicycle.

"You don't seem to have a very enviable record either," said the magistrate in imposing a similar sentence upon him.

"I often wonder whether you fellows think you are doing something clever when you do these things. Any fool could jump into another man's car and drive it off."

Highway Crash Case Finished

After a hearing that took most of the day Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., reserved judgment for a week, Wednesday afternoon, in a charge against James T. O'Reilly, Percy township, of reckless driving, following a recent accident on Highway 7, 2½ miles west of Norwood in which two trucks were involved.

O'Reilly in his evidence told the court that he had not seen the milk truck parked on a hill until he was almost on top of it, and it was too late to do anything to avert the crash. The accused said that he was driving own truck at between 30 and 35 miles an hour at the time of the accident. He claimed that at the last moment he had seen one red light at the back of the parked truck.

In his argument T. J. Carley, K.C., defense counsel, contended that Elliott, the driver of the other truck, had been negligent in stopping where he had, and also in not having the flares called for under the Highway Traffic Act.

"The only thing that gives me much worry is whether or not sufficient carelessness has been shown to bring it under the code" commented Magistrate Langley in announcing his intention of deferring judgment or a week.

Future Radio Sets Will Look Like Old

When the war is ended and domestic radio receiving sets once again are on production lines now almost totally devoted to communication systems and detection devices for the armed forces, they probably will have the same appearance of prewar receivers the Radio Manufacturers' Association of Canada states.

As the result of research fathered by the war, many new radio devices will be produced for the public eventually, but before some of these developments can be incorporated in home receivers present broadcasting facilities will have to be extended greatly, the association predicts.

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Nov. 18.—(AP).— Due to the manpower shortage, Col. John H. Bundy, commanding officer at the United States air field here, announced all personnel, including sergeants, will have to take regular turns on KP duty. "I suppose I can expect a lot of griping from you top-kicks and master sergeants," Col. Bundy added. "Sir," a sergeant piped up, "we did it before and we can do it again."

Mother Lynx And Two Kittens Put To Flight Hunter, Hound And Bear In Anstruther

This is the story of Ponto, a pint-sized beagle hound who developed sore feet on the deer hunt, and while there is some semblance of truth to the item, there is also the Paul Bunyon touch.

Percy Edwards, Ashburnham garage owner decided Ponto had reached that age when he might try his skill on the deer trails and tiny Ponto was a willing subject.

The hunting camp was at Eel's lake in Anstruther township, and after a rather tiring day, Mr. Edwards noticed that Ponto's feet were very tender and bruised. He decided to hoist the little hound into the packsack on his back and with darkness approaching rapidly Ponto snuggled down in the packsack, papoose style and soon was fast asleep.

Soon it was pitch dark, and the party slogged its way through the underbrush and over the rocks toward camp. Another hound ran loose along the runway, and soon the quiet of the night was broken by some weird noises.

It seems the hound ran smack into a Canadian lynx with two goodsized kittens near the path, and things happened fast. The lynx tackled the big hound which took to its heels with a howl of pain, and at the same time, the two kittens trying to escape sprang into the trees, but one of them mistook Mr. Edward for a tree, and landed on the packsack. At this moment Ponto came to life, gave a few lusty barks and poked his head out of the packsack in time to face a scratching, spitting baby lynx. Ponto immediately ducked for cover with a queer throaty noise, and Mr. Edwards seeking to shake loose from his unwelcome burden, tripped and fell in the darkness landed against an unrooted tree. He came in contact with a large furry object which grunted in disapproval, then let out another series of grunts when the baby lynx pounced on it. Edwards dropped his gun, and sprinted down a decline, while another member of the hunting party ducked behind a tree as a full grown bear zoomed past him down the runway in high gear.

Edwards lost his gun in the scramble and it was not recovered until next day. The hound was badly scratched, the lynx and kittens escaped unhurt.

Robt. Blackwood Elects Trial By Jury

Robert Blackwood, 18, was bailed for trial by consent in police court this morning after one Crown witness had been heard in the preliminary inquiry on charge against him of having assaulted Allan Edmison, occasioning actual bodily harm.

Blackwood, who was defended by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., had elected trial by jury.

This new charge against him followed his aquittal on another charge of having assaulted Constable Edmison while in the execution of his duty.

Constable Edmison was the only witness called by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., today and he told the story of an incident at a recent dance in the Canadian Legion Hall, stating that Blackwood had struck him in the face grabbed him by the legs and upset him and then dropped on him while he was prostrate on the floor. He said he was kicked or struck in the face while down and suffered a fracture of a bone in his check.

Anthony Caravaggie, charged with interfering with Constable Edmison while in the execution of his duty was remanded until next week at the request of his counsel Mr Gordon, who said there were five witnesses whom he wished to call in connection with the case.

Gas Consumers Increase 190

The gas department of the Utilities Commission has 190 domestic consumers more than a year ago, as reported by R. L. Dobbin, utilities manager, at the Commission's meeting yesterday. The October output of gas showed an increase of 713,000 cubic feet.

In the electric department the October peak was 12,100 h. p. as compared with 11,400 in October last year.

Pumpage in the waterworks section was 98,200,000 gallons, and the corresponding total a year ago was 101,300,000 gallons. All fire hydrants were inspected and tested, Mr. Dobbin reported, and necessary repairs made. Other activities of the waterworks division included the laying of 500 feet of 6-inch main on Brioux avenue for North Monaghan. Twelve new services were connected from this main to occupied houses, and to new houses in the city nine service connections were laid. Increases occurred in domestic and commercial lighting, but commercial power was down 9.24 per cent.

Judgment Is Reserved In Damage Suit Brought Against Campbellford Company

COBOURG, Nov. 18 —(ENS)—Judgment was reserved by Mr. Justice Chevrier in Supreme Court yesterday afternoon in connection with the damage action for $2,050 brought by Thomas E. Hall of Oshawa against the Campbellford Cloth Co. The plaintiff rented the old curling rink of Campbellford to the Cloth Company with the stipulation that the lessee was responsible for any damage to the property other than ordinary wear and tear or damage by fire. Last February the roof fell in and plaintiff alleged that the defendant was responsible due to the fact that he had failed to shovel snow off the roof after the heaviest season's snowfall in many years. Defendant contended that the building was faulty in construction and produced evidence purporting to support that allegation. The case occupied two days of court. Wednesday was devoted to address by counsel and citations of various cases.

DUNNVILLE, Ont., Nov. 18 (CP)—R.C.A.F. officials at No. 6 Service Flying Training School here today announced that PO. S. Bruce Schatz of Hamilton, Ont., and LAC. S. M. Moore of New Glasgow, N.S., were the occupants of a Harvard Trainer which crashed in Burleigh township, 35 miles north of Peterborough, yesterday. Both fliers were killed.

PO. Schatz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Schatz, was an instructor at the school here. He was married in September.

Students Honor Rev. G. A. Wolff

The pupils of St. Peter's High School and Separate School assembled on Wednesday morning to bid farewell to Rev. Father G. A. Wolff, who for the past three years has been closely associated with them in all sports. A short program of songs and choral recitations was concluded by a tribute in verse delivered by Maureen Hickey. This tribute, in printed form, and enclosed in a cover of garnet and gold (the school colors) was presented by Mary Crowley to Father Wolff as a souvenir. Miss Marion Downer was accompanist for the singing.

A presentation of books, a gift from the High School pupils, was made by Harold Begley, Harold Legrow, and Peter Roche. James Fitzpatrick gave Father Wolff a number of articles in leather, as a gift from the Separate School boys.

Father Wolff addressed the gathering and briefly explained to the students how closely sports are related to character building. He asked the children to continue their love of good clean sport, and told of the pleasure it had been for him to be associated with St. Peter's pupils during his stay in Peterborough, concluding his address with words of thanks.

Welfare League Gives $100 To War Victims

The members of the Junior Welfare League choose very wisely and well in selecting a name for their organization, for it has a meaning which itself is an inspiration for them to live up to, and just how they have done so has been evidenced by the splendid assistance they have given to a number of different efforts as an assist to the war.

To the writers own knowledge, this group of very loyal lady workers have each year at this season for the past three years held a major effort which has been most successful indeed in raising money, and the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund has benefitted quite substantially on each and every occasion, in addition to which, other funds have also benefitted as a result of their endeavours.

By securing donations of almost everything imaginable in the line of house furnishings and wearing apparel, this group has turned to useful account many articles which were lying dormant in many homes, and the money that was thus raised has, and is being used to much useful purpose in the war effort.

Today the fund records a contribution of $100.00 from their latest effort held a short while ago, through their treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Eastwood, and would pay a well deserved tribute to all the members of this organization and their president, Mrs. D. McTavish.

Class Helps Christmas Fund

All Christian bodies and their Sunday Schools have a particular interest in the celebrations marking the Advent of the Saviour, for their whole teaching evolves around this great event, so it is most fitting that they should be in the forefront in carrying help to those of the human race who have been stricken through the war, at this particular season.

Last Saturday the stall on the market was supplied and operated by the Honor Bound Class of George Street United church under the leadership of their teacher, Mrs. E. S. Kingdon, their effort being particularly on behalf of the Christmas Cheer fund for boys and girls in Britain who have lost their homes.

In this, the teacher had the assistance of Shirley Sisson, Dorothy Lowther and Eleanor Bird throughout the morning, while various other members of the class gave occasional help, from all of which the sum of $10.00 was raised, it also appearing in today's list.

Next Saturday it is expected that the stall will be operated by Mrs. John E. Parker of Norwood, and the Frazerville Community Service Club with Mrs. McClenaghan as convener have booked the following week, with Mrs. Rufus Payne to follow on the first Saturday in December.

Sgt. Gnr. Wood Killed In Raid Over Germany

Mrs. S. F. Touchburn, who was a resident of Peterborough for forty years, has received word that her nephew, Sgt. Gnr. Ernest Wood, was killed recently in a raid on Germany.

He enlisted in Orillia 27 months ago and for the past year he has been taking part in most of the big raids, being the only Canadian in the R.A.F. crew of a Liberator bomber. Sgt. Wood has been expecting to get a leave that would enable him to be back in Canada for Christmas.

There are six cousins overseas, four sons of Ambrose Wood, Orillia, Stoker William Staunton of Peterborough and Sqdn. Ldr. Archer of Campbellford. Miss A. M. Staunton, 494 Aylmer street, is also an aunt.

C.M.A. Suggests Amendments To Collective Bargaining

MONTREAL, Nov. 18.—(CP). —Proposed incorporation of the cost-of-living bonus into post-war basic labor wage rates brought a statement yesterday from the executive council of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association meeting here to discuss post-war production and employment.

W. C. Coulter, of Toronto, chairman of the industrial relations committee, suggested that before any order-in-council or regulation resulting from the recent Dominion-provincial conference be adopted the association be given an opportunity of making representations.

A C.M.A. statement added that the industrial relations committee 'hold that the proposed incorporation of the present bonus into the basic wage rate would make its removal, when this becomes justified, a very difficult matter, constituting a reduction wages rather than a removal of an emergency premium. The incorporation of the bonus in the basic wage rate would cut across wage schedules in existing collective labor agreements, being in effect a raise in basic rates brought about by Government action and not by collective agreements. If the proposal is to incorporate the present bonus with the basic wage rate and then continue this system, this would be especially unfair and conducive to labor unrest. The position of the employers paying the full cost-of-living bonus as compared to those paying a lesser amount should be given consideration."

The committee suggested the following amendments to the Ontario Collective Bargaining Act:

1. That when certification of a collective bargaining agency has been refused by the court, a time limit of one year must elapse before a second application may be made by the same agency.

2. That there should be an appeal from the decision of the labor court to the Ontario Court of Appeal on questionsof jurisdiction and law.

3. That there should be an amendment to provide that financial statements of trade unions should be filed at the office of the provincial secretary and made accessible to the public.

Sporadic Strikes In Great Britain Greatly Harass War Industries

By BLAKE SULLIVAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP).—Sporadic strikes have broken out within recent weeks in Britain, most of them local in character and in most cases lacking union backing.

In the case of a Vickers-Armstrong armament workers' strike at Barrow-in-Furness, the strikers criticized the Amalgamated Engineering Union bitterly, accusing it of "dilatoriness" in handling their grievance over the company's and a government arbitration board's interpretation of a wage agreement.

War weariness and uncertainty over conditions in the post-war world are contributory causes.

Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express in a front-page article charged "Trotskyites and anti-war agitators" with stirring up labor unrest where signs of war weariness appear. These men, the Express said, seek grievances and send agitators to the scene to urge strike action.

The Sunday newspaper The People declared "Some of thes strikes have been fanned by highly paid agitators who want to undermine the prestige of trade unions."

Probe Rumors.

These charges have become persistent. The Ministry of Labor has launched a quiet investigation.

The Express said: "It is proposed that special penalties shall be provided to deal with any person who by action or speech, either in public or by way of advice, helps to start or continue a strike if he has not worked a specific time in the factory or mine concerned."

In the first seven months of this year, the Ministry of Labor said, working days lost through strikes totalled 681,000. In the same period last year the total was 914,000. Although official statistics haven't brought these figures up to date, the Nottinghamshire coal strikes and Vickers-Armstrong strike will probably send the 1943 figure over last year's.

The Daily Herald, Labor Party publication, scoffed at the idea strikers are stabbing fighting men in the back.

"War weariness," said the Herald, "is a prime cause of hasty and misguided action. War weariness of the people who have been working at top pitch — at tasks which are often sheer drudgery — is something beyond the comprehension of many of their political and journalistic accusers."

The Herald also suggested that the tremendous wartime increase of duties on employers and trade union officials has delayed settlement of complaints.

The Daily Herald suggested the best insurance against future strikes would be a clear - cut government declaration of proposals safeguarding the rights of labor in the post-war years.

Catholic Pupils To Get Milk

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Distribution of milk to 20,000 pupils in Montreal Catholic School Commission buildings will be continued, it was annnounced to-day after a meeting of school officials with officers and the Quebec Dairy Commission and Prices Board officials.

It was announced yesterday that the dairy which had contracted for distribution of the milk to 30 schools had been ordered to take over a government contract and was unable to supply the schools as a result.

To-day's announcement said merely that the distribution would be continued.

Dr. Vivian Tells Of Health Survey In Address To Hamilton Academy

HAMILTON, Nov. 18—Details of a Province-wide survey of general hospital accommodation at present being undertaken by the Ontario Department of Health with a view to determining the needs of various areas and increasing accommodation if necessary were outlined here last night by Dr. R. P. Vivian, Minister of Health, in an address to members of the Hamilton Academy of Medicine.

"When our survey is completed," Dr. Vivian told the assembled doctors, "the needs and requirements of this community will be made known, and plans will be forthcoming for the best method of dealing with the situation.

Dr. Vivian said that, in any proposed increase of hospital bed accommodation in Ontario, the communities will probably desire to share. "Our hospitals represent one of the outward and visible signs of our feeling for the well-being of the community as a whole. They are frequently a symbol of pride in the civic conscience of the community. In this regard I know Hamilton will take second place to no one."

Dr. Vivian regards the general practitioner as the "connecting link" between any program of public health and the program for treatment of the individual. "His relation to the family must be safeguarded and maintained," he continued, explaining that the doctor's close contact with the family can be the most successful agent for the carrying out of an immunization program and certain preventive services.

"The general practitioner at present is aided in his practice by the laboratory services of the Department of Health, and by their furnishing him certain vaccines and biological preparations, but in the plans for this increased public health system he should be adequately remunerated from the Province for these procedures of a public health nature that he undertakes not only for his patients, but for the community as a whole. Without the services of well trained and competent general practitioners any system of public health will fail. His well-being is therefore one of the prime considerations in the Government's undertaking to revise and improve medical care for people of Ontario."

400,000 Reds Face Germans

LONDON, Nov. 18 — (CP). — The Berlin radio said to-day 25 Russian divisions and large tank forces, perhaps 400,000 men in all, were attacking with strong artillery support on both sides of the Smolensk-Orsha highway in Northern Russia.

To-day's German communique said the Russians had "dented" the Nazi lines north-east of Kerch in the Crimea south-west of Dnepropetrovsk and north of Krivoi Rog in the Dnieper Bend; and south-west of Gomel. The Germans claimed Nazi counter-attacks had made "good headway" near Zhitomir and that numerous prisoners and arms were captured on an island in the Dnieper near Zaporozhe.

Mosher Protests Closing Trenton Plant

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP).—A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, to-day wrote Prime Minister Mackenzie King protesting "most emphatically" on behalf of the C.C.L. against closing of the rolling mill and nut and bolt plant at Trenton, N.S., and the reported transfer of the operations and machinery to Montreal.

The rolling mill and nut and bolt plant are owned by Trenton Steel Works Ltd., subsidiary of Dominion Steel and Coal Corp.

Mr. Mosher's letter, referring to the transfer to Montreal, said:

"This evidence of the company's willingness to take advantage of low wage levels in the province of Quebec is likely to have serious repercussions in both provinces.

"At the very least the government is urged to instruct the company to carry on operations as in the past until there has been an investigation of the whole matter by representatives of the Dominion or Nova Scotia governments or both.

Power Plants Ordered Reduce Charges

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 — (CP)—Six Quebec electrical companies were summoned to-day to appear before the Quebec Public Service Board here November 24 to show reasons why electricity rates should not be reduced provisionally by one-half for the last four months of the year.

Companies summoned to appear were Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated, Shawinigan Water and Power Company, Southern Canada Power Company, Quebec Power Company, Gatineau Power Company, and Saguenay Power Company.

The notice said the companies were to appear November 24 to make representations to show why the board should not order the proposed reduction. Otherwise, the summons said, an order will be issued putting the temporary reductions into effect.

Montreal Light, Heat and Power already has a submission before the board, with a hearing scheduled for next week, to show why its capital assessment chargeable against electricity rates should not be reduced.

Russian Paper Lauds Americans

MOSCOW, Nov. 18 (AP).—The Communist party newspaper Pravda, in an editorial on the 10th anniversary of the beginning of diplomatic relations between the Soviet Union and the United States, pointed today to increasingly friendly relations between the nations, and gave warm praise for American aid during the war.

"The Soviet Union appreciates very much the moral and material the United States since the beginning of the invasion by Germany," ning of the invasion by German," the editorial said. "It is known that during the war our country on the basis of the lend-lease agreement has received a big amount of arms, war material and food. The good will of the American government and of the American people has been invested in these supplies."

Pravda then gave credit to President Roosevelt for helping to eliminate much of the misunderstanding of the Soviet Union.

Pravda, as did the government newspaper Izvestia yesterday, asserted that the end of the war would be hastened when Russia's allies fully concentrate their forces against Germany, in other words when a "second front" in the west is opened.

22-Year-Old Case Again Before Judge

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 —(CP). — Judge Tetreau, who 22 years ago succeeded as defence attorney in having a woman client adjudged mentally incapable of undergoing trial for manslaughter, will preside from the bench today at her preliminary hearing on the old count.

The woman, Marie Anne Harvey, who had been arraigned following the death of her newborn child, was committed to a mental hospital in 1921 and recently was released as cured. Tuesday, Judge Tetreau presided at her re-arraignment and ordered preliminary hearing.

New Wage Rate Irks Company

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP). — The Aluminum Co. of Canada today appealed to the National War Labor Board against a decision of the Quebec War Labor Board granting wage increases to employees in a number of occupations at the company's La Tuque, Que., plant.

The appeal was opposed by the International Union of Aluminum Workers (A.F. of L.) and the National Catholic Syndicate of Aluminum Workers.

The company argued the new wage structure at La Tuque puts the rates out of line with those paid in other plants, particularly at Arvida, Que., where—because of living conditions and other circumstances—the company considered higher rates justifiable. Adoption of the new wage schedule at La Tuque would probably result in new demands for a general up-grading of rates in all the company in Ontario and Quebec plants, the company said in its brief.

The syndicate in its reply said wage rates at Arvida are low and that increases granted at La Tuque are justified. While the La Tuque potmen were not required to care for as many pots as those at Arvida, working conditions were less favorable.

Canada To Give Dairy Products

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Canada is expected to supply dairy products and possibly some clothing and live stock as its contribution to the $2,500,000,000 United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation program outlined in Atlantic City last night by a U.N.R.R.A. spokesman.

The first breakdown of the probable cost shows that Canada likely will be asked to contribute $90,000,000. It is expected contributions will be made either in cash or in kind and Canada probaby will be among those nations supplying the commodities.

It has been suggested here that the Dominion's contributions would be mostly in foodstuffs, such as butter, cheese, eggs, condensed milk and concentrated and dehydrated foods. Some clothing also might be sent to liberated countries and also livestock to replenish the dwindling herds of Europe.

CALLANDER, Ont. Nov. 18 (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Olive Dionne and their 12 children—including the quintuplets—soon will move into their new $50,000 home which is almost ready for occupancy.

Final touches now are being given to the new 19-room home located only a few steps from the six-room farmhouse in which Mrs. Dionne gave birth to the five little girls. In addition to its 19 rooms, the new home has nine bathrooms, a large playroom and a two-car garage.

The five: Marie, Cecile, Annette, Yvonne and Emilie, have watched for some months now from their nursery the construction of a home where they will be with their parents.

It is expected the family will move in on or before the week-end.

HOSPITAL SETTING FOR ROMANCE OVERSEAS — Phyllis Charlton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Charlton of Lakefield, was recently married overseas to Lieut. Colin Gordon Stanley Maxwell of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders attached to the Commandos, who is the son of Mrs. S. Gordon Maxwell and the late Mr. Maxwell, the Chase, Clapham Common, England.

Lakefield Nurse Is Wed To Army Officer Overseas

It could have happened in a best seller love story with romance climaxing the meeting of a pretty nurse and a patient in the hospital, but instead it happened in real life to Miss Phyllis Alvina Charlton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Charlton of Lakefield, who is attached to a medical unit overseas.

While the groom, Lieut. Colin Gordon Stanley Maxwell of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, attached to the Commandos, was in a convalescent hospital, he met Miss Charlton, who was nursing there. A romance developed and resulted in their wedding at Holy Trinity church, Clapham Common.

Wearing a Dutch blue dress with matching jacket, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses, the bride was attended by Miss Betty Webster, from her unit, who wore a nigger brown ensemble with a spray of red carnations.

The best man was Mr. Maurice Leslie Ringrose and the bride was given away by Dr. Hewson Kellum. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. C. Brundritt (curate).

The reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother, and the honeymoon was spent at Holmewood St. Mary.

Lieut. Maxwell is the son of Mrs. S. Gordon Maxwell and the late Mr. Maxwell, the latter having been a retired naval officer and author. The bride is a graduate of the Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto and has a brother, Sgt. Irwin J. Charlton, overseas with the 4th anti tank unit. He was unable to be present for the wedding.

Tea and Bazaar Is Held By Ladies St. Paul's Church

The main attraction Wednesday afternoon at the tea and bazaar sponsored by the Friendly Group of the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's church was the large tea table, covered with a lace cloth, set with silver, decorated with yellow candles in silver holders, and centred by a lovely bouquet of bronze 'mums. It was placed in the centre of the Sunday School room and smaller tables were set around the central table. The ladies were served by a committee of ladies under Mrs. F. Board and Mrs. George Coleman, Sr., who were in charge of the tea tables. Mrs. R. Fortye and Mrs. A. Mahood poured.

As the guests entered they were received by Mrs. J. D. Smart, Mrs. A. A. MacIntyre, and Mrs. George Coleman, Jr., and Mrs. J. A. Smith was treasurer.

The booths were set in the alcoves of the Sunday School and contained a wide variety of goods. Aprons, fancy-work, knitting, novelties, home-cooking, plants, and even a country store and a fishpond were to be seen.

The home-cooking booth was in charge of Mrs. Annie Rudd, Mrs. D. MacIver, and Mrs. J. H. Rosenburgh; Mrs. F. Fry, Mrs S. Lockington, and Miss Maude Finnie were the committee for the country store; the novelty committee consisted of Mrs. R. Ross, and Mrs. William Moorhead; the knitting booth was in charge of Mrs. T. Smith and Mrs. A. Strong; aprons were under the supervision of Mrs. A. Power and Miss A. E. Ingram; and Miss E. J. Allen had charge of the fancy-work.

Social conveners for the tea were Mrs. William McBride and Mrs. S. Meiklejohn, and the following ladies were serving the small tea tables; Mrs. Allen McConkey, Mrs. S. Gilgour, Mrs. E. Howson, Mrs P. Coleman Mrs. D. O. Lavis, Mrs. A. Mahood, Mrs. Peel, Mrs. Jones and Miss D. Black.

Approximately 250 ladies attended the tea, and the booths were busy all afternoon. The committees in charge of the arranging and planning for this tea and bazaar were rewarded by seeing their efforts praised and admired by all who were present at the tea.

Bazaar, Tea Held In Aid Of Grenfell Mission

Finely hooked rugs of every size and description were an important part of the tea and bazaar held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. R. Morris the president, and Mrs. G. R. Langley received the guests, and Mrs. F. M. Somerville was treasurer for the afternoon.

Four tables were on display, each in charge of a committee. The home-cooking table committee was Miss Abbie Robinson, and Mrs. C. E. LaBranche. Miss Linda Hall, Mrs. B. D. Hall and Miss Wildelmina Ross supervised the handicraft table, and Mrs. D. V. Canning was in charge of the card display and Miss Walsh, of the notepaper display.

Smart knitted gloves and mitts, attractively trimmed, were on sale at the handiwork table, and lovely Christmas cards and stationery as well as delicious home baked cookies and cakes were also sold. Beautiful hooked rugs were on display everywhere, and ranged in size from small mats to rugs large enough to use in front of a door, or as scatter rugs. Various designs were used, and mountain scenes, sea gulls, ducks and penguins, as well as scenes depicting a little of life in Labrador, were represented. One particularly striking design was composed of three white gulls flying against a blue background, with the white waves of the ocean beneath. Another attractive and popular design consisted of 3 penguins, standing in a row, their white breasts contrasting sharply with their black wings and red beaks. The design of the largest rug on display was a map of Newfoundland, complete with compass bearing in the corner, and small whales spouting water and miniature ships drawn in the ocean. In fact, it appeared to be an exact replica of an old-fashioned map. The island and the part of the mainland which was shown were done in brown, with a fine black edge, and the water was naturally blue thus making an extremely striking and attractive rug.

At the tea table, Mrs. S. D. Carver poured, assisted by Mrs. Rowland, Mrs. J. D. Collins, and Mrs. E. H. Howson, who served dainty sandwiches and cakes to the guests.

During the afternoon draws were conducted. One draw, for a bathmat, was won by Mrs. D. V. Canning. Another, or a rug, was won by Miss Lois Stewart, and Mrs. Collings was the lucky winner of a cake. Miss Daisy Walker held the ticket which entitled her to a lovely rug.

An unusually large number of ladies attended this tea, and the proceeds, which will amount to a considerable sum, will be used to assist the work of the Grenfell Mission.

Pumpkin Pie Still Remains Canada's National Dish

By MARY MOORE.

NOVEMBER PIES: Was I taking an oblique crack at pies at one time?

Well, I still am dead set against them for youngsters, but for adults they take the cake, (and put it in second place).

Mr. McAree of the Globe and Mail started something when he probed around among Canadians to find Canada's national dish. I thought all along that it was either beef and kidney pot pie or pea soup—but now I've decided it is pumpkin pie; so for me it is pumpkin pie you can call it apple pie, or strawberry shortcake if you like—but reserve your decision until you have tasted

Emem's Pumpkin Pie.

For a deep 9-inch pie you will need 2 cups strained pumpkin, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs, beaten, ½ cup sugar (plus 1 tablespoon molasses—but this is optional), ¼ teaspoon each cinnamon, ginger, and salt, 1 tablespoon flour. (Many of you may think the flour superfluous—but it keeps the crust from "soaking.") Beat eggs and add sugar to them. Mix together the flour, salt and spices, then mix together all ingredients well. Pour into a pastry-lined pie plate—now comes a trick—pour over top of pie 2 or 3 tablespoons of milk or cream. This does not mix with the filling, but when pie bakes it forms a skin over it and browns nicely—and has a professional air. Bake at 450 degrees Fahr. on lowesh shelf in the oven (to bake bottom crust fast)—Then lower heat to 325 degrees Fahr. for about 30 minutes to set custard and finish baking. Serve pie cold with unsweetened whipped cream (this can be had from either two-day-old 18 per cent cream or cream from tops of 2 bottles Jersey milk)—in centre of the pile of whipped cream place 1 teaspoon of clover honey. (Does reading this convince you — or even persuade you to try it?)

Jelly Pie.

I hunted up this recipe for a lady who wrote to me saying she had plenty jam and jelly from pre-rationing days and would like to know ways of using sugar in them to sweeten her present desserts and conserve her rationed sugar. This is an old-fashioned recipe, but you'll like it and use it again—jam may be used in place of jelly.

Three tablespoons flour, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 cup jelly (preferably red currant or grape or crabapple), 2 beaten eggs, 1 baked pie shell. Mix and sift the flour and sugar together, then add the butter. Mix the jelly with 1 cup warm water and add it to the flour-sugar mix. Stir the mixture into the beaten eggs, then pour all into baked pie shell. Bake in moderate oven of 350 degrees Fahr. for 15 minutes to "set" filling. This is good served with Baumert cheese.

Cranberry Pie (sometimes called Mock Cherry.)

Two cups cranberries coarsely chopped — through coarse knife of food chopper will do—1 cup seedless raisins, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, plain pastry, 1 tablespoon fat. Combine cranberries and raisins. Add flour, sugar, and salt. Line a pie with plain pastry and fill with mixture. Dot with fat. Moisten edge of the pastry, and cover with a top crust, sealing edges very well. Prick top to let steam escape. Bake at 450 degrees Fahr for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 to bake 30 minutes more. Good with cheese, of course, and ice-cream if to be served at a meatless meal.

Mince Pie Mincemeat (1943 Style).

Two lbs. lean beef (this may be omitted if preferred), 1 lb. chopped suet, 4 lbs. tart apples, 4 cups sugar (some molasses may be used to replace sugar if desired), 3 lbs. of currants, 2 lbs. raisins, 1 nutmeg, freshly grated, ½ teaspoon ground mace, 2 oranges, 2 lemons, ½ lb. chopped citron peel (chopped mixed peel may be used to replace all citron), 1 tablespoon salt. Stew the beef in as little water as possible until it is quite tender. Cool and grind fine. Add suet which should be chopped by knife fine, and the apples pared, cored and chopped by knife (not ground), sugar (or molasses if some is used), currants, raisins, spice, orange and lemon juice and grated rind, citron, and salt. Mix well and cook over low heat 1 hour — stirring very frequently as there are ingredients in this mix that will scorch very readily. Pack in sterile jars and seal immediately and store in cool place.

NOTE. — Mincemeat containing meat will not keep if kept in covered crock as mincemeat sometimes is stored—meat mincemeat must be sealed in sterile jars.

To Assemble Pie — Use 2 crusts, the other preferably rich or puff paste. Fill undercrust evenly full of mincemeat—2 to 2¼ cups—put on top crust which should be incised to allow steam to escape, bake in very hot oven of 450 degrees Fahr. for 10 minutes, 30 minutes at 350. "Blazing" mince pie has lattice top, with brandy poured over and lighted just before serving — the traditional method for Christmas.

Emems Applesauce Deluxe Pie (One Crust).

This is for those people that think 2-crust pies are too hearty a dessert.

AS SLINKY AS POSSIBLE—The fabric is black rayon jersey, not draped for a change but slinking to a fine fit. The paillettes are huge and many colored; the matching scarf can be worn over hair or shoulders. After two seasons when we wanted evening clothes as dimmed out as possible, the tide has turned and in favor of drama. Ask the next woman (or her debutante daughter) whom you see formal gown shopping to tell you her heart's desire... she will answer: "Something slinky, and black, I guess." This rayon jersey is as slinky as possible, its fuid lines highlighted skillfully with large multi-colored spangles. Notice how the embroidery gives a new slimness to the waist; observe the very new, tiny sleeves.

THE SLOPES ARE READYING—This visored cap and gauntlet mittens are of cotton poplin treated to be water repellent; they are also windproof and they weigh practically nothing. Although there is a practically classic outfit which is the only correct one for skiers, it offers considerable leeway to individual taste, and unlike the ritual riding costume, for instance, doesn't cost extravagant prices. Here is an inexpensive and water repellent cap and mitten ensemble made of cotton poplin, just the featherweight, protective gear for slope enthusiasts. The set is practically spot proof, lesser grime being easily removed by a damp, soapy cloth.

Line pie plate with rich plain paste (see below) and fill with applesauce filling: 2 cups sweetened applesauce, 1 beaten egg, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, ½ cup cracker crumbs. The applesauce has to be sweet enough to sweeten the lemon juice. Bake, standing pie on lowest shelf for 10 minutes at 450 degrees Fahr., then raise to centre of oven at 350 degrees Fahr for 20 minutes. Cover with meringue made by beating 2 egg whites with 6 tablespoons sugar until it will stand in peaks, flavor with ½ teaspoon vanilla, and bake meringue until golden at 275 degrees Fahr. A nice variation is to grate cheese over the apple filling before meringue is put on.

Rich, Plain Paste.

This method is for folks who have been having difficulty with their paste lately. One and one-half cups pastry flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, 4 tablespoons buttermilk, ½ teaspoon of soda. Mix flour, salt, soda, and work in shortening with pastry blender or finger tips. Add just enough buttermilk to make pastry hold together. Roll out in rectangle and spread with butter, fold into 8 layers, roll out and spread with soft butter. Roll out and use as top crust. It may be used as bottom crusts before the rolling.

I have good squash, sweet potato, pear, cherry, raisin, and other seasonable pies, for any readers who request them.

Cordell Hull Returns As Hero

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP).— In the somewhat unfamilar role of a hero, Cordell Hull goes back today to address a Congress which he left 10 years ago to become the United States Secretary of State.

At the invitation of Speaker Sam Rayburn and senate majority Leader Alben Barkley, Hull will give a first hand account of the Anglo-American-Russian talks, to a joint informal session at 12.30 p.m. E.D.T. his speech will be broadcast.

Members of congress said the clamor for special tickets to the House galleries was as great as any they had experienced, including, that for Prime Minister Churchills visit.

Hull was expected to repeat his expressions of optimism that the many grave problems facing the world could be solved through international collaboration.

The 72-year-old Secretary already has said that the only alternative to an effective world peace organization is the old order with each country fending for itself, leaving no barriers in path of aggressors.

Britain, the United States, Russian and China subscribed in the Moscow declaration to the formulation of a general world organization to maintain security and peace.

Collective Bargaining To Be Compulsory

HALIFAX, Nov. 18 (CP).— Hon. L. D. Currie, Nova Scotia minister of Mines and Labor, said today that collective bargaining in war industries all over Canada will be made compulsory by a federal enactment "in the near future," and provinces which formerly had no collective laws will have them drawn up.

Mr. Currie has just returned from conferences in Ottawa between dominion and provincial labor representatives on compulsory collective bargaining.

Japanese Claim More Victories

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(CP).— The Tokyo radio claimed to-day that 30 Japanese planes yesterday attacked United States shipping off Bougainville in the Solomons, sinking four transports and damaging a freighter and a destroyer.

While returning, the broadcast added, the raiders encountered 100 Allied fighters and shot down six Japanese losses were put at 10 planes.

The Japanese claims were totally without confirmation from Allied sources.

Ben Smith Heads Supply Mission To U.S.

By BARBARA WACE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP)—A new kind of Englishman abroad will be seen soon in Washington. He is neither a Peer nor a wearer of the old school tie. He is just plain Ben Smith, ex-seaman, ex-boxer, ex-taxicab driver who has jumped into a $20,000-a-year job as Chief of the British Supply Mission.

In the office at the Ministry of Aircraft Production where he has worked the last 21 months at $6,000 a year as Parliamentary Under-Secretary, the 64-year-old Socialist with the twinkling eye that belies his years, said he planned "to do all in my power to cement good relations already existing between Britain and the United States.

Grey haired, heavily built, he gives the impression of great physical and mental energy and still does setting-up exercises daily—a habit from days in the Navy.

When he was appointed Parliamentary Secretary, one junior official of the Ministry of Aircraft Production recalled, "they looked for him everywhere to tell him of his appointment—and found him at last—in a Turkish bath."

As a cab driver 40 years ago he became associated with the Trade Union movement which led him into politics, making him at one and the same time the Treasurer to the Royal Household at Buckingham Palace and a member of parliament for one of the poorest districts in London.

About his new job, he said little except that he will make it a success. "I bring to it some knowledge of Aircraft Production in America," he said, "for I was there this summer and went from coast to coast."

Canadian Paratrooper Plunged 700 Feet To Ground, Will Live

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A CANADIAN HOSPITAL IN BRITAIN, Nov. 18—(CP)—From stark, practical experience, William Robson has found the answer to the question of the ages, the thoughts of a man who is about to die.

The paratrooper from Burlington, Ont., had a few mad seconds to think as he plunged earthwards from 700 feet beneath a parachute that had opened only a fraction of its normal spread. And he thought of his mother and his girl friend.

"I tugged and yanked but that chute refused to open beyond a two-foot spread," Robson related from his hospital bed. "I looked down and the ground was absolutely rushing at me.

"Then like a flash, it came over me 'I'm going to die.' I was sure of it. And I remember thinking right after 'What will my mother and my girl think when I get killed?'"

Did Not Faint

The fact Robson didn't die, the fact he didn't even faint when he crushed into the earth—"It felt as though they had stuck me up to my hips in fire"—is considered a reasonable facsimile of a miracle by medical men.

Today he lies in the ward of this overseas hospital, "Very much alive," a joking, good-natured boy of 20, a plaster cast around his body. He will go home soon; he expects to be there by Christmas to see his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Robson and his girl, Pte. Blanche Dent, stationed at Ottawa as a member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

He will take with him a compound fracture of the left leg, a fractured right foot and a fractured spine. But his attending doctor, Capt. H. H. Boucher of Vancouver, says he will recover with the exception of "some permanent disability" in the left leg.

This is hardly a heavy toll for what Robson went through.

As he recalled it, this was the background for his experience:

With a Canadian parachute battalion he was undergoing training in British methods of parachute jumping at a training centre in Northwestern England. The British system differs from the American in several respects.

Did A Somersault

The slipstream hit him and he did a somersault in the air, his left foot catching in the lines as it came around. He kicked it clear and swung down again but the chute did not open beyond two feet.

He remembered roaring toward the ground in somewhat of a circular sweep which put much of the weight of landing on the left foot.

(The British Medical Journal reported that Robson landed on one foot, prevent the shock from travelling up the spine to his skull. The Journal learned of the case from the British hospital to which he was taken.)

Robson had been taught to let himself go the instant he touched the ground. This time he hit with such force he had no command of his actions.

Robson joined the army in 1942 and took basic training at Cornwall, Ont. He trained in Georgia with a parachute battalion and came overseas with them this year.

Feudal Village In Rural Sussex

PETWORTH, ENGLAND, Nov. 18—(CP)—Nestling in the heart of Sussex fields and woodlands, five miles north of here, lies Ebernoe, last survival of the feudal village system in Britain. Inhabitants work and live in much the same way as their medieval ancestors, clinging to the ancient lore and shunning modern innovation.

Ebernoe constitutes the next best thing to the self-supporting village community, which once existed all over England. It has no shops or inns and every house is tucked away from sight. The people live by the land and refuse to be dependent on anyone. They retain their common rights and each man has his measure of land, varying from one to 15 acres.

Some keep a cow or goat, all have their poultry and each makes their own cider and brew their own beer. And they will have nothing to do with daylight saving time.

"We believe in the sun, the soil and nature," said Walter Holden one of the older inhabitants. "The sun is the only thing that can give us the time and agriculture must work in obedience to the sun, not to parliament."

Of Interest to Women

ENHANCING HIGH HEMS — The fabric is black rayon crepe, its only trim besides the red rose sewn to the belt a sawtooth finish of skirt and sleeve hems. Add costume jewelry liberally. The shorter, narrower skirts dictated by fabric limitations offer a pretty challenge to dressmakers, and many of them meet it skillfully. Here a New York design gives flattery and softness to a plain tailored crepe cocktail model by sawtoothing its hemline in an effect which is attractive, whether the dress is quiet or in midstride. The cut-off look which tags many short, tubular dresses is here neatly defeated, and with a simple dressmaker device.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, November 19

Clever thinking and ingenuity with swift grasp of unusual openings for progress and advancement should yield surprising and unforeseen returns. But it will be as well to pursue a policy and stratagem of going it alone, since the endorsement or support of superiors, employers or those in high places may be withheld, although relatives or family elders may be kindly disposed. Also there is a chance for loss of funds or credit, either through bad judgment, unwise outlay or extravagance. Decisive action and thrift should win out.

Those whose birthday it is should be ready to decisively take advantage of a sudden and unforeseen opportunity for advancement and financial gain by the use of clever, shrewd and ingenious thought and action, in which it is advisable the individual effort be brought to bear on strange or extraordinary situations. Family elders or relatives may be kindly disposed even to the extent of bequest or inheritance. Take no injudicious risks and refrain from extravagance or prodigality with funds.

A child born on this day should have exceptional creative talents, backed up by energy, stability of character and industry, winning popularity and success in an exceptional occupation.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

NOT AN ABSOLUTE FORCE

WHEREAS a bid, in either suit or No Trump, of one more than necessary to be legal, is treated as a positive force by practically all expert partners of an opening bidder and by most of them when partners of an over-caller, the same is not true of a single jump made by the first member of the side to bid. Such a call is employed by the finest competitors to mean that you must keep the bidding open to game unless your first response had been on just about the weakest holding which would justify it. In that case, you may logically pass the jump.

North: ♠ 9 8 4 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ Q J 10 5 ♣ K 7 3

West: ♠ 10 7 3 ♥ Q J 9 8 ♦ K 8 4 ♣ Q 9 6

East: ♠ Q J ♥ 10 4 2 ♦ A 9 6 2 ♣ 10 8 4 2

South: ♠ A K 6 5 2 ♥ A K 6 ♦ 7 3 ♣ A J 5

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠

North thought he had a close question to decide after his partner's jump from 1-No Trump to 3-Spades. He toyed with the idea of bidding 3-No Trumps because of his even distribution, the fact that he had two suits stopped and because he reckoned his partner's extra strength, to justify his jump after North's weak action, was probably in hearts. But, with three-card support for the rebid major, he decided to put the game contract into the suit.

Somehow, passing never occurred to him as a third alternative. His partner had made a forcing bid, he considered, and therefore the only question about his own action was what bid he should make. Actually, if his own hand had been any weaker than it was, he would not even have made the 1-No Trump bid opposite the 1-Spade. Even take out the diamond J and he would have favored passing unless he had plenty of eggs for breakfast.

It developed that neither game contract could be made, the suit one against a heart lead or the No Trump against a club lead. With the unsound lead of a diamond from East, 3-No Trumps would have had a chance, but it is unwise to count too much on the enemy.

The moral of this is that, if such a bid is a force, South should not have made it. If it is not quite a force to the particular pair, North should have passed the 3-Spades.

What should be West's plan for the bidding of his hand, after South opens this deal with 1-Diamond?

Gomel's Fate Sealed By New Gains In White Russia

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 19.—(AP).—Russian armies pushed forward to-ward Poland to-day from their newly-captured bases of Korosten and Rechitsa and brought German counter-attacks to a standstill on the lower flank of the great Kiev bulge in the western Ukraine.

Capture of Gomel, White Russian rail centre 25 miles east of Rechitsa, appeared near.

The army newspaper Red Star said German forces which attacked three times in the Korostishev sector, 20 miles east of Russian-held Zhitomir, with superior numbers of troops and tanks, had retreated under a hail of Russian artillery shells. Counter-attacks in the Zhitomir sector also were repulsed. These were the areas where the Red army drew back Wednesday in its first retreat since mounting its summer offensive beyond Belgorod.

(The German communique said Russian attacks were on a reduced scale in the Dnieper bend and claimed German counter - thrusts broke stiff resistance in the Kiev area, turning the Red Army out of a number of localities. The Germans said bitter fighting continued in the Korosten and Rechitsa areas and their Paris radio said the Kiev-Zhitomir railway had been cut by the Nazis).

Red Star said the possession of Korosten and Zhitomir gave the Russians a wedge deep in the German lines with full rail facilities for moving reserves and the supplies.

At Korosten, the Russians were within 60 miles of the Polish fron-

German Losses Terrific In Leros Fight

By MARSLAND GANDEER
Representing the Combined British Press, Distributed by The Canadian Press

AN EASTERN MEDITERRANEAN BASE, Nov. 18 (Delayed) — The German attack on Leros succeeded through sheer audacity.

There has been no more reckless hazard in this war than the dropping of parachutists in broad daylight on a rocky slope in full sight and range of machine-gun nests.

I could see tiny figures sway helplessly on parachutes like Marionettes. I saw parachutists on telegraph lines and in trees. Others lay prone as if injured by the fall or shot during their descent

It was a battle between two forces of highly trained troops, but throughout the Germans conducted their invasion with reckless audacity There is little doubt their actual battle casualties were far heavier than ours.

A Bitter Lesson

The loss of Leros has taught us another bitter lesson in air power.

Although it had become virtually an isolated strongpoint behind the enemy lines, it was decided to attempt to hold it because of its strong natural defences. It is a rocky switchback only 7½ miles long and at its narrowest point barely three quarters of a mile wide.

The dangerous supply routes to Leros, hundreds of miles long, passed close to enemy airfields and were harried continually by the German Air Force. Our ships had their best chance of slipping through at night, but had to endeavor to be under their own fighter umbrella by daylight.

Despite all the difficulties, however, we managed to land British troops on the Island. These were in addition to an Italian garrison consisting of several thousand marines, soldiers and sailors.

All heights dominating the three main bays were commanded by Italian batteries. We made determined efforts, chiefly by using warships as transport, to strengthen the anti-aircraft defences, but up to the time for the invasion we had succeeded in landing only some Bofors and a few heavier guns.

Turk Envoy Returns From Berlin

Istanbul Paper Shows Trend To Allies

By WILLIAM B. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

ANKARA, Nov. 18 — (Delayed). — (AP). — The Turkish ambassador to Berlin returned to confer with his government today on conditions in Germany as the popular Istanbul newspaper Tanin published an editorial which appeared to be a preliminary step to prepare the Turkish people for eventual war against the Axis.

The Turkish diplomat, Saffet Arikan, returned while Franz von Papen German ambassador to Turkey was conferring with Hitler in Germany—presumably about the Allied Moscow conference and European conditions in general.

Tanin, whose editor is a member of the National Assembly, has been maintaining an independent course and its comment therefore could not be considered a government line. Nevertheless importance was attached to its assertion that Turkish foreign minister Numan Menemencioglou's recent talks with Foreign Secretary Eden in Cairo were "obviously not merely informative."

England's Ally

Certain words in the communique issued after Menemencioglu had held a lengthy conference with the Peoples Party parliamentary group early this week on his return from Cairo, "give us the key to the puzzle," the editorial continued.

"The communique," it added, "said that the foreign minisqter had explained Turkey's activity in the light of the necessities of the Turko-British Alliance. Turkey's position now is very definite:

"One—Turkey is England's ally.

"Two — Turkey's relation or friendship with any other power has not modified her understanding with England.

"Three—Turkey is not without sides in the British-German war.

"Four—Turkey always is ready to put into practice her obligations under the alliance."

Then, on the other hand, the editorial said, "the party conference communique, instead of calming public opinion provoked more curiosity than ever. Since morning our telephone has been ringing continuously with people who want to know the nature of the party talks."

Three In One

RAVENNA, Neb., Nov. 19—(AP).—Farmer George Yanda flushed a flock of pheasants at the edge of an alfalfa field. He fired on a double and was amazed to find three dead roosters. "I never saw that third bird," he said. "Must have flown between the two birds I had the bead on when I went for the double."

Yugoslav Army Inflicts Heavy Losses

LONDON, Nov. 19 (AP)—Yugoslav Partisans were battling heavily reinforced German and native forces in widely-scattered areas, scoring successes in Serbia and Hercegovina but falling back before steady enemy pressure in Dalmatia, a communique broadcast by the Yugoslav Liberation Army reported today.

Severe losses were inflicted on the Nazis and Chetniks on the Bosnia-Serbian border near Sjemce, more than 100 enemy dead being counted in fighting which still continues, the bulletin said. Other German attacks were repulsed at Dragovce, near Smederova.

Reinforced German forces on the Dalmatian sector blasted the Partisans out of the towns of Trogir, Malo Ostrovo and Veliki Drvenik in their drive to clear the coastal regions although they were checked in several other thrusts.

Face New Threat

Gen. Josip Broz' (Tito's) Yugoslavs faced a new threat in the northwestern provinces of Slovania and Croatia, where the Germans were reported concentrating large forces around Fiume, Susak, Crkveneca and Kraljevica, with the evident intention of launching a full-dress offensive. One German armored column operating in Western Bosnia, south of Croatia, was scattered after bitter fighting the Yugoslavs said.

Partisan troops, contrary to reports in Tuesday's communique, have not evacuated the Peljasac Peninsula at the southern end of the Dalmatian coast, today's bulletin said. The Yugoslavs abandoned part of the Peninsula but assert they are still firmly entrenched in the remaining portion of the strategic bridgehead.

In Montenegro units of the Italian Aosta battalion brigaded with the Partisans defeated a mixed force of Nedic and Mihailovic Chetniks with heavy losses on Nov. 10, the Yugo-

Aged Petain Turns On Nazi Rulers

Drafts New Decree For Democracy Refuses To Resign

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Nov. 19—(AP).—Marshal Henri Philippe Petain has drafted a new French constitution along democratic lines which the Nazis have prevented him from promulgating, and has renounced Pierre Laval as his successor in a decree also hushed up, it was disclosed today.

The 87-year-old Chief of State's abrupt turn from German domination, which he had previously declared France honor-bound to follow because of the 1940 peace treaty, was revealed in the publication of a speech he was never permitted to deliver.

Petain had named Nazi-collaborationist Laval as his successor on Nov. 17, 1942, and gave him power to make laws and issue decrees after German troops crossed the armistice demarkation line into Vichy French territory.

Faithful Unto Death.

In the unpublished decree directing France back to the democratic constitution of 1875, Petain stated his intention of retaining powers as Chief of State until his death, unless the new constitution he drafted is ratified.

The refusal to broadcast Petain's speech over the Vichy radio and the failure of his decree to appear in the official gazette has created a crisis.

The Marshal, according to a reliable informant, in which this writer has confidence, has sent his resignation to the Cabinet.

Laval and his advisors continued today their efforts to change his mind, and although the result cannot be foreseen, Petain at least has thrown down the challenge.

The text of the address he had prepared for delivery was published in the Swiss Journal de Geneve today.

The Journal said that authorization for broadcast of the speech "had been refused by the Fuehrer's general headquarters."

The newspaper said Petain's speech promulgated a constitution as authorized by the July, 1940, assembly, the last democratically-elected representatives the country had.

Winch Accuses Newspaper Of Distortion

VANCOUVER, Nov. 19 — (CP). —Harold Winch, British Columbia C.C.F. Leader, last night accused Canadian newspapers of distorting his statements and claimed they had been guilty of "deliberate misrepresentation." Mr. Winch spoke at a public meeting on statements made by him in a Prairie tour last week.

Previously, at Regina November 12, Mr. Winch had stated that a question and answer regarding his party's policy on the use of police and military force in the event of a C.C.F. regime, had not been accurately reported following a Calgary meeting November 9. Later in Moose Jaw he asserted 'capitalist newspapers" were using underhand methods to misinterpret his words.

Mr. Winch said last night he was not retracting anything he said in the Calgary address, but: "I am denying certain distortions, inferences and implications placed upon what I did say. I didn't say a thing C.C.F. leaders haven't been saying for 11 years."

He claimed that what he said was turned into a "national sensation" because it was now realized the C.C.F. was a threat to capitalism and "there is a war on" between capitalism and socialism.

Words Taken Out of Sentences.

He said newspapers in reporting his Calgary speech did not "lie in the main," but took words out of sentences and did not state that certain statements were made in reply to questions.

He said he was not abusing the press but wanted to show its power. In illustration he cited an editorial in a Vancouver paper (Province) which he said quoted him as saying a C.C.F. government would not pay any interest on stocks and bonds. What he had said, he asserted, was that in the transitional period between capitalism and socialism interest would be paid on stocks and bonds and resultantly no unearned money would be paid as interest. He asserted that in this instance, by the giving of only one part of his statement, a basis was formed for editorials all cross Canada warning people to "steer clear of the C.C.F." because it would not pay interest on Victory Bonds.

Revolt In Canada

Mr. Winch said a Calgary (Herald) editorial had attributed to him a statement that it was time for a revolt in Canada. Numerous editorials had appeared subsequently giving the impression he would lead Canada into a civil war. He contended he had said that world economy is constantly changing, and if this was not brought about peacefully by parliament then it would come forcibly by revolt. The C.C.F.

Record Size Aerial Armada All Heavy Bombers Raid Berlin, Ludwigshafen

2,500 Tons Of Bombs, Including Blockbusters Start Many Great Fires 32 Bombers Lost, 7 Of Them Canadian

By ROBERT STURDEVANT—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 19—(AP).—Great two and four-ton blockbusters rained on Berlin and Ludwigshafen last night from the largest R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. heavy bomber force—possibly 1,000 planes—ever sent over Germany.

Several hours later American heavy bombers sent the terrific pounding of the enemy into its third straight day with attacks on western Germany.

The record-breaking Anglo-Canadian force of four-engined bombers is believed to have dropped 2,500 tons of bombs on the German capital and the Rhineland chemical city, with a slightly larger portion of the force giving Berlin its first major raid in two months.

At least six R.C.A.F. squadrons participated—the heaviest force ever sent out by the Canadian bomber group—with two Lancaster formations blasting Berlin and four Halifax squadrons raiding Ludwigshafen.

The Canadian force was authoritatively described as much larger than that sent against Duesseldorf on the night of November 3. The four-engined bombers carried the group's largest weight of bombs to date on that night and undoubtedly last night's effort created a new record. Besides the Canadians manning these planes there were also many flying in R.A.F. squadrons.

While during one week-end of 1942 the bomber command sent out three armadas of 1,000 bombers or more each, they were not all giant four-engined planes. Last night's twin, devastating blows were delivered exclusively by heavy bombers.

Losses in the twin raid were 32 aircraft, of which seven were Canadian.

Incendiary bombs and high explosives dumped on the German capital started large fires that lit up the skies, although cloud formations prevented immediate observation of the first heavy raid since Sept. 3.

The exact number of bombers participating in the tremendous dual blow was not made known, but between 700 and 800 heavy bombers participated in some of the raids that levelled Hamburg and the Air Ministry announcement said last night's total topped all previous assaults.

The announcement indicated that the main strength of the night formations struck Berlin with "a great weight of high explosives and incendiary bombs," lighting up the sky "by the reflection of large fires."

Reports reaching Stockholm said the Berlin attacked had been directly chiefly against the city's outskirts, where the bulk of the capital's great industries are located.

Since the last raid on the city the R.A.F.'s record bombing concentration has been raised from 50 tons a minute to 74, greatly increasing the chance for an effective knockout campaign against the capital should the Allied command decide to erase that most important objective in Europe.

Last night's 62nd blow at Ludwigshafen, which also produces U-boat parts tanks and other war essentials, almost certainly marks that city as being high on the Allied list of targets to be elminated.

Almost Finished

Ludwigshafen's twin manufacturing city of Mannheim, which lies across the Rhine, was reported from Germany this week to have been 80 per cent knocked out.

The great I. G. Farben Chemical Works stretches for three miles along the banks of the Rhine, and in addition to turning out explosives it is also engaged in the chemical research industry, possibly in a study of the "secret weapons" the Nazis are seeking to turn the Allied tide of victories.

Mosley Furore Grows Across Britain

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 19—(CP Cable) —Police today broke up a crowd of warworkers who marched from Charing Cross Station down Whitehall to protest the government's decision to release Sir Oswald Mosley, founder of the British Union of Fascists, from more than three years of internment in Holloway prison.

Reports indicated a nation-wide storm of resentment against the decision is mounting.

Police blocked the entrance to 10 Downing street as some 200 delegates from a suburban aircraft factory sought to gain entrance to Prime Minister's residence.

Crowds queued up in cold weather outside the Home Office for permission to present resolutions of complain to Home Secretary Herbert Morrison.

Want Him Hanged

Four hundred undergraduates of Glasgow University, representing all student political societies, sent a telegram to the Home Office urging it to "put Mosley back."

Refused permission to see Mr. Morrison, a London crowd marched to a spot back of Trafalgar Square where speakers who said they represented 40,000 war workers drew cheers when they cried:

"If Mosley has got to die, let him die on the gallows."

Speakers reminded the crowd: "Hitler once was thrown into prison but came out again to plunge the world into war. That must not happen with Mosley in England."

A mass meeting has been called for tomorrow in London.

Mosley, ailing in the prison apartment where he tends his own vegetable garden and gets special food and medical attention, has become the subject of the biggest furore yet created over his bizarre political turncoating.

The Government's decision to release the one-time leader of the British Union of Fascists, and Lady Mosley, whom he married in Munich with Hitler and Goebbels in attend-

Turks To Strike At 12th Hour

By PAUL KERN LEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP). — Turkey, indicating she is ready to use against the Axis the power which the Allies have helped her to amass, apparently has cast aside the long-held fear of German bombers from the Dodecanese Islands.

The timing of the news is significant. It comes when Allied prospects in the dangerous Dodecanese are darkest. It must mean that Allied might in that area, plus the aid of Turkey, is sufficient to quickly overcome the German gains.

The Turks have permitted it to be said from Ankara that they are moving toward war against the Axis and already are aiding the Allies much as the United States did Britain before entering the war. Time was when such a statement could have brought the Nazi bombs down in a matter of hours. Now, despite surface appearances, the Turks must no longe be worried or they could not afford to be so forthright. They must believe the war is to enter a decisive, victorious phase within foreseeable time.

An Allied diplomatic source told me last spring that Turkey probably would come into the war as near the 12th hour as possible, but that if she came in at 12:01 it wouldn't do her much good.

The Turks are as well aware of that as anyone. Their timing has been perfect thus far. Hence the news from Ankara is all the more significant. The Turks don't intend to be left out on a limb.

Need For Planes Has Not Diminished

MONCTON, N.B., Nov. 19 (CP). —Here are predictions of Munitions Minister Howe for Canada's 1944 war production, made in an address prepared for delivery last night to the annual meeting of the Maritime Board of Trade:—

Naval Craft: "Our yards will continue full-out production of naval craft for a considerable time to come."

Cargo Ships: "Merchant shipbuilding will continue, at a slightly reduced rate, through 1944."

Guns and Ammunition: "There is in process some reduction in our program of guns and ammunition . in general our guns and ammunition program is past its peak."

Planes: "The need for more and more combat planes is as great as ever."

Instructor Killed In Quebec Crash

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 — (CP). — PO. Yestyn Llewellyn Thomas of Whitby, Ont., an instructor, was killed and a student pilot slightly injured when their Harvard training plane from No. 13 Service Flying Training School, St. Hubert, crashed last night at nearby Ste. Therese de Blainville.

The plane was on a cross-country night navigation routine flight. Cause of the crash is obscure, it was announced by No. 3 Training Command, R.C.A.F.

Germans Take 3 Islands In Aegean

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP)—The occupation of three more small islands in the Aegean—Ikaria, Lipsos and Patmos—was claimed by the Germans today as a sequel to the loss by British forces of Leros in the stepping-stone battle of the Eastern Mediterranean.

The Berlin communique said Ikaria, a small Greek island west of Samos and north of the Italian Dodecanese group, was garrisoned by Italians and that German naval forces took 240 prisoners and seized a quantity of arms.

An undisclosed number of prisoners also were seized in Lipsos and Patmos, small rocky isles north of Leros in the Dodecanese. The broadcast said these also were garrisoned by Italians.

Allied announcements have not mentioned the occupation of these islands, although German broadcasts had mentioned German attacks on Ikaria.

The Germans were reported pressing fresh aerial attacks on Samos, only island in the Aegean which the Allies are officially reported to be holding. Castlerosso easternmost of the Dodecanese, is believed still in British hands however.

Nazis Far from Beaten on Russian Front

Drive In Zhitomir Sector Reveals Hun Machine Still Dangerous

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Over-confident folk must have received the shock they deserve when they saw the badly mauled Hitlerites suddenly flare back with a heavy counter-attack on the southern flank of the sharp Zhitomir salient and force the Moscovites to withdraw somewhat.

Such a display of strength and morale, coming on top of the Nazi recapture of the Aegean Islands and the difficulties encountered by the Allies in Italy, certainly is disturbing to wishful thinking.

However, while this is a sharp reminder that the Germans still have much strength and are dangerous, it doesn't alter the fact that they are on the road to defeat. Such bursts of striking power are purely defensive.

The Zhitomir salient show shouldn't be surprising. The surprising thing would have been if it hadn't come, for that would have supported the idea that the Hitlerites were indeed in a state of collapse.

Of course, ther battle-front is in a precarious position—as witness today's reports of smashing Red victories at Korosten and in the Gomel sector—and under such circumstances they might be thrown into a debacle. But they haven't been in such a disorganized state yet.

It's almost a truism that any great army, fighting on a broad front, can always make a dent in the enemy line by a quick and heavy concentration of troops at a given point. The Germans are said to have employed 150,000 men on a narrow front below Zhitomir, and that's a lot of troops. The significant thing is that while the Red front bent, it held and surged back.

The German attack on the flank of the Zhitomir salient was calculated to give them time to withdraw their own imperiled right wing to the south. That right flank bulges out toward the east in a great arc more than 600 miles long.

The Zhitomir salient is stretching out a long, wiry arm that threatens to turn this arc into a huge trap in which great numbers of Germans might be caught. Within this is the smaller Dnieper-Bend trap which the world has been watching tensely for several weeks.

Rather paradoxically, south German counter-attacks are really to the advantage of the Muscovites. Every fresh effort of this sort further weakens the Nazis, who no longer have the reserve manpower or the equipment to do more than stand off defeat for a while longer.

British Plane Bombs Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 19 — (AP) —The Swedish university town of Lund was thrown into a panic last night when showered by incendiary bombs by "a single foreign plane" and at least one high explosive, it was announced today. The explosive fell in a garden. Only casualty reported was one woman cut by glass, the incendiaries burned one building.

Lund officials said a preliminary investigation indicated the bombs were dropped by a British plane.

50 Hun Divisions In Italy

10 Facing Allied Armies In South

ALGIERS, Nov. 19—(AP)—German divisions operating in Italy and southeastern Europe were estimated today at approximately 50, 10 of them facing the 5th and 8th armies in southern Italy.

All available information, however suggests that Hitler is being forced to drain the German manpower barrel to keep his armies intact and that equipment is scarce for new divisions or replacements.

The three infantry divisions—the 94th, 305th and 65th — thrown against British and American troops recently, all use mules and horses for transport and all contain many inexperienced men. In addition, the 65th division has only two rifle regiments instead of the usual three.

All the divisions facing the Allies are said to be under strength, but they have experienced officers and a liberal sprinkling of seasoned soldiers.

An Allied spokesman pointed out that the presence of a strong reserve in north Italy and Yugoslavia "suggests that the German high command felt it necessary to strain their resources elsewhere to provide support toward delaying the union of Allied forces with elements resisting in Yugoslavia."

Predicts Colossal Victory

Smuts Recommends For Peace Empire's Way of Life

LONDON, Nov. 19 —(CP Cable)— Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts, Prime Minister of South Africa, in a speech last night prophesied "colossal victory, victory complete" for the Allies and recommended for "the dark days thereafter" the British Empire way of life as an example of how the world could live in peace.

The empire's elder statesman made no guess on when the war will end when he spoke to the Royal Empire Society, his second speech since arriving in Britain Oct. 5.

Smuts disclosed he came to Britain at the special invitation of Prime Minister Churchill to take a hand in war work and post-war problems and said he is devoting all his time to the task.

Smuts told his audience tonight: "I have no doubt of the end whenever it may come. I have no doubt that with our grim and unfaltering determination to spend ourselves to the uttermost and put our uttermost efforts into the struggle we shall win a colossal victory, complete."

Ground Drive Pushes Japs Deep Inland

Tempo Of Attacks Speeded Up Across New Guinea

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Nov. 19 —(CP)—The Allied drive toward Rabaul has broken out in fierce jungle fighting on the Solomon and New Guinea flanks, with guns of American warships roaring defiantly less than 200 miles from Japan's pivotal base and bombers dumping explosives all along the 600-mile battle arc.

Swinging from east to west across the war zone, there were the developments reported today:—

On Bougainville in the northern Solomons—American marines and soldiers at Empress Augusta Bay, 260 miles southeast of Rabaul, are pushing the Japanese deeper into the jungles.

On Buka — Air bases of that island on Bougainville's north tip, less than 200 miles across open sea from Rabaul's naval base, have been shelled for the second time this month by American warships.

On New Britain—Rabaul, kept constantly on the defence by Allied planes was pounded anew by medium bombers.

On New Guinea — Australian troops who have won an invasion springboard on the Huon peninsula only 70 miles from western New Britain, are lashing out at Japanese whose presence menaces extended control of the adjacent narrow waters; from Allied-held Finschhafen, the toughened Aussies since Wednesday have been lunging northwestward toward enemy forces entrenched 15 miles away in the inland jungle area of Sattelberg; on to the northwest, where Japan's New Guinea air power is based around Wewak, the Allied air force is carrying the fight to the enemy.

KNOCKS OUT JAPS — Former boxing champion in college, Capt. James R. Dyer, 24, of Atlanta, Ga., is still in there scoring knockouts. His present employment is flying for the U.S. Marine Corps against the Japs in the Pacific. Dyer, former southern conference middleweight boxing champ while at Clemson College, has two Jap Zeroes to his credit.

Marigny Fined On Gas Charge

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 19. —(CP).—Alfred de Marigny, who won acquittal last week of a murder charge, to-day drew a £100 ($445) fine—or a three-month prison sentence—for illegal possession of gasoline.

His close friend, Marquis Georges de Visdelou, was fined the same amount and paid immediately, but De Marigny filed notice of appeal.

Magistrate F. E. Field said the only reason he did not sentence the two men to prison is because he might have delayed their deportation.

The jury which freed De Marigny of the charge that he murdered Sir Harry Oakes, his wealthy father-in-law, recommended that he be deported immediately.

The Governor-in-Council formally invited both De Marigny and De Visdelous to leave.

De Visdelous pleaded guilty, and De Marigny was convicted.

De Marigny now has seven days in which to appeal. Execution of the sentence is delayed from one month to three months.

The appeal is to Chief Justice Sir Oscar Bedford Daly, who presided at the murder trial.

Canadians Tell Of Berlin Raid

By FOSTER BARCLAY

LONDON, Nov. 19 —(CP Cable)— Big Lancasters and Halifaxes from the Canadian bomber group joined the R.A.F. last night in its two-pronged attack against Germany. Goose and Thunderbird squadrons comprised of Lancasters bombers thundered over Berlin without loss while Halifaxes from the Lion, Bison, Bluenose and Iroquois squadrons hit Ludwigshafen.

The airmen fought freezing temperatures all the way, the mercury sometimes hitting 37 below.

Wing Cmdr. Alex Mair of (81 Nelson St.) Brantford, Ont., commanding officer of the Goose squadron, took his outfit to Berlin. They encountered no night fighters on the run, but were bounced around by heavy flak.

Counsel Accuses Union Of Court Contempt

TORONTO, Nov. 19 — (CP). — W. M. Nickle, counsel for the Employees Council of the Kingston, Ont., plant of the Aluminum Company of Canada, to-day charged contempt of court on the part of the Aluminum Workers of America (C.I.O.) Union in connection with advertisements published in the Kingston Whig-Standard for the A.W.A. during a court trial.

The Employees Council is applying for certification as sole collective bargaining agent for plant employees. The A.W.A. also is seeking certification.

Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland, presiding at the hearing in Ontario Labour Court, reserved judgment on the charge.

Mr. Nickle also protested that announcements in support of the A.W.A. were made over the Kingston radio station (CKWS). He read excerpts from the newspaper advertisement to court, stating it was inserted after the date for the hearing had been made.

Mr. Justice McFarland said: "I consider the advertisements very unwise, if not improper" and read part of the advertisement which he said "verges on, if it does not cross the line of contempt."

The advertisement appealed to workers in the Kingston plant to join or recruit a member for the A.W.A. so it can be "tallied in our favor at the hearing in labor court."

"I am not yet prepared to say it was in contempt of court. I will decide that later. If I do decide retribution will follow," said Mr. Justice McFarland.

Mr. Nickle, who entered a copy of the Kingston paper as an exhibit, asked that all records—application cards of the union, financial books and other records—be "put under seal by the court."

In answer to the request, Mr. Justice McFarland said he did not think it was necessary "as court has the jurisdiction to decide whether or not these applications shall be considered."

"That matter will be decided by me when the time comes. I will decide in due course."

aim was to bring about this change peacefully but if it did not come peacefully then it would come "forcibly by revolt."

Mr. Winch stated the same Calgary paper had said he declared the C.C.F. would institute socialism immediately, whereas what he actually had said was that a C.C.F. government would immediately proceed with its legislative program leading toward socialism. He argued that when newspapers interpret the word "revolution" in connection with the Beveridge Report, for instance, they do so correctly, as meaning only a change, but that when he used the word "it is conjured up as bloody revolution."

He went into considerable detail about the question on the use of policy and military, asked him at the Calgary meeting, and on which he had previously issued a statement at Regina.

Used Militia to Smash Strike

Last night he asserted that "capitalism" had used the military to smash French-Canadian trade unions in aluminum plants at Shipshaw, Que., but a C.C.F. government would not use the military for such purposes as the C.C.F. had "decent logical policies" regarding trade unions.

Canada could go through the change to socialism peacefully, Mr. Winch said, but "I know capitalism will fight to the last ditch" to retain the present system. He asserted that when Canadians democratically elect a C.C.F. government and legislation passed by it as opposed "perhaps by force" by "the powers that be" then such a government would not allow "Canada to become a second Spain; we will meet that opposition."

Mr. Winch in reply to a question stated the C.C.F. had rejected a request for affilation from the Labor Progressive party of Canada because the C.C.F. doubts "the sincerity of the Communists" and because the C.C.F. opinion is that the Labor progressive party did not sincerely desire socialism and unity with the C.C.F.

ance, appears to be blowing up a storm that will reach parliament unless an expected statement by Home Secretary Herbert Morrison stills the rising wrath of public and press.

D. N. Pritt, Labor, and William Gallacher, Communist, announced they would table a motion in the House of Commons protesting the proposed release as "insulting and disheartening to all fighting and working everywhere against Fascism."

The first protests from workers' groups in many parts of Britain took on scope today as London's morning newspapers in cartoons, editorials, and columnists' comment criticized the release and the executive of the powerful Transport and General Workers' Union, biggest in Britain, declared in a resolution, "There is no justification whatever for the release."

Ill-Health.

Editorially welcoming the release only because it said Sir Oswald should not have been imprisoned without trial, the Daily Mirror ran a cartoon showing a British soldier huddled in a shellhole reading to another soldier a headline that the release was ordered because of ill-health. Bombs and shells labelled "Fascist" burst around them. "See, he might have died," one soldier is explaining.

Columnist A. J. Cummings of the News Chronicle wrote that the "editorial views of Izvestia or Pravda on this act of liberation should make instructive reading," and the industrial reporter of the Daily Express, Trevor Evans, said response to the news in Britain's war factories was "immediate and bitter."

Meanwhile officials of Holloway Prison where the Mosleys have been detained since May, 1940, were silent as to how Mosley and his wife, the former Diana Guinness of the brewery family and sister of the Hitler-admiring Unity Mitford, reacted to news of the impending release.

Mosley, now 47 and ailing from phlebitis and general debility, is said to have lost much weight and is said to be vastly changed in appearance.

Started Year Ago

It was just a year ago to-day that the Red Army launched its counter-offensive from Stalingrad. In that year, the Russians had advanced 720 miles from Stalingrad to Korosten, more than half the distance to Berlin.

The new winter campaign began with indications the tactical situation is favorable for striking new Russian successes.

The capture of Korosten and of Rechitsa brought the names of two of the best known Red Army generals back into the news. Tank commander Ivan Danilovitch Cherniakhovsky, the Red Army's youngest lieutenant-general at 36, took Korosten. He started west from Stalingrad a year ago and captured Kursk and Kiev on the way.

Gen Konstantin Konstantinovich Rokossovsky, commander of the newly designated White Russian front, took Reichitsa. He crushed the German 6th Army which was encircled at Stalingrad.

Rokossovsky has pushed 25 miles west of Rechitsa through Vasileviche, reaching the edge of the Pripet marshes and stiffening the wedge between German forces in White Russia and the western Ukraine.

7 Miles Daily.

The Red Army offensive, which started slowly through stiff German defences in this sector, gathered momentum as the main enemy lines crumbled.

The newspaper Izvestia reported that the drive which gained 2½ miles on the first day now is progressing three times as fast, at 7½ miles a day.

The Germans put two fresh divisions into the battle, the dispatch said, but the enemy ranks were disorganized by an unusual Red army manoeuvre.

The twin victories were proclaimed last night by Premier Stalin in orders of the day which eulogized Gen. Nikolai Vatutin, commander of the First Ukrainian Army, for the storming of Korosten and Gen. Constantin Rokossovsky for his success at Rechitsa.

Capture of Korosten, 60 miles from the old Polish border, effectively split the German forces in the Ukraine from those in White Russia. The fall of Rechitsa narrowed the last escape corridor open to the beleaguered Gomel garrison to less than 25 miles. The Gomel Zhlobin rail line already was within the radius of Soviet artillery.

Russian columns were reported converging on Gomel from the north and south and its fall appeared inevitable.

Stalin ordered a double salute of 12 salvoes from 124 Moscow victory guns to celebrate the Russian triumphs.

Occupation of Korosten followed a two-day battle in which the Red Army troops forced the Uzh river to blast the Germans from that important rail junction on the Leningrad-Odessa and Kiev-Warsaw railroads, a Russian communique said.

At Pripet Marshes

In addition to cutting last German north-south railway short at the Polish border by the capture of Korosten, Vatutin appeared to have anchored his right flank securely against the Pripet Marshes. He was thus able to concentrate strong forces on his left flank to meet the vicious German counter-attacks in the area between Zhitomir and Fastov to the south.

Here, where Soviet forces were forced into a slight retreat Wednesday, German forces yesterday were hurled back with heavy losses in men and tanks, the Soviet communique said.

Rokossovsky, in toppling Rechitsa after a bitter three-day battle, sent his forces in for the kill from the northwest and southwest.

Even as Rechitsa was being invested Rokossovsky sent mobile columns driving west to capture the town of Vasilevichi, 22 miles east of Kalinkovichi, another junction point on the already broken Leningrad-Odessa railway.

Butcher Denies Selling Cat Meat

QUEBEC, Nov. 19 — (CP). — Maurice Lepine, owner of the Adjutor Depine butcher shop in lowertown King Street, denied to-day before a municipal inquiry commission here that horse meat was sold for beef over a seven-month period and that on one occasion a mangy cat was sold for rabbit meat.

Rosaire Marcoux said yesterday he had worked in the Lepine butcher shop and that during a seven-month period in 1941 three or four horses were sold weekly.

In his testimony Lepine said he was fined $400 last year for having sold horse meat for beef but that the lesson "served me right" and that he never sold horse meat on a large scale. He also denied that mangy cat was sold for rabbit meat.

The probe is continuing.

United States Senators Want Oil Probe

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (CP)— United States Senators, apprehensive over the post-war fate of what they claim to be a $130,000,000 investment in northwest Canadian oil resources, will examine high-ranking American executives on the subject before the Truman Senate Committee at an open hearing beginning Monday.

Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, Petroleum Administrator, and Lt.-Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, chief of the army service forces, are among those called to testify.

The so-called "Canol" project; which involves development of oil wells at Norman Wells on the Mackenzie River, pipe lines to White Horse in the Yukon Territory and a refinery at the latter point, has been under investigation in private by the Truman Committee.

Boon To Canada

The circumstances under which this war emergency development with United States funds reverts to Canada by arrangement after the war was brought to the attention of Congress a month ago by Representative Norris Poulson, (Rep.-Calif.) and has been the subject of considerable debate.

Canada's arrangement with the United States Government for development of the Norman Wells oil sources was fully described in the House of Commons last session, and, presumaby, is well known to members of the United States Congress who are interested.

It would appear to observers here that the investigation is prompted more by a desire to embarrass the Roosevelt administration than the need for obtaining information.

Winch Claims Racket Curbed

VANCOUVER, Nov. 19 — (CP) —Harold Winch, British Columbia C.C.F. leader, told a public meeting here last night that his complaints to Munitions Minister Howe resulted in stopping "racketeering in war material in the city of Vancouver to my mind running into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Mr. Winch said that when he first made his charges there were "scathing editorials" in the press about "spectacular Harold Winch" and that newspapers had said there was no basis for his "exaggeration."

He read letters from Mr. Howe which he said confirmed his charges "Press attack, editorial criticism, condemned, damned, but the goods of the C.C.F. are there," he added.

Mr. Winch told the meeting that unused sheet and bar steel from Vancouver plants was sold to junk dealers at $12 to $14 a ton and the dealers admitted to him reselling the metal to machine shops engaged in war industries at $50 to $75 a ton.

Three Ferry Fliers Rescued From Polar Sea

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, Nov. 19.—(CP). — This is the story of how fate tricked three Atlantic ferry fliers with alternating hope and despondency and finally saw them follow each other in grim relays of heliographing with a seven cent metal mirror that ended in their rescue after 11 days of hunger and exposure in the Polar Sea. Medical men say they could not have lasted more than another 48 hours.

The three are: Capt. Robert E. Coffman, 32, of Baton Rouge, La., pilot; FO. Norman E. (Ted) Greenaway, 23, of Camrose, Alta., navigator; Ronald E. Snow, 22, of Digby, N.S., radio officer.

The Hampden bomber they were flying from Britain to Canada had engine trouble off Greenland's coastal ice fields but Coffman managed to sit it down in the only channel of open water. Then their flimsy dinghy survived a 15-mile, 20 hour trip through the jagged ice pack.

It was lucky the plane went down near shore because they would have stood little chance in the open sea during the stormy weather that followed. The active ice fields, however, were hazardous enough. It was only a lucky chance current that swept them to the bleak, offshore pinnacle where they were marooned.

It was another lucky twist of fate that sent off Ronald Snow, to gather snow to quench his weakened companions' thirst and see the whaler Polar Borjn in the distance.

The Noregian ship, running supplies for the United States Army, was disabled just at that point and on the last trip of the open navigation season.

If her engines had not failed the ship would have passed by unseen by the fliers huddling behind their ice-whitened dinghy.

If the little craft had not hove to for repairs the men would not have been able to direct their heliograph signals at her and if Maj. John T. Crowley, Isle de Haut, Me., was not so fond of Greenland scenery he would not have been scanning the coast and spotted the signals.

But the ship breakdown was not enough to bring about the rescue. A sun, hidden in storms for days giving the fliers no opportunity to use signals to attract searching planes and ships which they heard and saw passing near their area, finally beamed out brightly and made conditions ideal for the little heliograph.

Secret Drug Will Cure Cold

LONDON, Nov. 19 — (CP). —A British expert in cancer research, Professor William E. Gye, said yesterday he believes and hopes he has found a cure for the common cold in nasal douching with a new secret drug called patulin.

Professor Gye, director of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund Laboratories, on the basis of experiments which he said had returned most patients to work within 48 hours, commented: "We believe we have it. This may turn out to be a most important discovery.

"I think — I hope — that it will prevent people from having colds. With this treatment forty-eight hours should see them fit again."

Professor Gye was given some patulin —which like the new drug pencillin is derived from fungi — for cancer experiments. Knowing the anti-bacterial qualities of the drug he tried it on his own severe cold. Next morning he was back to work, he said.

He persuaded medical friends and others to try it. The treatment was reported successful with the professional group, but among his non-medical friends the results were not so conclusive. Some of the latter were said to have found the nasal douching too much bother.

Experiment made among personel of the Royal Navy and the Wrens in three trials over a four month period were said to have shown results of 44, 70, and 83 per cent recoveries.

Vivian Relates Plans Made In Health Drive

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 19—Extended services are now being planned in the fields of tuberculosis, venereal diseases and cancer, the Academy of Medicine was told here last night by Health Minister Dr. R. P. Vivian. A program of preventive care, particularly for school children, is being developed, Dr. Vivian declared.

"Diagnostic services will be extended on a broader basis and more equitable distribution than they are at present," the Health Minister told his audience. "These various developments will not be thrust upon an unsuspecting profession. They are now being produced in consultation with committees of the Ontario Medical Association. As each one becomes perfected to the point of adapation it will be announced not only to the profession but to the public as well."

Dr. Vivian voiced disagreement with the provisions of the draft health bill prepared by the Dominion Government. The proposed administration and method of finance was very much open to question, he declared.

"The proposed act would seem to dictate to a dangerous degree the manner in which things must be done by both public health and private medical services," said Dr. Vivian. "We are fighting a war to maintain and improve a democratic state, not to establish a bureaucracy which can be infinitely worse than a dictatorship. This Dominion bill makes provision for the expenditure of vast sums. Money is only one of the necessities for a successful undertaking and its availability in large amounts is no guarantee of a successful result. We must have, in addition, an enlightened public, the full co-operation of organized groups and the undertaking conducted in a manner satisfactory to the medical and allied professions.

"The true objective that we have before us is to make available to every resident of this Province adequate medical care," continued Dr. Vivian. "The approach to this objective should be in the truly democratic manner. The present Government recognizes the need of securing much needed reforms. This is particularly true regarding medical care and public welfare. Many of these reforms are long overdue but your Government denies the premise that such reforms can only be brought about in a revolutionary manner. These reforms can be accomplished by an evolutionary method. We assure you that the greatest possible speed, consistent with sound planning, will be employed in this undertaking."

Magistrate Granted Defendant Permission To Preach A Sermon

COBOURG, Nov. 19.—(ENS). — Quotations from the Bible and legal terms mingled in an unintelligible confusion to the court spectators in a hearing of some three hours or more yesterday in police court. Thomas J. Sproat, for whom R.C.M.P. officers could find no permanent address, was charged with failing to notify national mobilization authorities of his change of address. Sproat, it was revealed, was a Jehovah Witness. He was defended by J. K. Brower of Toronto.

The case hinged on whether the accused was exempt as a minister and the court had the task of deciding whether the Jehovah Witness group was a recognized religious organization and whether the accused was a minister in the recognized sense of the world. Magistrate R. B. Baxter reserved his decision until December 2.

Defence counsel argued at the outset that the charge was not correct, referring to the wording, "while subject to registration," stating that he was exempt as a recognized clergyman or minister of a recognized denomination.

"Then you must be pleading not guilty," observed the magistrate.

Corporal Karl Lockwood, R.C.M.P., testified that he and Constable Ken Bridges interviewed the accused when they accosted him on University avenue, Cobourg, November 5. He gave his address as 909 Lansdowne avenue, Toronto, but his home was originally at Grand Valley. Thirty-one years of age, he admitted that he had never received a call-up notice and that he had not been at the Toronto address for eight months. Questioned by the R.C.M.P. he could give no fixed address, Corporal Lockwood said. When Toronto R.C.M.P. visited 909 Lansdowne, they were told there that he was not known at that address.

In order to establish the status of his client as an avowed minister, defence council called a number of men and women, who testified that they were Jehovah Witnesses and looked upon Sproat as their minister.

Mrs. Pearl Seale said that when he called at her house in Toronto "with a message of truth," she knew instantly that he was a minister of the Gospel and that her lifetime's teachings as a Roman Catholic had fallen away from her after 45 minutes listening to Sproat.

"I don't see why this man didn't register as a minister instead of as a bread salesman," commented Corporal Lockwood.

"The Jehovah Witnesses were under ban until about a month ago. He would only be asking for trouble to register as such at that time," defence counsel said.

Other court witnesses called by the defence, told of being converted from various church denominations to a belief in the sect represented by Sproat.

"If you were single, would you get him to marry you as a minister?" the magistrate asked Mrs. Pearl Taylor of Oshawa. She replied in the affirmative.

"I doubt if you could," commented the magistrate.

"Do you feel that if his fellow sect members regard him as a minister, that he becomes one within the meaning of the regulations?" asked the magistrate of the defence counsel.

"Yes, I do," he replied.

Preached In Oshawa.

Mrs. Nellie Adair of Oshawa, told the court that Sproat stayed at her home from December, 1940, until March 1941 while preacning from house to house in Oshawa.

"Are you in favour of the present war?" the magistrate asked Bernon Ruddy, defence witness. Witness said that he was.

"Do you approve of the Victory Loan?" he was asked and replied that he did.

Sproad didn't kiss the Book when he took the stand.

"He didn't kiss the Book," Chief W. J. Carey pointed out.

"Kiss the Book," directed the Magistrate.

"He doesn't have to," defence counsel said, stating that there was no such ruling in the Canada Evidence Act.

"This is my court, and I am running things," the Magistrate replied. "Now kiss the Book."

Sproat set down the court Bible and raised his own to his lips.

He testified that he became associated with the Jehovah's Witnesses in 1932 and became a minister in 1939, becoming baptized for full-time service in preaching the Gospel.

"I intend to make a life-time work of it," he said, quoting a passage from the Bible. Witness had frequent recourse to the Bible, referring to it and quoting it frequently during his evidence.

"I know the Truth and am obliged to preach it or lose my salvation. Where one realizes this, one must carry out this work or fail as a Christian. I go from house to house preaching the Word of God. I am not interested in the attitude of other churches in house to house preaching," he declared.

Witness further on in his testimony said that his father was not interested in the Jehovah's Witnesses, and he had decided to leave his farm and go out and preach. He denied trying to evade a draft notice.

Why No Documents?

"Why have you no documents to establish your status as a minister?" Corporal Lockwood asked.

"Christ had no diploma, nor did he attend a seminary. I was filled with the light and went out to preach His Word. I need no diploma," the witness said.

Defence counsel asked the court's permission to have his client preach a brief sermon to show that what he had to say "made sense" and that he was qualified to preach.

"Well, keep it brief," the Magistrate ruled.

Witness then gave a brief talk, with liberal references to the Bible.

Questioned by Corporal Lockwood, Sproat said he was at Grand Valley when he registered in 1940. Then he went to 308 Huron Street, Toronto, then to Jackson Heights, Norvale, and in December, 1942, he notified national registration authorities of his address as being 909 Lansdowne Avenue.

"The R.C.M.P. were informed at 909 Lansdowne Avenue that you were not known there," Corporal Lockwood pointed out.

"Maybe the lady at the house was confused as to my name. There are many roomers there coming and going," witness replied.

"How were you ordained?" asked Corporal Lockwood.

"I am ordained by the Word of God," replied Sproat, quoting Isaiah.

"That is the word of Isaiah, not the word of God," stated the officer.

"It is the inspired Word of God as written by the prophet," he replied.

"What are you in this war?' was the next question.

"I am neutral," he answered.

"If you got your call would you go into the Army?"

"No," he replied.

"Why not enlist and be a chaplain?" Corporal Lockwood asked him.

"No, I will not bear weapons," he answered.

Magistrate Baxter asked the accused how long he had been at 909 Lansdowne Avenue, and the reply was too vague to satisfy the Magistrate.

"Tell the truth. You are under oath. Stop this endless palaver," Magistrate Baxter directed. Witness replied that he was a week at 909 Landsdowne, and had left his name with her to keep his mail.

"I was there in January, I believe."

"But Mrs. Adair says you were at her home from December until March and that you were there steadily," Magistrate Baxter told him.

"Yes, but when I left my name with her at 909 Landsdowne, I didn't know I wasn't going to be there long.

At any rate I was up in Toronto on weekends while at Mrs. Adair's Sproat said.

"Don't forget that you were in Oshawa before you were at 909 Landsdowne" the magistrate reminded him. "If you never called at 909 Landsdowne, and she didn't have your forwarding address, until the end of the war, nobody would know the difference.

"I have a covenant with God to preach His Word," replied Sproat.

"I doubt if the Selective Service authorities would regard it in the same light. I am convinced that you gave the address at 909 Landsdowne so that only the mail you wanted would be received by you," cammente dthe magistrate.

Under further questioning by the bench, the accused admitted that

Collingwood's Soldiers To Vote By Proxy On Beverage Room Question For The Town

COLLINGWOOD, Nov. 19. — Collingwood soldiers stationed throughout Canada will have a vote in the election November 25, which will decide the beverage room question for the town.

The servicemen will vote by proxy, the same system used in the last provincial elections, and a special sitting of Division Court will be held November 23 to ratify the proxies.

On Wednesday, more than 1,200 names were added to the town's voters' list in a hearing before Judge J. A. Harvey. H. S. Pritchard, secretary of the Moderation League, and J. F. Ganley, manager of the Citizens' League, appeared in court with a list of 900 names. Fred Lewis, secretary of the Ontario Temperance Federation, and John Smart, were present with lists of 450 names to be added. Both parties also filed proxies which will be passed on at the special sitting next week.

At present there are no beverage rooms in the town and a vote is necessary before they can be established.

Racial Problems Post-War Tasks

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 19 (ENS)—Apart from the moral issue one of the greatest dangers raised by the color question is to the white race itself which would be outnumbered two to one in such a struggle. So said Mrs. Alan Lewis who was guest speaker at the November meeting of Seymour West Women's Institute held Thursday afternoon. Speaking on racial and religious prejudice Mrs. Lewis stressed that racial prejudice and hatred would be among the grimmest problems to be faced after the war is won. She raised the oft repeated cry that winning the peace was going to be much more difficult than winning the war since unlike a campaign in battle, making peace terms could follow no orthodox rules.

Referring to the color problem Mrs. Lewis reminded the gathering that history showed that the colored races when armed and trained were nearly as proficient as the white men. Canadians did not need to look beyond their own borders for examples of race discrimination she said, citing Roland Hayes famed colored singer who had been refused permission to sing before certain Toronto men's club groups. And from the religious viewpoint, the speaker maintained the white people did too much back patting to themselves for this missionary work. "When a man or woman leaves the community for a far away mission field they are always given a big send off yet when members of this very same race come to our country looking for work the morals and Christianity we have been preaching are forgotten.

"It is hard to forget and forgive, but there will be no permant peace until a basis for mutual understanding is reached in the world. Racial hatred is a universal thing . . . we are foreigners in other countries and hated as much as we hate."

During the business of the meeting it was decided to give a one dollar donation to the Legion Poppy Fund and also to apply to the department for the annual $3.00 grant to the Institute. A motion was passed authorizing the branch to send each of those from the district in any branch of the service in Canada a Christmas letter enclosing a handkerchief and a committee committee comprising Mrs. Robert McCulloch, Mrs. Raymond Free and Mrs. Fred McCulloch was named to look after this.

A report on the Belleville convention was presented by Mrs. R. A. Rutherford. In an effort to stimulate interest in quilting, Mrs. Thomas Dunham presented an exhibition of seven quilts all of different pattern. Other items on the program included a vocal solo by Isobel Lewis and a piano solo by Mrs. Donald Rutherford.

The Home Of The Future

The Gallup Poll has been making an enquiry about the sort of house the Canadian of average means wants after the war. The replies have been conservative. Nobody seems to want solar heating, but the majority want better heating than they have at present. Nobody seems to think seriously about having a helicopter landing on his roof, but he would like better plumbing. Improved lighting was high on the list of demands. Few people were interested in radical changes of design, and such wonders as adjustable walls and glass partitions.

This does not surprise us. It will be possible after the war to have an architect design a streamlined house for you, but what will be the use of that if you do not want to lead a streamlined life? The thing which impresses us most about the advanced designs which we have seen is that they do not encourage comfortable living; they do not accommodate themselves readily to the mess and clutter which is inevitable in family life, and which adds substantially to its comfort. What most of us want in the way of a house is a sound building with a sufficient number of well-shaped rooms in it, in which we can arrange our possessions to suit ourselves; we want to be able to run it as cheaply as possible, and we want the heating-plant, the kitchen and the bathroom to be efficient, sufficient and durable. We want the other rooms to relax in, and relaxation and streamlining do not seem to go together.

There has been talk of heating the houses of the future with electricity, by means of installations in the walls. Most of us would be content to settle for an improved furnace. If electric heat could be made efficient—that is to say, if it did not depend on the whim of a local office which controlled the current, and thought that 60 degrees Fahrenheit was a snug temperature—and if it could be cheap enough, it would soon come into favour. But we would have to be shown. As for plumbing, something which does not freeze will content most of us.

As for lighting, we now realize that the average home has about one-quarter as much light in it as is needed for good vision. A great deal of education is needed along this line, and a reformed notion of what light-outlets are needed in a practical room.

We don't want to be streamlined. We don't want to be ostentatiously up-to-date. We want comfort, and we shall probably be very conservative in our acceptance of new ideas in house-planning.

Protectors Of Culture

German looting of Europe continues with typical Germanic patience and method. Every day new treasures in Italy are "taken into custody to ensure their protection from the enemy". Now we learn that all the most valuable volumes from the Royal National Library at Naples, the Library of San Gerolami, the library of the Prince of Piedmont and a great part of the library of the philosopher Benedetto Croce have been carted to the north in 659 cases. Knowing what the Germans really think of books this is enough to make the heart ache. Not protection, but looting, is the motive here.

The books had all been placed in the Franciscan Monastery of Sant' Antonio for safe keeping, and it was from there that the Nazis stole them.

Why should they go to so much trouble? We can make a guess. After the war Germany will find ways of selling those books, and they will fetch a pretty price. They are not dingy volumes which can be bought for a few cents each, but rare treasures of the printers' and illuminators' art, and some of the manuscripts are unique. They represent a very considerable sum, and there are always ways of disposing of them to collectors and libraries. Like the paintings which were stripped from the great galleries of the Low Countries, they will be offered to their original owners—for a good price.

Whether they win or lose the war, the Germans stand to gain from this detestable business. It is to be hoped that there will be a clause in the peace treaties which will insist on the return of stolen treasures of art and culture. It is iniquitous that libraries which have been gathered and guarded through centuries should be stolen from their owners—the people of Italy—and used as a means of getting money for post-war Germany.

Surely, after this war, we shall have the sense to see through the German pretension to being guardians of European culture?

Death Is No Joke

The German people have never coped very successfully with the element of humour in life; they are not naturally a humorous people. They admire humour, in their serious way, but they do not understand it. And when a situation becomes desperate, they can never relieve the tension with a joke, as the French, and the British, and the Americans do.

Consequently it is not surprising to hear that a ban has been laid on "political jokes" in Germany. Anyone making jokes about the Reich, the war or the political leaders may find himself imprisoned, and he is liable to be beheaded as a saboteur. Not many jokers will care to run this risk for the sake of a laugh.

It was an Austrian Jew, the late Dr. Sigmund Freud, who wrote the keenest analysis which we possess of humour in his book Wit And Its Relation To The Unconscious. A joke, he explained, is a way of saying something which we do not care to say directly; every joke conceals a repressed idea or a thought which we dare not admit. In free countries jokers are given free play, for few people resent what they say, and if they do they are under no obligation to listen. But in Germany a joke about the Fuehrer, or the invincibility of the army, is taken in bad part because it is thought to encourage subversive thinking, and subversive thinking is something which the Germans fear almost more than they fear the Russian army or the Anglo-American raids.

Jokes about public officials are unthinkable in Germany, and have been so for many decades. In 1880 a theatrical producer attempted to put on a version of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera H.M.S. Pinafore in Berlin. The chief character in that work, as most readers will recall, is a particularly foolish and conceited First Lord of the Admiralty. The Germans could not understand it. A government official was being held up to ridicule! It was unthinkable! It was practically irreligious! Pinafore was a dismal failure.

This same attitude has survived in the Third Reich; indeed, it has become aggravated into a morbid sensitiveness. Now, he who jokes, dies. Truly, the Germans are a pitiable people.

Why Not Forget Him?

We are rather surprised by the amount of space which some of our contemporaries are giving Alfred de Marigny in their editorial columns, using this space to asperse de Marigny and belittle him. The man appears almost to be a mild obsession with them. They tick him off for appearing to enjoy the publicity which his trial brought him (we have not ourself seen any evidence of this), for being a "fast liver", for being a divorcee, for having been asked by the government of the Bahamas to leave that country, and almost, one might think, for having been acquitted of a murder charge, instead of hanging to please the people who do not like him.

We are a long way from the Bahamas here, and if we do not like de Marigny we do not have to think about him. The man was charged with murder and after a long and scrupulous trial he was acquitted. During the course of the trial several matters relating to the private life of de Marigny and his friends were brought out, and we suspect that these revelations are at the back of the attacks on this man by the editorial Mrs. Grundies. He was charged with murder, and he was acquitted. There is no reason now for the newspapers to ruffle their feathers over matters which are of no public concern. Alfred de Marigny is a free man, and as long as he remains within the law he may live as he pleases.

At least a part of this indignation, we feel, arises from the knowledge that de Marigny is young, handsome, a nobleman, a foreigner, very successful with women, and has a good time without worrying about public opinion. These are things which some men can never forgive in another. Disapproval and envy frequently go together.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In Bermuda there is popular complaint because rum has gone up to $2.12 a bottle. That is obviously one place where they don't know there's a war on.

"Fuel Control Officials Have Many Headaches" says a headline. Taking their own advice, we presume, and sleeping with their windows closed.

Back To The League

(WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

THE resolution adopted by the United States Senate by an 85 to 5 vote, pledged that country to join with "free and sovereign nations" to establish and maintain an international organization for the preservation of peace "based on the principle of the sovereign equality" of the member nations. Further, there is recognition of the right of any "free and sovereign" nation, regardless of its size, to join this organization and accept its share of responsibility for maintaining order in the world. The explicitness of these engagements derives from the additions to the original Connally resolution which were made after the Four-Nation declaration at Moscow. Of the amended and enlarged Senate resolution, the New York Times says:

> It provides for peace and international democracy by specifically rejecting both a world super-state and a war-breeding system of alliances, and by projecting instead a "general international organization" founded on the sovereign equality of all peace-loving states, large and small.

THE words with which these purposes are declared have a very familiar ring. The United States Senate of 1943 has accepted, by an almost unanimous vote, the identical proposition which it rejected in 1919. It has declared for a League of Nations fashioned after the model built by the special commission which, under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson, produced the Covenant of Paris in 1919. And in so declaring, it has made it extremely improbable that any of the more radical plans will have any chance of being seriously considered when the United Nations assembled in Conference, set about making effective their pledge that they will by mutual action guarantee the future peace of the world.

One effective argument against breaking new ground will be that this would give the isolationists of the United States an opening for a campaign of repudiation. They have been driven underground for the moment by the strength of public opinion, but they may be counted upon to renew their opposition to policies of enlightened and effective internationalism once it is proposed to commit the United States formally to these policies. It would be dangerous to put in their hands so effective a weapon as a departure from the path which the Senate has now marked out for itself.

LOUD and vigorous protests can be looked for from those who have been urging more drastic programs: "Union Now"; regional federations with some shadowy central machinery; a world police force on land and in the air; and so forth. They will say that a revived League of Nations, even with the improvements that are suggested by experience, will prove as impotent as the discarded model in restraining aggressor nations. They will predict that history will repeat itself, and that a third World War at no distant date will destroy civilization.

Opinions upon the causes which led to the collapse of the League have abounded, but they have not all been in agreement that the failure was inherent in the composition and nature of the League. Many of those most competent to give a considered judgment based upon experience and close observation have found other reasons for the tragedy than the defects of the Covenant. They agree that there was from the outset a disinclination to employ the machinery of the League to restrain aggression by force, provided the aggressor was a power of magnitude. It was all very well to intervene decisively when little nations like Bulgaria and Greece proceeded to break the peace; but it was a very different matter when powers like Japan and Italy decided to revert to pre-League methods of persuasion. Not for a single minute, said Sir John Simon, then Foreign Minister of Great Britain, did he entertain the idea of going beyond conciliation procedures when Japan proceeded to seize Manchuria. That was when the slide began which grew into an avalanche that covered the world.

IT may be said, it certainly will be said, that the free and sovereign nations of the revived League which can now be foreseen will be just as selfish, cowardly, and useless as were the members of the League that crashed. There are reasons for hoping that this will not be the case. For one thing, even nations can learn by experience, and the defaulters of yesterday are certainly getting a lesson that should live in their memories. Further, the restored League will include Russia and the United States from the outset, which will be a state of affairs very different from the earlier adventure. Russia did not join the League until after it had, in effect, renounced the ideals which had called it into existence; the United States, at the very outset of the League's career, gave it a "stab in the back" from which it never recovered. The consequences of the defection were disastrous in endless ways. Thus in Great Britain American withdrawal gave the foes of the League the plausible—and not altogether imaginary — argument that if Great Britain put its navy at the disposal of the League to enforce sanctions, it might find the United States navy blocking its passage.

◊ ◊ ◊

THE revived League will begin under much more favorable auspices. There is also ground for hope that the new League will not shrink from making a definition of aggression that will be so clear that the operation of sanctions on the part of the contracting parties will be all but automatic. In dealing with this matter there will be, it is to be hoped, none of the casuistical splitting of hairs in which Mr. Balfour indulged in a notable argument which Mr. Austen Chamberlain presented to the League Council. It is upon these far more favorable conditions that reliance must be placed, since all the dreams about nations extinguishing themselves in some vast universal philanthropic merger might as well be recognized for what they are. The nations, with all their good points and their weaknesses are here to stay for a period of time that will take care of mankind for this generation and for many generations to come.

No Isolation

For the first time the Tibetan Government has given permission for goods to be carried across its territory, and now military supplies are moving to China through Tibet. The goods will be transported by Tibetan transport contractors employing only animal pack transport, on long and hazardous roads which average 12,000 feet above sea level, and exposed to dry bitterly cold winds from across the Tibetan Plateau for many months in the year. The war, it will be seen, has reached into the most inaccessible lands. There is no isolation.—Montreal Gazette.

Exit Giraud

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

IT IS unlikely that any responsible group among the United Nations will deplore, at this date, the removal of General Henri Giraud from the co-presidency of the French Committee of National Liberation, a position he had shared with General Charles de Gaulle.

Much has been made of co-called "disunity" in the French Liberation Committee. The truth appears to be that the disunity was no more than a chronic split between de Gaulle and the Fighting French on the one hand, Giraud and a motley assortment of collaborators, Vichyards and others of shady record on the other.

At no time since his rise to prominence has General Giraud represented anything or anybody. He was imported from France because of his advertised ability to swing the loyalty of the French army in North Africa. In the event, this ability turned out to be imaginary, and we found ourselves faced with the unsavory necessity of dealing with the disgruntled turncoat, Darlan.

They say General de Gaulle is a "difficult" man, meaning stubborn, sensitive and intractable. Of that we know nothing at first hand. We do know, however, that when General Giraud visited Canada last summer, he made an almost universally bad impression, in public and in private.

We know also that whatever personal shortcomings he may have, General Charles de Gaulle has commanded the loyalty of the vast majority of those Frenchmen who never, even in the dark days, bowed their heads to the Hun, never surrendered, never collaborated. We know he enjoys the support and approval of the heroes of the French underground, whose leaders now find themselves able to come forth in considerable numbers to speak their minds in the Consultative Assembly. We know of no Frenchmen, ex-Vichyards excepted, who support Giraud. For these reasons, which we consider ample, we applaud his departure from political eminence.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

THE philandering husband is no new comer on the domestic scene. He has always been with us. Probably, if we only knew it, even great-grandfather Adam was created with a roving eye. Anyway, most of his sons seem to have difficulty in keeping their gaze focused upon the straight and narrow way when a good-looking woman crosses their field visions.

This is, indeed, regrettable, for it has caused much weeping and wailing among married ladies and has led to many divorces. Heretofore, however, the flirtatious husband has been an affliction that, like the gout, has been more or less confined to the rich, for there is nothing that makes for virtue so much as lacking the price for wrongdoing. The poor man, who has had all he could do to feed a wife, was automatically cut off from stepping out with glamour girls who had to be wined and dined.

Scandals come high, and they can only be afforded by those whose incomes are in the upper brackets, so while the Croesuses might indulge themselves in swapping husbands and wives whenever they lost taste for their current mates, the Poormans had to stick to what they had, and like 'em. Or, at least, endure 'em.

So we have thought that one of the consolations for wives in having lean pocketbooks was that they didn't have to live in fear of having their Johns stolen from them by husband-snatchers. They didn't have to lie awake at night wondering where their wandering mates were, and for whom they were buying champagne instead of paying for the baby's certified milk. They knew where Friend Husband was and what he was doing. He was sitting right there by the fire helping the children with their homework.

But the war that has made so many changes in our manners and custom and way of looking at things, has played hob with this sweet picture of domesticity. The men whose former pay envelopes barely covered the family budget now are getting wages that make them feel richer than Henry Ford.

Middle-aged men whose association with women had been almost exclusively confined to their wives' friends, who were as fat and unromantic looking as their own Marias, are working side by side with pretty, slim young girls who have all the technique of the man-hunter at their fingers' end. Men whose wives haven't paid them a compliment, or wasted any allure or coquetry on them for thirty years, are suddenly subjected to a barrage of flattering and jollying by gold-diggers who tell them how handsome and young and wonderful they are, and how Poor Little ME depends upon them.

And it isn't strange that these men, who have been plodding along in double harness for so long, lose their heads when they find themselves in a different world of which they had never even dreamed, and that they so often kick over the traces and bolt. Nor is it strange that their wives don't understand what has happened. Nor why their Johns, who have always stuck as close to their own hearthstones as the house cat, have suddenly taken to roaming. Nor why, instead of making the last mortgage payment on the bungalow, they are spending their money on little flossies young enough to be their daughters. Nor why they are actually asking for divorces from them when they have worked and suffered and laughed and rejoiced so many years together.

This sordid little drama which is being played out by millions of married couples in flimsy little bungalow camps and parked trailers, wherever men and women are thrown together to work for the first time in intimate companionship, is one of the tragedies of the war that is just as heartbreaking as any that ever takes place on a battle-field. It is a worse tragedy for the wife, for the woman who loses her husband who is fighting for his country can, at least, mourn him with pride, while the woman whose husband is taken from her by a cutie in slacks can only think of him with shame.

Of course, if the wife would take counsel with her commonsense instead of her jealously, she would nurse her husband through this divorce court. For it does not take long for a middle-aged man to find out that he has nothing in common with a young girl, while he has everything in common with his old wife, so he is glad enough to return to home and Mother.

But now that the working men, as well as the idle rich, are turning philanderers, it makes all wives realize that they are sisters, and have the same problems and the same heartaches.

Give the "Foot-Sloggers" Their Due

There seems to exist some danger of the infantry soldier becoming the forgotten man in this war. The glorious achievements of air and naval forces, the clanking advance of tanks, and the thunderous barrages laid down by artillery have all been prominent in the news. Uniformed women at war are continually before us in story and picture. All this is as it should be, for these services have played a part the greatness of which will only be known when history is written. But with all this bright publicity about other services, we should take a moment now and again to remember the infantry.

The foot soldier is doing a job equally as important to any other. He is the man who eats dust under a blazing sun, or slogs through mud and rain mile after mile. He is the man who hacks his way through fever-ridden jungles, or trudges across frozen plains. Long ago a phrase was coined to describe the infantry. A famous general once termed it the "Queen of battles"; the term is still used and, although a bit flowery, it is still a true description. It should be remembered that victory will not be completely won until Allied soldiers march into and through the aggressor countries. And most of these soldiers will be infantry.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Public Health

Reminder from The Strathroy Age-Dispatch that Strathroy set the pace for public health services in Middlesex:

Whether they realize it or not Middlesex County Council which is inaugurating a county public health service shortly, owes a deep debt of gratitude to Strathroy for the pioneer work it has been doing along this line for 17 years. Strathroy was one of the very first municipalities in the Dominion to recognize not only the importance of public health work but the very large and important field which lay open in preventing outbreaks and epidemics and in building stronger and healthier future citizens by caring for the children.

Uniformed Saboteurs

Danish saboteurs dressed up in railway men's uniforms secured a hand-car and peacefully distributed time bombs at regular intervals for four miles along a stretch of railway very important to the German troop traffic in Jutland. Unsuspecting railway guards saluted the saboteurs. There was no further traffic for a week.—The Danish Listening Post.

A Bible Message

No man can enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he will first bind the strong man; and then he will spoil his house. (Mark 3: 27.)

◊ ◊ ◊

And in the synagogue there was a man, which had a spirit of an unclean devil, and cried out with a loud voice, saying, Let us alone; what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth? art thou come to destroy us? I know thee who thou are; the Holy One of God. And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him. And when the devil had thrown him in the midst, he came out of him, and hurt him not.

And they were all amazed, and spake among themselves, saying, What a word is this! for with authority and power he commandeth the unclean spirits, and they come out. And the fame of him went out into every place of the country round about....

Now when the sun was setting all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him; and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them. (Luke 4: 33-37, 40.)

Delinquent Parents

Stricture on parents, from The Port Elgin Times:

If more parents took the trouble to find out what their young sons and daughters were doing between school closing and bedtime they would possibly receive a great shock. Children are allowed to roam the streets at all hours of the night and many of them are attracted to places which are breeding places for crime and moral delinquency. The place to cure conditions is in the home—far too many parents leave the bringing up of their children to the church and school.

Touchstone of Taste

The classics possess that splendor, that largeness, that gracious flexibility, that impression of vital reality which for want of a more fitting word men call beauty. No mere prettiness, no mere paste and tinsel cleverness, the beauty of the Best People is virile and pervasive; illuminating but not dazzling or shocking, it is splashed on "a ten-league canvas with bruises of comets' hair." It is at once simple and complex, which is why a classic, such as Macbeth or Faust, can be enjoyed by the uneducated man and unendingly studied and analyzed by the scholar. The classic writer, like the classic painter and the classic composer, achieves a happy balance between tension and relaxation....he has energy and ease, abandon and reserve, ruggedness and grace. Every classic has an unmistakable dominant theme; yet, like a familiar tune played with elaborate variations, every classic has a variety, a diversity, a multiplicity of ideas, insights, images, allusions, fancies and flights of words....

What, then, is a classic?....

It is a vital book, rich and penetrating in its portraiture of human nature....

It transcends the bourn of time and place, triumphs over the alien and alienating influence of different languages and divergent modes of thought. We can relish Theocritus though we know no Greek....

The classic is a book universally accepted as a touchstone of taste. Out of it teachers of language, of writing and speaking, of aesthetics, deduce principles and derive illustrations.—From "Living Upstairs—Reading for Profit and Pleasure," by Francis Meehan. (New York: Dutton.)

A Worthy Son

Story of an editor: from The Elora Express:

A certain newspaper editor had cause to admonish his son on account of his reluctance to attend school. "You must go regularly and learn to be a great scholar," said the fond father encouragingly, "otherwise you can never be an editor, you know. What would you do, for instance, if your paper came out full of mistakes?" "Father," was the reply, "I'd blame 'em on the printer." And then the father fell on his son's neck and wept for joy. He knew he had a worthy successor for the editorial chair.

Watson Wants Chance To Show Gotch

"By public demand—and by personal request." Those are the reasons why Peterborough wrestling fans will see Whipper Billy Watson in against Jan Gotch next Tuesday night. After their terrific battle here this week which ended officially when Gotch was disqualified, but which continued for some minutes before the men could be cooled off, Promoter Frank Tunney was presented by an immediate appeal by Watson for a return bout.

Whipper Watson is not the type of athlete who wants to win any bout by the disqualification route. The handsome Toronto Thunderbolt is one of the best of all the big matmen, and although he was amply justified in accepting Referee Nelson's decision, he still wants to prove to his big Polish opponent that he is actually the better man on the mat. On top of Watson's demand for a return go, an unusually large number of fans have requested that Watson be allowed to meet Gotch a second time—the reason being that Mr. Gotch has got in the hair of the customers here to such a fevered degree, that they won't be happy until they see the Whipper blasting him again.

From a promotorial view its an absolute natural. Gotch is one of those explosive-tempered individuals who come up in wrestling every once in a while and creates a tremendous uproar until some smarter grappler comes along and breaks him up. And that's what the Brock Arena audience will be yearning for next Tuesday.

With the increasingly large crowds that the wrestling bouts are drawing here, it is expected that the Watson-Gotch embroglio will really pack them in.

Callura Decisioned By Pittsburgh Boy

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 19 —(AP)—Billy Miller, 135, of Pittsburg, defeated Angelo Callura, 138, of Hamilton, Ont., before 1,000 fans last night, winning every round of their 10-round bout.

Miller outboxed the Canadian from the first, peppering him with left jabs mixed with rights to the jaw. There were no knock-downs, although Callura slipped and went down for no count in the second.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

With Normal School making their first appearance of the season and the Transports and St. John's teams clashing in a game that will momentarily decide the leadership of the loop the double-header in the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium tonight should be full of interest. The Normalites will field a new team in their debut and their contest with the young Y Cadets, starting at 7.45 o'clock should prove a colorful affair. The Cadets naturally were beaten badly by the powerful Transports a week ago but the novice Y team never stopped trying and made their best showing in the latter stages, always the sign of a game team. The second battle tonight will bring together the two outfits who opened the season with a win last Friday. Although Transports will likely be without the services of Jessie Morrow who hurt her arm in the first game they have plenty of scoring punch with Ruth Hewitt, Beryl Dobbin, Dot Bestard, Jean Castle and Isobel Crary all in action. The Saints, noted as a close checking team will give the Payne outfit a hard battle for the honors and should supply the kind of opposition that will make the game one of the best on the schedule. There should be a real crowd out to see tonight's double-header.

* * * * * *

In the House League at the Y.M.C.A. there will be a double-header Saturday night in the series for the Dominion Life Trophy. Military Training Centre No. 1 who played their opening game Wednesday, losing to Pete McArthur's Fairmiles swing right back into action in the opening game tomorrow night, meeting Joe Stewart's Algerines. The Soldiers in their initial appearance gave promise of developing into a strong outfit and they may make it interesting against the Algerines if they can find a way to stop the sniping of Stewart. He ran in 24 points in his first start and the Training Centre team will have to ride herd on him all the way. The Soldier-Algerine game is at 7.15 o'clock. In the second game of the double-header the two defeated teams of a week ago, Jim Ferguson's Corvettes and Steve Csumrik's Frigates, will clash at 8.15 and that should b a wide-open affair with the teams on paper and on their showing on opening night looking decidedly well-matched. It should be a close battle with the winners knowing by the time it is over that they have been in a ball game. The basketball in the House League promises to improve steadily as the rookie players gain confidence and begin to hit their stride.

* * * * * *

With Tuesday night's torrid battle still the chief subject of conversation among wrestling fans and the announcement that Whipper Billy Watson and Jan Gotch are to renew their mat warfare here next week has been received with enthusiasm. That clash was undoubtedly the toughest bout that has been seen here. Action never flagged for a moment and both men took a lot of punishment in a gruelling exhibition in which wrestling at times was almost forgotten as the pair went back to back alley tactics. In the opinion of many of the fans Gotch won a moral victory, even if the official decision went against him. He had Watson in difficulties repeatedly throughout the hectic encounter, so much so that the champ looked far from that. Watson, of course, realize that fact and that is why he has eagerly demanded another bout with the ruthless Pole. The champion explains his failure to outclass Gotch by blaming the unexpected assault made on him before the second round started. He says that he was in bad shape for the rest of the night and under the circumstances he was lucky to finish in front. "Next week I'll try to show the fans something different," the British Empire title-holder said yesterday, in a tone determined enough to show that he wasn't fooling.

* * * * * *

Gotch is as defiant as ever. "So Watson is squawking about me attacking him unfairly, is he?" snarled the Pole. "He's the champ. He's supposed to know all the answers. I just outsmarted him and that's what all the yelping is about. He'd better watch himself next Tuesday night or what happened the other night will seem tame. And do you notice that handsome Billy hasn't put his title on the line. That shows he's none too sure about how it's all going to end." So it looks as if the fans are really in for something when the two rivals tear into each other again in what promises to be one of the most sensational mat battles ever staged here. The biggest crowd that ever saw a wrestling match in Peterborough will be on hand for it is a sure bet that no one who saw last Tuesday's battle would think of missing the return bout and their numbers will be swollen by many new attendants, anxious to see what all the shouting it about.

Wildcats, By A Mile

Making due allowance for the fact that Billy Hughes has a solid reputation as a coach and that he has declared that the Lachine R.C.A.F. squad is not by long odds the worst senior squad he has handled—and he has tutored a lot of good ones—this column still thinks that the 5 to 1 odds offered on Hamilton Wildcats to take tomorrow's Eastern Canadian sudden-death final are entirely justified. Joe Krol and Company on their record seem to have entirely too much on the ball for the Quebec winners. The Fliers have nothing in their lineup to match the brilliancy of Krol and certainly their forward wall does not look to have the power to hold that powerful Wildcat line. The Easterners depend a lot on razzle-dazzle football but it's hard using that kind of stuff when your backfield is full of opposing wingmen and that seems quite likely to be the case tomorrow. Hughes is depending on speed, quick thinking and better condition to win for his team. They are all very useful qualities but somehow we cannot convince ourselves that the R.C.A.F. squad possesses them in sufficient quantity to bother the O.R.F.U. winners very much. In other words the Cats would have to have a really bad day to give the Fliers a look-in and with a crack at the Western winners coming up the Hamilton battlers are not in the least likely to come up with a bad day. In fact this column is inclined to think that if Joe Krol elected to sit this one out the Wildcats would still be good enough to win.

Twenty-two entries were in this morning for the Peterborough Swimming Championships in the Y Pool tomorrow night and Swim Director Gord Minty predicts a fine meet with some outstanding swimming performances. Five Toronto competitors have entered. One is Carl Murphy, promising young Toronto West End Y swimmer who in the Canadian championships at Winnipeg recently finished second in both the junior free style and back stroke events and has entered in those classes in the Peterborough meet. Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. will be represented by four swimmers, Jack White, Bob Dean, Ernie Wright and Keith Johnson. Dean is a younger brother of the former Canadian champion. With the pick of Peterborough swim stars competing along with this high-class opposition from out-of-town the Saturday night meet should be a most successful affair and should attract a real crowd.

Sporting Chili Cno Carne: Roy Suddards of the Empress team came close to the five-pin bowlers' dream last night in the City League when he packed in ten strikes in a row but on the next bowl left the four pin standing. He then spared for a score of 431....His total for the night was 932 which gives him high three and high single for the league....Ray P. Best of Peterborough who is president of the Ontario Curling Association is going to take a rink to the invitation bonspiel at Kitchener next week....Bill Calladine did not get into the scoring summary at Chicago last night....Toronto Leafs dropped back to a third place tie with the Detroit Red Wings as a result of last night's doings....The Chicago Black Hawks with Billy Mosienko running wild defeated the Bruins 7 to 3 and climbed into the second slot....Kingston has lost one hockey team but hopes to gain another before tomorrow night....Ernie Lombardi has been arrested on an assault and battery charge....It will be difficult for a catcher to get away from the second part of that count....Whipper Billy Watson defeated Cowboy Jack Graham in Toronto last night, drop-kicking the cowboy out of the ring.

Named Coach

WINNIPEG — (CP)—Former defenceman with the Buffalo Bisons, Bill Allum yesterday was appointed playing coach of H.M.C.S. Chippawa in the Winnipeg Armed Services Hockey League, succeeding Harry Neil who retired for business reasons.

Roy Suddards Sets Up New High Three

Roy Suddards bowled 932 for his three games including what may be the best single game of the year for the Men's City League last night. He placed 10 straight strikes on the line in his first game to finish up with a fine 431 which is second only in the City loop to Bud Weese's memorable 441 of four years ago as being the nearest thing to perfect. Tom Curvin hit the only City League 450 in 1936 while Wilfred Shiner scored a 450 game for the C.G.E. League in 1928.

Suddards had quite a night, his 932 ousted Tick Caccavella's week-old 919 for the season's high three game mark while his Empress team chalked up 3492 pins for the evening's high team total score. The K. of C. outfit rolled a 1344 game to stop the Empress boys from collaring all four weekly prizes.

Other good singles included Ray Clifford's 338, Joe Denault's 327, Tom Martin's 320, Frank McCormack's 315, "Buck" Guerin's 310, Fred Willison's 308 and Johnny Legrow's 300.

Beating Armstrong for welter title

Fritzie Zivic

Fritzie and wife

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian Sports Editor

For 25 years the name of Zivic has been a headliner in the boxing world.

First it was Pete. Then it was Jack. Joe followed. Fritzie was next. Then came Eddie.

Fritzie, veteran of 13 years in the ring, was the best and most famous of the Fightin' Zivics. He fought his way up to the top, winning the welterweight championship from Henry Armstrong.

Fritzie is ready to hang up his gloves. Still a busy campaigner this year, Fritzie fought his 15th bout this year when he met Jake LaMotta in New York for the third meeting of the two.

Has Three Children

Father of three children, the battling 31-year-old star of the Zivic entourage has been called by his Pittsburgh draft board. If he goes into the service it is unlikely he will fight again, since the flat-nosed ex-welter king has been talking of retirement ever since he lost his crown to Red Cochrane two years ago.

The rough and tough Zivic, popular champion, and a game campaigner, has met all the best fighters in the world, in and out of his class.

In the ring Fritzie has proved to be a roughhouse brawler, using all the tricks of the trade, and yet his record shows nary a foul loss in more than 175 bouts.

Loses Nine Straight

Fritzie is a Croatian-American. He was born in Pittsburgh May 8, 1913, and began boxing at the age of 17, having had three brothers already in the game.

In his first two years in the ring only Steve Senich beat him—twice. Fritzie took all comers until late in 1934, when Laddie Tonelli kayoed him in three rounds in Chicago.

Fritzie hit the downhill road late in 1935, when he lost eight straight bouts. Returning to action, he won seven straight.

His ring career continued up and down until 1940 when he was matched with Sammy Angott, who had won the lightweight title only a couple of months before.

Wins Welter Title

Zivic won the decision in 10 rounds in Pittsburgh and the win gave him a shot at Henry Armstrong's welter crown.

Zivic all but murdered Henry, winning a 15-round decision and "Hurricane Hank's" 147-pound title.

Fritzie later gave Henry a return match, knocking him out in 12 rounds.

The Pittsburgher's title reign was brief. Freddie (Red) Cochrane took Fritzie's crown in July, 1941, in 15 rounds.

Armstrong, making a comeback, met Fritzie early this year on the Pacific coast and won a decision from him.

Pete Zivic, the first brother to hit the boxing trail, was a bantamweight.

Eddie Is Last

He won the international amateur bantam title in 1918. For 11 years he campaigned in the ring, winding up his career in 1929.

Jack Zivic, a lightweight, also won the international amateur championship in 1918. He was still fighting in 1929.

Joey Zivic fought for a few years, but gave it up to play pro baseball.

Eddie, the last of the Zivics to turn to boxing as a profession, although older than Fritzie, began to fight as a pro in 1932. He was a lightweight, too. He campaigned through 1940.

Third Schedule Finally Adopted

MONTREAL, Nov. 19.—(CP). — The Quebec Senior Hockey League adopted their third schedule since the beginning of a shaky season at a meeting here last night. The withdrawal of Montreal Army and Cornwall Flyers through lack of players resulted in the cancellation of the two previous date lists.

The season will open in Ottawa Nov. 20 when Montreal Air Force meets Commandos. Montreal Royals open the Quebec season when they face Aces, Nov. 21. The two Montreal clubs meet Nov. 24 as the league gets under way in Montreal. All previous games played this season have been deleted from the standings.

BLACKSTONE'S "MAGIC"

Bob Hardie's disappearing bird cage thoroughly mystified the Business Men at their dinner luncheon Thursday night. It was a new stunt Mr. Hardie has developed since last season. He said it was featured by Blackstone, but even the Master could hardly have excelled the Hardie performance because there wasn't a rough edge to it, and the crowd that usually knows most of the answers were stymied on the bird cage vanishment. Another feature of the after dinner entertainment were several songs sung by Charlie Helmsley of Lakefield.

CHIMNEY FIRE

The fire department had only one alarm on Thursday and that at 9:35 p.m. at the home of Fred Cripps, 294 Stewart street. It was a chimney fire and there was no damage.

SNOW ALMOST GONE

Only little scattered patches of snow remained in the meadows this morning, but in the plowed fields the peaks of the furrows were bare and the troughs were sharply outlined with snow, suggesting an immense gridiron.

NEED DEER HIDES.

Deer hides are required to be converted into leather vests for the crew of corvette "Peterborough." Anyone having a deer hide is requested to leave it at Harry Jopling's fur shop on Murray Street, just east of Aylmer. Mr. Jopling is co-operating with the citizens' committee in this special war service.

SELL HEMLOCK SLABS

The reserve stock of hardwood which was a remnant from supplies brought several years ago has been sold by the city. Orders are now being taken for dry hemlock slabs at $8 a cord in four foot length. The council's fuel committee had decided to sell the hardwood to persons who were lacking fuel of any kind and to others who bought it to save coal in the present favorable weather.

LOSES SIGHT OF EYE

Sight of an eye, struck by a snowball, was permanently lost to a Lindsay girl, Joan Mitz, who was brought to Nicholls Hospital and attended by Dr. C. C. Cragg. Miss Mitz is a student at Lindsay Collegiate Institute. According to the Daily Post report she was taken to the office of Dr. Arnold who recognized the seriousness of the injury, and decided to bring his patient to Peterborough. The eyeball was ruptured almost immediately by the force of the snowball, which presumably Miss Mitz did not see.

THE USUAL FINE

Pleading guilty to the charge in police court today, William Kinsman, Millbrook, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs in a charge of having been drunk. "He was arrested on Aylmer street and he had a truck on Charlotte street. He might have tried to drive it if he had not been arrested," said Inspector J. F. Reid. "I don't think I will take that into consideration," commented Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in imposing the usual fine.

OBITUARY

JOSEPH WALTER FISHER

A large gathering of relatives and friends paid tribute to the memory of Joseph Walter Fisher at George Street United church recently. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, minister of Murray Street Baptist church and long time neighbor of Mr. Fisher, conducted the service in the absence of the minister, Rev. H. L. Roberts, who is now in Toronto convalescing following an operation. Rev. A. H. McConnachie, a friend of the family assisted in the funeral service. Mr. Sutcliffe took his text from the First Psalm "He shall be like a Tree" and he spoke of the striking qualities in Mr. Fisher's character using the tree as an illustration. One of the favorite hymns of the departed brother was "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," and this was sung as a request number by Mr. Sutcliffe.

Mr. Fisher was born in South Monaghan, June 26, 1863, son of Joseph Fisher and Sarah Fitzgerald. From the time he started to work he labored on his father's farm until he came to Peterborough thirty seven years ago. During his time there he was a member of Bensfort Methodist church and he was the recording secretary of the circuit for seventeen years. In 1887 he was married to Miss Mary Finnie, of South Monaghan. From the old homestead in South Monaghan Mr. and Mrs. Fisher moved to 493 Water street, where they resided at the time of his death.

During his days in this city Mr. Fisher was in the employ of the late Roland Denne, feed merchant, and for twenty years he was market clerk. He was a member of George Street United church and for a quarter of a century he was a member of the official board. Those surviving are his wife, Mary Finnie, a daughter, Mrs. Frank Buckham, Bensfort, and four grandchildren, Fisher, R.C.A.F., John, Mary and Harold Buckham. He was the last surviving member of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fisher their being four sons and four daughters.

93 Car Owners Given Tickets

In spite of the fact that the police have been handing out tickets regularly, there is still a considerable amount of illegal parking around the business section.

The report of traffic regulations as prepared for the Police Commission shows that during October 93 car owners were fined for parking in prohibited areas or for too long a period or some other parking irregularity.

The system by which motorists who have received tickets may visit the city clerk's office and pay a $1 fine to dispose of the case quickly is working out well, according to the authorities.

Swedish Town Bombed

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 19—(AP).—An aircraft of unidentified nationality dropped bombs on the university town of Osslund, north-east of Malmoe, last night, damaging the centre of the city, the newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported. Incendiaries of German manufacture were said to have fallen near Lund, a town north of Malmoe.

CheeseDemands To Cut Butter Output

TORONTO, Nov. 19 — (CP). — C. E. Lackner, Director of Dairying, Ontario Department of Agriculture, told a wartime conference of the Ontario Creamery Association here on Wednesday that the province's production may be decreased this year.

Contributing to such a situation, Mr. Lackner said, would be the milk demanded by Ontario's increased consumption, the re-opening of cheese factories, and a shortage of feed. He reported butter production for the first nine months of 1943 up four per cent.

Professor W. H. Sproule, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, told the convention of a special twelve-week course at the O.A.C. established to alleviate shortages in butter and cheese makers and market plant operators.

Officers elected yesterday were: Lea Marshall, Jarvis, president; H. R. Hinchley, Renfrew; Bert Everett, London; A. J. Wagg, Mindemoya, and J. D Sibbald, Jackson's Point, vice-presidents; A. S. Thurston, Meaford, secretary-treasurer.

Three Crews Safe

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 19— (CP).—The crews of three American heavy bombers made safe, forced landings in Sweden yesterday after having lost their way in fog during the week's second raid on Norway. Seventy American bomber crewmen are now interned in Sweden. A mixed crew of Canadian, American, and Netherlands airmen manned the Liberators.

Minister, Priest Or Teacher Unable To Accept Office In Peterborough's First Council

Peterborough was incorporated as a town in 1850, but before incorporation became a fact there was much preliminary spade work to be done and at a public meeting held on March 27, 1848, a committee was appointed to draft a bill in that behalf.

The Weekly Despatch of December 14, 1848, published the result of their deliberations. It was a very lengthy document taking up 8½ pages in the paper, each 16 inches long, very closely printed. It has much of the tautological verbosity found in many old legal documents but it is hoped to give a condensed and intelligible statement of its contents.

It stated that owing to the great increase in population of the town of Peterborough in the district of Colborne it was necessary to make provision for its internal regulation and it was desired that the people of the town of Peterborough should be constituted as a body political and corporate in fact and in law.

The town was to consist of lands situate in the township of Monaghan with in the following limits, namely: All the lands comprised in the Government survey north of Townsend Street and east of Park Street to the centre of the Otonabee River with the latter as its eastern boundary and to the centre of the road allowance formerly the boundary line between the Townships of Monaghan and Smith as its northern limit.

A Mayor and Council

The government of the town to be in the hands of a Town Council to be called "The Mayor and Council of the town of Peterborough." It was to be divided into four wards, East, North, Centre and South and the boundaries are set forth in the bill which also gives at great length the necessary qualifications for members of the Council with this strange proviso that no person should be eligible for membership "who shall be a minister, priest, ecclesiastic or teacher under any form or profession of Christian faith and worship."

The first election was to be held on the first Monday in May 1838 in charge of the Sheriff—first by a show of hands and in case a poll should be demanded it was to be held during the hours from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. This was however modified by the Municipal Corporation Act 12 Victoria, Chapter 81 (1849) and the date set as now, on the first Monday in January.

A lengthy list of by-laws is given dealing with every public service and administration, the Board of Health was to be appointed to help the Council carry out by-laws to preserve the health of the town and "to prevent the introduction and spreading of infectious and and pestilantial diseases."

Power was given to levy taxes and to borrow funds for the purpose of building a market, procuring a fire engine and other purposes deemed to be "expedient and necessary by the Town Council."

There followed very precise instructions as to the method of assessment of real property and the collection of taxes; it also gave specific power to levy taxes on some types of personal property. These included horses, horned cattle and vehicles of all kinds down to a one-horse sleigh used for pleasure only.

Statute Labor

Provision is made for the performance of road and statute labor. "Every male over 21 and under 60 2 days" followed by the inclusion of every male and female assessed on an actual rental value according to a schedule set forth ranging from two days for a £10 value to 6 days for one of from £40 to £60 and one day additional for every additional £2.

Every by-law, rule or regulation of the Council to which a penalty is attached, before it should have effect was to be published in one or more newspapers and to be affixed in four public places in each ward; also there was to be published in each ward, one month before the annual election, a statement of moneys received and expended by the Council.

Meetings of the Council were to be held on the first Monday of each month, and such other days as may be appointed. The meetings were to be held in the Town Hall to be erected and until then in some suitable convenient place.

It was to be lawful for any member of the Council to order the arrest of any "drunken, disorderly or riotous" person whom he shall find disturbing the peace, to be confined until brought before the Town Council to be dealt with according to law.

In order to provide a suitable town hall and market building, build sewers and other necessary improvements, the Council was authorized to borrow not more than $1,000 from any one individual at the current legal rate of interest and to mortgage or place in security any property or asset of the town.

There was a snag at first in these proposals as there appeared to be precedent or authority for the elevation to the status of a town of a community that had never been an incorporated village such as Peterborough, for up to that time it had been part of the township of Monaghan. This was overcome on the opinion of a high legal authority and eventually incorporation was granted as and from January 1, 1850.

The first election was held on January 7, 1850, with the following members elected to Peterborouh's first Town Council:

East Ward: Thomas Benson, John Hall and Thomas Harper.

Centre Ward: William Eastland, James Hall, and Robert Ridley.

South Ward: Charles Hudson, E. Chamberlen and Patrick Ryan.

North Ward: James Harvey, W. G. Conger and Duncan McDonald.

Township elections held at the same time show many familiar names amongst those elected:

Monaghan: R. Stewart, J. Dobbin, T. Fortye, George Young and J. Tully.

Smith: J. T. Milburn, P. Costello, T. Bell, A. Breden and Isaac Garbutt.

The first meeting of the new council was held on January 21, 1850, in the grand jury room at the Court-House. Thomas Benson was elected Mayor and Reeve, W. H. Vizard clerk and Wm. Cumming chief constable.

Stores To Close Monday, Dec. 27

Business men Thursday night decided to close their stores on Monday, December 27, following the Christmas Saturday holiday, but they will carry through the two last months on the present policy of the Wednesday afternoon holidays.

A resolution at the dinner meeting by Arnold Deyell and Ronald Knox to remain closed at the mid-week, except during the week of Christmas, carried with the support of the large majority of the meeting. By the present bylaw, the Wednesday afternoon holiday was planned for ten months, from January 1 to the end of October. Some of the members of the association last night suggested that this option might be used during December, leaving the nights of Christmas week blank, but the proposal stirred up opposition. The Christmas Monday closing was moved by George Hildenbrand and Isadore Black.

Leather Found Scarce

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—(CP).—Leather inventories in the United States are so depleted, the War Production Board said yesterday, that maintaining production of rationed footwear is threatened. The committee suggests an increase in cattle slaughters.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 19.—(AP).—The Goteborg newspaper Handels-Och Sjoefartstidning said yesterday the German opposition radio reported Field Marshal Gen. Fritz Von Mannstein has been proposed as commander-in-chief of all German military operations by German Generals in a secret meeting.

Tear Down Jungle

WITH U.S. FORCES ON BOUGAINVILLE, Solomons, Nov. 17 (Delayed)—(AP)—A captured Japanese infantry officer paid this left-handed compliment to the United States Marines: "Marines are not such good jungle fighters. But the trouble is the Marines tear down the jungle. After a while there is no jungle left to fight in."

Parents Advised Son Buried In Netherlands

The fate of Flying Officer Gerald Fitzgerald, R.C.A.F., who has been missing for several months after a big bombing raid, was made known today after his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Fitzgerald, King street, received word through the Red Cross in Switzerland that their son is buried in Holland.

FO. GERALD FITZGERALD

FO. Fitzgerald, who attended Prince of Wales school and the Collegiate, worked for a time at the Quaker Oats until he enlisted in the Air Force as a navigator. He trained for nine months at Mont Joli, Belleville and Malton and went overseas in October 1942. A few weeks after he began operational flights at night, he was reported missing, and at the time of his death he was in charge of a Wellington bomber.

His parents believe that he was on his way back from raiding a large German city when the plane came down killing the entire crew.

Increased Dependence On Western Grain

Every one of the central Ontario counties reports increased dependence on Western grain for livestock and poultry feed this winter. The reports to the Ontario Department of Agriculture are similar from the entire group, Prince Edward on the east to Ontario and from Northumberland back to Muskoka and Parry Sound. This scarcity is one of the final measures of the 1943 grain crop which turned into a disappointment all across the province.

Here is Lambton on the west, for instance:— "A great deal more than the normal amount of Western grain will be needed. And then on the east, Carleton: "Hay is plentiful and of good quality. Grain is less than 50 per cent of normal. Large quantities of Western grain are coming in, but not nearly enough."

Plant Lets Out 10,000

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19—(CP).—Ten thousand of the more than 25,000 employees of the St. Louis ordnance plant will be released in the next few weeks in a production curtailment plan made necessary by a surplus of small arms ammunition, Lt.-Col. George V. Riley, commanding officer, said yesterday.

The Caban Draw Totals $172 For War Victims

From time to time during the past few weeks, varying amounts have appeared in this column for the Peterborough and District British War Victims, as the result of the sale of tickets for a draw on seven prizes donated and sponsored by Victor Caban Sr. of 543 Park St. which at the time of last reporting amounted to $142.00

This effort came to a climax last Friday, when the draw was made at the Legion Hall in which M. F. Schaefer of 98 London Street won first prize, the second prize going to E. Pruner of 478 Aylmer St., the third being won by Gnr. H. Beaumont, serving with the active forces in Italy, the 4th prize going to F. Burns of 69 Maple St., the 5th prize was won by E. Bingham of Bridgenorth, the 6th prize going to K. Beeles of Brantford, and the last prize (the choice of a calf or $20.00 war saving certificate) being won by Mrs. J. Rody of 576 Harvey St.

Way back in the early stages of the fund's operations, Victor Caban Sr. took a hand in helping the fund by giving a cow which was auctioned off to produce a nice sum to help things along, and since then he has given without stint in various other ventures from none too affluent means to continue the good work.

This latest contribution involved the giving of a number of prizes, which included war savings certificates up to a value of $65.00 which had been carefully saved as a nest egg for Victor Caban Jr. when he should return from active service overseas, and since this can now never be, he having paid the highest sacrifice possible for King and Country, the parents to do further good in his name, relinquished them for this cause a splendid gesture indeed on behalf of the war effort.

Today a further $30.50 is recorded as a result of this effort, which now gives it a grand total of $172.50, a splendid amount to do some good in this boy's name for those who have suffered from air raids over Britain.

Mother's Memory Honored

In a busy rushing world, things happen today and are forgotten tomorrow. A beautiful thought for days long since past, and the touch of a loving vanished hand is contained in a donation today under the heading of "In loving memory of my Mother, Mrs. George Sloan, on the anniversary of her birthday, November 19th, from her daughter Alberta."

The penny boxes made their silent appeal in the Canadian Bank of Commerce do a good work on behalf of the fund their latest contribution yielding $3.75 from a collection made on Thursday by the secretary of the fund.

Christmas Presents

While this country is blessed beyond measure in many ways in comparison to those in the war zone, still it may be a bit hard to secure toys for the kiddies this Christmas. Through the generosity of the Roy Powell family, the fund now has quite a few Kaleidescopes on hand to boost the Christmas Cheer fund, and these may be procured at a cost of 25 cents each, all of which comes to the fund.

Besides giving much innocent pleasure, void of many drawbacks that a number of toys invite, there should be the added satisfaction that the entire purchase price is going on its way to give children afflicted through the war, some pleasure on Christmas Day. These may be procured on enquiry at the Examiner office.

RESTING—NORTH AFRICA—It hasn't all the comfort of a drawing room chair at home but this 4,000-pound bomb serves as a seat for these two gun armourers with an R.C.A.F. North African squadron. Refused Admission

TORONTO, Nov. 19—(CP). —Reeve F. A. C. Butler of nearby Etobicoke yesterday told York County Council that an indigent patient he had taken to hospital was refused admission and died at home 24 hours later. He said the hospital explained there was no bed available for a public patient.

Peterboro Boys Are Wounded

The names of two Peterborough and district men, Sgnm. F. Arthur Brockley and Cpl. Ross Bullied, appeared in a casualty list today, reported as wounded in Italy.

Sgnm. F. A. Brockley, whose wife the former Evelyn Rome, lives at 330 Burnham street, was said to be wounded in the right side. Formerly employed at Loblaw's, he enlisted in August, 1942, in Kingston. After training in Kingston and Barriefield he went overseas in March of this year, having been married January 30. Sgnm. Brockley took part in the Sicilian campaign and came through unscathed.

The second soldier Cpl. Ross Bullied, hails from a spot about five miles west of Apsley with a post office address at Lasswade. He enlisted in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment shortly after the war broke out and went overseas around December 1939. Cpl. Bullied is the son of Mrs. Harley Woodbeck and he has two brothers, Cpl. Cecil and Charles Bullied who went overseas with him in the same unit. Before enlisting he was a farmer. Information about the nature of his wound is not available.

County Hospital May Be Reality

Members of Peterborough County Council may be interested in the statement of Lorne Weber, reeve of Waterloo township, that "the time cannot come too soon when Waterloo county will seriously consider the erection of its own hospital or institution where people who are bodily and mentally ill may receive treatment."

"Most of us know that our present House of Refuge is being called upon to discharge a function for which it was not built, the care of people either mentally or bodily ill." Reeve Weber said.

On occasions when the number of inmates of Peterborough's County Home had decreased to a comparative few, and at other times when the condition of some of the inmates required nursing and medical attention, the County Council has discussed possible changes in the general utility of the institution, but nothing ever came of these talks. For the past year, the council's attention has turned to the expectation of the Nicholls Hospital Board that some agreement of support for services rendered may be arranged with the county.

Another Highway

CALGARY, Nov. 19 — (CP). — At the conclusion of a two-day inter-provincial conference of Provincial Highway Ministers, Deputy Ministers, engineers and other Government officials, a resolution was passed yesterday urging the Dominion Government to provide funds for a cross-Canada highway construction program following the war.

Blames C.C.F.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Nov. 19 —(CP). — Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, last night issued a statement amplifying his charge that a recent slow-down in packing plants was fomented by the C.I.O. which he said was a strong right arm of the C.C.F.

Elevsis Airfield Destroyed In Fourth Raid

By NOLAND NORGAADS
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 19. — (AP).—Striking for the fourth successive day at German planes massed for a continued attack in the Aegean, American heavy and medium bombers practically completed destruction of Elevsis airfield at Athens yesterday and bombed another enemy air base at Larissa on the Greek east coast.

While a slight improvement of the weather permitted lively patrol activity and some artillery duelling on the Italian land front, flooded rivers still prevented large-scale action and deep mud still bogged down most of the heavy equipment of the 5th and 8th armies.

The fourth devastating attack on Elevisis airfield in as many days was made by Flying Fortresses whose bombs were shown in photographs to have destroyed or damaged more than a dozen enemy planes on the ground and left many fires burning.

Little Resistance.

They encountered heavy anti-aircraft fire but only half a dozen fighters in the vicinity, and these were driven off by the fighter escort.

Eight fires blazed on Larissa airfield, another centre of German air concentration, after the raid, and heavy loads of explosives fell among parked planes, runways and hangars.

Taking advantage of the lull on the Italian front, fighters and fighter-bombers crossed the Adriatic in full strength to support the Yugoslav partisans with strafing runs along the roads and railways.

Spitfires shot up 16 trucks and set fire to two gasoline carriers on the road from Durazzo, Albania.

The attack on shipping was near Sibenik.

Medium bombers, meanwhile assailed the Larissa airfield on an important rail link between Athens and Salonika, and dumped tons of explosives on the Grosseto and Terni railroad yards north of Rome in Italy.

While fighter hammered shipping along the Yugoslav coast, venturing up the Krkla River where they sank one steamer and damaged two others, light bombers and fighter-bombers took advantage of the improved weather to sweep along the front to attack motor convoy's particularly in the Ascoli and Aquila areas.

Eighth army units, feeling their way through rough country toward the Sangro River on the Adriatic flank, managed to gain some high ground north of the village of Archi northwest of Atessa despite stout resistance. The gain permitted better observation of the enemy's strong defence line across the river.

Major movements were curtailed except along paved highways and temporary bridges flung up by the engineer across swollen streams. The Trigno had risen seven feet above its normal level at this time of the year.

Refugees Escape Domination To Help Norway

By ADINE SEAGRAM
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LITTLE NORWAY, Muskoka, Ont., Nov. 19 — (CP). — There a new uniform in Canada. At Camp Little Norway near Gravenhurst, Ont., a small group of Norwegian girls have donned the blue of the Norwegian Women's Auxiliary Air Force and are training to join the N.W.A.A.F. in England.

Some of these girls remember a flight from Nazi-scavenged Norway others have dim recollections of a pleasant childhood there and a few were born in Canada or the United States of Norwegian parents, but without exception they all want to go back as soon as the war is over. In the meanwhile they commute daily to Little Norway from nearby districts doing whatever job will release their countrymen for combat duty.

There's young Anne Novik who with her family and two friends crept from under the Nazi thumb to sail to the New World in a 70-foot boat.

"There were 23 of us—my parents, uncles, aunts, cousins, two friends and my six-months-old sister, Aud," she said in telling of the party's experience.

They slipped from island to island at night until they reached the Faroes north of Scotland. While on the trip they hid in a cove while a U-boat searched for them. At three different times the German bombers appeared overhead looking for them.

After something like 3,000 miles, a mixture of hide-and-seek and of sailing seas heavy for the little ship, they reached St. John's, Nfld., and then Sydney, N.S. But the journey was not ended, and they set out by way of Panama for Vancouver where they had friends.

Anne wants to go to England where her sister Astrid is nursing at a Norwegian hospital, but meanwhile she works at the R.C.A.F. headquarters in Toronto and helps send Norwegian newspapers to her countrymen training in Canada.

The story of Mrs. Lillemor Simonsen covers most of the globe. At Easter in Norway people go to the mountains for holidays and sports, and Mrs. Simonsen and her husband were granted permission to go to one of these resorts. On April 9, 1941, exactly one year after the invasion of Norway, they escaped into Sweden.

By Russian Plane.

There with hundreds of Norwegians, they waited for seats on a plane operated by a commercial Russian airline. The plane carried them to Moscow, but they had to leave that city quickly. A four-day train trip took them to Odessa on the Black Sea where they boarded a Russian ship.

The first port was Varna, Bulgaria, and because that was occupied country they had to lie low.

"That was quite a sight to see all those Germans again," she said. "They were down at the port taking pictures all the time so we had to hide. I think the Germans knew we were on the ship, but Russia hadn't entered the war at that time and so they couldn't stop us."

Mrs. Simonsen said they finally got aboard an old English tramp at Istanbul and resumed the journey only to be bombed off Syria. Although damaged the vessel was able to continue at slow speed.

They sailed on by Cairo, Suez, Aden, Calcutta, Singapore, Java, Manila and San Francisco, arriving in the United States five months after they had left Norway. They came directly to Toronto because in Norway they had heard of and seen pictures of Little Norway and the R.N.A.F. centre in Toronto.

Mrs. Simonsen is the Norwegian secretary to the Air Officer in command of Little Norway. She says that in the N.W.A.A.F. uniform she will soon join her husband, a naval Air Force flier in England.

Up to the present the Women's Auxiliary Air Force has supplied headquarters and Little Norway with secretaries, teletype operator, airplane painter, cook, photographer, switchboard operator, hospital helper, kitchen helper and waitress.

HEADLINES IN FUR—When it comes to fur hats, we've travelled a mighty long way from the Daniel Boonish sort of headpiece that used to be standard for a fur headpiece. Now fur hats are lilting, light and lovely, garnished with fanciful trimmings, and altogether are creations. Suzanne et Roger designed this mink turban with a touch of Spring in the form of colorful flowers.

Local Council of Women Hear Captain S. B. Profitt

"The true task of democracy is to safeguard and develop life," said Capt. S. B. Profitt, padre of the local Training Centre, who spoke to the Local Council of Women held in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. W. H. Morton, the president, was in the chair.

In his address, Capt. Profitt pointed out that before this war the democracies were becoming lax, and that their motto was, "Live and Let Live," and a high regard for wealth had dulled the minds of the people. However, he continued, this war, terrible as it is, has shocked people from their complacent lethargy, and brought forth a spirit of service. Smugness and self-satisfaction are fast disappearing under the national need for co-operation. People are realizing that there is a great wealth of things of far greater value than money.

Capt. Profitt explained that self-interest was the greatest danger to be faced by the democracies today. People must not allow themselves to become tired and weary under the strain of extra effort, nor must they lessen their efforts for a complete and final victory.

"Live and Help Live" must be the motto for the democracies after the war, and it is in the fulfilment of this idea that women will play an important part, the speaker continued. He explained that the women of the world will have to take a leading part in post-war relief and rehabilitation.

Capt. Profitt went on to say that the world has shrunk because of vast improvements in communications, and that all nations will have to learn to live co-operatively and helpfully with each other, and thus develop an interest in each other, which will bring them closer together in a common fellowship of mutual friendship and interest.

The speaker also praised the work women are doing for the soldiers, by entertaining them, and taking a general interest in their welfare and happiness. He said that their friendship and service would always be remembered with thankfulness by all the soldiers who had enjoyed their hospitality.

It was announced during the business session that the December meeting of the Council would be cancelled, and that the annual meeting will be held in January. A nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. M. Magee and Miss Margaret Ferguson, was named to bring in a slate of officers for the new year.

A luncheon committee, Mrs. C. W. Clee and Mrs. W. Fanjoy, was named to plan the dinner to be served at the annual meeting. This committee will work with the Home League of the Salvation Army, and will assist the League in the preparations. The vice-presidents were put in charge of the choosing of two members to be given life memberships in the Council.

Mrs. B. H. McNeely, convener for Child Welfare, gave a report on juvenile delinquency, and discussed the reasons for the alarming increase, and possible solutions for this problem. The lack of supervised recreation seemed to have proved the most frequent cause of this increase.

Mrs. G. K. Fraser, Public Health convener, said that the problem of public health needed the interest and co-operation of everyone. She explained that statistics show that the Province of Ontario compares favorably in the matter of public health with any other. "But," the speaker continued, "we don't want to compare, we want to be superior to any other place in the world."

Mrs. Fraser explained that steps toward teaching of public health have been taken, and that hygiene lectures are being given to members of the armed forces, and that fresh air camps and similar enterprises to improve the health of children have also been set up.

"However," she said, "these plans are only a beginning," and concluded by requesting all the ladies to aid her in every way possible to improve the health status of this community.

Mrs. W. Hagerman Hostess To Group

NORWOOD, Nov. 19—(ENS)—Mrs. W. Hagerman was hostess to the Red Cross war workers group of her community at a tea, and for the regular Red Cross meeting. During the afternoon one large quilt and two small quilts were completed, and Mrs. Kane assembled the blocks for a large quilt top. Two linings were donated to the group by Mrs. Kane and Phyllis Ford and Mrs. H. Ford, and Mrs. W. Kane and Mrs. H. Ford, Mrs. H. Peters and Mrs. J. Marks handed in 15 pieced blocks. Mrs. W. Hagerman knit two pairs of socks for the navy, and Mrs. H. Ford knit one pair of blue booties and one blue bonnet for the Red Cross. Materials were distributed for making more quilt blocks, and wool was given out for knitting.

At the conclusion of the meeting tea was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. E. Johnston, and Mrs. Edgar Buck invited the ladies to meet at her home for the next meeting.

Trinity WMS Meets In Church Parlor

The November meeting of Trinity Women's Missionary Society was held in the church parlor, with the president, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, in the chair. Several reports were read, and Mrs. H. A. Mitchell, accompanied by Mrs. G. N. Moncrief, sang "The Legend."

Mrs. Howard Clegg was the speaker for the afternoon. She told an interesting story of how and where the Women's Missionary Society money was spent, and gave an insight into the long view that must be taken in regard to missions. She also spoke of the repatriated missionaries from the Orient who are working among the interned Japanese in the West, and of the planning that will be necessary to enable funds to be set aside for use in the devastated areas after the war.

Several books for home reading were introduced by the president. Four new study books have arrived, and each member is to read one at home instead of taking one chapter at each meeting. It is thought that this will make the study book become a personal thing with each member, as she is requested to inscribe her name on the fly leaf as she completes her study of it.

The attendance contest was lost by the members of Mrs. Kimberley's and Mrs. W. T. Edmondson's groups, and therefore they will be responsible for the December meeting.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, November 20.

THE CONFIGURATIONS of this day must be interpreted as generally adverse, with a sudden upheaval or disintegration that may prove uprooting to all sorts of holdings and create havoc or estrangements, either in business or private associations. There may be unpredictable and devastating events, which are likely to be bungled or aggravated by errors of judgment, snap decisions, anger, trickery and fraud. With these shrewdly handled there may be benefits.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a disruptive and upsetting, time, with all the interests and plans suddenly and unpredictably devastated. There may be a general reversal or turning of the tide into dangerous or haphazard channels. Such entranglements, or spading up, may be rendered more difficult by mistakes, ill-considered judgments or unwise decisions, inciting to separations or estrangements all along the line. With emotionalism, nervous tension and impetuosity held in restraint there may be a chance of gain, but shun treachery, fraud and haste especially with writings or contracts. Deal with responsible groups.

A child born on this day may be reckless, changeable, erratic and emotionally impetuous thereby inviting adverse conditions or sudden smashes.

The president, James Dutton, was in the chair, and while there was a good attendance of board members, the question of whether a return to evening meetings would be more convenient was discussed. Miss Ross gave a report of the October nursing activities, pointing out that the work remained on a par with that of last year, and that visits to cases of cancer and chronic illness had decreased. She also said that it was gratifying to note the increase in the visits of an educational nature.

SMART CHILL CHASERS—The weskit achieves top billing now that cold weather is here. For town wear there are weskits of wool, velvet or silk and for country there are wondrous weskits of fur. Thirsty Yanks Search For Whisky Stocks

By C. R. BLACKBURN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—(AP)—The list of American press agents is long and includes many well-known names. Washington is crowded with these experts whose jobs are to get favorable press notices for their clients who at various times include presidential candidates, bankers, farm groups and the like.

Newest big name among press agents as Russell Birdwell. His client is former King Carol of Rumania. His object, he says frankly, is to convince the United Nations that Carol should be assisted to form a "Free Rumanian Government" as an instrument against Nazi Germany.

Where Is It?

Empty Shelves: The United States senate wants to know what has happened to all the liquor and, for that matter, so do a good many thirsty Americans. Retail stores have little if any good Scotch, rye or Bourbon. Yet Chairman Frederick Van Nuys of the Senate Judiciary Committee says "there is enough liquor in the country to last five years if another pint is not made."

Newspapers are joining in the cry of "Where's that liquor?" Many Congressmen believe it is in the hands of wholesalers and dealers who are holding it for sky-high prices. The committee headed by Van Nuys aims to find the answer.

Italy's King: It was Samuel Grafton of the New York Post who dubbed Victor Emmanuel of Italy "That Moronic Little King." The phrase was pushed to prominence when President Roosevelt spanked the Office of War Information for using it in an overseas broadcast.

This week Samuel Grafton noted with some glee that Victor Emmanuel is under great pressure to abdicate and that Count Sforza, rather that the King and Badoglio, is being looked to help provide Italian governments in the near future. The O.W.I., of course, is not caring what Mr. Grafton says.

Super-optimism: Observing that some highly-placed dollar-a-year men are leaving important war bodies to re-establish themselves in private industry, wishful thinkers interpret it as a sign that the war is nearing an end. The have little else to go on.

LIFFORD LINE

Mrs. L. Staples Heads Workers

LIFFORD LINE, Nov. 19.—(ENS).—Mrs. C. B. Staples and Mrs. Lawrence Staples were joint hostesses for the Lifford War Workers Wednesday afternoon when ten ladies were present.

During the afternoon a quilt donated by one of the members was quilted and bound. Mrs. Lawrence Staples was re-elected president for the coming year. Miss Aileen Peters was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

A letter of thanks was read from Bruce White, stationed in Winnipeg, who had received a parcel. Contributions were received for sending a Christmas remembrance to a patient in hospital in Hamilton, who until May assisted the War Workers. It was decided to send a donation of $3 to the Christmas Cheer for British Children fund in Toronto.

Miss E. Lathengue offered her home for the December 8 meeting. Supper was served by the hostesses.

P.T. Exercises Help Aged Dean

WINDSOR, England. — (CP).—The Dean of Windsor, Very Rev. A. V. Baillie, who is 81, told a meeting that "I am an old man," and that a few months ago he began falling, often in the street, and injuring himself.

"I decided I was stooping forward too much, so I got a Guards' instructor from Windsor Castle to come to the Deanery and make me stand up straight again. I am glad to say that since then I have not fallen down."

Health Program

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 19—(CP).—Ontario must have improved medical care — an augmented public health program and a better-distributed type of treatment for illness, in which each individual will receive adequate care within his means, and the medical and allied professions their due reward for their contribution of skill, effort, and time, Ontario Health Minister Vivian said in an address here last night.

Britain Is Free Of Major Strikes

LONDON, Nov. 19. — (AP). — Britain is free of any major strike at the present time after passing through two months of industrial flare-ups that led Labor Minister Ernest Bevin to admit later he felt as though he were sitting on an "industrial volcano."

The outbreak of strikes—200 in September involving 90,000 workers for the worst month of the war—generally was attributed to war weariness and anxiety over post-war programs.

From January to September there were 1,281 strikes in Britain involving 396,900 persons and costing 1,000,000 working days. Five hundred of the strikes were in the coal fields where 500,000 working days were lost. Many of these resulted when the government directed a surface worker into the pits and he refused and other miners came out in sympathy.

Situation Critical In 1940 Says M.P.

PERIVALE, MIDDLESEX, England. — (CP). — George Tomlinson, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of labor, didn't believe in 1940 that Britain could hold out for longer than six months.

He formed that opinion, and he was not alone in holding it, he told a meeting here, when he joined the government in 1940 and heard from the inside the facts of the national position.

Quick Peace Unlikely

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 — (CP). — "The dangerous dream of a quick end to this war grows more serious every day," Henry Morgenthau, United States Secretary of the Treasury, said yesterday. In an address before the wartime conference of the Association of National Advertisers, he said, "I am convinced the Nazis have a propietary interest in this wave of optimism."

Inflation Hits Italy Poor Pay Plenty

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press War Correspondent

BARI, Nov. 19 — (AP). — In the midst of poverty, starvation and confusion, Italy's moneyed classes, which never suffered under Fascism, are reaping a golden harvest of British pounds and of American dollars from soldier "tourists."

In this section of Italy under Italian Government jurisdiction, shopkeepers and big store owners are making 10 times as much money in one day as they made in a month of the best pre-war tourist year.

The soldiers are paying the monetary bill while the poor Italian labor class is paying the bill in misery as the price of clothes and other essential items skyrocket out of their reach. For example, the price of a suit of clothe of the cheapest quality in two months has risen from 3,000 lira (about $158 at the pre-war rate of exchange) to twice that amount.

In Italy in areas where AMG (Allied Military Government) is in control the AMG officials require shopkeepers to keep the prices of essential articles within reason.

In this territory, administered by the Italian Government, the Allies can only "suggest" that the steps be taken. Premier Marshal Badoglio never refuses to take Allied suggestions and is perturbed by the inflation danger, but his government itself lacks the cohesion and machinery to reach down to local officials.

"Foos" Perform Dangerous Jobs

WITH THE EIGHTH ARMY IN ITALY Nov. 19 (CP). — Silly as it may sound, there are officers with the Canadians in Italy who are performing serious and important work though they are known among the troops as "foos."

Every unit, in telling about one operation or another, invariably mentions its "foos" or a "foo" who has performed a vital job effectively despite hazards.

"Foo" is short for Forward Observation Officer, a man who operates well forward, often exposed to enemy fire and from observation posts report results of artillery fire back to the guns.

19 Boys Fined

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 19.—(CP).—Nineteen of the 21 youths charged in county court with unlawful assembly on Hallowe'en night at the farm of John Archibald Berdan, when one of the youth was shot, were fined $10 and costs yesterday by Magistrate Donald Menzies after he found them guilty.

Murder Victim Had 7 Wounds

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 — Westmount police officials, continuing their investigation of the baseball bat slaying of Mrs. Andrew R. Webster and of the brutal assault on three other occupants of the Webster home on Grenville avenue, today eked out a few hazy details from seriously injured Sylvia Cusp, 25-year-old Australian guest of the family, in a brief interview at her bedside in the private patients' pavilion of Montreal General Hospital.

Beyond corroborating the assumption that it was she who called the Bell Telephone Co. operator for help on the morning of the tragedy (Wednesday), Miss Cusp was too ill to recall much else of importance to the investigation.

Questioned by Police Chief W. W. Gough and Detective InspectorRobert Byford at the hospital Thursday afternoon the Australian woman remembered waking in pain and staggering from the room to the telephone. She was not able to say how she had been injured; nor could she recall seeing young George Webster, 14-year-old eldest son of the slain woman who is under police detention as suspected author of the assaults.

"She knew that Mrs. Webster was dead, though," one official stated, explaining that she may have overheard an interne say so after examining the victim at the Webster home.

Miss Cusp, her left arm broken and head severely injured, was described "not fully conscious" when questioned by the officers. Her condition, however was reported to be improving. Condition of both Mina Jean Webster, 12, and Andrew Jr., 8, brother and sister of the detained boy, the former also at Western division of the Montreal General Hospital and the latter at the Homoeopathic, was reported to be still critical.

Cause of Mrs. Webster's death was attributed by Dr. Jean Marie Roussell, medico-legal expert, to skull fractures inflicted by a blunt instrument. Dr. Roussell said there were seven wounds, mostly on the back of Mrs. Webster's head, and that there were other large bruises on her right leg and shoulder and left arm.

All Illiterate In Big Family

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP).—When John Hunter, 17, appeared in court on a charge of giving his wrong age to obtain a licence, evidence brought out that no one in the family of mother and 20 children could read or write. The Hunters are travelling hawkers.

The boy promised to try to learn after the magistrates said they were "very disturbed" about the lack of education facilities for people wandering around the country.

Constance Bennett In Litigation Case

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 19.—(AP).—From a source close to rival litigants in the Peter Bennett Plant parentage case came a report Thursday that a tentative settlement had been reached under which the 14 year old son of film star Constance Bennett would receive $150,000 from a trust fund established by the late Commodore Morton Plant.

This report came while counsel for Miss Bennett and for the estates of Commodore Plant, millionaire transportation magnate and his step-son, the late Philip Plant, continued a series of conferences preparatory to submitting a settlement to Judge James Murphy for approval.

The source also said that the tentative settlement made no mention of what Miss Bennett has said was the principal point at issue—whether the boy is, as she claims, her son by her marriage to Philip Plant, her second husband, or a child she adopted subsequent to her divorce as the estate contends.

Break For Fathers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—(CP.—The House of Representatives yesterday voted unanimously to put pre-war fathers at the bottom of the United States draft pool.

Here's Right Way To Go After RHEUMATIC PAINS
Usually the Excess Acids Start to Leave the System in 48 Hours.
Costs But Little—Guaranteed

Here's the swift, modern 48-hour way to get the excess pain producing acids out of your system.

Go to Lynch's Drug Store or any progressive drugstore — get a bottle of ALLENRU — and follow the week-end treatment for Stubborn Rheumatic Pains or Backache.

Start right in taking it Friday night—stay in bed as much as possible till Monday morning—Allenru acts double fast when the body is relaxed and rested.

So don't feel dispirited any longer; don't give up hope of getting real relief. Allenru acts and acts fast and in three distinct ways: (1) to relieve the pain; (2) as a diuretic for the kidneys to flush out excess acids; and (3) to arouse the bowels to normal action.

Lynch's Drug Store and all good druggists have been instructed to dispense ALLENRU with the understanding that if the first bottle does not give you the relief you want and have a right to expect, he will gladly refund your money without comment.—(Advt.)

Belleville Requests All Hydro Profits Be Used To Reduce The City's Tax Rate

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 19—A resolution whereby all future profits obtained from Belleville's Hydro system be turned over to the city treasury to effect a reduction in city taxation, will be forwarded by the Belleville Public Utilities Commission to the Ontario H.E.P.C. for approval.

In conjunction with the proposal, the Utilities Commission also resolved to turn over all profits accumulated through the Belleville Hydro store to the city. A copy of the resolution also will be presented to the Ontario H.E.P.C.

The proposal was made after it was pointed out by Commissioner George A. Reid that the local Hydro system is entirely out of debt and enjoys a reserve fund. It was also reported that the system is in first-class condition.

One commission member expressed the opinion that there is no reason why the city of Belleville, which is heavily burdened with taxation and a comparatively high gas debenture debt, should not be able to share in Hydro profits.

Mayor Harry Rollins, who heartily seconded each resolution, said that profits received from the sale of electrical appliances in the local Hydro store would greatly alleviate Belleville's financial problems.

It was thought that if the two resolutions are approved by the Ontario Commission, Belleville would ultimately enjoy a considerable tax reduction next year.

IN MEMORIAM

NORTHEY— In loving memory of John Garnet Northey, who passed away, November 19, 1940.

Just as when one layeth
His wornout robes away,
And taketh new ones sayeth—
These will I wear today.
So putteth by the spirit,
Lightly its garb of flesh,
An riseth to inherit,
God's robe of righteousness.
—Mother.

BAIRD — In memory of our dear Billy, who passed away, November 19, 1942.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near,
And only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell,
More each day we miss you, Billy,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.
—Mother, Daddy, Sisters and Brother.

Cobourg Knights Honor Bishop

COBOURG, Nov. 19—(ENS)—The Cobourg K. of C. entertained over one hundred knights and guests at a social "get together" in their hall, Thursday evening. The event was graced by the presence of Most Rev. John R. MacDonald, Bishop of the diocese of Peterborough.

Seated at the head table were grand knights Donald McGillis of Port Hope, District Deputy George A. Lee, Belleville; William Hurley, special agent for K. of C. insurance, Toronto; Irving Hughes in charge of K. of C. huts at Mountain View; A. B. Collins, past state deputy; Fred Tadman, assistant K. of C. supervisor at Mountain View; W. J. Maher, Judge J. C. M. German; Rev. Dr. P. J. Kelly, Rev. J. J. Guiry, Rev. G. J. Maher, John O'Sullivan, Rev. W. J. Gallivan, Antigonish, N.S.

Bishop MacDonald, was introduced by Grand Knight D. McGillis and Rev. Dr. Kelly. The bishop stated it was a pleasure for him to meet the parishioners of Cobourg personally and also to give approval to the work of the Knights of Columbus.

"Men are generally held together by two forces, a common knowledge and a common affection. A common affection and belief bind together the members of the fold of Christ. Today we face a three-fold selfishness; individual, group and national. The remedy for man's ills lies in replacing selfishness with the moral and spiritual values which Christ gave the world.

"Let us replace world selfishness with Christ's teaching of brotherhood. If there are those who are advocating a false fellowship, why cannot we who have the teachings of Christ advocate and found a true and lasting fellowship?"

Menke Favors Halifax Plea

FAIRFIELD, Conn., Nov. 19 — (CP) — Frank E. Menke, publisher of the Encyclopedia of Sports, said here last night he believed hockey was first played in Halifax and if hockey's Hall of Fame is to be established anywheer it should be in that city.

The comment came after Menke told Em Orlick, McGill University historian, that there is "no basis in the Kingston (Ont.) claim for recognition as the site for the hockey Hall of Fame.

"All I could find shows it was first played in Halifax by Scottish regiments," Menke said. He believed Montreal then adopted the game and said there was "no coherent records of the game being played in Kingston before the mid 1880's."

Menke said he goes into the history of the game in his revised encyclopedia due about next March.

Retail Trade To Spend Millions Assisting Post-War Employment

"In Donald Gordon we have a tower of strength, and unless political appeasement to labor unions wrecks his efforts his work will remain as a unique achievement among the nations," said P. K. Heywood, Toronto, president of the Canadian Retail Federation in a thoughtful address on post-war problems at the dinner of the Peterborough Business Men's Association at the Empress Hotel last night.

Mr. Heywood selected for special tribute the head of the Wartime Prices and Trade controls in Canada in steering from the shoals of rampant inflation the emergency economy of this country, mentioned also Edgar Burton as having done an exceptionally good job of a most difficult task and directed appreciation also to the many business men who have assumed responsibilty in the wartime administration of Canada. He said he knew some of them perosnally, working up to sixteen hours a day in the vast and complicated details of price and market control, and their accomplishment deserved the appreciation and support of their fellow Canadians.

Fred A. Cripps was chairman og the dinner which was largely representative of Peterborough's retail business.

Introduced by D. J. Fitzgerald, Mr. Heywood undertook a survey of conditions likely to arise after the war. Canada will have the largest manufacturing capacity in its history; the largest stock of raw materials, natural and synthetic the largest supply of skilled and semi-skilled men and women, used to high wages; the greatest agricultural capacity this country has ever seen, and the Government will have on its hands, not only many complete manufacturing plants but also supplies and the equipment of every description, mounting in value to some billions of dollars.

On the other hand, said Mr. Heywood "we will have the greatest back-log in history of consumer goods and tremendous potential demand for capital goods, together with a substantial purchasing power in the bank and war savings infinitely more than at any previous time in our history."

"Booby-trap" Warning

Although there are bright facets to this picture, "it can easily prove to be a booby-trap, full of dynamite, because it entails the relocation of millions of workers, equitable distribution of goods, the biggest selling job that the distributing trades have ever undertaken, and also the greatest threat of inflation we have ever faced."

During the war inflation has been curbed by a combination of price-ceiling legislation, rationing, a heavy tax burden and broad war savings program both voluntary and compulsory. Civilian supply has been restricted by fiscal policy, by lack of materials for the civilian use, and by commitments made to supply other nations.

"In all this program the Government have enjoyed the loyal support of the people intent upon winning the war. In the post-war period many of these effective controls will have to be removed, an entirely different psychological factor will have to be faced, and the Government must assume an almost reversal of policy to ensure as complete employment as possible and to avoid an inflationary spiral of prices."

Sees New Economy

This was bound to be a vast undertaking, Mr. Heywood continued, "because we are not returning to the conditions of 1939, but are actually organizing a new economy on a framework of both business and Government that has not heretofore existed. Let us realize fully that we have given to the Government powers and functions, during this emergency, that it was never intended a Government should have, and it will be our duty to see that these powers and functions are released immediately it is over."

Reverting to manufacturing capacity, as he expanded some of the factors which he had enunciated Mr. Heywood estimated that Canada must find export markets for up to 60 per cent of its production, exclusive of food.

"Whatever the correct figure may be we have a tremendous marketing problem that must be solved if these plants are kept in operation. The implementing of the Atlantic Charter, tariffs and monetary agreements, and many other factors are wrapped up in this subject, and I merely mention it as a part of the whole picture, but a most essential part, if we are to have a reasonable level of employment.

Speaking of the demobilization of war workers as well as the men and women of the armed forces returning to civilian life, Mr. Heywood said he frankly expected unemployment the extent of which could not be predicted now.

"A great number will continue to listen to the false prophets of some of the labor unions, whose promises of higher wages are not linked as they should be, with a clear indication of the basic fact that work and production are the two factors that can produce higher wages and a generally higher standard of living. In my opinion it is the duty of business, for the benefi of their employees and the protection of both management and capital, to press for incorporation of labor unions as responsible bodies under the law, and I hope we may see more enlightened leadership.

Surplus War Goods

As to the surplus of war materials and products, Mr. Heywood said the manufacturing and distributive trades were vitally interested in this problem. He understood that the Government was considering the organization of a Crown company for this purpose. "We believe such a company should be formed, and we believe that representatives of all branches of trade and industry, especially retailing, in addition to Government employees, should direct the policies of such a company.

So far as controls are concerned, we believe they should be dispensed with in an orderly and a properly timed sequence, as supply catches up with demand, that no one is in as good a position to judge when this time approaches as the trade itself, and that a close contact should be established between the trade and government officials to whom this task is entrusted."

Mr. Heywood warned the retailers to beware of what he termed the "dry rot of prosperity." If post-war employment did not measure up to expectations, "I am inclined to think that it is going to take well-planned aggressive selling to coax the wartime savings into circulation. Little or no effort is now being made to sell goods· advertising has been curtailed, sales promotion is almost a forgotten art, and by the time the war is over selling will have reached the lowest level we have ever seen.

And, all this at a time, in my opinion, if we are to help maintain employment, when the greatest need of our economic system is going to be alert, intelligent and effective salesmanship. In addition, it won't be long until a flood of new products arrives, to seek a market, and it will devolve upon the efficiency of retail selling to see that these goods are distributed so that people may continue to be employed, and payrools built up again.

In the closer co-ordination of business and government after the war, Mr. Heywood stressed the importance of "getting the right type of representation in our governments, men who have a broad view of the problem at stake and with vision and determination to see the ship of state at least headed in the right direction." He also urged the retailers of Peterborough, as elsewhere to begin a post-war forecast of their own, endeavoring to probe such factors as employment, payrolls, migration of workers to and from the city employment projects, and so on.

"For our own part, we shall not only take back the men and the women who have left our employ to serve in the armed forces, but we can absorb a great many more and keep them in regular employment; we must study ways to make retail distribution more efficient. I believe you will see a tremendous improvement in stores and many entirely new types of stores in which the cost of the retailing service will be at a minimum. I feel that our industry is planning to spend millions of dollars in expansion and modernization, stores, store fronts, display fixtures, lighting, air conditioning and equipment of every kind that will give employment to thousands of people, in a great variety of industries, over a period of years."

A vote of thanks to Mr. Heywood for coming to Peterborough and discussing probable trends at the close of the war was extended on behalf of the assembly by Vern Selkirk

Must Learn Methods

QUEBEC, Nov. 19.—(CP).— Premier Godbout, speaking last night to pupils of Academia Commerciale during a demonstration in his honor, criticized "those who cry that we have no justice in Canada." He asked: "If the French Canadians do not have the wealth they desire, it is not because others have taken our share but because we have not learned how to acquire it. Let us learn to depend on ourselves."

STICK TO YOUR PLAN

WHEN YOU make a sound plan for the bidding of your hand, and nothing unexpected develops during the auction, you are generally best off to stick by the original scheme. An over-call with a particular suit may have been justified principally by the fact that, if your partner responded in such a way as to indicate lack of support for it, you had another suit to show. If that condition exists, you will usually profit by then bidding the other suit instead of passing.

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♦	1 ♠	Pass

That is the way the bidding should have gone, but didn't. After East's bid of 1-No Trump, West decided to pass. South led his diamond 6 to the K, and the 10 return gave the defenders the first five tricks in that suit. The spade 9 was covered by the 10, J and K, and East led his heart 2. South came in with the A and put West in with a spade to the A. Dummy also cashed the spade Q, but had ultimately to lead away from his holdings. Cashing the heart K first, the declarer called the 10 from there, whereupon South won with the Q and also cashed the club A, setting the contract two tricks.

If West had bid 2-Hearts on his second turn, he would have been certain to make that contract no matter what the defense did. He would have had to lose only one trick in hearts, two in diamonds and two in clubs.

Following the play, after East pointed out that West should have bid 2-Hearts instead of passing the 1-No Trump, West whined that he had intended to do exactly that. But what is the use of good intentions, if you don't see them through?

Incidentally, what about North and South passing out either the 1-No Trump, or the 2-Hearts, if that had been bid? What would be your idea about that?

British Member Warns U.S. Will Dominate

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP). — Sir Patrick Hannon, Conservative member of parliament addressing meeting of the National Union of Manufacturers, today accused the Churchill government of lagging while the United States becomes a dominant influence in post-war international trade planning.

"We should not be mealy-mouthed in telling the United States manufacturers that the two-way traffic of war should be maintained as two-way traffic in our joint reconstruction program," he said.

Complaining that the British government has failed to give "a considered declaration of its reconstruction policy," Sir Patrick declared:—

"Conferences have been in progress in Washington for many months and the general conclusion may be drawn from these that the United States is the dominant influence in the formulation of international trade policy.

Try For Lead

"There is a clear indication that American manufacturers are determined to secure a leading position in world trade. There is no doubt that the competitive power of the United States, if exercised without recognition of the mutual obligation between the United States and the British Commonwealth, will present from the British point of view a formidable prospect.

"With plain, wholesale commonsense understanding and with a spirit of goodwill in give and take, there is no reason why the anxiety now entertained by British manufacturers should not be converted into mutually helpful co-operation."

Sir Patrick also called for early statements on British and American tariff policies and noted that Britain is faced with the necessity of heavy imports of foods and materials.

"To enable us to pay for them," he said, "a large and expanding export trade is vital and it is hoped that the spirit of co-operation developed among the United Nations during the war may lead to the removal of many difficulties in the monetary and commercial spheres which so handicapped trade between the two wars."

O-K PURE WHITE CIGARETTE PAPERS

FLIERS STRANDED TEN DAYS ON ICEBERG NOW IN MONTREAL—The most dramatic and astounding air-sea rescue story yet of the war, concerns three Royal Air Force Transport Command aviators, pictured ABOVE, who, while on a 5,600-mile flight from Britain to British Columbia, came down in the sea off Greenland. They fought away for 20 hours through dense ice between towering icebergs to reach the summit of a submerged mountain protruding from the Polar Sea. There they lived exposed to the fury of Arctic tempests for 10 days, without heat, and having for food only a few malted milk tablets, pieces of sodden chocolate the size of a postage stamp, and an occasional benzedrene energizing pill. They had with them a small metal mirror, which they used as a heliograph, and it's flashing was seen by a United States army major, on a tiny ship which hovered to eight miles away from the castaways, to repair broken down engines. The stranded fliers, who were at death's door when saved, were very emaciated, and they have just been flown from Greenland to hospital. LEFT to RIGHT: Flying Officer Norman E. SPRINGVILLE

Urge Interest For Missions

SPRINGVILLE, Nov. 19—(ENS)—Mrs. Rae Wood was hostess to the members of the W.M.S for the November meeting. The president, Mrs. Bernard Preston read "In Flanders Fields," stressing that after the war as great a zeal for missionary work in the world is needed as has been shown for the prosecution of the war.

Mrs. A. Bidgood offered her home for the December meeting, when Mrs. Dunn's group will be in charge of the program. A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Walter Bowles and Mrs. Harold Rowan was appointed.

Devotional Period.

The worship period was in charge of Mrs. Rae Wood, who spoke on "Temptation." Mrs. Shaw's group took charge. The poem "What Did You Do To-day?" was read by the leader. Mrs. Grady read "Was It Worth While?" written by the first W.M.S. Indian girl student. "Remembrance Day" was read by Mrs. Morrison and a duet was sung by Mrs. Grandy and Miss Southern.

A dramatization of "Finding the Way" was given, and those taking part were Mesdames Shaw, Preston, E. Johnston, and Bidgood.

Junior Girls' Club.

An organization meeting for the Junior Girls' Club was held at Mrs. Gordon Robinson's on Saturday afternoon. The following officers were elected: Leader, Mrs. G. Robinson; president, Eleanor Whitfield; secretary, Audrey Kelk; treasurer, Ila Dunford.

The project, "Cottons are smart," is to be carried out. A discussion on suitable colors followed the election of officers. The next meeting on November 27 will be held at Mrs. Robinson's home.

High Standard Of Living Shown By War

TORONTO, Nov. 19 — (CP). — Wartime industrial experience has demonstrated that, with proper financing and the efficient use of manpower and resources Canada can provide enough goods and services to give her people a higher standard of living than they have ever had before, Paul Martin, Liberal Member of Parliament for Essex East and Parliamentary assistant to Labor Minister Mitchell, said today.

Mr. Martin, in an address prepared for delivery at the annual convention of the Ontario Milk Distributors and Ontario Ice Cream Association, said the requirements of the armed services—15,000 men and women a month—will have to be met largely from those now employed in industry.

While Canada had reached "a high degree of general mobilization" much still remained to be done in the selection and placement of the labor force.

"As mobilization proceeds and labor shortages become more severe, this problem assumes ever more importance," he said. "We have not yet achieved the most effective distribution of our workers, perhaps we will never be able to do so because of the vast area which has to be covered so the maximum possible output of goods and services can be attained."

Lack of experience made it necessary that the government adopt new manpower control measures gradually to avoid unnecessary hardship, discontent and conflict.

"The national selective service program in general has been highly effective in increasing the manpower available for the essential services.

13,500 Transferred

"Since March, 1942, the strength of the armed forces has been increased by more than 300,000 and the number of persons in war plants and associated industries by more than 400,000. Most of this increase has come voluntarily, though in the past five months an additional 13,500 persons have been compulsorily transferred to high-priority industries from less essential employment."

Women employed in industry numbered 419,000, compared with 144,000 in 1939. In war industry the number of women workers increased from 96,000 in January, 1942, to more than 250,000 today.

Further increases in production would require Canada to employ her manpower resources even more effectively. This would entail continued training and upgrading, and "diluting" for breaking down jobs into their component parts so skilled workers can be released for more difficult or important tasks and the less-skilled can be utilized, for simpler operations.

"Much remains to be done to increase production by establishing more amicable labor relations in industry," said Mr. Martin.

The system of public employment exchanges and job placement, as part of a broad unemployment insurance program, would likely remain as a means of organizing the labor market to reduce unemployment.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money —(Advt.)

Butter Output Shows Decrease

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (CP).— Ontario production of creamery butter and cheese during October was less than in the same month in 1942, while commercial sales of milk in the province during September were greater than in September a year ago, it was shown in the monthly dairy report released today by the department of agriculture.

October creamery butter production amounted to 6,213,900 pounds, 10.5 per cent less than in the same month a year ago. Total production of butter for the first ten months of 1943 was 74,649,000 pounds, four per cent more than in the same period in 1942.

Cheese output last month was 10,908,000 pounds as against 13,123,000 pounds in October, 1942, a decrease of 16.9 per cent. For the first ten months the accumulated output was 96,465,000 pounds compared with 117,580,000 pounds in the corresponding period of 1942, a decline of 17.9 per cent.

Commercial sales of milk in September totalled 31,917,000 quarts as against 27,919,000 in the same month last year. Creamery butter stocks in Toronto warehouses on November 1 totalled 8,527,000 pounds, considerably in excess of a year ago when the figure was 3,629,700 pounds.

Provincial Police Seize Slot Machines

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (CP). —Ontario Provincial Police today said five slot machines were seized by officers at Brantford yesterday, bringing to more than 600 the number confiscated in a year and a half. The machines are valued at approximately $200,000.

Authorities said they believe there still are 3,000 machines in operation in the province valued at close to $1,000,000.

Yesterday's seizures were made in stores, the machines being the pin-ball type, prizes being given for high scores.

Employees' Council Seek Mandate At Aluminum Co. Plant, Kingston

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (CP). Hearing of the employees council of the Kingston, Ont., plant of the Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd., for certification as the sole collecting bargaining agency for employees opened before Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland in Ontario Labor Court here today.

Respondents also asking for certification were the Aluminum Workers of America (C.I.O.) and the International Association of Machinists.

Arthur Simpson, first chairman of the Employees' Council which was formed in 1941, testified that in August, 1941, there was a vote to elect a council representatives and 105 men and women were named to a committee to work out a constitution.

Later, he said, a smaller committee was formed and on Dec. 22, 1941, the constitution was drafted and signed.

Simpson said also that a vote taken by the Department of Labor in 1941 favored the Employees' Council over other unions as the representative body for the workers.

F. Andrew Brewin, counsel for the Aluminum workers, asked Simpson if the agreement had been put to meetings of the employees and the former chairman said each group chairman in the plant was supposed to put it to the men in his group.

Senator Walter Hayden, counsel for the company, told court the company signed an agreement with the employees council in December, 1943 and that prior to that time more than 1,000 wage increases were granted after the company had received permission to increase salaries from the Federal Department of Labor.

John Beresford, president of the employees council from June to the end of December last year, took the witness box just before the noon adjournment.

W. M. Nickle of Kingston is counsel for the employees council and C. M. Smith, also of Kingston is representing the Machinists.

Incited Workers Court Charges

THREE RIVERS, Que., Nov. 19 (CP)—Trial of John Jodoin and Phil Cutler of Montreal, organizers for the American Federation of Labor, charged under the War Measures Act with inciting workers to slow down work in the Aluminum Company of Canada plant at Shawinigan Falls, Que., began today.

At this morning's sitting, Magistrate J. A. Metayer heard the Crown Prosecutor's intentions of producing 50 to 60 witnesses in the trial which is expected to last more than a week, to prove that Jodoin and Catler incited workers not to go back to work during the recent Aluminum strike unless they were guaranteed a total of seven instead of eight pots to look after.

Diplomats Accept Soviet Post War Plan

MOSCOW, Nov. 19 (AP). —The Soviet attitude toward the post-war status of small European states was set forth today by Izvestia. The government newspaper called for transition period to give these countries time to determine their own futures, and strongly opposed any federation of these countries against Russia.

The authoritative article disclosed that the Soviet point of view was placed before the recent conference of foreign secretaries here and met no objections from Britain and the United States.

"Premature and possibly artificial tying-up of small countries in theoretically-planned groups might bring dangerous consequences for those countries as well as for the future peaceful development of Europe," Izvestia said.

British Take Perano Far Inland

5th Gains Ground Above Nenafro Under Heavy Fire

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ALGIERS, Nov. 20 — (AP). — Despite mud, flood and fierce enemy opposition, both the Allied 5th and 8th Armies have gained ground at several points on the Italian front in the last 24 hours and British troops have advanced five miles to capture Perno in the Sangro River valley.

Allied Headquarters announced that units of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army had taken the little town on the east side of the flooded river, about 1½ miles north-east of Archi, and the point of origin for recent enemy counter-attacks in the area about 13 miles inland from the Adriatic.

Near the mouth of the Sangro 8th Army patrols crossed the river and inflicted numerous casualties on the Nazis in several clashes.

The 5th Army improved its positions, it was announced, but poor weather continued to curb most air and ground activity.

Allied planes attacked rail and highway transport north of the battlefront and near Metkovic in Yugoslavia.

The 5th Army made slight gains on the American sector near Venafro.

The air communique said that road targets and buildings at Lanciano, six miles from the Adriatic, and some 20 miles south of Pescara, were bombed on Thursday night.

In the aerial sweeps, two enemy aircraft were destroyed and three Allied planes failed to return to their bases.

Previously the 8th Army had inched forward to win new high ground north of the village of Archi on the Adriatic side of the peninsula.

Reporter Dizzy As Plane Drops 2,000 Feet

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ABOARD A BOMBER OVER JALUIT, Marshall Islands, Nov. 15 (Delayed)—(AP). — This aircraft dropped one bomb accidentally on the Japanese at Jaluib today and a number of other bombs intentionally, plus at least two loaded .45's, one box of rations, one rubber eraser and—except for some luck—almost sent one well-preserved correspondent to join all this assorted material.

Everything was lovely on this record-breaking raid, possibly the longest of the war, until this plane got here. It got here at an altitude of 10,000 feet and the bombardier had the bomb doors open and his mouth set to let loose a total load.

This correspondent was doing one thing which the Geneva convention will allow correspondents to do legally to earn their way on ships. He was co-operating in getting one heavy aerial camera ready to do its work over an open hatch.

Straddled Hatch.

Then thirty tons of aircraft dropped 2,000 feet in 20 seconds. The pilot said he knew something was wrong when he saw a package of cigarettes in the air beside him.

Your correspondent knew something was wrong when the camera, on a hinge, left him hanging toward the tail of the ship. Then yours truly floated. He made the best jacknife dive of his career—slightly straddle-legged as usual — over the hatch. He went over that hatch in a fraction of a second but had plenty of time to see considerable space between the plane and the ground.

The bombardier spent one long minute in a second when one of the biggest bombs on the ship came off the rack. But it fell away from the ship and dropped miraculously on the target where it exploded as if it had been planned that way.

The most horrible discovery of all was to learn that a dark object your correspondent saw going down the camera hatch was a box which unfortunately contained not only assorted tin cans, an old navigator's eraser and pistols, but also the day's high tragedy — our reserve rations. We hope it conked a Jap.

Night Fliers Blast Leverkusen

5 Bombers Lost; Great Fires Rage Across Berlin

LONDON, Nov. 20—(CP)—R.A.F. and Canadian bombers, returning to Germany for the third successive night, blasted Leverkusen and other Rhineland targets last night, it was announced today. Leverkusen is a chemical centre six miles north of Cologne.

Of the five R.A.F. planes that failed to return, three were Canadian craft. The weather prevented immediate observation of bombing results.

R.A.F. and Canadian planes also laid mines in enemy waters during the night, it was learned.

The blow was the fifth raid of the war on Leverkusen where poison gas components are known to be manufactured, and followed two recent raids on the world's largest chemical centre at Ludwigshafen.

The bomber force presumably was considerably smaller than the record fleet of nearly 1,000 which smashed Berlin and Ludwigshafen Thursday night with a total of 2,500 long tons of explosives, with most of the destruction being hurled on Berlin.

American heavy bombers escorted by fighters attacked targets in Western Germany by daylight yesterday and returned to their bases without loss. The targets were not named in the U.S. communique and no explanation was given for the omission.

As last night's raid carried current Allied air offensive to new heights, Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner, chief of the U.S. 8th Airforce's fighter command, declared that "now we have only to increase our bombers and supporting fighters proportionately and concentrate against heavy industry for Germany to crumble."

Kepner said the Allies had defeated the strategy of the German high command in the air.

Thousands of persons were reported to have been made homeless in Berlin and traffic was said to have been frozen by direct hits on rail yards and stations in Thursday night's raid. All day yesterday the German radio talked of bombs falling in the suburbs, but that is where a lot of key factories are situated. It was not until late last inght that Berlin said the fires had brought under control.

The Germans again sent a few raiders over southeast England during the night. Bombs were dropped on one place, causing a few casualties.

War On Starlings

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 20—(CP).—Civic officials are considering the question of reinforcements for their anti-starling offensive. They are reconnoitring the starling strength to determine whether or not to purchase additional ammunition — calcium chloride—for their gun. Reports indicate the winged pests have practically isolated a large section of Michigan Central Park and have damaged its ornamental trees.

14-Year-Old Boy Blamed For Mother's Death

MONTREAL, Nov. 20 — (CP).— Miss Sylvia Cusp, guest at the home of one of neighboring Westmount's most prominent families —the Andrew Websters—has identified their 14-year-old son George as the person who attacked her with a baseball bat Wednesday morning, the day Mrs. Webster herself was clubbed to death and her two other children seriously injured.

Police Chief W. W. Gough said he spent yesterday interviewing Miss Cusp and the junior high school boy who is being detained at the Westmount police station for questioning.

He quoted Miss Cusp as saying: "When George looked in my room I asked him what was the matter. He said, 'Mother's hurt' and then he came into my room. He raised a bat to strike me and I put my arms over my head. The first blow struck my arm."

Chief Gough said Miss Cusp told him the boy continued to strike her but as she sank back on the bed he left. Then she staggered to the telephone and put through an emergency call which brought police.

Young Webster recovered from the "daze" he has been in ever since the crime was committed in his home, but Chief Gough said there is still a "black hole" in the lad's memory.

He said the fair-haired lad recalled certain events but appeared puzzled by the fact he was in a police cell. They did not mention his mother's death, the chief said.

Meanwhile his 12-year-old sister, Mina Jean, was reported today as being in serious condition, while his eight-year-old brother, Andrew, Jr.,—the fourth victim in the clubbing affair — was progessing favorably.

Huge Strike Planned For Post-War

Gladstone Murray Gives Warning Of Trouble Ahead

TORONTO, Nov. 20 —(CP)—Maj. Gladstone Murray, public relations counsel and former general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, said last night "there is in existence now a complete plan for a general strike in Canada soon after the war."

Maj. Murray was addressing a dinner meeting of Toronto branch of the general Alumni Association of Queen's University.

"This strike is for the purpose of revolutionary action. Its planners have not yet concerned themselves with the grievances on which the strike will nominally be based."

Maj. Murray said "movements like this" are outside the activities of recognized trade unions or the C.C.F. The "revolutionaries" awaited the creation of a machine and "the release of forces which no constitutional agency can control or direct."

Maj. Murray said if Canada adopted a collectivist form of state ownership of industry to solve post-war problems, democracy and individual liberty would be smothered "as in Germany and Russia."

Two Systems

There were two schools of thought, he said, on Canada's post war course. There were those who believed the profit motive and capitalism must be replaced by a collective system of production, and those who maintained salvation lay in giving free enterprise a maximum of freedom. Major Murray said he does not agree with either theory, contending that "ultimately the solution of the problem rests in the mind and soul of the individual."

There is no doubt that Communism, as adopted by the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, has proved more efficient that the National Socialism of Germany or the Fascism of Italy,"' he said "but all totalitarian doctrines have this in common, that they displace the individual and defy the state. Also by their nature they cannot tolerate opposition or criticism."

He said it is recognition of this fact which promotes leader of collectivism in Canada to suggest that "drastic measures of force will be used to put down any attempt to sabotage a national socialist government."

Gave Up Too Soon

MEAFORD, Nov. 20—(CP). — William Chapple, deer-hunting in nearby St. Vincent township this week, decided to give up the fruitless hunt and, lending his gun to an ammunitionless fellow-hunter, he walked back to his car to return to Meaford. As he reached the car, the unarmed hunter looked up to see a large doe just across the road.

Crisis In Vichy Likely; Petain Resigns

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Nov. 20.—(AP). —Marshal Henri Philippe Petain's reported plan to draft a democratic constitution, which the Nazis prevented him from promulgating, was viewed here to-day as an attempted master stroke to make way for a regime that would be acceptable to the Allies when France is freed.

It is known that the 87 year old Marshall, who is reliably said to have offered his resignation in protest against the thwarting of his plan, recently told friends that he was seeking a way to prevent a bloody revolution between the Vichy regime and the French Committee of National Liberation when Germans are driven out. Friends who know him well say he believed his decree would accomplish this result.

Opposes De Gaulle.

Petain's decree would have directed France back to the democratic constitution of 1875, it was said, and he would have renounced Pierre Laval as his successor. The Nazis banned both speech and decree.

Although it was regarded as doubtful that Petain intended to do anything that would ease the path of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, president of the French Committee of National Liberation, it was pointed out that by charting a path back to democratic administration, he could have opened the way for the committee's return to France.

(The BBC, quoting advices from Stockholm and Berne, said that Petain "is in a private Villa under strict German guard." The broadcast, recorded by U.S. government Monitors, said that "everything points to an acute crisis in Vichy.")

Information leaking across the French frontier said last night that a number of the marshal's closest friends, including three generals, had been arrested.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—The Morocco and Dakar radios in French Africa said today that a Vichy broadcast had announced the resignation of Marshal Petain—a report which was not confirmed from any other sources. The Morocco broadcast was heard in London by the Associated Press.

The Dakar radio, in a broadcast recorded by CBS, shortly afterward said reports of Petain's resignation "are confirmed by the Vichy radio."

Terrific Counter-Attack By German Army Forces Russian Withdrawal

Russians Offset Defeat At Rail Centre With Drive On Cherkasi
Paratroops Capture Town Of Ovruch

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 20—(AP). — Battling stubbornly against heavy German pressure, Red Army troops have abandoned the strategic rail city of Zhitomir but have offset that reverse with a surprise drive across the Dnieper River to the gates of Cherkasi, and the capture of Ovruch, 25 miles from Korosten, the Soviet war communique said today.

The retreat from Zhitomir, most serious setback of the 1943 campaign, was ordered by the Russian supreme command apparently when it was found impossible to reinforce troops holding that newly-captured junction on the Leningrad-Odessa railway. The Red Army forces withdrew to positions "more advantageous" for defence, the war bulletin said.

However, the drive against Cherkasi, midway between Kiev and Dnepropetrovsk, staged by air-borne troops and guerillas gave the Russians additional support for their left flank against reinforced enemy units and brought new threats of encirclement to German troops in that salient.

(A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Moscow said Russian Forces had driven to within a mile of Cherkasi after passing Dakhnovka, four miles to the northwest of the city.)

Gap Widens

Capture of Zhitomir by the Germans failed to re-open rail communications between the German armies in the Ukraine and White Russia, and occupation of Ovruch further widened the gap between the enemy forces. Russian paratroopers, as at Cherkasi, played a key role in the storming of Ovruch, the communication said.

Another Soviet advance was reported in the Rechitsa area in White Russia, where Gen. Constantin Rokossovsky's army advanced to within six miles of the confluence of the Dnieper and Berezina rivers. This point is 25 miles from Zhlobin, capture of which would seal off all rail lines leading to the beleaguered German-held city of Gomel.

Capture of Ovruch brought a salute of 12 salvoes from 124 guns for the Fourth Guard Airborne Division, ordered by Premier Stalin.

Canadians Say Flak Heavy Over Leverkusen

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 20 — (CP Cable) — Squadrons from the Canadian bomber group, including the Lion, Goose and Bluenose formations that hit Ludwigshafen the previous night, struck at Leverkusen last night in co-operation with the R.A.F. also taking part in the raid, R. C. A. F. headquarters announced, was the Moose Squadron.

Returning airmen reported defences surrounding the chemical centre were "very active" and said many of the aircraft were given rough rides as they bounced through the flak.

This heavy flak punched holes in many of the planes and Sgdn. Leader Lloyd Linnell of Weyburn, Sask., came home on three engines the fourth having been knocked out by shrapnel.

"We saw more flak than, ever before,"' reported Flt. Sgt. Bob Dixon of Edmonton, who chalked up his 13th ride last night.

A Halifax bomber piloted by Flt. Sgt. Bob Ritchie of Winnipeg had a close shave. The aircraft was filled with holes as big as footballs when caught by the flak.

"It was a poor night for searchlights and fighters so they filled the air with flak," explained Pilot Officer Al. Merkley of Vancouver, whose aircraft was caught in an ack-ack barrage for more than an hour.

However, the nightfighters were not entirely idle. Sgt. W. F. Smith of Toronto, a tailgunner, said his Lion Squadron Halifax was coned by searchlights and attacked by two Junker 88's, but escaped undamaged.

A fighter also attacked an aircraft piloted by R. L. Boe of Manville, Alta., and was shaken off after Gunner Sgt. H. S. Salkeld of Timmins, Ont., got away a long burst.

Yugoslav Troops Repel Germans

LONDON, Nov. 20 — (AP). — Yugoslav guerillas repelled heavy German attacks in various districts of Croatia, but were forced to retreat in Central Bosnia after a series of fierce battles in which the Nazis suffered 500 casualties, a communique broadcast by the Yugolslav Liberation Army said today.

German marines have landed on the island of Krk

The Yugoslavs said in confirmation of earlier claims and heavy fighting is in progress. In the vicinity of Senj, on the Croat coast opposite Krk, fierce enemy attacks were repulsed by Gen. Josip Broz' (Tito's) Partisan columns. Krk protects the seaward flank of Fiume. Heavy fighting also was said to be in progress on the island of Crew.

In Bosnia, the Yugoslavs were forced to fall back in the direction of Tuzla, 90 miles southwest of Belgrade, but they held firm against a strong Nazi thrust towards Gracanica, northwest of Tuzla.

The Yugoslav communique said at least 300 Germans have been killed and several hundred wounded in the fighting between Tuzla and Brcko to the northeast. Eleven enemy tanks were reported destroyed and two others damaged. ...

Partisans derailed a German train between the towns of Kakanj and Lsva, they said.

News Important MacArthur Says

Somewhere in New Guinea, Nov. 20 (AP)—News is as important to soldiers in the front lines as bread and bullets. Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today.

Occasion for his tribute to the fighting value of news was the first anniversary of the New Guinea army newspaper Guinea Gold, a tabloid of 30 000 circulation, whose daily Australian and American editions are carried to the front by plane, ship and native courier.

"New information on current events are the very breath of modern existence," MacArthur messaged the newspaper. "To the combat soldier they are as necessary as bread and bullets."

Carrier-Planes Turn Guns On Nauru

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 20 — (AP). — A U.S. aircraft carrier task force moving boldly into the waters far to the southwest of Hawaii has added the punching power of its planes to that of the army bombers in greatly expanding the daily air attacks on Japan's mid-Pacific bases.

The carrier - planes Thursday unleashed the biggest raid yet of the six-day offensive by dropping 90 tons of bombs on Nauru, an important enemy air base 500 miles south of the Gilberts where earlier in the same day carrier aircraft struck at the Betio Island of the Tarawa Atoll.

The increasing tempo of the raids, concentrated until Thursday in the Gilbert and Marshall Islands, pointed to the conclusion today that the aerial phase of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's promised Central Pacific offensive is well under way.

In the air blow on Nauru— its first by carrier based planes — several squadrons of bombers and torpedo planes started fires on the airdrome and shop areas, destroyed several planes on the ground and left a ship burning.

Seven Zeros got into the air at Nauru and the Americans shot down two.

Hitler Needs Aegean Isles as Club

Independent Attitude Of Turkey Becomes More Pronounced

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

Germany's claim to have occupied still more islands in the Aegean Sea, on top of the capture of Leros the other day from British and Italian forces, fits perfectly into the picture of growing dissaffection among Hitler's Balkan satellites and further marked signs of Turkish support for the Allies.

Hitler, in his swift drive to possess himself of all these little islands, which dominate the Aegean, is bent on creating a strategic barrier against the Allies in the Near East. His purpose is three-fold:

(1) To prevent invasion of the Balkans via the Aegean; (2) to keep the Allies from sending seaborne aid to the Russians via the Dardanelles and the Black Sea; and (3) to hold a club over the head of the Turks.

Apart from the fierce resistance of the Greeks and the Yugoslavs, there are increasing signs that many people of Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary are striving to find a way to escape Hitler's clutch. Allied Headquarters in Algiers estimate that Hitler is being forced to employ some 44 divisions of varying strength—perhaps close to 500,000 men—in south-eastern Europe. That's far more than he can afford, in view of the terrible strain the Russian campaign is putting on his man-power. However, with the Balkans boiling he can't afford to take chances.

Naturally, as Hitler's troubles increase, so does the independence of the Turks. The point has been reached where in the past few days they have been permitting newspaper correspondents to file dispatches from Ankara, the capital, saying bluntly that Turkey is headed for war on the side of the Allies.

The censorship wouldn't pass any such language unless the Turks were feeling sure of themselves. This doesn't necessarily mean that they will want to join the war actively, or that the Allies will need them. It certainly means moral support and probably material aid —grant of bases, for instance.

LONDON, Nov. 20—(CP)—Formations of light Allied planes swept out across the Channel today in a swift follow-up to a heavy assault by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. last night on the German chemical centre of Leverkusen where poison gas components are made. Fear Nazi U-Boat Changes

Believe Huns Ready For New Tactics

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP).—The Germans still may have some tricks up their sleeves in the U-boat warfare, even though their fight is desperate and doomed.

Among naval experts here there is some belief that in the months ahead the Nazis may attempt to expand their underseas offensive from the Atlantic into the Indian Ocean and perhaps the Pacific.

This would amount to a major change in enemy submarine warfare and would call for consequent changes in strategy by Allied forces defending world-circling supply lines. Until the defensive strategy was perfected the Germans might hold a temporary advantage and send upward the curve of Allied ship sinkings which for months has been extremely low.

The aim would be, of course, to force a dispersal of the Allied forces which have crushed the U-boats in the Atlantic and delay the hour of final decision.

The Germans, in the last few months, have been losing submarines at the rate of 30 a month—faster than they are believed to be able to build them.

Russian Would Ban Press

Relief Conference Vetoes Suggestion

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Nov. 20. —(AP).—For the first time since its meetings began here two weeks ago, the United Nations relief and rehabilitation conference to-day started issuing regular written statements setting forth proposals under consideration.

Before the idea of issuing statements to the public was adopted yesterday, an UNRRA spokesman who asked anonymity stated flatly that Russian Ambassador Andrei Gromyko had been defeated in a move not only to refrain from issuing statements but also to ban newspapermen from the sessions.

Two hours later, however, a Russian delegate, Eugene S. Sergeev, told press representatives that Ambassador Gromyko, in Washington, had authorized him to say "he had never made any such suggestion or anything like it."

The UNRRA spokesman said Gromyko objected to admittance of the press on the ground some matters under discussion were so delicate that publication might cause serious misunderstandings. As an alternative, the spokesman said, Gromyko proposed that a digest of the proceedings be made public at the end of the sessions.

Three delegates—Dean Acheson of the United States, John J. Llewellin of Britain and Jan Masarykk of Czechoslovakia—led the opposition to any ban on the press.

Nazis Start Evacuation Of Peninsula

Rumanian Troops Flee To Odessa By Boat From Crimea

BERNE, Nov. 20.—(AP). — The Bucharest correspondent of the Swiss newspaper Gazette De Lausanne reported to-day that Rumanian divisions attached to the German army in the Crimea had begun evacuation of the peninsula.

It was hoped to remove at least 50 per cent. of the Rumanian troops comprising seven divisions, who have been garrisoning that section of the Russian front, the dispatch said.

The correspondent added that one division already had been successfully transported as far as Odessa "despite the surveillance of the Russian fleet."

The dispatch said the rest of the withdrawing army included one division of cavalry, one armored, one tank, two light and two mixed divisions. To facilitate the expected mass transport, Rumanian authorities have banned heavy shipping of civilian goods to the provinces of Bessarabia, Ruthenia and Bukovina, the correspondent wrote.

Germans Start Samos Invasion

LONDON, Nov. 20 — (CP). — The Ankara radio said today that the Germans had begun attempts to invade Samos, Greek island to the north of the Dodecanese and next to the last Aegean stepping stone known to be in the Allied hands.

The reported invasion attempt began after the fall of Leros in the Dodecanese this week to the combined attack of German sea and air-borne troops.

Castelrosso, easternmost of the Dodecanese, is believed still held by British troops, but the Germans yesterday said they had taken three other small islands, including Ikaria, Patmos and Lipsos, and were holding a fourth island, Furni.

Canadian Units Move Back Into Front Line

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 20—(CP Cable)—Canadian troops, moved out of the Sangro River line for a rest after weeks of continuous fighting in the Italian campaign, are beginning to return to the front, it was indicated today in a dispatch from Canadian Press war correspondent Maurice Desjardins.

In his dispatch Desjardins said that a French-Canadian regiment (the Royal 22nd from Quebec) had moved to an advanced position after a fortnight's rest. He told how the French-Canadian troops were cheered on their way by the Italian populace and said that prior to their departure the mayor of the town had given a dinner for the regiment's commander and his officers, stating that the personnel of the regiment "....are worthy of the highest praise."

With little activity in the Sangro River battle line for the last two weeks and with few stories being received here concerning the Canadian forces in Italy, it was assumed that most, if not all, Canadian formations had been temporarily withdrawn.

Backing up this assumption was a dispatch received yesterday from Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent, that said the Canadian forces which have formed the left wing of the British 8th Army had been resting. He described it as "a hard-earned rest" following weeks of tough going through the Apennine Mountain sector of Italy.

However, with the weather clearing and indications pointing to an approaching major battle to throw the Germans from their winter line in Italy, it appears that at least some of the Canadian units have been switched back to the front.

Says Japs Trapped On Bougainville

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ABOARD A U.S. TASK GROUP FLAGSHIP OFF BOUGAINVILLE, Solomons, Nov. 16 (Delayed)—(AP) — The American naval task force raid on Buka demonstrates the Japanese won't be able to get the bulk of their estimated 40,000 troops off Bougainville Island, the commander of the force said here to-day.

Capt. Arleigh A. Burke, commander of the group, led a roving light surface force in an offensive sweep of waters between Rabaul, enemy feeder base on New Britain, and Buka Island.

His warships stood off Buka without interference and hurled 100 tons of shells in a pre-dawn bombardment of the airdrome and shore battery positions.

"The Japs won't be able to get all of their people off Bougainville" Burke commented. "They'll evacuate some by barge, but it will cost them ships and men to do it.

"They have two alternatives — sacrifice troops or their fleet. If they try to compromise— that is, some troops and some ships—it will cost them more."

Third Explosion Hits London

LONDON, Nov. 20 (CP)—A mysterious explosion—London's third in a week—which smashed a five-storey building in the Soho district last night was followed today by an equally mysterious claim in the German communique that Nazi planes had bombed the British capital, although no planes or sirens were heard here.

The lack of official explanation of the blast aroused suspicions that one of Germany's long-promised secret weapons might have been brought into play, but such theories found no confirmation.

"It was exactly like a scene from the blitz," said one eyewitness to the explosion which blasted out windows for 400 yards around.

The Ministry of Home Security said it was convinced the explosion was not due to enemy action. Unofficially, all three blasts have been attributed to faulty gas mains.

"Secret weapon" theories included speculation the blast might have been caused by a Junkers stratosphere plane flying out of earshot, by a long-range rocket gun, or by a radio-controlled glider bomb.

No one reported hearing the rush of any approaching prejectile, finding any parts of projectiles, or other evidence to indicate that the building was struck from the outside. Airmen said even a stratosphere plane could be heard by radio locators.

Club Pays Tribute To 2 Boys Killed

The Friday Night Club welcomed back this week an ex-member, as guest speaker. J. R. Morrow graduated from Peterborough Collegiate in 1936. After finishing his course in Commerce and Finance at Queen's University, he embarked upon his career in the Bell Telephone Company of Canada. Mr. Morrow was introduced by a former class mate, Norm Allan, president of the club.

Speaking on "Psychology in Youth," Mr. Morrow gave the younger members of the club information which would help them in choosing their vocation. He told the part played by psychology in the modern employment services, and how employers tested prospective employees, so that they might be placed at a job for which they were most suited. Mr. Morrow advised that it was every young man's duty to prepare himself to the best of his ability, so that he would be able to meet present industrial conditions, and make a success of his career.

The motion of thanks made by Wilton Hillier, expressed the club's gratitude and appreciation to Mr. Morrow, for his address.

After the chairman had reminded the fellows of the special program scheduled for the following week, when lady friends would be invited, Don Forde led the usual club sing song. Don Chamberlain, a club guest, won the door prize.

Before the close of the meeting, the club stood for a few moments of silence, in the honor of George Hall, and Gerald Fitzgerald, two members of the club who have made the supreme sacrifice, but whose names will live in the Friday Night Club, as long as the club exists.

Injured Husband Lies Helpless In Bedroom Unable To Secure Aid For Dying Wife

OTTAWA, Nov. 20—(CP). — Provincial Police last night pieced together the story of how John Gray (age unavailable) had to lie beside his dead wife for more than 24 hours because injuries suffered in a fall in the house prevented him from summoning aid.

Sgt. R. P. Labelle of the Provincial Police said that Gray is believed to have suffered the injuries Wednesday night. It was not until Friday that he was able to rally enough strength to leave the house and inform neighbors.

Labelle said that Gray was still in a semi-coma and could not give a coherent account of what had happened. Gray told police that he did not know when his wife died but that he knew her death had taken place while he was helpless at her side.

Coroner J. S. Nelson said a preliminary examination revealed that Mrs. Gray, 58, died of a heart attack.

Australians Advance Seven Miles Jap Fliers Active

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Nov. 20 (AP) — Australians have lunged through savagely resisting Japanese in defense, rain-swept jungles to within one mile of commanding plateau positions on the New Guinea flank of New Britain but the enemy airforce has pulled itself together on the Solomon flank to hit back at the Allied invaders of Bougainville.

On New Guinea's Huon Peninsula —it points like a directing finger at the backdoor route to Rabaul— the Australians have moved seven of the eight miles northwest from Finschhafen to Sattelberg. At Sattelberg, the Japanese hold defences along the edge of a 3,000 foot plateau which overlooks the Finschhafen area.

Shoot Down 16.

At Empress Augusta Bay, on the west-central coast of Bougainville, 35 Japanese bombers and fighters appeared in daylight Wednesday, according to the latest advices from Admiral William F. Halsey. American fighters shot down 16; anti-aircraft destroyed another; and an 18th fell victim to balloon barrage cables. But a few raiders got through to inflict casualties with their bombs. Two American fighters were lost.

This raid followed by a few hours another, reported yesterday, during which Japanese planes succeeded in sinking a small ship of a reinforcement convoy and causing some loss of life.

The fourth raid of the war and the third this month was made by U.S. heavy bombers on Soerabaja, Java, a 14-hour, 2,400 mile roundabout flight to Australia. The bombers, carrying 27 tons of explosives, also made their first assault of the war on an airdrome at nearby Bali.

2. The Army's manpower needs have been revised downward by more than 500,000 men.

3. It was disclosed that preliminary steps already are under consideration for Government and industry to work out tentative plans to reconvert war factories in the United States to peacetime production.

Honesty In All Things

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for November 21 is Exodus 20, 15, Leviticus 19, 11, 13, Luke 19, 1-10, 45, 46, the Golden Text being Exodus 20, 15, "Thou shalt not steal.")

Thou shalt not steal. What commandment is more often violated than this? We may not steal our neighbor's money, silver, or other portable property, but we may take his good name, we may cheat him too much for something of ours he wishes to buy, even cheat him at some game we are playing merely for fun.

In our civilization property rights are very important. They are fundamental, and those who take away what is ours, are doing us a wrong. They are also doing themselves a wrong, as their characters suffer when they break this commandment. We have a right to protect our property, whatever it may be, but that does not mean that we shouldn't share what we have with others who have nothing. No follower of Jesus could possibly think that.

"Thou shalt not defraud thy neighbor, neither rob him: the wages of him that is hired shall not abide with thee all night until the morning." We talked about this verse in a recent lesson so need say no more about it here.

Story of Zacchaeus.

Now we pass to the New Testament story of Zacchaeus, the little man who was a tax xcollector for the Romans and so despised oy his countrymen. He was the chief publican and rich.

Jesus arrived at Jericho, which is situated far below the sea level and was considered a very wicked city. The fame of Jesus must have reached the city and people were anxious to see this Man they had heard about. Zacchaeus, being very short, and fearing that he would miss the sight of the Lord, climbed a sycamore tree and looked down from his branch as Jesus came near.

When Jesus came to the place where Zacchaeus was, He looked up and saw him and said, "Zacchaeus, make haste and come down, for to-day I must abide at thy house."

Imagine Zacchaeus' excitement and how honored he must have felt. He made haste to come down and received his Master joyfully. Others were not so pleased, and said to one another that "He was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner."

Jesus went home with Zacchaeus and Zacchaeus was so moved that he stood up and said, "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore to him fourfold."

Zacchaeus had been converted in the course of the conversation he had had with Jesus. He had suffered a real change of heart. He probably had known of the dislike with which he was regarded by the loyal Jews. He not only worked for the Romans, but he may have cheated his neighbors by making them pay more taxes than was right, extorting money from them. Now he was convicted of his wrongdoing by his own conscience. He saw himself as the cheat and sinner he was, and he started right then to make amends. He would give half his wealth away. The law required him to give back only one-fifth of what he had stolen by over taxing, but he preferred to treat the matter as plain and simple theft, and make the fullest possible measure of amends.

Zacchaeus Is Saved.

"And Jesus said unto him, This day is salvation come to this house, forsomuch as he also is a son of Abraham. For the Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." This beautiful story is one of the happy days in Jesus' life on earth. He had saved a soul, made it whole again.

Some time after this incident, Jesus, being now in Jerusalem, went to the temple. Once He had cleared the money changers out of the outer court where they were selling sacrifices to the people. They were back again, and Luke tells us that "He went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold therein and them that bought, saying unto them, It is written, My house is the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves."

By this action Jesus meant to show the multitudes around Him in a way they could not mistake, that the holy house was already desecrated by the intrusion of this bargaining, and made a place no better than a large bazaar. They were profaning their temple not only by this buying and selling, but by the spirit they manifested.

The religious decay of the nation grieved Him, for He saw that a mere outward service, an observation of the forms and ceremonies without a change of heart, were leading the Jewish religion to decay and ultimate ruin.

A Marvellous Privilege

REV. E. R. JAMES.

Jesus said unto His disciples: I have called you friends"—St, John 15, 15.

A startling statement made by the King of Kings. To a band of plain men He says: "I have called you friends." Then follows the natural development: "For all things that I have heard of My Father I have made known unto you." The time of testing that friendship is at hand. The hearts of those men are very heavy; the tragedy is close at hand. In a few hours He will be arrested. They will leave Him and flee. He leans on a greater Friend: "I am alone, yet not alone, for My Father is with Me."

A great modern thinker says that the man whom the Lord Jesus calls 'Friend' has received the D.S.O. Cross from the Lord Himself.

Friend is a very important word in human vocabulary. More than four thousand years ago God called Abraham to leave Ur, a city of high civilization, and go into the wilderness. It was an adventure of faith. There God revealed to him something of His mind and character and gave him marvellous promises which are still being fulfilled. Both Arab and Jew give Abraham the title of "The friend of God." They recognized the close intimacy between God and Abraham.

Centuries later, in the fulness of time, God sent forth His Son, born of human Mother by the operation of the Holy Spirit, to reveal the fuller character of God and God's desire for the friendship of ordinary men. In the days of His earthly ministry Jesus Christ called a small band "to be with Him" as the inspired writer puts it. Through the weeks and months of close intercourse He was revealing Himself to them, hoping that they might discover His great secret. Slowly, gradually His personality held and fascinated them. Though Jews they began to give Him the value of God.

Very soon they recognized that His teaching was "a new teaching." It aroused the bitter hostility of the professional teachers of the Jewish Church who sought to slay Him because He upset their traditional rules and above all taught that He was the Son of God.

He spake words of mystery and difficulty so that many of His disciples on the outer fringe "went back and walked no more with Him."

At that critical time "Jesus said to the twelve: Will ye also go away? Then Simon Peter answered Him, Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life; and we believe and are sure that Thou are that Christ, the Son of the living God." Simon Peter is not far from the great discovery. How the Master's heart must have glowed at these words.

The Kingdom of God is based on fellowship and friendship. Harnack, the famous German theologian, impresses upon us that the Christian faith conquered the Roman world not through a highly organized missionary society but through the friendship of men and women who went forth showing sympathy and friendship with slaves and ordinary people. That world of long ago saw a fellowship and friendship never seen before.

To-day the Christian Church has failed to develop and practise Christian friendship and fellowship.

The outside world will be quick to recognize such brotherhood and exclaim like men of old: "We never saw it in this fashion." For the Christian religion is based on brotherhood and friendship. It believes that Jesus Christ came into the world to make us the sons of God and to create a friendship one with another that is not found anywhere else. The Spirit of Christ will break down the barriers of race and color and class. When men see such brotherhood and friendship practised they will be attracted to the Christian Church.

Plato in his search for beauty, which he called an everlasting spiritual reality, develops the thought that if a man had the eyes to see the Divine beauty he would in time become beautiful himself and so become a friend of God. "I am the beautiful Shepherd" is a recognized translation of "I am the Good Shepherd." Jesus Christ has sent us His Holy Spirit to open our eyes to see His loveliness and beauty in the four portraits in the Gospels. By that same Spirit Christ will be formed in you. Something of His sweetness and beauty will be seen in you and men will seek your friendship in order to discover the secret of your attractiveness. It is God's ideal to save men through the friendship of men who are revealing Christ in their lives.

KNOX UNITED CHURCH will observe its 33rd anniversary on Sunday, November 21. The services will be conducted by the Reverend David Wren, M.A., B.D., a former pastor of Trinity United Church, but now of Stratford. A cordial invitation is extended to all members and adherents and Mr. Wren's many friends in the city to attend the services. The choir will be assisted by Miss Alice Rourke of Pickering College, Newmarket, as guest soloist.

Knox Church Will Observe 33rd Anniversary Sunday

Knox United Church will celebrate on Sunday its thirty-third anniversary with the Rev. David Wren of Brantford as special preacher. It was actually dedicated for divine worship on December 11, 1910. It had its first origin back in 1872, when an inter-denominational Ladies' District Visiting Association was formed with the main object of providing religious instruction for the fast-growing southern and western portion of the town.

Mr. James A. Hall and Miss L. Dickson were delegated to do duty in the district south of Charlotte Street. They found a great need of Sunday school accommodation in this district. The first school was opened in 1872 in a building on the east side of Aylmer Street, between Charlotte and King Streets, which they were interested to find was the site of the first Presbyterian Church here—forerunner of St. Andrew's. This building soon proved too small, and in the following year a new site had to be provided. A vacant lot was found available on Dalhousie Street between Stewart and Rubidge Streets, owned by a Mr. Walter Patterson, who leased it to them for a term of 20 years at a nominal annual rental of $1, and a building was erected thereon. The school grew rapidly under the superintendency of Mr. Walter Johnston.

In 1892, upon the expiry of the lease, when the owner required the property for other purposes, the present site of Knox Church was acquired for $1,250, which included a grant from Peterborough's universal benefactrix, Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls. However, a proposal to erect a building fell through, and the school was disbanded for 10 years.

In 1902 a building was erected at a cost of $4,000. It was known as a St. Paul's Church Mission, and on Feb. 1, 1903, it was opened as such. It was set apart as a Mission Church in 1905, under the name of Knox Presbyterian Church. On Jan. 1, 1907, it became an independent congregation, and in April of that year the Rev. H. J. Keith was inducted as first pastor. In 1909, encouraged by a gift of $5,000 from the Nicholls Trust and other large donations, it was decided to erect the present edifice. On April 16, 1910, the cornerstone was laid by the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, the Hon. J. M. Gibson. Sunday, December 11, 1910, was a red-letter day in the history of Knox, for on that day long-cherished hopes were fulfilled, and the new church dedicated to divine worship by Dr. D. D. Marsh of Springville, Moderator of the Presbytery, with the Rev. Robert Johnston of Montreal as special preacher.

The building of the church was commenced in the fall of 1909 and the church was officially opened in November, 1910. The members of the building committee were: Rev. Dr. Keith, who was then minister, Andrew McKenzie, chairman, H. J. McCannan, secretary treasurer, R. F. McWilliams, now Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, J. W. Buyers, Robert Mulligan, Howard Shurter, David Hamilton, J. P. Ego, Joseph Morrison, Robert Clifford. Those still living and active are Rev. Dr. Keith now of Ottawa, Andrew McKenzie, H. J. McCannan, Robert Clifford and J. W. Buyers, who is at present somewhat indisposed.

Unveil Book of Remembrance In George Street Church

An impressive and unique service is to be held at George Street United Church on Sunday morning when a "Book of Remembrance" will be unveiled. The beautiful leather-bound volume contains the names, numbers, and rank and service units of approximately one hundred and seventy-five boys and girls of the George Street Congregation who are now serving, or have served and become casualties in His Majesty's Armed Forces.

The "Book of Remembrance" is to be unveiled by a father whose two sons are serving in England and Italy and the impressive roll of names will be read by another active service member, recently returned from the fighting front.

The special speaker for the day will be Lt. Col. Rev. Bruce Hunter, M.C., E.D., who has served for the past four years as a Senior Chaplain and was a Padre for four years in World War I. A capacity congregation is expected for this outstanding event in the history of George Street United Church.

The Release Of Oswald Mosley

A storm of violent protest has been aroused by the announcement of the British Home Secretary, Mr. Herbert Morrison, that Sir Oswald Mosley and his wife are to be released from detention in Holloway Prison. The situation with regard to the Mosleys is undoubtedly a difficult one. Common sense seems to demand that they be kept in custody, but considerations of justice counsel that they be released. They have never been tried and committed to prison by a court; they are under detention, as are several hundred other people of similar views who are quartered on the Isle of Man. Mosley is now seriously ill, and if he were to die in prison a difficult situation for the British Government might come of it.

* * *

Mosley was the leader of the British Fascists, and the present writer had opportunities to watch him during some of his public appearances in London. He was a born leader, with the commanding presence, the compelling voice and the dominating manner of a militarist demagogue. Often on Sunday afternoons his followers might have been seen marching through the streets of London on their way to one of the great parks where Mosley was to speak. Clad in distinctive uniform, marching with excellent discipline, upright, young and determined they looked like all the Fascists that have ever been seen in the history of the world. Fascism, which appeals to base instincts deep in the human heart, is not an Italian or a German invention; it can find followers anywhere, be it London, New York, or any city in Canada. Mosley had an imposing array of followers in London, and he used every showman's trick to make their numbers seem greater than they were.

* * *

His speeches were very like Adolf Hitler's, except that Mosley spoke grammatical and excellent English. But the appeals to hate, to repression and to hysteria were identical with those of the Fuehrer. Anti-Semitism was an important plank in his platform, and when Mosley spoke the Jews caught it hot and strong. There was powerful appeal in his speeches, and many Englishmen who did not wear his uniform stood by and nodded their heads when he shouted about the need for strong discipline, for regimentation of thought and action—though he did not call it that—and for revolution in England. It took the Blitz to knock that nonsense out of many thousands of British heads. Mosley was a fascinating figure on the platform, and the thoughtless, and those who found liberty burdensome succumbed to his saturnine appeal.

* * *

His chief support came from the lower middle class; the wealthy and the aristocratic, and the workers detested him with equal fervour, and it is from these quarters that the protests against his release are now coming. He was an opponent of free enterprise, and he was also bitter against labour unions. His plan to regenerate Britain demanded acceptance of an iron discipline on the Nazi principle, with every effort and every means of production devoted to the state—and the state seemed to be inextricably bound up with the person of Sir Oswald Mosley. His program was subtly designed to appeal to everyone who had a grudge or who was disgruntled with something or somebody; he would right their wrongs, and help them to revenge themselves on their enemies. There can be no doubt that, in his heyday, Mosley was one of the most dangerous men in England.

* * *

But his heyday is long past. He is a sick man, and he has seen the Fascist dream turn to smoke. It is said that his release will be an insult to British workers. We very much doubt if the British workers will be troubled with Mosley for long. He suffers from a disease fatal to Fascism—failure.

Mr. Churchill has called Cordell Hull "that great old eagle of the strong wing". A generous tribute from the great old bulldog of the strong jaw.

Waves Of Crime

The expression "crime-wave" cannot be dismissed as a flashy newspaper coinage. Crime really does come in waves, and investigation as to why this should be so opens a wide and complex field to psychologists, criminologists and sociologists. It may eventually prove that the reason for crime-waves does not lie in the province of any of these investigators. There are scientists of the highest repute who think that forces entirely beyond the control of man — such as the much publicised "sun-spots"—influence human behaviour, bringing about outbreaks ranging from major wars to local waves of crime. We are not qualified to discuss this matter advantageously, and mention it only to show that such an opinion exists.

The murder of Sir Harry Oakes and the Lonergan case both attracted a great deal of attention because of their spectacular circumstances; they have been followed by several outbreaks of sordid crime in the United States, and although the situation in Canada is not as bad (for our smaller population seems to act as a protection in such matters) we have had a number of repulsive crimes here during the past month. In New York's Brooklyn area a particularly bad situation has arisen; gangs of youths under military age are terrorizing whole districts; they are reported to be using knives as weapons to extort money, and a soldier has been knifed to death in a back street for no apparent reason. The striking thing about these local crime waves is the brutality shown in the assaults which have come to the attention of the police.

The Christian Science Monitor raises an old question: does the press encourage this sort of outbreak by giving it publicity? The Boston paper takes the line that press reports of crime suggest criminal action to people of unbalanced mind. There may be a measure of truth in this; certainly the lurid accounts of criminal assaults which appear in a small but popular section of the press may be suspected in this matter. But we cannot agree that it is in the public interest to hush these crimes up. Most newspapers take the line that a thorough exposure of bad conditions of any kind is healthy, because it rouses public opinion to demand reform. A thorough exposure, however, does not involve concentration on the repellent aspects of a crime; newspapers do not suppress testimony or discovery which is essential to a full presentation of a criminal case, but few papers dwell on these matters or give them prominence.

The fact is that newspapers are published for the great majority of sane and law-abiding people; they are not meant to be textbooks for readers of unsound or criminal mind. Neither are they published to be read by children without guidance from their parents. Reputable newspapers, carefully edited for home consumption, cannot accept responsibility for encouraging crime.

"A Terrible State Of Chassis"

As Captain Boyle observed in Juno and the Paycock, "The whole world is in a terrible state of chassis!" Even in the pages of the Examiner we descry the fissurings and upheavals of a tormented society. Some days ago, for instance, we published a picture of an automatic ship-christener—a degenerate gadget if ever we heard of one. In the brave days of old, ships were christened by intrepid matrons who smashed a bottle of champagne over the prow. Of course they were splashed in the process, but what did they care? They were willing to sacrifice a frock and a few hundred dollars worth of fox furs in a good cause. Now, we observe, some ingenious, faint-hearted fellow has devised a machine which breaks the bottle on the ship while the supposed launcher stands at a safe distance, in the dry. What poppycock! The next thing will be a machine to sop up the champagne for a second use.

And what do we see in a more recent issue of this great family journal but a picture of a female department-store Santa Claus! It was that sort of thing which brought the Roman Empire toppling down to ruin. The female impostor, we observe, wore the traditional white beard of the Old Saint, and attempted to conceal her inadequacy by stuffing her suit with sofa cushions. But that will not last long. Next year we shall see showgirls in abbreviated red shorts, halters, and quite beardless, usurping the thrones of the rotund Santa Claus in all the really up-to-date stores. Children will be trampled to death by fathers who are eagerly queuing to kiss Santa Claus and tell her what they want for Christmas. The great feast will become a Saturnalia.

Violent times demand violent measures. This rot must stop at once. The female Santa is the ultimate horror in the delerium of the Twentieth Century. We go farther at our peril.

SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY, Oct. 31: Heard Handel's "Saul," on the radio tonight, or such parts of it as could be squeezed into three-quarters of an hour. They even cut down the Dead March, about the only part of it which everybody would be likely to know. What a march it is! Modern music contains no expressions of noble grief. Indeed, noble grief is not a part of modern life. Melancholy, regret and uncorseted blubbering are frequent enough, but nothing on the high line; the Handelian simplicity and masculinity are foreign to our times, and all the more refreshing in consequence.

MONDAY, Nov. 1: The coal strike began today. Why do miners strike so often? Has it anything to do with working underground? Do they become sulky troglodytes after a few months in the pit, eager to strike a blow at those who live in the sunshine? This is a matter which would repay investigation: why do some trades strike oftener than others? I don't believe it has anything to do with the magnitude of their grievances. Other aggrieved workers patch things up without making such a fuss about it....Made a speech tonight in a kindergarten room in a school. Why are kindergartens always painted that nasty yellow-brown shade? Is it to depress the children, and teach them that life is real and earnest, and education a punishment visited upon them for being small and defenceless ....Began Llewellyn's "None But The Lonely Heart," which cheers me greatly. Quite the funniest book I have read in a long time, but not boringly facetious.

TUESDAY, Nov. 2: In the government liquor store today I met an illiterate. I do not mean the average citizen who can read but doesn't; I mean a man who cannot read at all. "Say Mac," he said to me; "will you buy me a Baby Bear?" I told him there were no Baby Bears to be had, and pointed to a sign on the wall. "I can't read," he said; "be a good fella and buy me a Baby Bear." I then spent five minutes explaining to him that there were no Baby Bears, that it was illegal for me to make a purchase for him, that I wanted my ration for my own use, and that I was not a good fella. He departed, obviously not having understood a word, and I bought some of the product which the government has already obliged us by watering, ready for use. Such is state control; the private shopkeeper who watered his stock while raising the price would soon be in jail....I noticed that the walls of the liquor store were painted the same shade as the kindergarten. The purpose was clearly the same—to depress the spirits and ensure good conduct.

◇ ◇ ◇

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 3: Read today of a woman radio announcer in the West who got herself in hot water by calling Canadian housewives 'fatheads'. Men are used to being called fatheads, and would not have resented it, but women, and particularly housewives, cannot bear any aspersion on the sublimity of their intellect. And yet, what a surprising number of women are fatheads. Will any man, I wonder, some day make a speech in which he says "Gentleman, any success I have achieved has been in spite of my wife, who has never really understood anything of any importance." But no; male gallantry would forbid it. What women owe to male gallantry is past all computation.

◇ ◇ ◇

THURSDAY, Nov. 4: Next week, I see, is Education Week. What a sadly abused word edution is! Someone I see, suggests that the salaries of school-teachers be raised in order to attract brighter minds into the profession. I am all for seeing school-teachers well paid, but I do not think that it would make much difference to the quality of those who went into the teaching profession. Some people feel an urge to teach, and nothing will stop them; they are usually the first-rate teachers....One of the big troubles with teachers, so far as I can see, is that they spend too much time in the company of immature minds, and this begets in them a delusion of omniscience, and prevents them from continuing their own education. Once a teacher stops learning he is useless.

◇ ◇ ◇

FRIDAY, November 5: "Oh, don't you remember the fifth of November, Gunpowder, treason and plot!" No, in Canada we don't remember it, for nobody ever tried to blow up our Parliament on that day. As a reader of Hansard I seriously doubt if gunpower would be enough to blow up the Parliament at Ottawa. Fire from heaven might disturb the somnolence of the chamber, but nothing of human manufacture could do it....I see that the musical play "Blossom Time" has made eight million dollars for the Shubert brothers. And Franz Schubert, who provided the tunes for the piece died worth less than ten dollars. The meek won't inherit the earth for a while, at any rate.

SATURDAY, Nov. 6: I meant to dig up my garden this afternoon, but fell into a profound lethargy after lunch and did not awaken until after five o'clock. This was a mistake. Nothing dulls my brain—as I laughingly call it—so much as sleep. One taste of that death-like state and I am useless. If it were practical I should never sleep at all. I see that a man in the U.S. has never slept more than two hours a day for thirty years; he says that sleep makes people dull-witted. Quite right....Did not rouse myself until it was time to work on two speeches I must give next week. The modern appetite for oratory has passed all bounds; whenever two or three are gathered together one of them is obliged to make a speech. I attribute this to the decline of the legitimate theatre; people want to see somebody do something before their very eyes, even if it is only a speech about a motor trip they took in 1937.

Remember The Circus?

Nostalgic note on the circus, from The Huron Expositor:

And, if memory has not completely failed, a good many can still remember the thrill of seeing the glaring posters so lavishly displayed over the countryside, and can still remember the thrill of anticipation that lodged in every boy's mind and completely absorbed his thoughts. Memory, too, will lead them back to one of the great mysteries of that age. When they used to wonder greatly why fathers could be so easily convinced that attendance at the circus — including the whole family—was an educational and social feature of such magnitude that it should not be neglected. It was, it seemed, the only time in the year, that fathers were willing, and often eager to sacrifice their time and money to give the boys, and often girls, a real good time.

Understanding Russia

(BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR)

THE three-day Canadian-Soviet Friendship congress, held in Toronto, offered another impressive evidence of the broad sympathy the people of this Dominion feel toward their allies and neighbors of Russia. Discussions throughout the sessions were calculated to promote knowledge of and sympathy for Russian achievement, in peace and in war. They served, as one speaker said, to bring the two nations more closely together.

Such is the power of prejudice that, even a short few years ago, it would have been virtually impossible for such a congress to have taken place in any Canadian or American city. Such is the greater power of altered and enlightened public opinion that the Toronto event was an enthusiastic success, culminating in a great mass assemblage on Sunday night.

On that occasion, Mr. Leonard W. Brockington, K.C., one of this country's outstanding orators, put into eloquent words what was, in essence, the most important feature of the affair. The rally, he said, was a meeting of thanksgiving, but it was also "a meeting of repentance for the thoughtlessness of misunderstanding" which had prevailed for so long.

Mr. Brockington did not imply that all the thoughtlessness and all the misunderstanding had been on Canada's side. There were and probably are still—elements in this country to whom Russia is anathema and the very mention of Soviet a bugaboo. But no doubt there were—and are—corresponding elements in Russia which regard Canada as wickedly capitalistic. The point is that further acquaintance, one with another, stimulated by the events of war, has led to a clearing away of much of the fog of biased adverse opinion on both sides.

Canadians have learned more about the Russians and the Russians have learned more about Canadians, to mutual advantage, thus following an objective pattern already set by the people of Britain. By such means is the longed-for scriptural formula of peace on earth to men of good will brought nearer to practical accomplishment. It is to be hoped that in Russia, before long, there may be held meetings similar in character to those held in Toronto and, earlier, in the United States.

In the meantime, Mr. Brockington's strong recommendation that Canadian cities, towns and villages, led by Toronto, copy the example of British centres of population by "adopting" various Russian cities, towns and villages, could be followed to advantage. This direct and almost personal means of assisting the Russians would have a practical effect which would be bound to unite the participating countries in still more enduring bonds of friendship and understanding, thus forwarding, in a striking and effective manner, the cause of an enduring peace.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

DEAR MISS DIX: Isn't there some way in which these short order love affairs in which so many of our young people are indulging can be discouraged? Can't some one, in particular, make our sailors and soldiers realize that they are automatically ruining their futures by getting married or engaged to girls who are perfect strangers to them, and whom they will forget before they have been parted from them for a week, but to whom they will be bound by ties that will cost money and trouble to break?

I am thinking of a man I know who met a girl while his ship was in port. He professed his love for her. She accepted his attentions, went out with him four or five times, and he promised to come back and marry her. The girl is a nice girl. No pickup. But she is swept off of her feet by this sudden romance. He thinks he has found the ONLY girl. And all this happened inside of two weeks.

Now, how in the world can any two people determine in that short space of time whether they love each other enough to want to spend the balance of their lives together?

T. S.

ANSWER: Two weeks is practically a long drawn out courtship in these hectic war times. Love at first sight that used to be a rarity has become a commonplace. Cupid shoots at sight. Boy meets girl. He likes the way she does her hair, or dances, or she has on a pink dress, and they decide that is it Fate that has drawn two such congenial souls together and before the evening is over they are engaged; or, if the lad is a fast worker, they are married.

It would be funny if it wasn't so tragical the things that go under the name of love now. Sometimes it is a few cocktails. Sometimes it is homesickness. Sometimes it is lonesomeness. Sometimes it is wanting to do what all the other boys are doing. Sometimes it is wanting to belong to somebody, that makes boys who are far from home think they are in love with any girl who will jolly 'em up a bit and give them a kiss or two.

But that isn't love. That is just a passing fancy that they will forget all about in an hour or a day. Real love is the feeling we have for someone we have known a long time and who has grown into our lives so completely that they are a part of us. We can be attracted to strangers by their good looks, or their personality. We can enjoy their wit and their entertaining line of conversation. And in time this may turn to love, but it wasn't love in the beginning. It is physical attraction, or fascination, or whatever name you call that which draws two people together for a moment.

But to really love a person we must know their moods and tenses. We must know their habits and peculiarities. We must know even their faults and weaknesses and little ways and love them because they are theirs.

And this takes time, and this is why the whirlwind courtships and the hasty marriages are going to bring so much misery and so many broken hearts to our soldiers and sailors.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going out with a girl for about ten months and love her deeply. Now there are certain times when I get a bit curious about a few things in her past life, but she will not tell me anything about it. Don't you think I have a right to ask her these question? After all, I am going to marry her and I would like to know what she did before I knew her. I have never hidden anything from her and I figure that as long as two people love each other they shouldn't have any secrets from each other.

BOOBY.

ANSWER: Well, Booby, you wouldn't buy a house without examining its title and seeing that there is no mortgage on it. You would even look into a dog's pedigree before you paid out good money for it. So it seems to me that you are only using common prudence in trying to find out everything you can about the past life of the woman you are proposing to marry before you make that fatal trip to the altar with her.

If her slate is clean, she should not object to your having a look-see at it. And if she has some blot on her escutcheon, it is better for you to know it before marriage than afterwards. Even if she has done something foolish or wrong, it will be easier for you to forgive her side-stepping if she tells you about it honestly and frankly than if she lies to you about it, or hides it, and leaves you to find it out by accident.

If you want to know everything about your girl, she should tell you; but it may not make for your happiness. Many husbands write me that they wish that their wives had not confessed some youthful folly to them. They would like to go on believing their skirts to be immaculate, with never a ruffle that has been trailed in the dirt. And certainly a husband never hears the last of it if, as the melodramas says, "he tells all."

Every man and every woman are entitled to a few secrets that they keep locked in their breasts.

Unconsidered Trifles

Sam: "My little sister has the measles."
Jim: "Oh! so has mine."
Sam: "Well, I'll bet you my little sister has more measles than yours has."

◇ ◇ ◇

Young Wife: "Leonard is so slovenly. Half the buttons are generally missing from his clothes."

Severe Aunt: "H'm. Perhaps they are not sewn on properly."

"That's just it. He's awfully careless about his sewing."

◇ ◇ ◇

Passenger (to Negro porter while on train for New York): "What time do we get to New York, George?"

Porter: "We is due to get there at 1:15 unless you has set your watch by eastern time, which would make it 2:15. Then, of co'se if you is goin' by daylight saving time, it would be 3:15, unless we is an hour an' fifty minutes late—which we is."

A Bible Message

Jesus answered and said unto them, Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up. Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days? But he spake of the temple of his body. (John 2: 19-21.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Now when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils. And she went and told them that had been with him, as they mourned and wept. And they, when they had heard that he was alive, and had been seen of her, believed not.

After that he appeared in another form unto two of them as they walked, and went into the country. And they went and told it to the residue; neither believed they them.

Afterward he appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen him after he was risen. (Mark 16: 9-14.)

Letter To The Editor

BUILD A NEW MARKET

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I was delighted with the article which appeared in your columns of Nov. 5th edition, written by J. E. Middleton, especially the part pertaining to the Market Condition.

Looking back to December, 1875, when I entered the employ of the late James Shillington, who was opening a dry goods store in the North Store of the then new Bradburn Opera House Block, the front facing on George street and the rear on the Market Square, where the farmer's wives had a splendid (old style) building to show and offer for sale their produce—"on the ground floor," no winding high stairs for the old, or crippled to climb to make their purchases (which dozens of them can not do today). In short, if Peterborough would erect a neat one story building (with room to grow) with plenty of windows and skylights (preferably saw tooth type) to make it a real business proposition, you would then have five buyers where you now have one.

It would stimulate the buying public. Also it would be an incentive to the Farmers' wife to flood the market with butter, eggs, chickens, geese, ducks, and fresh vegetables galore during the summer months, to say nothing of berries, apples, plums and other items.

It would give the farmer's wife a new lease of life in producing that which would help her "put money in her bag" so that she could buy from your merchants ten to one what she is buying today.

Peterborough is simply surrounded with fine farming land and why not help the farmer cultivate. He will do it when you show him you need his product. A real market would give Peterborough a strong talking point and a "Business Builder." I know what can be done. I left Peterborough January 2, 1880 and entered the laundry business with four stationary tubs and a second hand cookstove to heat all the water, then only shirts and collars to launder. I sold the Kelso Laundry on May 3rd, 1930 with the five buildings they now have, and three 150 horse power boilers (by sticking to the old tubs? NO—going out after business).

I have visited the 'old town" many, many times and know there is room for improvement, and the market will help "bring in the bacon." Success to you.

The war will end one of these days and we will all need more money to settle old debts. Plan a money making scheme NOW.

With best wishes, I am

Yours of long ago and today,

J. E. KELSO.

FOR A DANCING DATE—Dancing parties for servicemen form a large part of the social scheme of young career women just now and Joan Leslie is no exception. Y.W.C.A. Club Doings

The interest of the "Y" clubs has this week been centered on the work of the World's Y.W.C.A. in other countries, learning that, although so far apart, many of the same group projects are carried on and many of the same problems are met. The club members have joined in prayer each evening with "Y's" throughout the world reaffirming our conviction that there are "Eternal Certainties" and that although the purpose of God may be working out in ways difficult to understand, peace and love will ultimately prevail.

The newly organized "So-Serv" Club sponsored a well attended bridge party on Wednesday night. Funds will be donated to the World's "Y" and the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund.

On Thursday the Junior Suppr Club were interested listeners when Miss Green told thm many stories and anecdotes coming from her experience as a teacher in an Egyptian mission school. Miss Green told of the backwardness of Egypt due to its geographic isolation; of the character of the people touching the two extremes of light-heartedness and depression; and of spending a night on the desert in a sandstorm. Other interesting stories made the Egyptian girls more real friends of the Junior Supper Club.

The Gym Swim Club presented a most interesting and successful programe on Denmark. The devotional was led by Opal Robinson and Mary Taylor — the theme being "The Church Prevails". Ina Robinson gave a most interesting talk on Denmark describing the country, the life of people—their home and customs. Mrs. Birkhof assisted the club in the preparation of their program by supplying much information on life in Denmark. The club members took part in a Danish folk dance "The Crested Hen" which they had learned in gym. The refreshments served by Marguerite Royea were characteristically Danish—hot chocolate, liver paste on dark bread, and Danish pastry prepared by Mrs. Dinesen.

The Friday Supper Club presented a Ukrainian program at their regular supper meeting. The president, Jean Ferguson, presided and led the devotional on "God's Dwelling With Men" assisted by Jean McTavish, Helen Weddell and Gwynne Reed. Elinor Shirley played a group of Chopin waltzes since Poland was one of the countries included in the devotional thought.

Zaharuk were guests of the club and their Ukrainian dances were most enthusiastically received. Miss Kiefer introduced Mrs. Rostocky, the guest speaker, who told the club many interesting stories of life in "The Ukraine". Supper was prepared by Adeline Campanaro and her committee.

Throughout this week it has been an inspiration to become one with all nations in the spoken word, prayer, music and fellowship, and World Fellowship becomes not just an ideal but a reality.

On Tuesday the Old Country Club observed the Week of Prayer in their meeting. The devotional was led by Mrs. T. Craig; the readings were given by Mrs. W. Magee and Mrs. J. Day. Miss Clara Barnes was pianist.

All Nation's Exhibit Admired By Hundreds

The week of World Fellowship being observed at the Y.W.C.A. is drawing to a close, and soon the All Nation's Exhibit will be gathered up and put away. This exhibit is composed of articles from most of the 57 countries who are members of the World Fellowship groups of the Y.W.C.A., and has been on display in the library of the local Y.W.C.A. this week.

Many people have seen and admired the interesting and lovely articles in this exhibit. There are dolls, dried potatoes, and fine silver exact replicas of the national costume of the countries they represent. The dolls are the property of Miss Betty Runnett and Mrs. Adamson.

Mrs. W. G. Coates, who spoke to the members of the All Nations Club last Sunday, sent two Japanese kimonas complete with stiff wide sash, which she had brought back with her when she left Japan.

The exhibit on Bolivia was set up by Misses Jessie, Mary and Eleanor Haddow, and it included strange dolls, dried potatoes, andfine silver spoons. The potatoes were of particular interest because they seem to be dehydrated. The natives freeze and dry them, and these potatoes, which are small, light, dry balls, keep indefinitely. Then, when they are needed the Indian women soak them in water and then cooks them.

Miss Bertena Green, who spent some years in Palestine and Egypt, supplied the articles making the the display for those countries. The olive wood carvings, and the fine silver jewelry were some of the highlights in this exhibit. Mrs. Zalami and Mrs. G. Bertck, who with Miss Greene supervised the display, also gave the finely fancyworked blouses and dresses, and the other articles of the Hungarian exhibit.

Several tables were made up of donations from many people, and all contributed to make a most interesting and instructive display.

The people of the Y.W.C.A. hope that in future more people will take an interest in this World Fellowship Week, and come to see the truly fine exhibits.

Presentation Made To Cavan Couple

MILLBROOK, Nov. 20 — (ENS) —A pleasant surprise was prepared for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kennedy on Thursday evening, which over 100 of their friends and their neighbors gathered at their farm homestead south of the village, to spend a social evening with them before their removal to Millbrook to reside. Arthur Thorne was the chairman for the brief program which included readings by Jean Gillis, and musical selections by Robert Carr, the Varcoe Sisters and H. Dingmore, of Peterborough, after which the highlight of the evening took place when Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy were centrally seated, and presented with a tri-light floor lamp and a solid walnut living-room table, Will Lunn reading the address, and Mrs. Arthur Thorne and Miss Martha Lunn offering the gifts. Miss Luella Kennedy was also remembered with a pair of dainty vanity lamps Jean Gillis presenting these on behalf of the young people of the community.

Mr. Kennedy and Miss Luella each made suitable reply, the former speaking on behalf of his wife and himself, and after the singing of "For They are Jolly Good Fellows," the committee in charge served refreshments, and dancing was enjoyed, the visiting artists from Peterborough, assisted by Mrs. Victor Gilmore, providing music, and Richard Worr calling off for the square dances.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy are moving to the house on King Street East, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gardiner before they went to Cavanville to make their home. Mr. and Mrs. Vertil Kennedy will move to the family homestead, where his parents have resided for over thirty years.

Experts Produce Christmas Menu

By HELEN BANNERMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 20—(CP)—Three government dietitians have delved into the problem of how to make this year's wartime Christmas menu just as appetizing as before rationing, and they've come up with the answer in a neat list of recipes for such Yuletide goodies as rich fruit cake, puddings, sauces and mincemeat.

Members of the testing kitchen of the Agriculture Department's Consumer Service, these experts are Dorothy Batcheller of Toronto, Gertrude Gerlach of Saskatoon and Marie-Paule Billette of Montreal.

Their successful wartime receipes —they can be prepared from foods any Canadian can buy—will be made public shortly by the Consumer Service but, meanwhile, here's an indication of what they have done.

Their advice to Canadian cooks, for instance, is go ahead and make their usual Christmas tasties—but to use smaller quantities other than larger amounts involving substituted ingredients.

The problem of making a rich Christmas fruit cake without seeded raisins, currants or citron peel was the first of many presented by the Christmas menu.

The tests were successful—a richly-spiced dark cake and one filled to bursting with fruit, and a light cake in which orange and lemon peel replaced the vanished citron were the results.

"We found that if we tried to be too economical we were wasting our time," Miss Gerlach said "But we did reduce the fat and sugar. We also found that unrationed maraschino cherries made up partly for the lack of citron and supplied a touch of Christmas red."

HAVELOCK

Bride-Elect Given Shower

HAVELOCK, Nov. 20 — (ENS)— About thirty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. Fred Rutherford, Trent River Road, to honor Miss Margaret Johnston, a bride-elect of this month. Games and bingo were played, with Miss Nellie Watson winning the prize, and community singing was enjoyed. Little Miss Marilyn and Master Bobbie Rutherford, dressed in white as a bride and groom, wheeled ed in a decorated doll carriage filled with miscellaneous gifts, and Miss Marilyn recited a verse. Later a lunch was served by the hostess.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, November 21

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE admonishes a strict adherence to the conventional activities and routine of the day of rest, relaxation and reflection, since any active operations or ambitious projects put into gear may prove unprofitable, unhappy and destructive. Impulse, force and reckless energy toward such objectives might beget quarrels, loss and regret in substance and health.

Those whose birthday it is may find their happiness and profit best promoted by stressing the personal, social or pleasant relations in both business and any constructive propositions. Haste, strife, impetuosity and ill will might lead to defeat, danger, disagreeable episodes and hazards to physical wellbeing. Safeguard funds and energies, for mediocre success.

A child born on this day may be impetuous, excitable and rash although at heart is is kindly, well meaning and likable. Early training might help in this.

For Monday, November 22

Monday's astrological forecast holds augury of definite delays, postponements and obstacles, which while disheartening and disappointing may not have an entirely defeating outcome. With sound judgment, good nature and a proper bid for the support of those in influential positions there may develop real opportunity and accomplishment of worth. Patience and perseverance may win the cause.

Those whose birthday it is may have certain opportunities and advantages even though the outlook may seem doomed to defeat, obstruction, postponement and delay. A determined effort to concentrate the forces and to enlist the cooperation of influential persons, should change the tenor of frustration into surprisingly lucrative and enduring channels. This may be through good cheer, cordiality and patience rather than morbidity, gloom and a spirit of defeatism. Pleasant personality counts.

A child born on this day although studious, serious and introspective has its brighter side, with joviality, good will and kindly nature, which will contribute to its success and personal popularity and prestige.

Pretty Wedding In Campbellford

HASTINGS, Nov. 20.—(ENS).—A pretty fall wedding was solemnized in Saint Mary's church, Campbellford, when Mayme Kathleen, second eldest daughter of Corporal and Mrs. G. V. Herrington became the bride of Lloyd William, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Baker of Campbellford. Rev. J. P. Collins officiated, and the music was played by Miss Coletta O'Keefe. During the signing of the register the junior choir sang 'Avia Maria.'

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a sky blue chiffon floor length gown with white accessories and carried a bouquet of Talsman roses and baby faury.

She was attended by her sister Leona, who wore pink chiffon, wartime regulation length and black accessories, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and baby faury. Joseph Bolton of Campbellford, was best man.

At the reception held at the bride's home the bride's mother received, wearing a frock of navy blue crepe with black accessories and a corsage of white baby mums. The groom's mother, who also received, was dressed in royal blue with black accessories and a corsage of white baby mums.

For travelling the bride chose a tailored suit of soldier blue with black accessories and a tweed coat.

HAVE YOUR CLOTHES DRY CLEANED REGULARLY

War economy calls for many substitutes and sacrifices, but you'll not be sacrificing your good appearance, when your clothes are cleaned by our thorough, gentle methods.

CLEAN CLOTHES LAST LONGER

HERE'S WHY:

1.—A chief enemy of fabric is perspiration. Our cleaning removes it.

2.—Tiny saw-toothed particles of grit work down into the fabric and chafe the fibres. Our cleaning gently removes them.

3—Fabric fibres tend to become less flexible when natural oils are removed.

Our cleaning relubricates fibres, and restores soft finish and lustre. All this is topped by the most detailed and long-lasting pressing.

Please Bring Your Own Hanger

Due to the shortage of metals, we ask you to bring your own hanger.

Thrills Sure As Gotch Meets Whipper

Jan Gotch the rampaging Pole, returns to "the scene of the crime" (meaning the Brock Arena wrestling mat) next Tuesday night. Gaucho, the Paralyzing Pole, gave Whipper Billy Watson such a feverish evening of it the other night that the redoubtable Whipper hardly knew whether he was coming or going. However, one thing that must be emphasized about Watson. He wants no "soft" wins handed to him on a platter. Although getting the official verdict when Gotch was disqualified, the Whip was far from satisfied. Nothing other than a return scrap would make him feel right about the whole thing. And that's the way it stands for next Tuesday night.

Gotch and Watson will be in there swinging at the bell and from there on it's anybody's guess what will happen. Ructions have broken out every time the rambunctious Pole has appeared here. In fact Gotch is a complete one-man riot in person as any wrestler who has met him can testify. It's a debatable point whether even Watson with his stellar condition and science can tame the Wolf of Warsaw. In any case it should provide the customers with some thrill-packed minutes.

Ted Miller, the Trenton R.C.A.F. heavyweight, will be asked to meet another newcomer here in the Indian wrestler, Chief Thundercloud. The big Thunder brave has plenty of stuff and the willing Miller may find he has caught a Tartar.

Popular Mike Demitre will be back against long Joe Christie to complete a card that promises to be the high spot of a spectacular season. Fans are once more requested to be in their seats early to avoid disappointment.

Soldiers Tie Cruisers 21-21

Outplayed in the first half Military Training Centre's No. 2 team came from behind after the rest to sew up their House League battle with Gord. Johnston's Cruisers in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium. The game ended in a 21-21 tie with no overtime played.

Cruisers opened up a margin in the early stages and outscored the Soldiers 8 to 2 in a low-scoring, hard-checking period. Rogalski got the lone basket for the Training Centre in the first half while R. Johnston scored two and Sisson and Ketchebeau one each for the Cruisers.

In the second half with Lynn setting the pace for the Soldiers they outscored Cruisers 19 to 13 to finish the argument on even terms. Lynn with ten points, all scored in the second half, Rogalski with six and Chambers with five were the Training Centre scorers while Ketchebeau had eight points and R. Johnston and Sisson six each for Cruisers.

The teams:

Cruisers 21—G. Johnston 1, R. Johnston 6, Geraghty, W. Sisson 6, Ketchebeau 8.

Military Training Centre 21 — Richard, Quinn, Chambers 5, Rogalski 6, Lynn 10.

Referee—Harry Currie.

The New York State Athletic Commission 20 years ago to-day issued a ruling that boxers who have knocked down opponents must go to neutral corners and remain there until those knocked down either had arisen or had remained down for the 10 count. The ruling followed protests made when Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey stood over Luis Firpo as a referee counted the Argentine fighter out.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

There will be at least two Canadian swimming champions in action tonight in the Peterborough city championship swimming meet in the Y.M.C.A. pool. Ross Charlton of Toronto High Park, junior Dominion 100 yards back stroke title-holder has forwarded his entry and Peterborough of course will be represented by Bill Lech, who is the junior Canadian breast stroke champion. Jim Brown, former Peterborough swimmer who has been adding to his laurels since he enlisted with the R.C.N.V.R. is also expected to be a competitor tonight while Stan McBride has entered the diving contest. In some of the races, Swim Director Gord Minty reports, the field of entries is so large that heats will have to be run. It looks like one of the best meets of its kind that has been held here and the program of eight events promises to be keenly contested and run off in quick style. The meet will get under way sharp at 8 o'clock, with three senior and four junior swimming events and an open diving competition to round out the bill.

Two lively games of basketball should be seen in the House League double-header in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium tonight. In the opening contest, scheduled for 7.15 o'clock Tony McIlveen's Training Centre No. 1 team will battle with the Algerines, led by high-scoring Joe Stewart. The Soldiers, just nosed out in their opening contest, promise to do better tonight, and expect to make it interesting for the Algerines. They will have to find a way to place Stewart under close arrest, however, for the Algerine captain popped in 24 points a week ago and will be hard to stop when ever he gets within range. The second game will bring together the two clubs who lost out in the initial double header, Steve Csumrik's Frigates and Jim Ferguson's Corvettes. Both will be gunning for a notch in the win column and it should be an interesting contest all the way. The teams look to be very evenly matched and neither should be able to open out much of a lead so that it promises to be a close battle all the way down the stretch.

It's Got Them Talking

The Whipper Watson-Jan Gotch battle to be resumed at the Brock Street Arena on Tuesday night is still the big topic in sporting circles. The two rivals really turned it on here in this week's brawl and Gotch surprised a lot of folk by the treatment he handed out to the popular favorite. They had seen the Pole handle other grapplers in that fashion but Watson is the champion and the fans were confident that the rowdy Gotch would not get very far if he tried to man-handle the title-holder. However the Polish contender didn't allow the fame and prestige of the Whipper to phaze him for a moment. He sailed into the idol of Toronto as if he were merely some preliminary stumblebum and our recollection of the bout is that Gotch was in the driver's seat more than half the time. It must have been a new experience for Watson to be treated like somebody of no consequence and it is not surprising that the champ demanded a return engagement. A win through the disqualification of his opponent was a poor return for all the punishment he had to take. Watson, of course, realizes that some of his thunder has been stolen by the battling Pole and he is anxious for a chance to climb back into popular acclaim again.

* * * * * *

Gotch is equally enthusiastic about next week's bout. He feels that he had the edge all the way in his first meeting with the champ and that he would have won if it had not been for Referee Tommy Nelson. The Pole complains that if the official had taken up his count when should have, Watson would have been counted out on several occasions when he was tossed out of the ring and had a tough time climbing back. Finally on one of those out-of-the-ring performances by Watson Gotch determined that he would have to take the law in his own hands. "Nelson wouldn't count the Whipper out so the only thing left for me to do was to make sure that the champ remained out. I booted him back two or three times and then Nelson had the nerve to disqualify me and make Watson the winner," growled Gotch, adding that he hoped to beat Watson so far Tuesday night that the whole staff of Tunney referees, including Maxwell couldn't take the honors away from him. It will be a wild night all round, and Brock St. Arena will be crowded for the battle.

Well—Yes And No

Brian Timmis, veteran coach of the Hamilton Wildcats has spoken right up in meeting and declared in effect that the football teams of today are fancy Dans compared to the husky battlers of yesteryear. Timmis, while admiring the hipper-dipper stuff dished out by the modern crop of players opines that if they could be matched against one of the big teams of the past they wouldn't have much chance to pull off the razzle-dazzle plays because they would never have the ball. This column is willing to ride along with the Hamilton mentor for some distance. We are quick to admit that the modern crop of footballers produces no plungers of the type of Ross Craig, the Peterborough boy who graduated to the Hamilton Tigers and with that famous team and also with the Hamilton Alerts piled up an astounding total yardage in carrying the ball on line plays. Playing with the present interference rule in vogue, opening up wide gaps for the ball carrier Craig would have been through the forward wall and spilling the secondary on play after play. As it was he often plunged for 15 and 20 yards, dragging three or four tacklers with him.

* * * * * *

But we don't altogether agree with Timmis that the hipper-dipper stuff would not work against the powerful teams of the past. We have a very vivid recollection of watching a light, fast Varsity team, with our own Pete Campbell at quarterback and Jack Maynard sparking the backfield, literally running into the ground a power-packed Argo team, led by the bone-crushing Smirlie Lawson. Lawson whose smashing runs had been a feature of the Argonaut play all season was smothered by the speed and accurate tackling of the Varsity outside wings and got nowhere all day. On the other hand the Varsity backs pulled off brilliant extension plays, flinging the ball around as if it were a basketball and the Argo heavies simply couldn't stop them. That Varsity team was a real hipper-dipper aggregation if there ever was one and they didn't have any trouble pulling off their stuff against a big, clever and powerful Argonaut machine.

Ted Miller of the R.C.A.F.. They say the Indian has plenty of stuff on the ball....In the other bout on the card long Joe Christie and Mike Demetre the classy Montreal Greek grappler will clash....When Brian Timmis calls Joe Krol the greatest footballer he has seen we wonder if he has forgotten the Big Train, Lionel Conacher for example. If we hadn't once had a glimpse of Jim Thorpe in action when the American Indian was at his best we'd say that Conacher was about the greatest this column has seen. There wasn't much about backfielding that he couldn't do better than anybody else He could boot the ball the proverbial mile and carry it around the end or through the line with equal ability....Hockey fans will be sorry to learn that Sergt. Jack Morrison, the Lakefield boy who played goal for the Peterborough junior and who was missing after an air raid is now reported as having been killed.

Transports Beat St. John's Win Top Place

Transports took over sole possession of first place in the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. Friday night when they triumphed over St. John's 21 to 5 in a close-checking, had fought game.

In the other end of the weekly twin bill the Y Cadets squeezed out a 16 to 14 win over Normal School.

The battle for first place was won by the superior shooting of the Payne outfit. They clicked on most of their scoring opportunites and the Saints, while they had numerous chances, failed to cash in on their openings. Otherwise it was a close battle with both teams checking closely.

Transports scored the only two baskets in the first quarter. St. John's came back with one early in the second quarter to make it 4 to 2 but the winners added another field goal and a successful free throw to run their margin to 7 to 2 at the half.

Transports opened the third quarter at a fast clip and pulled well in front, leading at the end of the quarter 16 to 4. From then until the finish it was a hard battle with the winners held to five more points while the best the Saints could do was to cash in on a free throw.

Beryl Dobbin was top scorer for Transports with ten points and Ruth Hewitt a close second with eight. Dot Bestard checked effectively and was a tower of strength. For the Saints Eva Clark had three points and Teresa Heslip scored the other two points. Peggy Lawless was one of the stars for the losers and Marg. Hawthorne in her debut with the church team played an effective game.

The teams:

Transports 21—Beryl Dobbin 10, Janet Collins, Jean Castle 1, J. Fleming, D. Bestard 2, Detty Flynn, Ruth Hewitt 8, I. Crary.

St. John's 5—Edith Harte-Maxwell, Eva Clark 3, Doreen Groombridge, Eileen Hewitt, Teresa Heslip 2, M. Dyer, Florence Gynane, Peggy Lawless, Marg. Hawthorne.

Referee—W. Siddall; Umpire—Mary McPherson.

In the opening game Y Cadets managed to open up a lead in the first half, leading at the rest period by 10 to 3, and then were just able to stall off a determined second half rally by the Normal girls, winning 16 to 14.

Normalites, who were able to score only three points in the first half, found the range after half time and outscored the winners 11 to 6 after the rest. Their battling finish made the game a real battle.

In the early stages it looked like an easy win for the Cadets but it turned out to be anything but that.

Y scoring points were well divided with A. Young and M. Barrett leading with four points each. E. Fritz sparked tht Normal attack with six points, making her top scorer for the game.

The teams:

Y Cadets 16—D. Saunders, N. Sootheran 3, P. Martin, B. Cook, M. Stanton, M. Spicer, A. Young 4, B. Braund 3, M. Barrett 4, L. Edwards, B. Stewart 2.

Normal 14—H. Baird 2, R. Chapelle, V. McNally 2, F. Sexsmith, M. Vanderwater 1, R. Heffernan, E. Fritz 6, J. Griffen 3, M. Duffin, A. Nelson.

Referee—H. Smith; Umpire—Eleanor Craig.

City Carpetball

A meeting of the City Carpetball League was held Thursday at which eight entries were accepted into the league playoffs.

Although this number is small compared to previous years it is felt everything possible should be done to keep the league going. There is also the possibility of entries being received from the Training Centre. We have missed our old friends from the Fire Hall, and trust that before another week is over they will see their way to join once more in the league game.

We urge that teams do their utmost to get the games under way so that there will be no hold-ups should new teams enter during the coming week. It is good to see All Saints represented this year, as they were one of the old original clubs in the league— in fact, the league got its renewal of birth in the All Saints' basement. This was back in 1929. So we wish Frank Leether and his team good rolling in the games this year.

The teams as entered are:

No. 1 B.E.S.L., No. 2 B.E.S.L., No. 3 L.O.L. (H. Lundy skip); No. 4, L.O.L., No. 5 S.O.E., No. 6 Brintons (H. Rusaw, skip), No. 7 All Saints (Frank Leether, skip), No. 8 Wardens (C. Joyes, skip).

Schedule for the coming two weeks:

S.O.E. 5 vs. Brintons 6. All Saints 7 vs. Wardens 8.

Result cards will be sent out by the secretary during the coming week. Any other team wishing to enter the league games should telephone 3067.

Ontario Hockey Association Promises Support To Minor Loops

TORONTO, Nov. 20 — (CP). — President F. W. (Dinty) Moore of Port Colborne, Ont., today told delegates attending the Ontario Hockey Association's 54th annual meeting that O.H.A. clubs raised $20,000 last year as part of hockey's war effort. This season, he said, "the picture is much brighter."

In his presidential address, prepared for delivery, Moore pledged the association will continue its war services this season by contributing sports equipment to the armed services and by grants to the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Of former athletes now in the services, he said "it is our fervent hope that next season will see them home safely and competing again in the game they love."

George S. Dudley of Midland, association treasurer, reported the association's finances are on a "sound basis" with cash on hand totalling $2,350. Total receipts in 1942-43 were $11,234 against total disbursements of $8,883. Of this total, Dudley said, the Red Cross received a grant of $500 and $100 went to the Greek War Relief fund. Another $1,000 was spent to buy hockey sticks for servicemen.

Fewer Entries

Moore, noting that the O.H.A. operated last season "with the smallest number of entries in quite some time, "congratulated Toronto R. C. A. F., Oshawa Genearls, Aurora Army and Port Colborne, champions respectively in senior "A", junior "A", intermediate 'A" and junior "B" ranks.

The president described affiliation of the Ontario Minor Association with the O.H.A. as an 'event of outstanding importance.' "I assure the minors that we will co-operate and help them in developing the youth of our province in our fullest ability."

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)— If Bob Montgomery had fought all of last night's bout the way he did the 14th round, he still would be world lightweight champion in New York and Pennsylvania . . . But Beau Jack still is the guy we'd rather have on our side in an alley fight . . . He's not a great champion, or even a good boxer, but he's able to make some pretty good ones look bad.

Fliers Swamped By Hamilton In Senior Tilt

By W. M. GLADISH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

For the third straight season this season, Toronto R.C.A.F. were tumbled by an overwhelming score in the Senior O.H.A. drive when they paid their first visit to Hamilton last evening to be handed an 11-1 reverse even with a former Hamilton netminder, Jack Eley, replacing Johnny Mowers, Vezina cupholder with Detroit Red Wings last winter. Ernie Dickens, defenceman, was in action too, and he it was who speared the lone Air Force goal on a solo flight. The new rearguard set-up of Red Heron and Dickens in front of a new goalie, however, did not make the slightest difference.

Hamilton Majors cinched the issue in the first stanza with four goals and it was not until midway in the second frame that Dickens picked up his first tally of the grind. Then the Majors came up with seven more bulges before the final toot. By this win, Hamilton went into a tie for first place in the senior standing with Kingston Frontenac Army at two victories and no losses apiece—and the Majors are to try conclusions with their rivals in the Limestone City tonight to dissolve that deadlock.

Three Hamilton marksmen featured the session with three goals each, the specialists being Clarence Shillington Doug Runions and Johnny Conick. The additional pair of counters were registered by Davy and Liscombe. Hamilton's leading scorer so far this term, Dillon Brady, had to be content with a lone assist in his night's toil but Stan Robertson added considerable to his points record with no less than five assists. Old-timer Runions added two of these credits to his three goals for an evening's five points.

In their three tilts, Toronto Air Force has been able to score only six goals. The total against the Flyers stands at 28.

Wins 4-Mile Race

PORT HOPE, Nov. 20. — N. V. Chapman of England won the 47th annual running of the four-mile Oxford Cup cross-country race at Trinity College School on Friday in the time of 24 minutes 34½ seconds. Gray, also from England and 1942 winner, was a close second. This year's time compares favorably with the record time of 22 minutes 32 seconds set in 1930 by J. Combe.

Hungerford of Huntsville was third. Cox of Bermuda fourth, Braide of Banff fifth, Day of Mexico, Barrow of Quebec, Vernon of Toronto, Bannister of Mexico, Butterfield of Bermuda finished in the order named.

Kitten Trouble

MONTREAL, Nov. 20 (CP) — Fire trucks and police cars responded yesterday to a fire-alarm for an east end box. They found no fire but they did find a kitten precariously perched atop a telegraph pole and a tearful woman who had turned in the alarm as the best method of helping her pet. A fireman did the honors and the police decided they were not needed.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 20 — (CP). — Before the Broda case is tucked into the files of forgotten hockey history, a few misconceptions should be clarified. In the first place, the ill-advised Toronto-Montreal tussle for goalkeeping services of Turk Broda was not the primary cause of Ottawa's "soldier first" order which led to withdrawal of several Army teams from senior hockey leagues. Newspaper criticism attending the Broda affair may have hastened official action, but rising public opinion had already made inevitable the steps which now prohibit special favors to athle[illegible]nd send Army hockey players [illegible]h regular training channels.

Some public ele[illegible] were aroused even last winter. A year ago I wrote a column decrying the booing of former professional hockey players with service teams and suggesting public heckling was poor treatment for men who had joined their country's armed forces.

Letters from fans across Canada and comment from other columnists informed me I was offside. My critics stated positively that many of these men were merely professional hockey players masquerading as servicemen and receiving important money for their puck duties. Several critics claimed some athletes were using their hockey ability to avoid being sent to fighting fronts.

The last hockey season ended on a sour note when Ottawa Commandos were booed as they were presented with the Allan Cup in Calgary.

I firmly believe the suggestion any man sought to use his hockey ability to avoid fighting service was untrue. I believe further, however, that pressure was brought to keep hockey players in certain cities when the players themselves would have preferred to progress through training and go overseas. This unfair pressure has been stopped by the authorities.

Two Montreal sports editors comment wisely on the ruling which cost their city a crackerjack Army team. They are Elmer Ferguson of the Herald and Baz O'Meara of the Star.

Ferguson: "The ruling may not sit well with those who are interested in the welfare of hockey teams richly stocked with crack professionals wearing military garb. But, if not now, at least in future years it will be approved by the athletes themselves, removing as it does any possible stigma that they joined the Army to play hockey under the protection of khaki, and not to fight."

O'Meara: "The criticism of the Army laxness came a great deal from within the Army itself, from soldiers, too, who did not have the same chance to ride about in jeeps, keep living outside of barracks and generally lead a 'featherbed' existence while the underprivileged toiled at training... Also for the information of anybody who may have contrary views, the Army hockey situation was about to become a political football. Gordon Graydon, M.P., for one, was being requested to take the matter up. The C.C.F. Leader was also being pressured."

3-Year Jinx Rides With Canadien Team

By The Canadian Press

The incentive provided by three years of frustration rides with Montreal Canadiens tonight when they oppose Toronto Maple Leafs in one of four week-end National Hockey League games.

Apart from their desire to remain the only undefeated team in the league, Canadiens will be goaded by the knowledge that teams representing Montreal have managed to win only one game on Toronto ice in the last three years. Two resulted in draws and the others went to Leafs, many by lopsided scores.

Despite this precedent, the Flying Frenchmen will be strongly favored to snap the jinx. They defeated Toronto 5-2 at Montreal Thursday in the season's first meeting of the two clubs, causing Leaf Coach Hap Day to comment that Canadiens appear to be "a club without a weakness."

Behind Canadiens, only undefeated club in the league, stands a record of six victories and two ties which gives them a four-point lead over the second-place Chicago Black Hawks, who play Red Wings at Detroit Sunday. Leafs, tied with Detroit for third place two points behind Chicago, meet the tail-end Rangers in New York Sunday while Boston Bruins travel to Montreal.

Favor Hamilton In Rugby Battle

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton Flying Wildcats and Lachine R. C. A. F. meet to-day to determine Eastern Canada's football champion in a contest which sport fans generally regarded as the aperitif to the season's "main dish" — next Saturday's Grey Cup final.

Although Lachine came to Varsity Stadium highly rated by the veteran coach Bill Hughes, the consensus favored Hamilton to defeat the Quebec Union champions, perhaps by a large score, and advance into the East-West final at Toronto November 27.

While supporters of Lachine have been vocal all week in their praise of a club untested in stiff company, Wildcat fans were surprisingly reluctant to accept the 5 to 1 evaluation which Montreal reports have placed on the Hamilton club. An explanation for their pessimism might be that Hamilton will take the field without Jimmy Smith and Abe Zvonkin. Smith starry quarterback was injured when Wildcats defeated the Balmy Beach team 7-2 in the Ontario final, while Zvonkin will be unable to play because of a heavy cold.

Art Stollery probably will handle the bulk of signal-calling duties in Smith's absence, and Al Langford or Pat Santucci will replace Zvonkin on the line.

The Lachine team, led offensively by Cpls. Johnny Fripp and Joey Richman, will be at full strength.

Bouncing Jack Regains Title In 15 Rounds

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP). — Bouncing Beau Jack, the "Upset Kid" of the ring, who usually runs out of gas inside of 10 rounds, kept roaring along for 15 sizzling sessions last night to outpoint Bob Montgomery and win back the New York version of the world lightweight championship before a near-capacity crowd in Madison Square Garden. Jack weighed 132¾, Montgomery 133¾.

Chalking up his upset after 15 of the fiercest rounds seen in the Gardens in years — during which both battlers belted away from bell to bell in every heat — the little shoeshine boy from Georgia became the second man in ring history to win back the 135- pound crown after once losing it. The only previous thumper to turn the trick was Lou Ambers, who regained it from Henry Armstrong back in '39, after losing it to Hurricane Hank a year earlier.

This time, it took Jack less than half a year to climb onto the throne again, after Bobcat Bob knocked him off last May. On that occasion, Montgomery was a 3-to-1 underdog and won easily.

Although Montgomery still packed the heavier artillery, the jumping Jack had his perpetual motion machine too well oiled. And where Bob rated himself along, banging away with a body attack through the early going and measuring his rapid-running rival for right-hand shots, the Beau threw them by the hundreds and from all sections.

Jack missed a lot of them, but landed plenty, too, particularly with a pesky left jab that seemed to be in Montgomery's face all the evening, and long, looping hooks and right uppercuts. The best of these was an uppercut that came off the floor in the ninth round and snapped Montgomery's head back.

Montgomery who had the Jumping Jack on the deck in their last shindig, came close to it two or three times—in the third, when he had Jack backed against the ropes, and obviously hurt; in the fifth, when a long right staggered the smaller of the two Negroes and sent him reeling across the ring, and in the 14th and the 15th when he poured his Sunday shots home.

Strictly Speed-Boy

Recovered from an ailing knee which had a lot to do with his defeat by Ruffin in early October, Jack was strictly a speed-boy last night. He got away fast, appeared to tire for a while in the fifth, sixth and 11th rounds, but came on again, particularly in the 13th, when the two stood in the middle of the ring and traded shot for shot.

The vote of the officials—Referee Arthur Susskind and the Judges Bill Healy and Joe Agnello—was unanimous in agreeing that Montgomery lost the crown in his first defense. Susskind scored it seven rounds for Jack, six for Montgomery and two even.

Before the bout the two tusslers had agreed to a return title bout inside of four months if Jack won. Jack also is committed to meet Ruffin in a non-title affair December 17. Just when he might meet Sammy Angott, the National Boxing Association's world champion, to settle the dispute is problematical.

15 Hockey Teams At Camp Borden

TORONTO, Nov. 20—(CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association at an executive meeting last night approved application for Intermediate "A" rating from 15 active service clubs in Camp Borden, where a number of former National League stars are stationed.

The teams will be organized in two groups and will play on open-air rinks.

Applications for Junior "B" rating were approved from Richmond Hill, H.M.C.S. York, Toronto Marlboros, Windsor City League, Sarnia and Whitby. Intermediate "A" status also was granted to Orillia.

It was announced the O.H.A. has concurred in the action of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association in suspending Whitey Farrant, who was involved in an attack upon an umpire in a game between Toronto Peoples and Hamilton Majors last month.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

In order to have one workout at Toronto, before the East vs. West grid battle for the Grey Cup Nov. 27, Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers, Western challengers, announced last night they would leave the Manitoba capital next Wednesday for the scene of action. Previously it had been stated the Prairie champions would not depart for the East until Nov. 25, arriving in Toronto the morning of the football classic. The club has nominated Cliff Roseborough as the Western official for the contest, this arbiter having handled all scheduled games of the Western Conference season. The Grey Cup fixture is to be played at Varsity Stadium but the 'Peg outfit has arranged one pre-battle rehearsal for Maple Leaf Stadium behind locked gates.

The football team of the Georgia School for the Deaf doesn't find inability to hear too great a handicap —it won its sixth victory of the season and kept the record clear of defeat. The players use a sign language huddle and mental rhythmic counting for beginning plays.

N.H.L. governors, in session at New York yesterday, discussed a proposal for the staging of an all-star war benefit game and it was decided to discuss the subject with representatives of the armed services.

Jimmy Demaree, prominent pro in U.S. golf, was inducted into the U.S. Navy yesterday as an apprentice seaman. He is 33 years old and the father of a nine-year-old girl.

A crowd of 56,000 is expected today at South Bend for the big grid game between Notre Dame and the Navy Preflight team, both of whom went into the battle undefeated and untied this season. The Naval Air Cadets boast six former pro footballers including Halfback Frank Maznicki from the Chicago Bears, the leading scorer.

Wright Wins

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — Chalky Wright, former featherweight champion, won a technical knockout over Al Reasoner of Chicago, in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night before an estimated 5,000 persons. Wright weighed 131¾ and Reasoner 133¾.

Engineer Brings Peacetime Force To Big Army Job

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Maj.-Gen. Howard Kennedy, tall, frank and quick-acting quarter-master-general, is one of the key men in the moulding and stream lining of the Canadian Army.

For three years he has been trouble-shooting and planning, and has originated some important factors in making the Army what it is in the fifth year of war.

A civil engineer with extensive experience in handling large industrial and construction operations, Gen. Kennedy has brought many of the methods and much of the outlook of civilian enterprises into his army activities.

That he is a success can be judged by the fact he started this war as a major and now is a major-general, four jumps in rank. In the First Great War he started as a lieutenant and ended as a captain, one jump for front-line service, but he collected the military cross and a notable citation for valor and persistence under fire.

"Promotions were slower then," he said, "I was 2½ years in France before I got my captaincy. Now the boys expect it a few months after they get their first pip."

Major in 1939

Gen. Kennedy, 51, went overseas in 1939 as major in command of a field company of the Royal Canadian Engineers. He became commander of divisional engineers and then came back to Canada to step into his first trouble-shooting job—organization of the flow of officer reinforcements for the engineers to conform to overseas requirements.

By the time that was done the army needed more tradesmen. Trades schools had already been set up and arrangements made for use of civilian technical schools, but recruits tended to favor certain trades—notably those likely to provide jobs after the war.

Gen. Kennedy, then lieutenant-colonel, was promoted to colonel and became the first director of trades training and a system was worked out to produce a more balanced flow.

He was next appointed a deputy adjutant-general and reorganized the system of officer selection and promotion. A complete catalogue of all army officers was one thing he developed.

If a major who speaks Spanish, plays the piano, understands railway transportation and is able to travel on skis is wanted, a card index will turn up the names of all men of that description in the army.

Rapid Promotion

These jobs carried him to brigadier and early this year he was raised to major-general and made quartermaster-general, head of the branch which handles feeding, housing, transportation and movement of troops.

The quartermaster - general's branch consists of three sections, each headed by a deputy: engineer services and development; supplies and accommodation and transport and movements. A fourth deputy looks after administration, co-ordination within the branch, and liaison with other branches.

The smooth co-operation of these sections with other branches of the army has much to do with the efficiency and comfort of the troops. Camps must be built in Canada and Newfoundland. Lands and buildings must be purchased or leased and altered to suit the Army.

The Army—and the R.C.A.F.—must be fed. Gasoline and oil must be provided for the Army's vehicles. Transportation must be provided for troops by land, sea and air.

Troops must get their mail regardless of where they may be located. In troop movements overseas the timing of trains must be carefully arranged so the arrival of detachments from the west coast is synchronized with those moving from mid-west and eastern points.

Former Woods Manager

Gen. Kennedy's job as quartermaster-general is the closest military parallel to the one he held for many years in peacetime—woods manager of E. B. Eddy Co. From 1926 to 1937 he was in charge of the company's timber limits and woods operations. He was responsible for and feeding of woodcutters and loggers and now is responsible for feeding and housing soldiers. It was his job to see that the logs were driven down-river on schedule, as he now directs movements of trainloads of army men.

In 1937 Gen. Kennedy became manager of the Quebec Forest Industries Association which includes all holders of timber limits in Quebec and deals with their common problems: labor matters, fire protection, forest conservation and relation with governments.

Born on a farm at Dunrobin, Ont., near Ottawa, General Kennedy graduated in civil engineering at McGill just in time to go into the army as engineer officer in 1914. On his return from overseas in 1919 he joined a Montreal engineering firm and served as resident engineer on construction jobs. In 1922 he went into business for himself as a contractor building roads and bridges. He first joined Eddy's engineering branch in a slack winter season.

Hog Muddle

WINNIPEG, Nov. 20 (CP)—The Winnipeg Tribune in a newspage story yesterday said:—"The undiminishing population of hogs awaiting slaughter in Winnipeg stockyards brings strong protest from commission salesmen. Held indefinitely in the yards, the hogs are held to be losing weight and costing the farmers money."

TELEGRAPH OPERATOR AT FIFTEEN—Here's where a fifteen-year-old messenger boy at Penticton, B.C., got a chance at big stuff. During an emergency of several weeks at the Vernon, B.C., telegraph office of the C.P.R., Russell Light, the boy, acted as a telegraph operator and so became one of the youngest telegraph operators in Canada. He is pictured ABOVE adjusting his "bug." Russell is now back at his messenger job, but is being given a chance to learn wire-testing and repeater work.

What! No Haggis For St. Andrew's Day Dinner 70 Scotsmen In Ottawa Must Give Answer

OTTAWA, Nov. 20—(CP)—The Gordons, MacKenzies, MacRaes, MacDonalds, MacGregors, MacLeods and all the lesser breeds within the Scottish law today were caught in a dilemma of a Haggis, rampant.

And it was a sorry sight about the prices board when somebody said St. Andrew's Day, Nov. 30, this year falls on a Tuesday—a meatless Tuesday, no less. From Vancouver Island and Prince Edward Island and all the Scottish acres between came the lament that board regulations would prevent the honest Scot going to his restaurant and ordering himself a choice mixture of sheep's stomach, beef and liver and heart in the tradition of his race.

The consternation at headquarters of their board here spread from Donald Gordon, the Scottish-born chairman, down through six MacKenzies, a Dewar, a Leckie, into a raging tumult of McNabs, McLennans, McFarlanes, MacGills, MacIntoshs, MacLeans, McQueens and MacPhersons.

At last report 70 Scotsmen had been discovered in the Prices Board in Ottawa and there was speculation something will be done about the Haggis situation before Nov. 30. Whether or not it would be called a sacred dish or unfit for human consumption remained a delicate question, but something like that would free it for Scots on even a meatless Tuesday.

Post Graduate Course For Air Crew

OTTAWA, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Post-graduate schools for R. C. A. F. officers and N.C.O.'s who have completed aircrew training are being established at three former army training centres, at Chilliwack, B.C.; Three Rivers, Que., and Valleyfield, Que., the R.C.A.F. announced last night.

Present plans call for a four-week course, starting early in January, for both officers and N.C.O.'s, with the object of instilling in aircrew graduates a "sense of responsibility entailed by their newly acquired rank." Formerly such graduates received commissions or became sergeants and went directly overseas or to the operational training units in Canada.

Physical training will constitute a major part of the new course, along the line of the new duty fitness program adopted by the R.C.A.F.

Chilliwack and Valleyfield will become training schools for officers. The former, a large tree-studded camp located in the Fraser Valley farm country, was used by the army first as a basic training centre and later as an officers' appraisal and selection centre. Valleyfield is the site of the army cooking school, which will be maintained.

Three Rivers, largest of the three sites, will be used as a post-graduate school for N.C.O.s, who will be given the same course as officers at the other schools. The camp is located in the Three Rivers exhibition grounds and is built around seven permanent buildings, an outdoor swimming pool and a baseball park.

The schools will be exculsively for R.C.A.F. aircrew.

R.C.A.F. Padre Is Paralysis Victim

YOUNG'S POINT, Nov. 20—(ENS)—Mrs. N. D. Knox, whose husband, Flt. Lieut. N. D. Knox, former padre at Trenton, was stricken with infantile paralysis some time ago, has received word that he has been moved from Christie St. Hospital to Divadale, R.C.A.F. Convalescent Hospital, which was recently opened in Toronto. He is the first patient to be admitted to the newly renovated rest home. Flt. Lieut. Knox was formerly rector at St. Aidan's.

Kiwanians Hear Rev. Dr. Smart

Egypt is a country where there is a constant intermingling between the newness of the West and the old traditions of the East, Dr. J. D. Smart told the Kiwanis Club Friday as he outlined some of the highlights of a trip made there a few years ago.

He said that modern office buildings stand side by side with Mohammedan minarets; that the Arabs roam the streets clad in clothes representative of two worlds; and that the outlook of the natives on values is different from the ideals entertained in this section of the world. He explained that in Egypt the natives placed little value on human life, counting money as being much more important.

The Near East is not familiar with games like football and baseball and their chief and most popular sport is that of bargaining. A visitor to that country must be prepared to put up a battle with the men behind the counters, who for sheer love of bargaining put on an interesting act, Dr. Smart declared.

Cruel Reminder

While the pyramids are an interesting piece of work the speaker pointed out that people should be a little scandalized at what they represent. It took twenty years to build them, cost a fortune and thousands of lives, just to prepare royal tombs, and while riches were lavished on graves, the citizens of the country languished in the worst poverty.

"Although travelling first class may be a lot more comfortable, going third class is much more interesting. The only seats are slats placed quite a distance apart and instead of windows with glass, there are small shutters, open to the dust, heat and cold. Many of the natives who do use the seats, chew sugar cane and let the husks pile up on the floors for beds."

A special meeting will be held Thursday night for the Kiwanians and their wives as they observe the Club's charter night. It is expected that there will be a guest speaker from Toronto.

The speaker was introduced by T. T. Rodger and the vote of thanks moved by Charles Spearin.

800 Prisoners Paroled To Do War Jobs

TORONTO, Nov. 20 — (CP) — C. F. Neelands, Deputy Provincial Secretary, said here today nearly 800 prisoners have been parolled from Ontario and Federal institutions in the past six months to engage in agriculture or in war work and with few exceptions are setting an enviable record.

Stating that parole revocations have dropped to a record low, Mr. Neelands said many paroled men have risen to executive positions in war industries and are fulfilling all the conditions on which they were released.

Other men and women still in institutions are buying bonds, making blood donations and doing other volunteer work for the armed forces, he said.

C. F. Swayze, secretary to the chief officer of the Parole Board, said many young men have been paroled to enter the army and, one, transferred from the army to the R.C.A.F., has proved himself a capable pilot in operations overseas.

A comprehensive plan to use paroled prisoners in war work and agriculture, thus assisting them to become rehabilitated and worthy citizens, has been worked out between the Federal Department of Justice and the Ontario Attorney - General's Department, Mr. Neelands said.

Seeks To Protect Fishing Banks

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 20 — (CP) — One of Canada's post-war problems — discussions are already under way looking toward a solution —is to protect the Atlantic banks fisheries from depletion by expected inroads of fishermen from Europe.

The official view here is that the post-war period is likely to find fishermen equipped with more modern boats than were available before the war and better equipment, crossing the Atlantic in great numbers.

Recently conferences were held in London with a view to preserving the Banks fisheries and it is understood the arranging of control over European fishing boats by their respective governments was a major point of discussion.

Civil aviation: The first step is being taken toward re-establishment of civil flying clubs after the war.

After the British Commonwealth air training plan is done with, the civilian companies now operating elementary flying training schools will be permitted to assign their profits to "approved" flying clubs which have been organized under a standard, non-profit Dominion charter and concurred in by the Air Ministry.

The first applications for incorporation under the new charter have been submitted to the Federal authorities.

54 Blood Donations Woman Claims Record

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 20—(CP)—Mrs. Gladys Campbell, of London, slender young woman war worker who since the start of the war has made 54 blood donations, should be recognized as Canadian blood donor champion, local Red Cross officials believe.

Yesterday a Toronto newspaper credited Luke Cuzner, Hamilton steel worker, with 32 donations, with the unofficial championship.

CONNIE WINS — Constance Bennett, who has been fighting in court to prove that her son, Peter Bennett Plant, is the real son of her late ex-husband, Phil Plant, and therefore entitled to a portion of the trust fund of Plant's estate, won her case in an out-of-court compromise. A legal technical point raised by her youthful lawyer, Francis McQuire, resulted in the decision that the 14-year-old lad will receive a cash settlement of $135,000.

The Peterborough Examiner

VOL. LXXXVIII, No. 119 SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1943 PAGE NINE

Main Street Topics

CHOSEN FOR DUTY.

Ordinary Seaman W. Lewis, of Peterborough, is one of three sailors selected from the crew of H.M.C.S. Cataraqui to serve with the crew of H.M.C.S. Frontenac, a Corvette built in and sponsored by the city of Kingston.

PRODUCER QUERY

Said an Otonabee farmer this morning: "By the bacon contract system why should there be any change in the price paid to producers for their hogs? You read of a drop of 25 cents a hundred one day, and recovery another day. Why are there these alterations under fixed price. I'd like to suggest that the Federation of Agriculture might try to get us the explanation, so we will all understand it."

CITY HALL PLAN

City Treasurer Shaver has almost completed outline sketches of plans for Peterborough's proposed city hall, one of the projects the city council is preparing for after the war. This is the building recommended by the late W. G. Morrow in his will bequeathing a large sum to the city for city hall purposes. By the time the work is begun the amount available may be close to $400,000.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Local citizens and particularly textile workers were shocked this week to hear that Mr. and Mrs. Norman Delong had died almost together at Hespeler. Both had been suffering from heart ailments and Mrs. Delong took a seizure last Sunday. Her husband called a doctor and when the latter pronounced Mrs. Delong dead, the husband toppled over, and died within a few minutes. Mr. Delong worked for years at the old Auburn Mill before transferring to the Hespeler plant.

IN THE VENISON

Only hunting news on the main street this morning brought the intelligence that Jim Wharry of Quaker Oats had got his deer.

THIRD OFFENCE CHARGED.

Howard Innis, charged in Police Court this morning as a third offender drunk, pleaded not guilty, and was remanded until Monday. Thomas Gorman, charged as a second offender, succeeded in getting a week's engagement.

FOR WAR VICTIMS

Members of Peterborough Vegetable Growers' Association were taking turns this morning in charge of the fruit and vegetable stand they set up on the market, supplying it with saleable stock, and contributing all the proceeds to the British War Victims Fund.

WILD LIFE

Wolves, bears, deer and moose were seen or heard close to the camp where Norman Moncrief spent ten days of the hunting season, seven miles north and west of Apsley. He was absent from the market last week, but was back at his stand today.

NEEDS HOSPITAL TREATMENT.

As the result of a fight on Brock Street Friday night, Constable Gordon Trennum had to take one man to Nicholls Hospital for repairs. Both eyes were completely closed and the victim also had a cut on the head. The police are investigating the battle and charges will probably be laid.

END OF A CHAPTER

"Just a tangle of torn and twisted metal" was a description of the R.C.A.F. plane that sliced through Burleigh woods the other day and crashed near the Peterborough-Apsley highway. It passed through the city yesterday afternoon on a big trailer. Salvage work required a caterpillar tractor to haul the broken plane out to the road.

MARKET PRICES.

Farm produce prices were unchanged on the local market today. Eggs were 45 to 55 cents a dozen; chickens and ducks, 35 cents a pound. Potatoes were scarce at the opening, and the public was offered little choice unless some of the growers arrived later than usual.

AIR RIFLES STILL IN USE.

In spite of the fact that such weapons are not allowed in the city complaints of air rifles being operated continue to come in to the Police Department from time to time. Friday the police were notified that a young girl, June Drummond, Park Street, had been struck on the leg by a pellet from an air rifle.

Huns Lose Destroyer

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Free Danish press service said last night one German destroyer had been sunk and a medium-sized freighter and other small ships damaged by mines planted by Danish saboteur and British mine-laying planes. No dates were given.

Terrified By Recent Oil Fire Citizens Want Tanks Removed

Embers of resentment which have smouldered since the gasoline storage tanks were located in Ashburnham near Hunter street some years ago, burst into flame during the past week and householders in the entire district are making a determined effort to have them removed now that the oil and gasoline warehouse has been destroyed by fire.

Citizens in the immediate vicinity of the fire were badly frightened at the time of fire fearing that the thousands of gallons of gasoline stored in the tanks might explode, and there were many who voiced commendation of the excellent work done by the firemen in fighting the flames, under the obvious handicap that any fire department faces in quelling an oil and gasoline blaze.

Wreckers have completed the job of removing the debris of the old warehouse and service station, and while they were at work, citizens got busy circulating a petition to be presented to the city council. The petition seeks to enlist the aid of the council in having the tanks removed to a more isolated section where the danger to life and propety would be materially reduced if a fire should occur.

Only the people in the immediate vicinity of the tanks are signing the petition but the entire community is solidly behind the move to protect this residential area which includes the finest public buildings east of the river.

Mark Street United Church is only a few hundred yards from the tanks, as is the parsonage, the Immaculate Conception School, St. Luke's Anglican Church, Immaculate Conception Church, St. Joseph's Hospital, the House of Providence, the Monastery of the Precious Blood, and a block of stores on Hunter street. The cold storage plant is near by, and the Western Clock Company and King George School are not beyond the danger point should an explosion occur.

Since the tanks were placed in this location, ten new homes have been built within a city block of the tank site indicating the rapid growth of this section of the city.

The citizens have no objection to a new service station going up, but they feel that the safety of the citizens, their families and their homes are in constant danger as long as the above ground tanks are located in their present position.

It is also pointed out that the railway tends to depreciate property values in the section, but this is purely incidental in the new hue and cry to get the tanks removed.

Police advised citizens to move children to safety when the recent fire was at its height, and it was a spectacular blaze, while in other homes nearby, old people and semi-invalids were taken to homes of friends while the fire raged.

Judging from opinion east of the river, the older residents are definitely alarmed, and they do not want a repetition of the harrowing experience they went through a short time ago, when the fire took place.

To date little has been done except circulate the petition and get it ready for the consideration of the council, who as elected representatives are the custodians of the lives and property of the citizens. In fact so far as could be learned few of the council members know anything about the petition but one prominent citizen remarked, "the justification of the plea is obvious" and Monday night will see the City Council hearing the formal application for attention to this petition.

Taxi Operator Is Acquitted

"I am dismissing this information on the facts and not on the law," declared Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning giving judgment in a charge against John Drummond, local taxi operator of having operated a taxi cab at a distance greater than 15 miles from Peterborough, in violation of an order of the transit controller.

Magistrate Langley said that the prosecution had failed to show that the car Drummond had driven to Toronto was one of his fleet of taxi cabs. If it had been shown that such was the case, he intimated that it was extremely doubtful whether any offence had been committed. There was nothing to show that on that occasion the car had been operated as a taxi cab. There had been no passengers carried for hire and the operation had been a personal one on the personal business of the owner.

His Worship ruled that Inspector Bert McClennan of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board was a "person in authority" and ruled out a statement allegedly made by Drummond to the inspector because the latter had told the accused that it would be better for him to tell.

W. F. Huycke, K.C., prosecuted and T. J. Carley, K.C., appeared for Drummond.

Four Holsteins Bring Over $1,000 At Sale

Fred Hubbs of Bloomfield, sold four head of pure bred stock for more than $1,000 at recent Prince Edward County Holstein Breeders' Association auction. For three of his black and white females he received $812, and a young bull brought him $220.

The county breeders sent fifty-nine head to the sale which turned over $13,039. W. J. Reddick, Consecon consigned his entire herd of twenty-four Holsteins for which he received $5,386.

Forty females averaged $242, and nineteen males $177. These are a few features of the sale which was managed by Dunham Foster. The Reddick senior herd sire brought $325.

Jack Morrison Killed Over Germany

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Morrison, of Lakefield, have been officially informed that a message through the International Red Cross states that German sources has revealed that their son, Sergt. Air Gunner Jack Morrison who was reported missing some time ago after air action overseas, was killed on September 27.

Sergt. Morrison had only been on operational flights for two weeks. He was 21 years of age and was born in Lakefield.

SERGT. JACK MORRISON

Sergt. Morrison, well known to hockey fans as the clever goalie of the Peterborough junior team was employed at the Westclox before enlisting with the R.C.A.F. in Toronto in August, 1942. He trained at Manning Pool, Dunnville and MacDonald Man., and won his wings at MacDonald. He went overseas in July of this year and had further training there before commencing operational flights in September.

Another brother, Sergt. Hugh Morrison, is with the R.C.A.F. and there is one brother, Aubrey, at home, and a sister, Mrs. Harold Hamblin in Peterborough.

THREE BOYS GRADUATE

Three Peterborough and district boys graduated recently from R.C.A.F. schools in Ontario. Sgt. E. N. Armstrong, 669 Water street, got his wings as a pilot from No. 1 Service Flying Training School at Camp Borden and was commissioned as a Pilot Officer at the same time. Sgt. G. M. Watson, 299 Lake street, Peterborough, graduated as a navigator from No. 1 A.O.S. at Malton. Sgt. L. F. Blastorah of Harwood, was presented with his wings as an air bomber from No. 1 A.O.S. at Malton.

Portsmouth Doll Boosts Christmas Fund

Someone is going to win a very unique prize in the draw on the Portsmouth Doll being sponsored by Mrs. Kathleen Elcombe of this city in aid of the special donations to be sent to London, England, by the people of Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, for Christmas.

The South of England City of Portsmouth is one of the harder hit places in the British Isles through aerial warfare, and yet in the midst of all the devastation that this has caused, they could still think of others, and so it was that a contest was staged in the public schools of this city and district for the best doll, and after the contest was over, these same dolls were either raffled off or sold, the proceeds going to worthy war charitable objects, among which was the providing of boxes for prisoners of war in Germany.

Frances Franklin, a 12 year old student at Langstone Girls school in the 8th Grade, won the first prize with her doll, all hand knitted, complete even to the pockets, etc., in the uniform of the British airman it represents, which really is a work of art for one so young, and this she sent to her aunt, Mrs. Elcombe in this city, who is now making it the means of returning some help to the old land, among which in all probability, the particular part that the doll originated in will benefit.

Already there has been $22.00 reported in this column for the fund from this one object, and today a further $15.00 is listed, making a total to date of $37.00, in itself a tidy sum which will provide Christmas cheer for a number of boys and girls. In this latest donation Mrs. V. Sweeting gave quite a bit of help in the selling of tickets.

Hunt Club Helps

It will possibly have been noted that an appeal had been made for hunters to save the hides of the deer they shot, in order that protective clothing might be made from the skins for men serving in the Navy, and there is no doubt hunters will make a ready response.

The Fishtail Lake Hunt Club, composed of Percy Succee, Earl Burns, Garnet Burns and Stewart Whittington of Otonabee,, Lloyd Whittington and Deb. Smith of North Monaghan, and Stuart Hall and Mel Harrison of this city must have had a good hunt, for from the sale of the deer hides from their kill they received the sum of $8.75, which they have turned in to this fund, making their pleasure also a means for a double act of value in the war effort, and something that should be suggestive to all real good sportsmen.

Five weeks from today is Christmas Day, when children in the British Isles who have suffered through air raid attacks will benefit from what the fund has been able to send to give them some cheer at this glad season. At the moment, the fund has about $1,850.00 on hand in the bank towards the special donations, which require $6,720.00 if last year's gifts are to be duplicated.

Previously acknowledged	$64,962.97
Mrs. Kathleen Elcombe, further proceeds from sale of tickets on draw for Portsmouth doll	15.00
Fishtail Lake Hunt Club..	8.75
Total to date	$64,986.72

Kaiser's Idea

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 20 (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser, shipbuilder and production expert, proposed last night a vast private credit pool backed by banks, insurance companies, industry, government and labor unions to finance reconversion of industry in the U.S. to peacetime work.

Youth 17 Years Old Is Charged With Owning Liquor Permit

LINDSAY, Nov. 20 (ENS)—George Teel of Eldon Township was fined $20 and costs in police court here Friday by Magistrate E. A. Gee for having raccoon hides out of season.

Teel pleaded guilty but claimed the coons were killed by dogs and not trapped. The charge was laid by Game Overseer A. Hodgson.

Rose Speirs of Lindsay entered a plea of not guilty when charged by Constable P. Mark with being intoxicated in a public place. The accused admitted that she had had a few drinks of beer and that later a pain in her stomach caused her to lay down and it was at this time that she was arrested.

Appearing in court on a charge of procuring a liquor permit and liquor under false pretenses Lorne Holder, 17, of Garden Township was given two years suspended sentence. Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson criticized that lack of proper supervision and control that would allow the issuing of a permit to a youth of 17 years.

"There are always people who cannot get enough liquor under present restrictions," Mr. Anderson said. "And use every method possible in order to evade the law. It had also become a practice for some firms to have members of their office staff procure liquor for the treating of guests at conventions. R. I. Moore, defence counsel, agreed with the Crown Attorney and said that there was far less trouble before curtailment regulations came into force.

LANDED OVERSEAS — Chief Petty Officer Harold Pammett, who enlisted in the Navy two years ago, has landed overseas according to word received by his mother, Mrs. W. Eason, 670 Reid Street. Before enlisting he worked at the C.G.E. and he served for a time aboard a destroyer. His brother, Gordon, formerly doing research work in an Ottawa laboratory, has also enlisted in the Navy and is taking an officer's course.

The bora, cold Dalmatian and Albanian wind, has been known to sweep a train off the tracks in a mountain gorge.

Plan Forest To Curb Floods

TORONTO, Nov. 20—(CP)—A. H. Richardson, chairman of the Postwar Conservation Committee of the Ontario Lands Department, told the engineering Institute of Canada last night a recommendation has been submitted to the Ontario and federal governments urging establishment of a 20,000-acre forest in Port Hope and Clarke Townships.

Richardson said the forest would be designed to curb seasonal flooding of Port Hope by the Ganaraska river, use non-agricultural land and restore vanish wild life on the upper reaches of the 26-mile river. Similar reforestation projects are likely to be undertaken in other parts of Ontario, he said.

This project alone would provide work for 600 men for two full years after the war, the speaker added.

Surveys show that water courses are diminishing, that erosion is increasing rapidly in certain areas; that swamps are drying up and that the time is ripe for conservation in Ontario, the speaker said. The Ganaraska survey shows that much of the land in the two townships should be withdrawn from agriculture, thousands of acres have become eroded, farm land and buildings have been abandoned, the main street of Port Hope is periodically flooded, because of unwise and indiscriminate wood-cutting.

Contour plowing is remedying the situation to some extent in certain areas of the Ganaraska Valley, said Mr. Richardson.

On the question as to why the government does not expropriate the land for reforestation purposes, he admitted that the owners were satisfied with their lot and pointed out the moral difficulties of transporting them somewhere else when they are free men. He believed the only solution was conservation education and pointed out that the population of the valley is 6,300 persons.

Parish Honors Father Walsh On Departure

A capacity audience assembled in Community Hall, East City, last evening to bid farewell to Rev. Joseph Walsh, who has been assistant at the Immaculate Conception Church for the past seven years, and who has been recently appointed by His Excellency Bishop MacDonald parish priest of Kinmount and the missions. Monsignor O'Sullivan acted as chairman of the meeting. In his opening remarks he stated that it has been said that a priest never knows how much he is appreciated by the people until he dies or is removed to another parish. As in the first instance it is doubtful of the information ever reaches him. It is well that while he is still in the flesh a tangible evidence of their good will towards him should be given. These tokens of gratitude are a human help to him in his labors and a spur to still greater zeal in the exercise of his ministry.

An address, beautifully illuminated, was read by Frank Kearney, Sr., expressing the congregation's esteem for the new pastor's priestly virtues and his interest in their welfare. This was accompanied by the presentation of a substantial purse made by Martin Roche.

On behalf of the Catholic Women's League of the parish, Miss Hazel Guerin voiced the gratitude that the members felt towards Father Walsh for his interest in the league since its establishment seven years ago. Mrs. George Hynes, the president, then presented their chaplain with a reading chair and foot rest, a gold wrist watch, and a purse. Miss Dorothy Theobald spoke for the Young Ladies' Sodality, and Miss Audrey O'Dette presented the new pastor with a floor lamp and a couple of beautiful framed pictures.

During the evening vocal numbers were contributed by Anthony De Noble, Mrs. D. Campanaro and Frank Kearney, Sr., Miss Norah Moher gave a short appropriate recitation. The accompanists were Mrs. MacDonald, Miss McCabe, and Frank Kearney, Jr.

Father Walsh spoke very feelingly in reply to the addresses, thanking all for their kindness to him during his sojourn in East City, and for the valuable gifts he had received from them on the eve of his departure to his first parish.

Before the singing of "God Save the King" four members of the clergy who as yet cannot write P. P. after their names, congratulated their esteemed confrere upon his elevation to the rank of pastor. These were Rev. Dr. Grant, Rev. J. Killen, Rev. James Houlihan, and Rev. Joseph Lynch.

In a very interesting program at the Immaculate Conception School on Wednesday afternoon the children and the altar boys sang and spoke their good wishes to Father Walsh and presented him with a nice leather suit case, as a souvenir of the gratitude they felt for his lively interest he had taken in their work and games.

11 Blood Donors On Completion Sixth Donation Receive Pins

Although the men and women, who a long time ago realized the importance of the Blood Donors Clinic, have kept up a regular attendance, there are very few newcomers appearing in the lists. This week there were 11 people presented with silver buttons for having completed their sixth donations, while most of the others had four or five to their credit. Amateur Flier Steals $1,100 Buys Old Crate

CHICOUTIMI, Que., Nov. 20. — (CP).— Robert Aime Page, 27, an amateur flyer, and Philippe Jomphre, 19, both of Chicoutimi, were in jail Friday, the former waiting for his preliminary hearing on a charge of theft and the latter, having pleaded guilty to the same theft charge, waiting for sentence.

Police said it all started when Page wanted to get a plane.

Police said that he and Jomphre, having decided to buy their own plane, stole the safe of La Caisse Populaire at St. Honore with more than $1,100, Nov. 12, and left two days later for Montreal where they bought an old "crate" for $400 plus a pair of floats for $175.

The plane was shipped by truck to Quebec and from there was to be sent by freight to Chicoutimi where police said it will be seized on arrival.

Jomphre pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Eudore Boivin on a charge of theft and will be sentenced Nov. 23.

$100,000 Fire Hits Montreal

MONTREAL, Nov. 20.—(CP). — Damage estimated at "well over $100,000" was caused here last night when fire destroyed the plastic manufacturing plant of Hobbs Glass Limited and a wooden warehouse of Harrison and Crossfields (Canada) Limited on St. Patrick street near the Verdun Cote St. Paul and Point St. Charles limits.

Valuable war materials, including more than 20,000 cases of canned food and juices destined for the armed services were ruined, as the three-alarm fire threatened a nearby building housing some 200,000 gallons of gasoline and fuel oil. A large quantity of sugar was also reported destroyed.

The Hobbs Glass Limited factory was engaged in the manufacture of airplane windows.

Wilma Staples Captures UFYPO Contest

Miss Wilma Staples of Springville was awarded first honors in the public speaking contest in a program of oratory and music conducted by the United Farm Young People's Organization last night in Co - Operative Services hall. She was chosen by the judges from four competitors, and will represent the local U. F. Y. P. O. at the provincial contest in Toronto next week. Her subject was "Food Production."

Miss Olga Wilson on the subject of Ontario Hydro was placed second. Miss Leitha Kidd discussing Better Rural Schools was third, and the only representative of the young men of the organization, Gordon Stalker was fourth. His subject was "Agriculture in the Post War."

In the amateur entertainment section of the program, Leahy Brothers, piano and violin, were placed first; Miss Eunice Moncrief piano solo, second; and Misses Joy Preston and Viola Neals, a vocal duet, accompanied by Miss Laura Neals, third. By these awards, the distinction of representing the Peterborough group in the provincial contests in Toronto during the coming week devolves upon these young musicans.

The others who took part in the musical feature of the competition were Miss Laura Neals, piano solo; Raymond Kelk, vocal solo; Allan Borland, vocal solo; Misses Fern and Winnifred Gainor, vocal duet, Miss Joy Preston, piano solo; and Misses Edith and Jean Armstrong vocal duet.

The judges were Mrs. J. G. Wharry, Mr. Q. S. McKinney of the Normal School staff and Mr. Vernon Stanley-Jones.

Mrs. Wharry presented the decisions in the public speaking contest with comments on the qualities of the style and delivery of the four contestants; and Mr. McKinney announced the winners of the musical section of the program, with a helpful talk on phases of the work of the young people taking part.

A special compliment was paid to Peterborough U. F. Y. P. O. on the extent of the talent displayed by its members, and of the esthetic values of both public speaking and music to the organization and also the community as a whole.

During the retirement of the judges, the large assembly was further entertained with old time music by the Leahy Brothers, a vocal solo by Henry Batten and vocal duet by Mr. Batten and A. B. Preston. Altogether the entire program extended nearly three hours and was warmly appreciated by the audience.

Reg Hunter was chairman assisted by C. E. Moore, and F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative spoke on the local Agricultural Federation situation.

8th Army Enjoys Well-Earned Rest From War

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Nov. 17.— (Delayed)—(CP Cable.) — Canadian troops of the British 8th Army are enjoying a hard-earned rest after their strenuous campaign in the Apennine Mountains of Italy as the fighting on the front has developed into a "sappers' war" with the Germans blowing bridges and roads and Allied engineers making repairs.

The situation at the front has been practically unchanged for the last four days and until the weather turns better little more than patrolling can be expected from the forces pushing northwards in the mountains.

Units of a Maritime infantry battalion of the Canadian 1st Division are patrolling an area in front of a river without encountering much opposition. Even patrolling is limited to mule and foot slogging because mud and thorough German demolition of bridges has brought transport to a standstill.

Reconnaissance shows that the Germans are blasting and burning to a much greater extent than earlier in the campaign and it is expected the 8th Army will find the country well scorched as it advances

Intelligence reports say the Germans are evacuating civilians from villages along the line of retreat, then dynamiting and burning their homes.

Behind the front the Canadians are taking advantage of the lull to catch up with their baths and other personal problems which were put aside when the going was tough.

Entertainment units are providing morning and afternoon shows which draw capacity crowds and a well-earned rest is being thoroughly enjoyed.

Co-operative Act Is Promised By Bracken

MOOSOMIN, Sask., Nov. 20 (CP) —A Federal Co-operative Act would be placed upon the statute books of the Dominion by a Progressive Conservative Government if elected to power at Ottawa, John Bracken, National Leader, said here on Thursday when elaborating on his agricultural program for Canada.

At a public meeting, he said the Act among other things, would promote the practice of co-operative marketing and co-operation generally and encourage farmers to purchase as well as market goods on a co-operative basis.

3,000 Prisoners Relieve Shortage

TORONTO, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Three thousand prisoners of war now at work, mainly in agriculture, as part of a program to relieve Canada's labor shortage, a wartime conference of Ontario dairy industries was told yesterday by Paul Martin, Liberal M.P. for Essex East and parliamentary assistant to the Minister of Labor.

He added that special plans had been made to utilize the services of Canadian-born Japanese, conscientious objectors and prisoners of war and that an agreement also had been reached with the Defence Department for detailing soldiers for temporary farm duty.

Douro Councillor Fractures His Hip

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 20 (ENS) — Customs Inspector William Harvey of Niagara Falls had a double setback to his deer hunting on Wednesday. In the evening, not feeling well he drove down from the Burleigh sector to see a village doctor—on the way back up again about 7.30 his car was in a crash with one driven by George Jessup of Lakefield at the corner of Reid and Queen.

Jessup in making a left turn off Queen to Reid collided with Harvey's machine, smashing a fender and wheel and breaking his own windshield, bumper and fender. Arnold Jessup, about 7, was riding with his brother and lost a couple of teeth in the smash.

Chief Samis investigated.

Fractured His Hip

Ambrose Coughlin, Douro Councillor, in a ten foot fall from a barn beam at Ed Hanrahan's threshing this week fractured his hip in two places. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by Dr. Alex Fraser, and will be unable to do any work for the next few months after a ten week period in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Baker have arrived home after a two week visit with their son Walter in Oshawa. While there Mr. Baker celebrated his 92nd birthday on November 11, and in honor of the occasion was guest at a surprise party staged by his son. A number of gifts and many greetings from a host of friends were received.

27 Oil Wells Operating At Fort Norman

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 20 (CP)—Terms of the agreement between Canada and the United States covering the Canol Oil and Pipeline project in the northwest which, it was disclosed, will have an output of 3,000 barrels a day, were made public today by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Exchanges of notes between the two governments provide that the United States government is to construct the project—in the Northwest Territories, Yukon and Alaska—and own and operate it for the duration of the war.

Thereafter the properties are to be valued and the Canadian government is to have first option of purchasing pipeline and refinery at the commercial valuation.

It is stipulated, however, that the installation are not to be dismantled by the Canadian government or any other purchaser without approval of the Canada-U.S. defence board.

In a progress report accompanying the official documents it was stated 26 wells have been completed in the Fort Norman, N.W.T., field under the Canol project by Imperial Oil Co. Of these, 23 found oil. With four wells drilled prior to the Canol agreement, there now is a total of 27 producing wells.

Under the United States contract four wells were drilled outside the Norman Field, at a considerable distance from the producing area, and three on the edges of the area.

"It has been estimated that by July 1, 1943, enough new wells had been drilled to produce 3,000 barrels daily and potential production has considerably expanded since then," said the statement.

"It is contemplated that the pipeline from Norman Wells to Whitehorse (N.Y.) will be completed in January, 1944. The oil line from Skagway (Alaska) to Whitehorse is already operating.

"Work is still proceeding on the refinery at Whitehorse and it will be completed in May, 1944, according to present schedules."

Seven New Members Join Underwriters

The regular monthly Life Underwriters meeting was held at the Empress Hotel, Thursday noon, with President Harold Howay presiding.

The speaker for the day was the Rev. Dr. James Smart of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, who gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the subject "Keeping your Health in Wartime."

D. O. Lavis of the Sovereign Life Assurance Company introduced the speaker and a vote of thanks on behalf of the club was extended by Harry Taylor of The Sun Life Assurance Company.

Seven new members have joined the Association since the last meeting. These new members are W. P. Kinlin, Dominion Life Assurance Co.; George Heron, Imperial Life Assurance Co.; Frank Patterson, Canada Life Assurance Co.; J. H. Peel, Frank Dawson and L. O'Toole, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.; and Cecil Gallagher, Confederation Life Association.

It was announced that the December meeting would be in the form of a social evening.

Aluminum Ware To Be Produced

OTTAWA, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Possibility that limited production of aluminum pots and pans may be resumed was seen to-day by officials who said Canada is accumulating a supply of scrap aluminum which is available for civilian manufacture.

While the metal now is available for the first time since the early war months, decision as to what civilian production it will be used for rests largely with manufacturers, it was said. Some plants which previously made aluminum cooking utensils now are engaged on war contracts which may prevent them resuming manufacture of civilian products.

CONTROL THE DIRECTION

YOUR OPPONENT may plainly be trying to get as many leads as possible in a certain direction, through your own holding. If you can cut down, by even one, the number of times he is able to do that, you may thwart his entire plan. So, if you hold an ace of some suit, which can be used at one time or another, select the trick which otherwise would be won in the hand from which he wishes to lead.

West led his heart Q to the A and, when East played low on the trick, West read South as having the K for his earlier bid of No Trumps. Counting West for the trump holding his double had indicated, South led the club 2 from dummy and put on his K. West decided to let South have this, and thereupon lost his chance to beat the contract.

The club 4 was led, West playing the 9 and the 10 winning. To his own hand came South again with the spade A and led the club 6. West decided to take this with his club A and cash his spade K. No matter what he did now, South's contract was safe, as the club Q could settle his last trump, the J, and diamonds would furnish the rest of the tricks.

West should have used his club A on the second trick, when South put the K on the trump lead from dummy. A spade return then would have knocked out the A. South then could have led once toward the dummy's trumps, but West could have used the 9 to force the lead into dummy with the 10. Unable to reach his own holding again, South would have had to lead from dummy's Q-3 into West's J-5 of trumps, giving up a trick there and then an immediate spade trick.

Upset Coming C.C.F. Speaker Tells Audience

PRESTON, Nov. 20—There will be no violence in the "revolution" the C.C.F. is seeking to bring about in Canada, F. A. Brewin, Ontario vice-president of the party, declared at a meeting here last night.

A "real revolution" is coming nevertheless, the speaker warned, but it will have its being in the transference of political and economic power from the hands of the few into the hands of the people as a whole.

Such political and economic power has been denied to the many under the "corrupt and outworn party system" as Canada has known it until today, the speaker maintained. The few who owned and controlled giant monopolies had a stranglehold on the policies of the old political parties, Mr. Brewin declared.

It was against such a monopolistic dynasty that the "revolution" of the C.C.F. was aimed. There was no C.C.F. deside to take from the individual any of the freedoms he had earned and suffered to maintain. The only freedom his party definitely will destroy, the speaker declared, was the freedom of exploitation of the common man, a freedom enjoyed by the few and experienced as a lack of freedom by the many.

"In Canada we cannot go back to prewar depressions without the certainty of losing what freedoms we have," Mr. Brewin said. "Democracy as we know it cannot survive after this war if we do not transform our economic system."

Fascism, which is the negation of all freedom, was bred in economic depression, in unemployment and in fear of reactionaries. "It will breed again in the same conditions if we permit them, and once again it will find its expression in the awful dilemma of recurring war," the speaker declared.

Opponents of the C.C.F. Party endeavoring to prevent its growth with "the weapon of fright" are shooting wide of the mark, Mr. Brewin said.

"They picture the C.C.F. as a bogey," Mr. Brewin said, "as the enemy of liberty, as a few fanatics eager to grab control of the power of the State. They are wide of the mark. The C.C.F. is the people expressing themselves in a political form. The C.C.F. is democratic to the core. The C.C.F. of which these exploiters are so afraid is composed of normal representative Canadians from factory, farm and office, determined to master their own economic destiny and not to relapse into chaos. There is no need for the people of Canada to be afraid of themselves."

Bank Of Montreal Marks Century Of Service In Peterborough

A well known business man is walking down Simcoe street, gravely raising his top hat with one hand, to wish his customers good night, and carrying a large tin box full of securites with the other.

The scene is Peterborough a century ago, and the personage in question is Robert Nicholls, the first manager of the Bank of Montreal—the oldest bank in the community. The scene is recalled today as the Bank of Montreal celebrates its 100th anniversary of service to the citizens of Peterborough. The local office was one of the first opened in Upper Canada and its founding was a great boon to the people and business of the community.

In 1843, about 20 years after the first settlement, the Peterborough branch was opened in a frame building on the site of the present office, on the corner of Water and Simcoe street. The front part was occupied by Nicholls and Hall as a general store, with the banking office in a room in the rear.

No Vault in First Bank

Mr. Nicholls, a native of New York, was a man of varied interests and he was well equipped to undertake the managership of the bank together with his other activities. The new manager, however, appeared to have some misgivings about the safety of the bank's funds which, as there was no vault in the building, were kept in a small iron safe. Mr. Nicholls apparently considered that the safe was neither burglar-proof nor fire-proof, and he is reported to have carried home the funds of the bank in a tin box each evening, and to have brought them back again in the morning.

This safe is now in the Nicholls Hospital, an institution raised in his memory.

Mr. Nicholls, as one of the prominent citizens of the time, was closely associated with the municipality and undertook the duties of treasurer for some years. His far-seeing methods were responsible for a reorganization of the city's finances, and even today Peterborough is one of the very few communities which reserve a necessary portion of municipal levies each year to meet all indebtedness, including a provision for sinking funds and interest.

Inauguration of City Trust

This plan was inaugurated by Mr. Nicholls when he called together a group of the strong men of the town, who applied to the Legislature for the passage of an Act under which the Town Trust of Peterborough was formed. By the terms of the Act, the City Trust received each year the necessary amount to cover all indebtedness, investing such funds as they accumulated, thus earning money to assist in the meeting of municipal payments.

Mr. Nicholls died in 1883, after a long and honorable career. Both he and his wife left many evidences of their generosity, including Nicholls Hospital, several broad and ample parks and liberal gifts to the Young Men's Christian Association and other institutions.

Peterborough has progressed a long way since the early days of the opening of the bank's office—then but a village consisting of a few grist and saw mills and some residences, mostly of wooden construction, with a scattered population of about a thousand.

Now Great Industrial Centre

Today, the population has grown to over 27,000 and the city is conceded to be one of Canada's leading industrial centres, complete with a fine library, hospitals, schools and colleges. Such a record is a just cause for civic pride, in which—as an institution which has always endeavored to work for the advancement of the city—the Bank of Montreal shares.

ROBERT NICHOLLS, first agent of the Bank of Montreal in Peterborough, and who for years was the town's leading citizen.

Since the bank opened it has been in charge of a long succession of capable managers. More recent names include C. C. Abbott, E. S. J. Martin, and T. S. Mackay. The present manager, C. S. Cummer, has had a long and intimate knowledge of this city, having been manager of the former George Street Branch for over twenty years, prior to taking charge in January, 1941, of the combined offices, which had been housed together as an efficiency measure and as a means of giving better service to the public Mr. Cummer is widely known throughout the district, having been associated with many charitable and sporting organizations through the years.

In the progress of Peterborough the Bank of Montreal is seen to be intimately connected with each phase and step of the development of the community; in like manner, the parent bank—now in its 127th year—has played a leading part in the progress of this country since colonial days.

History of the Parent Bank

It was on November 3, 1817, when pioneer Canadians were doing practically all their business by barter, that the Bank of Montreal—the first permanent bank in British North America—opened its doors for business in a modest little rented office in St. Paul street, Montreal, with the formidable capital of $250,000.

Trading in the Canadian colonies in the early 1800's was carried on under great handicaps, and it was, in fact, to ameliorate the exceedingly chaotic and primitive conditions under which the business men of that day had to conduct their financial affairs that the bank was established.

At the time Canada, of course, had no currency of its own. The colonies were much too poor to afford such a luxury, and not only American, British and French, but Spanish and Portuguese money was in circulation. Naturally, the ratios of exchange into colonial money of account were subject to frequent variations. As a consequence, domestic trade was carried on principally by barter and international business was on a very unstable basis.

Founded by nine English and Scottish merchants of Montreal, the bank set about the business of giving some semblance of organization to the financial life of the country, and its first task was the issue of paper currency—that is, the bank's own bills in small denominations—and, later, copper coins. Specimens of this currency—which was in reality the first Canadian money—are preserved in the bank's museum in Montreal.

Not only did the bank provide a medium of exchange such as had hitherto been lacking, but it nursed along the early enterprises of the country, and straightened out the difficulties of interurban, innterprovincial and international trading.

Opening Of Branches

One of the most important factors contributing to this achievement was the policy, adopted by the bank's directors at the inception, of setting up branches and agencies at strategic points in the colony. For instance, two weeks after the founding of the institution in Montreal, the directors opened an agency at Quebec City, which six months later became known as an "Office of Discount and Deposit." In the following month agents were appointed at Kingston, which was then important as a garrison town, and York, as Toronto was then known, which, with a population of 1,000, was an outpost for lumbering and the fur trade—industries which formed the only basis for the export business of the country.

Today the bank has more than 450 branches throughout Canada and Newfoundland, with its own offices in London, New York, Chicago and San Francisco.

Toymaker Arrested Wanted At Cobourg

TORONTO, Nov. 20—(CP)—While working as a toymaker in a Toronto plant, John Brown, alias Martin and Barnes, was arrested yesterday on five charges of housebreaking, theft, and jailbreaking.

In June Brown was alleged to have absconded on bail while facing charges of breaking into a Toronto drugstore. Police said that in July he escaped from Cobourg jail, whence he had been put charged with housebreaking in Port Hope. Since his alleged escape, he is charged with breaking into a Toronto home and stealing a wallet and money.

1943 Harvest Reveals Farm Reverse

The farms of Ontario yielded this year a total of 91,420,200 bushels of grain as compared with 191,586,000 and the average of 156,926,000 bushels for the ten-year period from 1931 to 1940.

Those figures should plainly tell to the layman the disappointing story of the returns to the farmer this year in reward for all his work and investment.

The perpendicular drop of 100,000,000 bushels of grain in a critical war year is a serious setback to the wartime labor of Ontario's farmers in the aggravated circumstances of scarcity of help.

Fall wheat this year is estimated at 13,222,000 bushels as compared with 15,878,000 for the ten-year average and with the top of 22,271,000 since 1933.

Spring wheat 635,000 bushels this year; 1,708,000 for the 1931-40 average; and the peak of 1,8557,000 bushels in 1935.

Oats this year 34,677,000 as against 78,309,000 for the ten-year average; and the maximum of 86,639,000 in 1939.

Peas 512,000 bushels; maximum 1,168,000 in 1935; and 960,000 bushels, average for the ten years from 1931-1940.

Beans 1,156,000 bushels; ten-year average 1,057,000; and maximum of 1,588,000 in 1941.

Mixed grains: 20,406,000 bushels; and in 1942—50,759,000 bushels; ten-year average, 32,359,000.

Rye: 1,506,000 bushels; ten-year average 1,152,000.

Buckwheat: 3,578,000 bushels; last year 2,646,000; ten-year average 3,940,000; maximum 4,385,000 in 1934.

Flax: 235,200 bushels; last year 262,000; ten-year average 68,000.

Corn: 9,526,000 bushels this year; 13,622,000 last year; ten-year average 6,435,000.

Mangels and turnips combine in a total of 26,204,000 bushels as against 25,586,000 last year.

The hay and clover crop is estimated at 5,250,000 tons compared with 4,779,000 last year.

Jury Blames Matron In Baby Death

MONTREAL, Nov. 20 — (CP).—A coroner's jury to-day held Mrs. Jeanne DeGuire, operator of the Garderie (Nursery) Cecile here criminally responsible for the death of two-months-old Jacques Laroque, one of seven babies who died in hospital after their removal from private nurseries in the Montreal district.

Mrs. DeGuire was arrested after the inquest ended on a charge of criminal negligence.

The jury reached its verdict after Dr. Louis A. Chabot, Inspector-General for the Provincial Department of Health, testified that after he had condemned the water supply of the nursery, it operated for two months without an adequate water supply.

Dr. J. N. Laporte, head of the Child Hygiene Department of the Province, testified that the nursery had twice been refused a licence to operate because of bad conditions.

THROUGH 100 YEARS OF PEACE AND WAR

Peterborough AND THE Bank of Montreal

HAVE GROWN UP TOGETHER

On every business day for a century, Peterborough people and the Bank of Montreal have done business together.

PETERBOROUGH of 1843 was still a little rural settlement when it gave welcome to the Bank of Montreal, which is Canada's oldest bank and Peterborough's oldest bank. Here began the first permanent banking office in the community, and its record over a century has been unbroken.

Just as the Peterborough office has worked hand in hand with the people of this community through all the ups and downs of 100 years, so the bank as a whole—now in its 127th year of active and uninterrupted service — has aided and shared in the growth of Canada, from a few struggling colonies to a great Dominion — the third greatest trading nation of the world.

Pioneers together — Peterborough and the Bank of Montreal — each has contributed to the development of Ontario and of Canada as a whole. Today, in this time of war, Canadians naturally look for a continuance of the spirit underlying this development.

Nazis, Soviets Both Gain On Red Front

Russians Score 20 Miles In Dnieper Bend

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(CP).—New Russian successes in the great Dnieper River Bend, offset by further gains in their counter-attacks west of Kiev, were reported from Moscow and Berlin to-day.

A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Moscow said the Russians had scored a new 20-mile advance in the Dnieper Bend after breaking through German defences eash of the Krenenchug-Znamenka railway.

One spearhead of the drive cut the railway and is advancing 25 miles northeast of Znamenka while another driving southward has plunged to about 28 miles east of that rail juncture which lies about 50 miles southwest of Kremenchug.

The German High Command claimed that Nazi forces driving back eastward from west of Kiev had broken through Soviet defence points after beating off counter-attacks and had captured "important ground" west of Kiev.

Near Cheraski.

The Berlin broadcast also acknowledged a new Russian break-through near Cheraski, Dnieper rail junction northwest of Kremenchug, but asserted the breach had been closed.

In new attacks aimed at encircling Krivoi Rog, rail centre within the Dnieper Bend, the Berlin communique said Soviet drives both north of Krivoi Rog and near Nikopol to the southwest had been beaten off.

The Berlin radio said the Russians had made another seaborne landing on the Crimean peninsula south of Kerch where the Red army of the Caucasus has been battling for days to enlarge its bridgeheads.

The Korostyshev sector is 60 miles west of Kiev and 20 miles east of Zhitomir, which the Red Army gave up Friday.

(The German communique acknowledged "stubborn resistance" but said the Nazis were making further headway west of Kiev. A Berlin broadcast said later that

TORONTO, Nov. 22—(CP). — Prof. Horace M. Kallen, United States sociologist and philosopher, said last night at a mass meeting in conjunction with the 13th annual conference of the Ontario Zionist Region that opposition of Arab leadership to further Jewish immigration into Palestine is based upon the challenge Palestine presents to exploitation of Arab masses by a relatively small group of their own ruling class.

8th Army Takes Two More Mountain Towns

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 22—(AP).—Allied headquarters announced today that "a large number" of Canadian troops has arrived in Italy to add its strength to the ground forces which Gen. Sir Harold Alexander is building up for a full-blown offensive against the enemy's winter defences.

There was no immediate indication whether the new units had yet seen action and no hint as to their identity. The Canadian 1st Division has been in Italy since September 3, fighting as the left wing of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British 8th Army.

The new gains reported today put the left wing of the 8th Army within two miles of the Upper Sangro River.

Use 10 Divisions.

It was estimated that 10 front-line German divisions now defend the positions along the Garigliano and Sangro Rivers, which prisoners and deserters continued to describe as the enemy's "winter line." Aerial reconnaissance showed the Germans were working feverishly to strengthen and deepen the positions from the Tyrrhenian to the Adriatic.

Brisk clashes occurred yesterday near the Adriatic coast where British patrols continued to cross the Sangro in probing expeditions, and in the high ground southeast of Alfedena.

The heavy downpours, making all movements of men and guns difficult, kept 5th Army activity on the western end of the battlefront down to patrol action and artillery duels.

Aircraft made their first attack on the railway yards at Chiusi, a midway point on the main Rome-Florence railway, scoring many direct hits in the freight yards, the central station and warehouses.

Hits were scored on enemy gun emplacements at Gaeta, nine miles beyond the 5th Army front along the Tyrrhenian, and fighters bombed and strafed German trenches near Danciano on the 8th Army front.

In sweeps across the Adriatic again, Spitfires blasted harbor works and railway yards at Sibenik, Yugoslavia, and set fire to 17 enemy vehicles near Vorre and Durazzo in Albania.

In night forays in Italy, medium bombers attacked east coast ports and railway and road junctions at Porto Civitanova, Pedaso and Guilianova and the landing ground at Loreto, southwest of Ancona.

Intercept Convoy.

The Headquarters bulletin also announced that British destroyers intercepted an enemy convoy of small craft in the Adriatic off San Benedetta, midway between Ancona and Pescara, and sank one lighter and possibly another.

Medium bombers also attacked the west coast port of Civitavecchia north of Rome, while light bombers attacked Ancona on the east coast.

Bombers Lash Tarawa Island

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ABOARD A LIBERATOR RETURNING FROM TARAWA, Nov. 19 (Delayed) — (AP). This United States Army bomber has just set a large impressive oil fire on the Japanese-held Island of Tarawa, 2,000 miles west of Hawaii.

It has dropped a number of bombs on the runways, barracks area, and beaches of that strategic coral Atoll, and fired its guns at everything in sight.

"In sight" includes one Japanese cargo vessel whose engineers feverishly are pouring coal or oil into it in an attempt to get out of the harbor; one truck full of soldiers on their way—rapidly—somewhere else a number of docks and buildings which looked as if they might hold some of the island's badgered defenders.

This bomber has been moving at 2,500 feet altitude through large black blobs of smoke from exploding anti-aircraft shells and through streams of machine-gun bullets from Jap ground positions.

We circled the island within clear view while other bombers delivered attacks on beach and gun position targets on the perimeter of the tiny island.

New Infantry, Tank Units Reach Italy

Canadian Forces To Operate As A Canadian Corps

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Nov. 13—(Delayed).—Canadian troops in Italy, reinforced by arrival of a new infantry and armored formations, will operate as a Canadian corps, under Canadian command, it was disclosed to-day.

The fit-looking newcomers, thoroughly trained in England, and lacking only battle experience, streamed of troop troops in an Italian port to join the veterans of the Canadian 1st Division as units of the corps. Not since 1918 has there been a Canadian corps actually in action against an enemy.

The newscomers represented all parts of the Dominion.

The troops lined the rails of their ships as they drew into a busy Italian port, cheered and exchanged greetings with United States and British soldiers patrolling the docks. They threw English coins to Italian dockworkers and enjoyed the ensuing scramble.

They were greeted by senior officers who were with the Canadian 1st Division in Sicily and during the autumn Italian campaign. The officers boarded the ships as soon as the first gang plank was lowered and within a few minutes a speedy disembarkation started.

First of the new arrivals to step on Italian soil was a lieutenant-colonel from Toronto who commands an infantry battalion. The colonel came ashore wearing a tin hat and full kit. He was followed by Maj. Bert Arrell of Toronto.

Soldiers came off the ships in marching order helmeted and carrying packs and rifles. On the docks British military police helped them load kitbags on waiting lorries.

The troops formed up in vacant areas and marched away in unit groups through streets of a famous city. Crowds paused to watch the men heading for camps inland.

Smart Soldiers

Some troops came down the gang-plank to the tune of their pipes. Canadians burned by the sun of Sicily and Italy found the new men pale but admired the smartness of their appearance and the briskness with which they unloaded.

The Canadians who did not know their destination when they left England were greeted in Italy by English weather—gloomy and cold. Their first close sight of the country as they marched through city streets left them unimpressed except by squalor. However, they were pleased by the camps in a beautiful, verdant region.

When they broke camp in England they were told they were setting out on an elaborate exercise. But the issuing of pamphlets on tropical diseases when they were aboard ship pointed to their destination as the Mediterranean theatre.

All recognized the rock of Gibraltar, bristling with guns, when their convoy passed it at dusk one day.

Hundreds of rumors about where the ships were bound were set at rest three days out of the Italian port when the ships' loudspeakers gave the news the Canadians were headed

Germans Claim Samos Island

LONDON, Nov. 22—(CP).—A German broadcast asserted today that the Island of Samos capitulated to German forces this morning. Samos is the next to the last Aegean island that had been held by the Allies.

Castelrosso, easternmost of the Dodecanese, is still believed in Allied hands.

Samos, a Greek island just north of the Dodecanese and near the Turkish coast, had been under German attack at least since Saturday, according to Ankara radio broadcasts.

The Germans, obviously hinting that British forces were making attempts to withdraw from the island, said yesterday that the first refugees from the island had arrived in Turkey.

Leros, 20 miles south of Samos, fell to the Germans November 16 after an air and sea-borne invasion launched by the Germans to checkmate infiltration of their ring of stepping-stone bases protecting the eastern flank of the Balkan Peninsula. The Germans previously had regained Kos in the Dodecanese and claimed to have recaptured four other small islands in the group.

41-Year-Old CGE Employee Killed By Bullet While Sitting In His Home

46-Year-Old Wife Of Dead Man Is Arrested By Provincial Police On Murder Charge Woman Leads Police To Where Rifle Hidden

By FRED CRAIG

Mrs. Elizabeth Hubert, 46, was arrested shortly before noon today at her home in Douro township, charged with the rifle murder of her 41-year-old husband, John E. Hubert, former C.G.E. brass foundry worker, who died Saturday night from the effects of a bullet wound in the back.

Answering a telephone call from Leo Whibbs, neighbor of the Huberts, around 8.30 o'clock Saturday night, Coroner Dr. H. G. Carleton and Provincial Constables Price Morris and L. A. McClure found Hubert dead in an unused bedroom off the kitchen. Mrs. Hubert's story was that she had gone to the barn to do some chores, leaving her husband at the kitchen table with a cup of tea and on her return 20 minutes later, found Hubert lying in a dying condition on the floor of the bedroom near an open window.

When the body was removed to Comstock's undertaking parlors and the clothing was being removed it was discovered that there was a bullet wound at the lower part of Hubert's back on the right side.

Inspector Harry Storey of Belleville arrived on Sunday afternoon to take charge of the investigation after preliminary inquiries had been made by Provincial Constables Morris and McClure. Mrs. Hubert was closely questioned on several occasions during the day by the officers.

WOMAN LEADS POLICE TO HIDDEN WEAPON

The case broke suddenly this morning. A posse of provincial officers was searching through the Hubert house and around the stables and grounds in search of a fire arm and Inspector Storey was questioning Mrs. Hubert in a bedroom. Suddenly the inspector ordered all the other police and newspapermen out of the house and a few minutes later, he and Mrs. Hubert emerged from the farmhouse, walked northeast past the barn and down the side of the hill toward the road. In a few minutes, just at 11:45 o'clock the two came back with Inspector Storey carrying a .22 calibre rifle.

The woman had taken the officer to where the weapon was hidden under the leaves and snow a short distance away from the gate leading to the road.

Mrs. Hubert was then driven into Peterborough by Provincial Constable L. A. McClure, with Inspector Storey accompanying her and for the next hour was questioned in the provincial police office in the court house. Then she was taken to the police station by Constable McClure for arraignment on a murder charge later this afternoon.

POLICE SEARCHED HOME FOR MISSING WEAPON

At the time the break in the case came a detachment of provincial officers, including Constables Price Morris and L. A. McClure, Peterborough; Archie Grayling, Havelock; Gordon Hayes, Campbellford and Chas. Siple, Lindsay were busy tearing up floor boards in the house and going over the entire place thoroughly, searching for a rifle.

An autopsy was performed on Sunday morning by Dr. C. B. Waite and Dr. Carleton. An extensive probe failed to locate the bullet but an X-ray examination revealed its presence just under the right shoulder blade and it was then removed.

The bullet was badly flattened out from the impact against the bone of the shoulder blade. It apparently entered the body of Hubert on the right hand side of the back

Brampton Hotel Levelled By Fire

BRAMPTON, Ont., Nov. 22—(CP)—Two women, one of them elderly were taken to hospital today after firemen removed them from the second floor of the flame-wrapped Royal Hotel, while an estimated 50 to 60 guests in the 100-year-old structure were able to escape before being trapped by the fast-spreading blaze.

Mrs. Richard Robson, 87, the proprietor and owner, and her daughter, Mrs. Fred Holwell were trapped on the second floor when smoke and flames cut off their escape. They were rescued by ladder crews and taken to hospital suffering from smoke and shock.

Breaking out shortly after nine a.m. The fire raced through the building and within an hour the hotel had caved inwards. At times the flames shot 100 feet in the air and it was feared the entire block to the south might be destroyed.

The fire, termed the most disastrous in the history of Brampton, a few miles from Toronto, caused loss first estimated at $100,000.

Guests in the hotel, some of them still in bed, were roused before the flames had pierced into the main stairways and hallways.

Nimitz Believed Aiming at Truk Base

Invasion Of Gilbert Islands Indicates Growing U.S. Strength

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

So Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific fleet, meant business when about a fortnight ago he announced to friends and foes: "Our time has come to strike; henceforth we propose to give the Jap no rest anywhere."

He wasn't slow in implementing this challenge. Great bombers started ranging the Gilbert and Marshal Islands, with devastating results. and today United States Marines and army units are ashore on Makin and Tarawa Atolls in the Gilbert group, engaged in heavy battles with the Japanese.

The ultimate objective of this new offensive is capture of Truk, Japan's great naval and air island base, close to 1,500 miles west of the Gilbert and Marshall Islands. At this base the Japanese maintain a large fleet — the biggest sea-unit outside Nipponese home waters

Naval Battle Looms

Reduction of Truk likely will mean the biggest naval engagement of the war. A clash with the Mikado's fleet has been sought for a considerable time now, but the Japanese have avoided it. As the Allies close in on them, however, their alternative is to fight or to run away and thereby permit us to crack the main defensive ring southeast of Japan.

This new offensive in the Gilberts undoubtedly will be co-ordinated with the attack on Rabaul, another stratgetic Japanese naval and air base, on the northern tip of New Britain Island. If the Allies are successful in both these ventures, they will have severed the Japanese defences in this whole area and moved bases well forward towards Truk and Japan itself.

Of course, this is just the beginning of an offensive which has far to go, and we shouldn't expect it to achieve all its objectives in the immediate future. However, it certainly is heartening to see forces in the Pacific, and especially the navy, reach that point of strength where they can carry the war to the enemy without cessation.

Turkish Papers Laud Talks

Approve Plans Of Moscow Conference

ISTANBUL, Nov. 21—(Delayd)—(AP) — The newspaper Aksham, which frequently reflects official Turkish views, heartily endorsed today the outline of the post-war world presented to the United States Congress by State Secretary Cordell Hull in his report on the Moscow conference.

Rejoicing that the Atlantic charter had been set up as "a guiding principle of Allied policy after the war, Askham declared:

"These are such appealing principles that each nation can look forward without fear to the coming days. There is the difference of black and white between the Moscow post-war world and the Axis conception of living space. This shows the superiority of Soviet Russian policy.

"We are willing to accept the fact that all the good things Mr. Hull said about the Moscow conference are based upon strong beliefs."

The newspaper Tanin, however, adopted a more doubting attitude, saying:

"Just how the Moscow conference members will deal with post-war problems is left vague and it raises the thought that possibly this vagueness is a cover for the desire of three or four nations to rule the world."

Coal Miners Get Increase

$1 a Day Plus Vacations With Pay

EDMONTON, Nov. 22 — (CP).—The three-man Royal Commission investigating wage demands of the 8,500 Alberta and British Columbia miners to-day directed a $1-a-day wage increase, retroactive to November 1, to miners "not above the rank of foreman or comparable rank," and two weeks' vacation with pay after 12 months' employment.

The findings and direction of the Commission, under its powers as a Regional War Labor Board, were made public by Mr. Justice G. R. O'Connor, chairman of the Commission He said the report of the Commission, its reasons for the awards and other findings pertinent to the inquiry, will be made public by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Dominion Minister of Labor.

The miners, members of District 18, United Mine Workers of America, who responded to a strike call issued by the U.M.W.A. for midnight, Sunday, October 31, had asked for a pay increase of $2 a day, vacations with pay and time and one-half for overtime. There was nothing in the Commission's findings on the time-and-one-half demand.

A clause in the directions provides however, that miners who were on strike forfeited any increase from November 1 on. A settlement was reached in Ottawa November 6, but the miners did not immediately obey a back-to-work order from Union headquarters in Calgary, and it was 12 days before all the men were back in the pits.

Nazis, Soviets Both Gain On Red Front

Russians Score 20 Miles In Dnieper Bend

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(CP).—New Russian successes in the great Dnieper River Bend, offset by further gains in their counter-attacks west of Kiev, were reported from Moscow and Berlin to-day.

A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Moscow said the Russians had scored a new 20-mile advance in the Dnieper Bend after breaking through German defences eash of the Krenenchug-Znamenka railway.

One spearhead of the drive cut the railway and is advancing 25 miles northeast of Znamenka, while another driving southward has plunged to about 28 miles east of that rail juncture which lies about 50 miles southwest of Kremenchug.

The German High Command claimed that Nazi forces driving back eastward from west of Kiev had broken through Soviet defence points after beating off counter-attacks and had captured "important ground" west of Kiev.

Near Cheraski.

The Berlin broadcast also acknowledged a new Russian break-through near Cheraski, Dnieper rail junction northwest of Kremenchug, but asserted the breach had been closed.

In new attacks aimed at encircling Krivoi Rog, rail centre within the Dnieper Bend, the Berlin communique said Soviet drives both north of Krivoi Rog and near Nikopol to the southwest had been beaten off.

The Berlin radio said the Russians had made another seaborne landing on the Crimean peninsula south of Kerch where the Red army of the Caucasus has been battling for days to enlarge its bridgeheads.

The Korostyshev sector is 60 miles west of Kiev and 20 miles east of Zhitomir, which the Red Army gave up Friday.

(The German communique acknowledged "stubborn resistance" but said the Nazis were making further headway west of Kiev. A Berlin broadcast said later that

Bombers Lash Tarawa Island

ABOARD A LIBERATOR RETURNING FROM TARAWA, Nov. 19 (Delayed) — (AP). This United States Army bomber has just set a large impressive oil fire on the Japanese-held Island of Tarawa, 2,000 miles west of Hawaii.

"In sight" includes one Japanese cargo vessel whose engineers feverishly are pouring coal or oil into it in an attempt to get out of the harbor; one truck full of soldiers on their way—rapidly—somewhere else a number of docks and buildings which looked as if they might hold some of the island's badgered defenders.

8th Army Takes Two More Mountain Towns

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 22—(AP).—Allied headquarters announced today that "a large number" of Canadian troops has arrived in Italy to add its strength to the ground forces which Gen. Sir Harold Alexander is building up for a full-blown offensive against the enemy's winter defences.

There was no immediate indication whether the new units had yet seen action and no hint as to their identity. The Canadian 1st Division has been in Italy since September 3, fighting as the left wing of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British 8th Army.

The new gains reported today put the left wing of the 8th Army within two miles of the Upper Sangro River.

Use 10 Divisions.

It was estimated that 10 front-line German divisions now defend the positions along the Garigliano and Sangro Rivers, which prisoners and deserters continued to describe as the enemy's "winter line." Aerial reconnaissance showed the Germans were working feverishly to strengthen and deepen the positions from the Tyrrhenian to the Adriatic.

Brisk clashes occurred yesterday near the Adriatic coast where British patrols continued to cross the Sangro in probing expeditions, and in the high ground southeast of Alfedena.

The heavy downpours, making all movements of men and guns difficult, kept 5th Army activity on the western end of the battlefront down to patrol action and artillery duels.

Aircraft made their first attack on the railway yards at Chiusi, a midway point on the main Rome-Florence railway, scoring many direct hits in the freight yards, the central station and warehouses.

Hits were scored on enemy gun emplacements at Gaeta, nine miles beyond the 5th Army front along the Tyrrhenian, and fighters bombed and strafed German trenches near Danciano on the 8th Army front.

In sweeps across the Adriatic again, Spitfires blasted harbor works and railway yards at Sibenik, Yugoslavia, and set fire to 17 enemy vehicles near Vorre and Durazzo in Albania.

In night forays in Italy, medium bombers attacked east coast ports and railway and road junctions at Porto Civitanova, Pedaso and Guilianova and the landing ground at Loreto, southwest of Ancona.

Intercept Convoy.

The Headquarters bulletin also announced that British destroyers intercepted an enemy convoy of small craft in the Adriatic off San Benedetta, midway between Ancona and Pescara, and sank one lighter and possibly another.

Medium bombers also attacked the west coast port of Civitavecchia north of Rome, while light bombers attacked Ancona on the east coast.

46-Year-Old Wife Of Dead Man Is Arrested By Provincial Police On Murder Charge Woman Leads Police To Where Rifle Hidden

Mrs. Elizabeth Hubert, 46, was arrested shortly before noon today at her home in Douro township, charged with the rifle murder of her 41-year-old husband, John E. Hubert, former C.G.E. brass foundry worker, who died Saturday night from the effects of a bullet wound in the back.

Answering a telephone call from Leo Whibbs, neighbor of the Huberts, around 8.30 o'clock Saturday night, Coroner Dr. H. G. Carleton and Provincial Constables Price Morris and L. A. As the Allies close in on them, however, their alternative is to fight or to run away and thereby permit us to crack the main defensive ring southeast of Japan.

This new offensive in the Gilberts undoubtedly will be co-ordinated with the attack on Rabaul, another stratgetic Japanese naval and air base, on the northern tip of New Britain Island. If the Allies are successful in both these ventures, they will have severed the Japanese defences in this whole area and moved bases well forward towards Truk and Japan itself.

Of course, this is just the beginning of an offensive which has far to go, and we shouldn't expect it to achieve all its objectives in the immediate future. However, it certainly is heartening to see forces in the Pacific, and especially the navy, reach that point of strength where they can carry the war to the enemy without cessation.

Turkish Papers Laud Talks

Approve Plans Of Moscow Conference

ISTANBUL, Nov. 21—(Delayd)—(AP) — The newspaper Aksham, which frequently reflects official Turkish views, heartily endorsed today the outline of the post-war world presented to the United States Congress by State Secretary Cordell Hull in his report on the Moscow conference.

Rejoicing that the Atlantic charter had been set up as "a guiding principle of Allied policy after the war, Askham declared:

"These are such appealing principles that each nation can look forward without fear to the coming days. There is the difference of black and white between the Moscow post-war world and the Axis conception of living space. This shows the superiority of Soviet Russian policy.

"We are willing to accept the fact that all the good things Mr. Hull said about the Moscow conference are based upon strong beliefs."

The newspaper Tanin, however, adopted a more doubting attitude, saying:

"Just how the Moscow conference members will deal with post-war problems is left vague and it raises the thought that possibly this vagueness is a cover for the desire of three or four nations to rule the world."

Coal Miners Get Increase

EDMONTON, Nov. 22 — (CP).—The three-man Royal Commission investigating wage demands of the 8,500 Alberta and British Columbia miners to-day directed a $1-a-day wage increase, retroactive to November 1, to miners "not above the rank of foreman or comparable rank," and two weeks' vacation with pay after 12 months' employment.

The findings and direction of the Commission, under its powers as a Regional War Labor Board, were made public by Mr. Justice G. R. O'Connor, chairman of the Commission. He said the report of the Commission, its reasons for the awards and other findings pertinent to the inquiry, will be made public by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Dominion Minister of Labor.

The miners, members of District 18, United Mine Workers of America, who responded to a strike call issued by the U.M.W.A. for midnight, Sunday, October 31, had asked for a pay increase of $2 a day, vacations with pay and time and one-half for overtime. There was nothing in the Commission's findings on the time-and-one-half demand.

A clause in the directions provides however, that miners who were on strike forfeited any increase from November 1 on. A settlement was reached in Ottawa November 6, but the miners did not immediately obey a back-to-work order from Union headquarters in Calgary, and it was 12 days before all the men were back in the pits.

Two Islands Invaded By Americans

Japs Resisting Fiercely In Gilberts' Battle

PEARL HARBOR, T.H., Nov. 22—(AP)—Talk of a Central Pacific drive has flamed into action—invasion by United States Marines and soldiers of Makin and Tarawa in the Gilberts where they are fighting doggedly for a spearhead aimed at the heart of Japan's sea power.

The Americans punched out several beachheads against strong resistance at Tarawa, the enemy's key air base in the Gilberts, and at Makin, a seaplane harbor, where they met moderate opposition.

Their landing was covered by naval units which laid down aerial and surface bombardments. The Americans apparently ran into no Japanese sea forces although the strategic importance of the Gilberts may well draw the enemy's fleet into battle yet.

For 1,600 miles to the west lie the heavily fortified Truk Islands—vital link to Japanese sea power—and to the north the Marshalls where the enemy holds powerful air bases at Jaluit and Wotje.

Landed Saturday

The Americans landed Saturday. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet, announced it 24 hours later in a communique which said "fighting continues."

The Makin landings presumably were made on Butaritari, largest island of the Atoll. Approximately 10 miles long and 1,000 yards wide, it is shaped much like a man's leg and foot. Butaritari probably has seaplane facilities in an excellent anchorage surrounded by coral reefs.

The Tarawa landings probably were made on Betio Island which has an excellent triangular airfield long enough for medium bombers.

Supporting the marines and the soldiers were artillery and other units, but before them was an enemy, who had had time to dig in, to set up artillery and burrow shallow foxholes in the sand.

Week-long bombings of both the Gilberts and the Marshalls preceded the landings.

By the invasion—the first by the United States north of the Equator since the United States entered the war—the Allies spread their attacking arc from New Guinea northeast through the Solomons 1,100 miles to a flange of some 2,400 statute miles from the Hawaiians.

The widening arc suggested the Allies primarily are after new Air bases from which to launch attacks possibly on Nauru, west in the direction of Rabaul in New Britain; the Marshalls or upon Truk itself.

Makin and Tarawa are among the 16 small and rocky islands making up the Gilberts, held by the British until they were seized in December, 1941, by the Japanese. Makin is some 11 miles long and Tarawa is 22 miles long and made up of nine tiny Atolls.

Harold Ickes Denounces Canol Project

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Petroleum administrator Harold L. Ickes today denounced as not in the interest of the United States Government the $130,000,000 U. S. financed Canol oil project in Canada, said it had been undertaken by the War Department without prior consultation with his office, and asserted it "ought to be junked now."

Departing from a prepared statement to the Senate's Truman War Investigating Committee, Mr. Ickes told Chairman Harry S. Truman (Dem.-Mo.).

"It never would have been undertaken if we had had anything to say about it. We might as well save the $30,000,000 it is estimated it will cost to complete it. It's not sound business judgment to buy something that is worth nothing and will have no value after the war, in order to benefit the Imperial Oil Company and the Canadian Government."

He called for a re-examination of the contract.

The United States Government is to pay $1.25 a barrel for the first 1,500,000 barrels, Truman said, with future withdrawals to be paid for at 50 cents less.

Ickes said the project wouldn't have "any value six months after the war."

Ickes told a Senate Committee investigating war expenditures that in return for "enormous investments and risks which we alone have assumed," the United States should be accorded "a permanent peace-time share of the oil and products to be produced upon terms commensurate with the magnitude of the contribution which this Government has made."

The projects consists of experimental drilling, a pipeline from Fort Norman, N.W.T., to White Horse, Yukon, an oil refinery at White Horse, and roads and other facilities being built by a Canadian oil company.

Never Consulted.

The Petroleum Administrator and Interior Secretary said members of his staff first heard of the project "by chance" in the spring of 1942.

When the reports were verified, he wrote War Secretary Henry Stimson on June 3, 1942, "expressing my regret that the Army had not consulted with my office on a matter which was of such vital concern to us."

He told Stimson that President Roosevelt had given him the responsibility for the development of such projects, and while he agreed with the necessity of providing fuel for Air Force operations in the area he "did not believe that the solution proposed by the Army was the most desirable one."

"In brief," Ickes told the committee, "the War Department favored the project. Our office recommended against it, believing that there would result a very large saving of time, money, critical materials and manpower if our alternative proposal were adopted — the movement of petroleum products by tanker to Skagway, and hence by pipeline to White Horse."

Canada Seeks To Avoid Double Taxes

Workable Agreement On Death Duties May Follow Parley

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—(CP).—Exploratory conversations are being held between Canada and the United States in regard to "the possibilities of negotiating a convention for the avoidance of double taxation in respect of death duties," the Department of External Affairs announced to-day.

The aim of the conference is understood to be to see what steps can be taken, by agreement between the two governments, to avoid instances of double taxation. In Canada both Dominion and Provincial governments collect death duties and in the United States both Federal and State governments are involved.

In Canada the Federal government entered the field of death duties two years ago. Taxes previously were imposed only by the provincial governments.

Most of the Provincial succession duty acts had provisions in them for reciprocal exemption of property held by residents of the province in other jurisdiction from duties where similar exemption was extended by the other jurisdiction, whether another province of Canada or a state outside of Canada.

Despite these provisions instances cropped up where estates of persons holding property in several jurisdictions were liable to double taxation and the situation became further complicated with the enactment of the Federal succession duties act.

Canada and the United States recently concluded a convention aimed at avoidance of double taxation on incomes which are earned partly in one country and partly in another.

It is likely the provinces will be consulted later if the present conversations result in what is considered to be a workable arrangement.

Air Marshal Edwards To Get New Post

OTTAWA, Nov. 22 (CP). — Air Marshal Harold Edwards, air officer commanding-in-chief of the R.C.A.F. overseas, has returned to Britain after spending two weeks at his home here, it was learned last night from members of his family. He arrived in London Tuesday.

While here, it was announced that he would be succeeded overseas by Air Marshal L. S. Breadner, present chief of air staff, who will go to Britain in December. The change in overseas command will be made about Jan. 1. The position Air Marshal Edwards will take when the command is transferred has not yet been decided.

Canadian Navy's Fourth Destroyer Tribal Class Now In Battle Line

A BRITISH PORT, Nov. 22.—(CP).— Canada's fourth-class destroyer, H.M.C.S. Haida, now is sailing against the enemy as leader of a three-destroyer Canadian flotilla operating with units of other Allied navies, the R.C.N. announced to-day.

Haida is commanded by 40-year-old Cmdr. Harry DeWolf, R.C.N., of Bedford, N.S., and Ottawa; and his ship is flotilla leader because he has seniority over the commanders of the other two Canadian craft—the Tribals Iroquois, under Cmdr. J. C. Hibbard, D.S.C., of Ottawa, and Huron under Lt.-Cmdr H. S. Rayner, D.S.C., of Grimsby, Ont., and Halifax.

The fourth Canadian Tribal destroyer now in commission—H.M.C.S. Athabaskan—may join the other three at some later date, the Navy indicated. She is commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. J. H. Stubbs, D.S.O., of Kaslo, B.C., commander of the destroyer Assiniboine when she sank a U-boat, who recently succeeded Cmdr. G. R. Miles on his return to Canada to take a new post.

The information about Haida's sea duties was contained in an announcement of her commissioning some weeks ago.

Haida sailed from the big British shipyard where she was finished to the cheers of workmen who lined the jetty.

"Good luck, Haida," "good old Canada," and "Bon Voyage," they shouted as Cmdr. De Wolf gave the commands "Let go aft; let go for'd."

She reached this port as break of day, only the challenging flashes from the signal tower at the harbor entrance marking her arrival.

Shipyard and admiralty authorities sailed part of the way on the "shake-down" trip and passed the Haida "A-1."

Two days before the Tribal had put out to sea and an all-out trial with engines racing at top speed, the gunners trying their weapons at every angle, depth charge and torpedo crews in action and the operators of the ships various secret devices at their stations.

15 Officers

Serving under Cmdr. Dewolf are 15 officers — four of them U-boat or Luftwaffe victims in past actions:

Lieut. J. C. L. (Rooney) Annesley, R.C.N., 25, of Stoney Lake, Ont., and Toronto, who survived the torpedoing of the Canadian destroyer Saguenay and now is Haida's first lieutenant.

Lieut. Ray Phillips, R.C.N., 21, of Rockcliffe, Ont., wounded in the German air attack which sank the British cruiser Southampton in the Mediterranean and an engineer officer in Haida;

Gunner (Torpedo) Lloyd I. Jones, R.C.N., 32, of Vancouver, Haida's third officer who survived the sinking of the Canadian destroyer Ottawa;

Lieut. D. E. Jeffreys, R.C.N.R., 28, of Swansea, Wales, who was torpedoed in 1941 and 1942—both times on September 11.

Haida's other officers include: Lt.-Cmdr. F. W. T. Lucas, R.C.N.V.R, Toronto and Halifax, Signals Officer; Surgeon Lt.-Cmdr. S. A. MacDonald, R.C.N.V.R., of Charlottetown and London, Ont.

Petain's Stand Dooms Laval

LONDON, Nov. 22—(AP)—Belief grew in London last night that collaborationist Pierre Laval's bloc might collapse in the face the reported defiant determination of the Vichy Chief of State, Marshal Petain, to lead conquered France back to democratic Government.

Lifting a week-long blackout of all mention of Petain, the Vichy radio went to elaborate lengths Saturday — apparently to quiet mounting home-front unrest — to create the impression that the 87-year-old marshal still is functioning.

A Berlin Foreign Office spokesman was quoted in a Swiss despatch as having given guarded confirmation of reports of a crisis at Vichy. The spokesman added, however, that "rumors" that Petain had resigned "so far as is known at the Wilhemstrasse, are nonsensical."

Gasmata Reels Under Air Blitz

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Nov. 22—(AP).—Gasmata, Japanese air and supply base on New Britain, reeled today under its heaviest bombing of the war, while on neighboring New Guinea the enemy gave ground reluctantly.

Allied bombers dropped 38 tons of explosives Saturday morning on Gasmata, on New Britain's south-central coast, scoring accurately on the target area.

On New Guinea, as on Bougainville to the east, resistance both on the ground and in the air was described as strong, but Australian troops, supported by light tanks, were putting a squeeze on the Japanese along the Huon Peninsula.

On Bougainville, Japan's last remaining major base in the Solomons, the Americans who landed at Empress Augusta Bay November 1 have enlarged and consolidated their positions.

A 10,000-ton Japanese cargo ship, part of a convoy apparently attempting to run supplies to the big Rabaul garrison on New Britain, was left flaming in St. George Channel, between New Britain and New Ireland, by two direct hits.

Rev. Harold E. Lewis Addresses Meeting

The after church service meeting held in the Centre Theatre on Sunday evening was attended by an audience that filled the theatre almost to capacity.

The speaker, Rev. Harold E. Lewis, of Toronto, in an inspiring address, spoke of the proof of Christ's Divine Mission by referring to the testimony not only of his friends but of the enemies. Again and again throughout the story of Christ's life on earth, the men who sought to destroy Him admitted His miraculous powers, the integrity of His character and the inflence of His divine personality.

During the evening a ladies trio from Toronto sang three Gospel hymns which also helped to emphasize the message of the speaker. The singing of the audience, led by Bernard Aldridge, is a feature of these meetings. The song service starts at 8.30 and provides a good start for the Gospel service which follows at 8.45.

Polish People May Oppose Russian Army

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—Polish sources that can not be otherwise identified declared today that the Russian army must enter Poland as an ally, and not as a conqueror, or else face desperate resistance by the Poles themselves.

Determination to fight back unless the Soviets re-establish diplomatic relations with the Polish government in London was voiced in responsible quarters here as Red troops plunged closer to the Polish frontier, established in 1921.

Despite a recent statement by Constantin Oumansky, Soviet ambassador to Mexico City, indicating that Russia still recognizes the western boundary drawn with the Germans in 1939, the Poles maintain that only the pre-war frontier is valid.

The Polish position as stated by an authoritative source who requested anonymity pending clarification of the stand to be taken by the Allied high command is:

Four Points

1. If military necessity requires Soviet occupation of Polish territory, there must be an understanding between the two governments based on the resumption of normal

Punt Swamped Deer Hunters Upset In Lake

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 22 (ENS) —Hunters are now returning from their annual pilgrimage to the deer country and many a tale is being told of the experiences each party had, and of their luck whether good or bad. None however have returned from a more adventurous trip than the group that left here on the opening day of the season and took up their station a Camp Doric on Dixon Lake about sixty miles to the north.

The party included H. D. Atkinson, A. E. Burgis, Vincent Farrell, W. J. Sarginson of Campbellford; Clarence Maybee of Belleville; Cliff Maybee, Toronto; Warren Hagerty, Trenton; Marshall West, F. R. Denis and P. J. Sarginson, all of Campbelford. It was the latter four men who nearly met death by drowning in the cold waters of Salmon Lake when their boat was caught by a squall and overturned dumping its occupants together with some $600 worth of hunting equipment into ten feet of water.

They were returning to St. Ola in a 20-foot river driver's punt powered by a 5 horsepower outboard motor and in the boat besides its four passengers were their hunting gear including seven guns, clothing, camp supplies and two deer. Twenty minutes earlier they had pulled to shore to refuel at the end of the lake and though a heavy breeze had been whipping the water up into waves there were signs that it was letting up, and thinking the squall was subsiding they decided to push off once again.

Forest Dennis was operating the motor and Warren Hagerty sat facing him in the next seat. The centre of the boat was loaded with the cargo and up at the front were Marshal West and P. J. 'Pat' Sarginson. According to Mr. Dennis they were well out to the centre of the lake when the squall reached its height and the small motor was unable to do more than hold the boat into the wind for they had ceased to move ahead. Each wave washed over the front of the boat pouring several gallons of water into it, and though the two men at the front were oblivious of the fact they were fast becoming swamped, Denis and Hagerty soon saw they were fighting a losing battle with the rising water. They baled furiously as the boat inched toward shore. It settled lower and lower in the water and finally lost its buoyancy completely, but by this time they had narrowed the distance from shore to 75 yards.

All but Mr. West then decided to abandon ship, and with good reason for he alone of the group was the non-swimmer. Each of the men weighted down with heavy clothing and rubber boots grabbed for some floating equipment and made for the shore while Nipper, Warren Hagerty's fox terrier, jumped on his master's still floating gun box and barked encouragement to the swimmers. If someone had told Pat Sarginson (the oldest member of the party, approaching 65) that he could swim in that ice cold water he probably would not have believed them, but he made it, even with a slight handicap. Some well intentioned assistance offered by Hagerty might well have proven disastrous. He tossed a floating plank towards Sarginson and his aim was spoiled by the wind so the plank caught its benefactor in the face. But Pat made shore despite a slight injury.

While the others swam Marshall West stood in the boat with water well above his knees, but nevertheless drifting in the general direction of land. It finally overturned dumping the remainder of its contents with the exception of Mr. West who carefuly turned with the boat, first on its side and then on its bottom. Actually he didn't get wet above the armpits.

Cliff Maybee who was on the opposite shore, saw the difficulty his comrades were having, but by the the time he unloaded one of the other boats and reached the scene of the upset they were already out of the water. Maybee was accompanied by a couple of men from the Stirling Hunt Club headed by Bill West who ferried the drenched victims back across the lake and provided them with dry clothing and hot drinks at their camp. The Stirling men returned the next day and assisted with grappling irons in the salvaging of the equipment, including two deer.

Navy Honored In New Verses

LONDON.— (CP).— Written by Poe Laurjeate John Masefield, verses in honor of men of the Royal Navy were recited by Acton Esmond Knight at Trafalgar Day celebrations in Trafalgar Square. Knight, one of Britain's favorites, was partially blinded while serving as an officer in the Prince of Wales in the action against the Bismarck in May of 1941.

The verses read:

"Long since, I knew the sailors of the Fleet
The Nation's Lionhearts, the undismayed;
Death's suddenest, most dreadful, They could meet,
As an ld shipmate who a visit paid
Ocean has added to her death since the,
Science and purer courage are her need;
Man, grown in skill, deadlier to men;
These, with grown virture, dare the greater deed."

Nelson's revered prayer before Trafalgar was read by the chaplain of the fleet, Archdeacon J. K. Wilson and wreaths placed at the foot of the Nelson Column included one from two great-grandnieces of Lord Nelson.

Recital Is Given In Hoard's Church

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 22 (ENS) —Mrs. Ross Williamson, soprano of St. Andrew's United Church, Peterborough, was featured in a recital held in connection with a social evening sponsored by the Women's Association of Stephen's Church, Hoards, on Friday evening. Offering a program of classical and religious songs, Mrs. Williamson was enthusiastically greeted by the large gathering. Miss Joy Edgar of Peterborough also offered several vocal numbers, while Miss Elsie Chambers was the accompanist. The gathering was equally delighted by the contributions of Miss Roma Williamson, elocutionist, of Peterborough, and by the numbers offered by two local artists, Miss Cozette Archer and Miss Muriel Heagle. Rev. J. R. Bick was chairman of the program, and refreshments were served at the close.

Lancashire Girl Hops Atlantic

MONTREAL, Nov. 22 — (CP). — The first East-West Atlantic air stowaway— a fair-haired, 24-year-old Lancashire lass—told Canadian immigration officials, holding her in detention since her arrival at nearby Dorval Airport yesterday morning, that the reason for her venture was a desire "to learn to fly."

Plucky Margaret Drury of Manchester, England, nudged her comely 5-foot-7-inch figure out of an Atlantic ferry plane and smiling at officials told them: "My attempt to learn to fly in England wasn't a success, so I thought I'd give it a try in Canada or the United States. That's why I stole a ride on this plane," and she cocked a finger in the direction of the big panting transport.

The Department of Immigration are holding her pending sitting of a board of inquiry here to-day, and they would say nothing regarding the eventual disposition of the case.

Royal Air Force Transport Command Headquarters were also reticent about the girl. A spokesman would only say "the brief time which has passed since her arrival has not been sufficient in which to complete an investigation that is in progress in conjunction with officials of the Dominion Department if Immigration." The Department declined to allow the girl to be interviewed while she was under detention.

Few details of the girl's 3,200-mile flight from a British airport where she served as a ground engineer could be learned. She was reported to have been found in a big transport plane in mid-Atlantic.

Miss Drury is the second woman Atlantic air stowaway. Assistant Section Officer Marion Darling, of Ottawa, a member of the R.C.A.F. Womens Division, stowed away on West-East passage in an attempt to join her husband, a member of Canada's armed forces overseas. She arrived in Britain only to find her husband had been transferred to another theatre of war.

British Secure French Action

ALGIERS, Nov. 22 — (AP). — A framework looking toward the quick return of orderly government in Lebanon was set up today through action of the French Committee of National Liberation in reinstating President Bechara Khoury and promising to negotiate the question of the country's full independence.

The committee announced its decision last night after hearing Arnold MacMillan, British Minister to French North Africa, stress the importance of safeguarding the peace of the strategic Middle East area by eliminating any further disturbances.

The committee also recalled delegate General Jean Helleu from Beirut and ordered the liberation of Premier Riad Sohl and two other ministers who were arrested in a repressive measure following the Lebanon parliament's vote to sever ties with France.

The French action represented a compromise with British demands. Britain had requested that Prime Minister Riad Sohl be reinstated along with the President, but the committee refused on the grounds that the premier had promoted extreme nationalist policies in conflict with the League of Nations mandate that France holds over Lebanon.

Riad Sohl's future, however, was left open and subject to negotiation between the committee's special envoy to Lebanon, General Georges Catroux, and President Khoury.

Skunk With Head Caught In Tomato Can Makes Life Miserable For Chief Of Police

PIERMONT, N.Y., Nov. 22.— (CP).—A skunk with its head stuck inextricably into an empty tomato can has been trying to free itself by tapping the can against the walls and floors of the home of Chief of Police Walter Edmonson since Saturday night.

The situation is intolerable to the skunk, apparently; and it is certainly intolerable for Mr. and Mrs. Edmonson who have not as yet decided how the can may be dislodged from the skunk, the skunk dislodged from under their home, or both.

Saturday night the couple awakened to hear what Mrs. Edmonson described as "a funny tapping noise," and when the police chief investigated he found the skunk firmly lodged in his tin chapeau. When he tried to catch it, it disappeared. The tapping went on all night.

While at work Sunday the police received regular bulletins concerning the skunk and the can, and was relieved in the afternoon when the tapping stopped.

But last night his phone rang, and Mrs. Edmonson reported, "It's tapping again."

Unearthed Big Roman Cemetery

LETCHWORTH, HERTFORDSHIRE, England.—(CP).—W. Percival Westell, 69, curator of the Letchworth museum and supervisor of excavating work in 1925 which unearthed a Roman cemetery at Baldock, died here.

The cemetery, covering nearly 1,00 square miles, yielded 320 grave groups, including one with a curse —a leaden tablet pierced with nine holes. In five of the holes iron nails had been inserted. The piercing was stated to indicate the "fixing" power of the curse, which paralyses its victim, depriving him of the strength of life.

Brighton Woman Killed Saving Children

BRIGHTON, Nov. 22—(ENS). — Struck by a C.N.R. passenger train on Saturday afternoon when she disregarded her own safety to look after the two children who were with her, Mrs. Norval Kenney of this village was instantly killed. When she saw the train bearing down upon her, she pushed one child ahead of her off the tracks, and as she turned around to look after the second child, she stepped into the side of the locomotive and was killed. Coroner Dr. H. C. Rundle of Brighton was called and later released the body for burial. There has been no announcement as to whether or not an inquest will be held.

At the time of the fatality, Mrs. Kenney and her six-year-old child and four-year-old grandchild, were taking a short cut from visiting a neighbor. Wilfred Ferguson of Brighton, who was waiting at the crossing for the train to pass, saw Mrs. Kenney apparently unaware of the train until it was only a matter of a few yards away. When she pushed one child to safety and turned to see to the safety of the other one, the second child was standing north of the tracks, behind her, and was out of harm's way.

Mrs. Kenney was born in Orland, and besides her husband is survived by six children.

Slav Guerillas Take 2 Villages

LONDON, Nov. 22—(CP)—Yugoslav guerillas have smashed an assault by combined German and Bulgarian forces against the Serbian town of Krenje and have driven the Nazis out of two villages in Bosnia, headquarters of Gen. Josip Groze (Tito) announced today.

The thrust against Krenje was launched after reinforced German divisions apparently were checked everywhere during the week-end, a strong drive in the Sarajevo-Travnik sector reportedly having been stopped and attempts to extend beachheads in the Adriatic islands of Krk and Cherso also having been halted.

The Army of Liberation communique said bitter fighting continued around three towns in Hercegovina and near Nova Mesto in Slovania where the Partisans were said to have launched counter-offensives. Cardak, near Krupa in Western Bosnia, was occupied, the communique said.

Gloucester To Australia

Canadians will be greatly interested in the appointment of the King's brother, the Duke of Gloucester, to be Governor-General of Australia. The Duke of Kent was to have taken that position, but his sudden death in August, 1942, left the appointment open, and Prince Henry is to take his place.

We are given to understand that the request for one of the Royal House to head the state in Australia came direct from the government of that great commonwealth. This is most interesting, and a healthy sign for the solidarity of the British Commonwealth of Nations. Australia has many ties with the United States, and has taken its cue from that great republic in many of its most important developments. But in sentiment Australia is strongly British, and has emphasized the traditional allegiance by asking for one of the royal dukes as its Governor-General.

Australia once tried the plan of having one of its own citizens as Governor-General, and found the result unsatisfactory. No blame attached to the gentleman who held the post; it was merely that the smooth working of the government was interfered with by the local appointment, and the people were not pleased with one of themselves as chief representative of the Crown. It was a socialist government which appointed an Australian as Governor-General, and it is a socialist government which asked for Prince George, and after his death, for Prince Henry.

The departure of the Duke to his new post next year will increase the burdens resting on His Majesty. The Duke has been one of his chief advisors and surrogates in state affairs, taking a large share of the wartime duties of the monarchy. The King has made this appointment at real sacrifice to himself.

Manners Maketh Man

The Ottawa Journal makes a comment on the manners of the younger generation which we think is of great interest. Writing of the many things which might profitably be taught in our schools it says:

"Take courtesy, for example. A simple thing, it is a great thing; yet for some reason or other it is not stressed as we think it ought to be stressed in either our primary or secondary schools. Every day young people are met with who seemingly do not know how to approach or address their elders, who seem to have forgotten the word 'Sir'. Yet more often than not the use of the word is the mark of a child's or a young man's upbringing and training, the sign of the foundation of education.

"We live in an age when the qualities of respect and reverence are all too rare, when cynicism is confused with cleverness, and when the gag and the smart wisecrack are thought to be marks of distinction. It is perhaps not too soon for realization by all who care for the future that this pitiful playing at sophistication is fraught with menace, and that one place to begin a stand against it is in our schools".

We think that many people will agree with this. But, as often before, we feel that we must say a word on the side of the schools. Schoolteachers cannot impress example of good manners on their pupils if they get no support from the home. In this matter of manners we think that rigorous methods often have to be used, if good results are to be gained, and those rigorous methods are more in place in the home than in the school. If a rude or surly boy, or a pert and saucy girl, needs a beating it should be given by the parental hand, and not by a teacher. Parents do not like it when their children are beaten for being insolent, and they ought to take that department of education into their own firm hands. A child very often reflects in its conduct the sort of manners it sees at home, and it is noticeable that homes where there is little courtesy between the parents produce the children who are full of back-answers, and what an old book on manners calls "sin and impudence".

We do not like to see things taught merely because they "pay", but we wish that teachers could impress on their pupils how truly repaying good manners are. They smooth every kind of human relationship; they expedite the discharge of business; they sweeten the whole world. We agree with the Journal that too many young people are inarticulate, clumsy and bad-mannered, not because there is anything wrong with their souls but because they have had no training in courtesy, and because they think that good manners are a quality of sissies.

Not long ago we were in the office of a man of considerable importance and impressive age when a couple of lads from a "youth organization" came to ask him to speak to them. When did they want him to speak? "Our meetings are always on Thursdays", was the ungracious reply. What should he talk about? "Aw, we'll leave that up to you", was the rejoinder. How long should he speak? "Not too long; we usually give our speakers twenty or twenty-five minutes", said the spokesman. The boy obviously should have known better than to speak so rudely to someone of whom he was asking a favour, and he should not have been spokesman for a group if he could not conduct a conversation with more suavity than that.

Our youth, boys and girls alike, should be told that nobody is interested in rough diamonds, but that everyone prizes the diamond with a high polish and many facets. Bad manners are a stumbling-block in every path of life.

The Rural Courier's Problem

The rural mail couriers of Canada have for some time been asking the Dominion Parliament to consider their wartime difficulties, and in this work they have had valuable help from the Peterborough M.P., Mr. Gordon Fraser. So far nothing has been done to alter their situation. The Postmaster General has said in the House that the rural mail couriers are given continual supervision and consideration by his department, and that nothing further can be done for them. They hold their jobs under contract, and their request that their appointments be made permanent has been rejected by Mr. Mulock, on the ground that the rural routes should be open to competition in order that men returning from the war may have a chance to try for them. The Postmaster General is not prepared to give them any aid in addition to their cost-of-living bonus.

The position which the government has taken in this matter is understandable, but it leaves the rural couriers exactly where they were, and as their troubles have been greatly increased by wartime difficulties their position is not a comfortable one. Many of them have greatly increased expenses to meet which they did not foresee when they signed their contracts. Admittedly they are not unusual in this respect; no man in any sort of business or contract work has missed his share of troubles. But as the rural couriers are usually men with small reserves of capital the increased cost of their work means real hardship for them.

The rural mail couriers do a remarkably good job in Canada, and it is not generally realized how greatly the efficiency of our mail system depends on them. Bad roads, bad weather, bad hours of work and many other difficulties beset them, but upon the whole they do an excellent job, carrying the mail to the most remote and obscure parts of Canada. It is to be hoped that Mr. Mulock will review their grievances again, and see whether he can meet their demands, at least in some respects.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Dakota woman of 101 has had a permanent wave. It will last her time, anyway.

A science writer tells of the discovery of an edible wood. Toothpick fiends discovered it years ago.

The R.C.M.P. have taken over the job of policing the town of Vermilion, in Alberta. Just the place for the redcoats.

Subtle distinction, heard behind the counter of a local store: "She's no regular customer; she's just a regular asker".

Says the Winnipeg Tribune: "The giggling young girl always settles down later on. A triumph of mind over chatter".

We see that the Cuna Indians of Panama have declared war on Germany. We had some misgiving before, but now victory is in the bag!

A Salt Lake City man has been granted a divorce because his wife went to a circus last August and never came home. But, as the Ottawa Citizen says, who can blame her for preferring a three-ring circus with plenty of animals to the one-ring show with her old bear?

In York county we observe that assistant school janitors receive $500 a year more than the minimum salary of a married teacher. Ambitious young teachers will aspire to change the ruler for a broom handle. These are the days when ignorance pays, must be the motto of York.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

FARMERS have been catching up with their fall ploughing and will be better prepared for winter than was at one time expected. Potatoes have been badly attacked by blight and are not in very good keeping condition. Where they are stored so they can be sorted over it will be much safer.

Preparations for winter are well under way on many farms. Storage of implements is something that should have careful attention. Seed drills that sow fertilizer should be carefully cleaned and waste motor oil ought to be liberally used on them. It is well to clean out any grain or seeds which remain in a drill. This is the time to clean up.

In storing farm implements for winter they should be so placed that one can move about among them at any time, and so make adjustmensts or remove parts which may require replacements. Grease and oil should be liberally used on implements as they are put by. It always pays to protect machines by using lubricants even when only in storage. Dampness will cause rust.

What applies to machinery can be well applied to all sort of tackle for farm work. Plough harness well oiled now will be ready for immediate and comfortable use in the spring. One never can tell with what a rush work may begin in the spring and it always pays to be forehanded. It is not too soon at the earliest opportunity to begin to get ready for another seed time.

THERE seems to have been a large increase in foxes in Ontario during the past two years. In sections up Bruce and Grey way farmyard fowl have suffered severely. Geese and turkeys have been the prey of foxes to an alarming extent. With the shortage of help farm women are mostly caring for the poultry at this time, and it seems a pity that the Game and Agricultural departments in the province could not do something to protect poultry from the ravishes of the present large crop of foxes. A considerable revenue is derived from the game branch and some of it might wel be spent, in conjunction with some of the counties, to rid the barnyards of this menace. Poultry is an important article of food and its wholesale destruction by foxes has become appalling in many parts. Some inducement for the destruction of foxes would be appreciated by many farm women, and this seems to be the time to introduce it.

DEVELOPMENTS in dehydration of food have been rather remarkable. The British Government have had experimental laboratories at Cambridge where methods of dehydration have been developed at low temperatures instead of under heat treatment methods. These methods are still State secrets but it is known that dehydration at low temperatures produces an article which keeps better, and loses less of colour, taste or dietetic constituents.

Professor Sir Joseph Barcroft, chairman of the British Food Investigation Board, states that now a complete dried dietary has been produced, which can be shipped anywhere while keeping all its prime qualities in tropical heat or arctic cold, and weighs only about one tenth of the undried food.

He says: "The process worked out here changes the whole face of the food situation. Gluts and reasonable surpluses need never be wasted. Summer foods may be eaten in winter. Foods can be grown where they can be produced in bulk and transported to where they are needed." Examples are shown such as milk, dehydrated into powder form, pressed into square white blocks, one eighth of its former bulk, wrapped in prepared paper only for shipment, and done at a cost of 2c per gallon. Meat can be dehydrated, packed in air-tight tins, and shipped without refrigeration, in ordinary shipping space on a steamship. The possibilities of air shipment, for products so greatly reduced in weight, are also in the offing.

I AM bound to say that I always believe in taking many of these new things with a "grain of salt," and changes will not likely be quite up to the advance notices, but there is no doubt that most countries have learned a great deal through the exigencies of war which will change the face of marketing and trade, during the next few years. It will be well for the producers of food in every country to keep well abreast of the times.

I HAVE BEEN interested to note that where auction sales of Yorkshire breeding pigs have been held that good prices are being paid for the tops, and that when a good individual comes into the ring bidding is keen. This indicates that Ontario pig raisers are realizing the value of the best breeding stock they can buy. There have been some good white pigs bred in this province by discriminating livestock men. They deserve good prices for them and it will profit the purchasers to buy the best. When good York sows sell for up to $100 it promises well for our pig business. What a pity the O.A.C. does not have a large consignment of the very best for sale, or rather what a pity it is that a group of 50 good Large White pigs have not recently been imported for the O.A.C. so that fresh blood of the very choicest breeding could be offered to Ontario pig raisers.

A sale of Large White pigs (Yorkshires) was held in Peterborough, England, on Oct. 12 which indicated clearly the value put upon such stock in the country which lies our best bacon market. The top priced boar sold for 420 guineas, almost $2,000, but what was more remarkable was that the whole 133 herd sold made an average of $265 in our money, while 19 head sold at prices above $1,000. The North of England, Yorkshire, is the original home and breeding ground of these pigs, and while pigs of all breeds are selling high in Britain at the present time, these Large Whites, as they are called there, are easily leading, and countries that wish to be strong in the British bacon trade in the future had better lay in breeding stock now that is most favored for the British trade in Wiltshire sides.

DURING 1944 it is planned to increase the manufacture of farm machinery up to about 80 per cent of our 1940 production. This will be a substantial increase over that of last year. We have made such phenomenal progress in the fashioning of implements of destruction, during the last two years, that we can pound out a few plough shares and pruning hooks now, seeing that we have a good supply of the things necessary to polish off the Germans and Japs, and reduce them to a condition of good behaviour, even if a great many of them have to be completely destroyed to get them into a frame of mind in which decent people can live with them in peace. Agricultural implements will be one of our major production when hostilities have ceased.

Who Did Kill Sir Harry Oakes?

(CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER)

THE acquittal of Alfred de Marigny of the murder of his wealthy father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes, will, we fear, prolong discussion of a sordid case which already has had more than its due share of prominence. We shudder at the prospect of hearing endlessly such comments as: "Well, if de Marigny, or however, you pronounce it, didn't kill him, then who did? Somebody must have killed him, the man couldn't have committed suicide," and so forth and so on.

Since the Nassau authorities have not indicated that anyone else was under suspicion and since the evidence against de Marigny was flimsy at best, it is probable that the Oakes case will be recorded among the sensational unsolved murder mysteries of our time.

It may take rank with such cases as those of Joseph B. Elwell, the bridge expert; Arnold Rothstein, the gambler; William Desmond Taylor, the movie director; or Mary Rogers, the beautiful cigar maker's daughter, whose murder formed the basis for Edgar Allen Poe's "Mystery of Marie Roget."

Another unsolved mystery, one which has intrigued American people for half a century, was the Lizzie Borden case. Lizzie Borden's mother and stepfather were found hacked to death in their home in Fall River, Mass., on Aug. 4, 1892. The daughter was tried for the crime and acquitted after a sensational trial which attracted attention throughout the country. No other person was ever charged with the murders.

Out of this case there came a popular jingle which Thedore Roosevelt was fond of reciting upon appropriate occasions. It went something like this:

Lizzie Borden took an ax, hit her mother 40 whacks. When she saw what she had done, hit her father 41.

By the way, what rhymes with de Marigny?

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

THE 'teen-age girl and her dates presents one of the most vital of all domestic problems, yet it is one which most parents make no effort to solve with either intelligence, understanding, or sympathy.

When Susie begins to have boy friends, it seems to throw the average family in a panic. Father has an acute attack of jealousy when he sees his baby girl preferring some other male to himself, and treats the innocent little lad as if he were a burglar who had come to steal the silver. Grandma inquires darkly about his family. Mother says when she was Susie's age she never even looked at a boy, and she doesn't know what the world is coming to. The little brothers and sisters hang around listening and spying like so many infantile F.B.I.'s. And poor Susie is lectured, teased, ridiculed, until she feels like hieing herself to a nunnery, or, anyway, running away from home.

What the family fails to recognize is that Susie has come to one of the turning points in her life, and that her whole future largely depends upon how they handle the situation. For youth must be served. Susie is going to want all of the pleasures that belong to her age. She wants to be popular with the boys; to be admired, made love to, have a "steady," have her dances cut into, and some day get married. And whether these experiences come to her normally, openly, frankly, decently and safely, or whether she takes them secretly and dangerously, and often fatally, depends upon whether her father and mother put welcome on the doormat for her boy friends, or slam the door in their faces.

All parents want their daughters to have happy girlhoods and eventually to marry worthy young men, but few of them seem to appreciate how much this depends upon themselves. For the prettiest and most attractive girl needs a helping hand when she is just beginning to step out, and a grouchy father and an eavesdropping mother can queer even Miss America, herself.

Plenty of girls who never have a beau to bless themselves with, or get taken out to any place of amusement, and who have "spinster" carved on their tombstones when they die, owe it to their having been doublecrossed by their parents who never provided them with any place in which they could hold a conversation without the entire family overhearing everything that was said. And that cramped the style of the youth, who didn't have much confidence in his line to start with, so that he never came back a second time.

While as for love-making, well, it is a safe bet that no man ever popped the question to a girl with Father reading the paper within earshot, and Aunt Jane knitting a sweater on the other side of the portieres. There were few old maids in the days when people lived in houses with good thick walls and solid oak doors.

It is a strange thing that parents seem to have so little sense of the value a home is to a girl, especially in her 'teens. In the first place, it gives her a chance to meet Mr. Right, which she will not have unless her father and mother have made the youngsters welcome in their house, and it is a pleasant place for them to come and dance and spend a jolly evening.

In the second place, it is her best advertisement. Boys judge a girl by her family. If they are nice people who are cordial and hospitable and who can talk to them about the things they are interested in, it makes them feel that she is all right, too. Many a boy marries a girl because she is her mother's daughter.

Thirdly, and most important of all, nothing is such a safeguard to a girl as to have a good home background. No boy treats the girl he picks up at the drug store, or who comes in with her hat on ready to go somewhere when he comes for her of an evening, the way he does the girl at whose home he visits and whose father and mother he knows and likes. If he has smoked Susie's father's cigars and eaten her mother's cake, and if he knows that Susie is going to tell Mama and Papa all about where she went and what a good time she had when she gets home, he is going to treat her with respect and not take her places she shouldn't go.

But this protection parents can only give their daughters if they make friends with the boys and girls Susie goes with, if they make them welcome in their houses and find out what sort of kids they are. Maybe it means that father will have to spend his evenings reading his paper in the bedroom instead of his favourite chair in the living room. Maybe it will mean that mother will have to do a lot of extra work making sandwiches and cakes. But it is worth the price, for it is Susie's insurance ticket.

Basic English and Thomas Hood

A few weeks ago a New York newspaper printed several items in Basic English and the readers apparently did not notice. They related to sports, and sports writers certainly have a mastery of English which may be termed basic. As for their readers, they understand any words and preparations of words that are not too highbrow. Sometimes highbrow literature tendsto obscurantism. Better Basic English than that.

Is Basic English new? Away back in 1832 Thomas Hood wrote a letter to the editor of The Comic Annual on "A Plan for Writing Blank Verse in Rhyme," in which he inserted "A Nocturnal Sketch." Here is the first verse:

Even is come; and from the dark Park, hark,
The signal of the setting sun—one gun!
And six is sounding from the chime, prime time
To go and see the Drury-Lane Dane slain,—
Or hear Othello's jealous doubt spout out,—
Or Macbeth raving at that shade-made blade,
Denying to his frantic clutch much touch,—
Or else to see Ducrow with wide stride ride
Four horses as no other man can span;
Or in the small Olympic Pit, sit split
Laughing at Liston, while you quiz his phiz.
Anon Night comes, and with her wings brings things
Such as, with his poetic tongue, Young sung;
The gas up-blazes with its bright white light,
And paralytic watchmen prowl, howl, growl,
About the streets and take up Pall-Mall Sal,
Who, hasting to her nightly jobs, robs fobs.

Hood could write all kinds of English, in prose, real verse or blank verse. In this instance he seems to have penned Basic English. And that was 111 years ago.—Montreal Gazette.

Last Resort Of The Junta

Eight Spanish generals, it is reported, have asked Franco to resign and permit the elevation of Prince Juan as King. They believe, it is said, that return to the monarchy is the "only way to meet the present situation." Being interpreted, this means that the anti-democratic generals' junta has abandoned faith in Franco and is casting about for something else, even restoration of the futile Bourbons, to hold the people down. They have heard about the government-in-exile budding in Mexico and they are paving the way for a last trick—a palace revolution to stave off a people's revolution. The question is whether any device at their command can check the surge of released democratic emotion which will sweep Spain and the Continent the day Hitler's Germany falls. Juan of the Asturias does not seem a promising gamble.—Chicago Sun.

A Bible Message

Awake, awake; put on thy strength, O Zion: put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem, the holy city: for henceforth there shall no more come into thee the uncircumcised and the unclean. Shake thyself from the dust; arise, and sit down, O Jerusalem: loose thyself from the bands of thy neck, O captive daughter of Zion. (Isa. 52: 1, 2.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Beautiful for situation, the joy of the whole earth, is Mount Zion, on the sides of the north, the city of the great King. (Ps. 48: 2.)

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea.... And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God.... And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write; for these words are true and faithful....

And there came unto me one of the seven angels which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come hither, I will shew thee the bride, the Lamb's wife. And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and shewed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God, and having the glory of God: and her light was like unto a stone most precious, even like a jasper stone, clear as crystal.... And the city had no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it: for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof....

And there shall in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie: but they which are written in the Lamb's book of life. (Rev. 21: 1, 3, 5, 9-11, 23, 27.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The doctor was on his way to Rastus' wife to deliver her 12th baby. As he arrived at the house he saw a duck in the road.

Doctor: "Whose duck is that?"

Rastus: "Dat ain't no duck. Dat's the stork with his legs worn off."

A Negro minister was caught hugging one of the sisters of his flock, and a church inquiry was called. Witnesses testified, and the minister confessed, but defended his actions as proper and authorized by the Bible.

He maintained that as pastor of his flock he had a perfect right to take one of his lambs in his arms. When the inquiry was finished a brother offered a resolution: "We excuse Brother Johnson from all blame, but hereafter when he wants to take one of his lambs in his arms we suggest that he selects a ram lamb."

Wins Unpopularity Poll

A recent opinion poll, the result of which was published in Fortune, revealed an interesting aspect of United States thinking. It was the revelation that the most successful labour leader in the world today, John L. Lewis, is the most disliked man in American public life.

The question asked the persons whose opinion was sampled was: "Are there any prominent individuals in this country who you feel might be harmful to the future unless they are curbed?" Fifty-two per cent said "Yes," and when they were asked if they had anybody particular in mind, 70 per cent mentioned Mr. Lewis. President Roosevelt was second on the list, but he polled only 5 per cent of the yes vote.

But Mr. Lewis will survive. One of this rules of conduct is that he pays no attention to "public opinion." He looks after his miners, and is paid handsomely by them. And he gets results. Now, if he were only in politics, how different it would be. But he is not in politics, or at any rate does not depend upon the public generally for votes.—Ottawa Citizen.

Money Taking Back Seat Till War Won

By VIVIAN BROWN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (CP) — Gotham's society 400 is still the 400 despite war, but not so with the town's glamor-and-glitter Cafe Society.

And the two "societies" are still far apart.

On the surfaces there have been changes in the New York-Palm Beach-Newport elite circles, but Underneath the blue blood code is unshaken. Though night club pallor, a checkbook and a penchant for spending will get you by the plush rope in most of the overcrowded 52nd Street niteries where Cafe Society dwells, your family tree still counts with the old guard society leaders.

A lack of male escorts sent most of the younger girls scurrying back to college but week-ends still find them on 52nd Street. Their escorts, though, are servicemen from all over the world and are not of the playboy type. Shimmering evening dresses are few and far between, champagne corks are not popping, and there is a noticeable absence of orchids.

Though a mass debut introducing more than 100 socially prominent girls is scheduled (their parents are putting the cost of individual parties into war bonds) lavish debuts are out.

Cancelled Debut

Nancy Leeds, heiress to the $40,000,000 tin fortune, cancelled her debut until the war is won and her dad, once owner of the second largest yacht in the world, and now a Chief Petty Officer in the Navy, returns to civilian life.

One of the biggest society publicity build-ups came to a halt with the temporary shelving of the annual glamor-girl selection which helped bring fame to Brenda Frazier, Oona O'Neill and Gloria Baker Topping. Ruth Carter, daughter of Amon Carter of Fort Worth, Texas, it is believed, would have been the outstanding candidate for this year.

For the "strictly debutante" girls only two dances are scheduled—the Mayfair Assembly and the Junior Assembly dances.

The real old guard members are generally not known publicly and most prefer to remain so, but the social leaders remain essentially the same. Some like Mrs. Junius Morgan, active in the Navy League, Mrs. Winthrop Aldrich, in China Relief, and Mrs. Lyttle Hull, president of the Musicians' Emergency Fund, are well known benefactors, and are setting the pace for others with time and unlimited finances to contribute even greater individual effort in war work.

While there has been an influx of moneyed refugees, who are being entertained in the "artiest circles" they are not being absorbed into cream society.

"Ten years ago," says one social leader, "people were taken into society because they had money, but today once more it's the person who counts and their background is more important than ever.

Jean Wooll Weds Lloyd A. Barker

St. Paul's church was decorated with white 'mums and ferns on Saturday afternoon, when Jean Ada, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wooll, 517 Sherbrooke street, became the bride of W.O.2 Lloyd Alexander Barker, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Barker, Arden, Ontario. Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart officiated at the ceremony, and Mr. M. Chenhall played the music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white brocaded satin, in a torso length style, with a sweetheart neckline, small satin covered buttons down the back, and long sleeves coming to a point over each wrist. Her floor length veil of white net was caught with gardenias, and she carried a cascade bouquet of Bettertime roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Maralyn Plunkett, wore a floor-length frock of blue taffeta a sweetheart neckline, a dutch cap of the same material as her dress, and carried a cascade bouquet of Briarcliff roses. Flight Sgt. Dantzer, R. C. A. F. was best man, and Flight Lieut. Gerald Wooll, R. A. F., brother of the bride, was usher.

At the reception held at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother received, wearing a two piece powder blue crepe dress, black accssories, and a corsage of red doses. Also receiving was the groom's mother, who was gowned in navy acccessories, and who wore a corsage of pink roses.

Following the reception the young couple left on a short wedding trip. For travelling the bride chose a gold crepe dress, made on princess lines, a muskrat coat , brown accessories, and wore a corsage of red roses.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — It cost 44,000 customers only four bits apiece to see Harvard and Boston College play football Saturday, and, from all accounts, they got five bucks worth of action . . . Top price for the Dartmouth - Princeton slaughter was $3.30. If it was worth that price, yesterday's Bears- Redskins brawl was a bargain at $20 the scalpers were asking . . . . Speaking of prices, wonder what Mike Jacobs will get for the next Beau Jack-Bob Montgomery affair?

Monday Matinee:

Although the Boston Bruins took in more than $21,000 for Charity when they opened their home hockey last week, Manager Art Ross still is peeved at the folks who reserved 400 seats by phone and then failed to appear . . . Lightweight Bobby Ruffin took his skipping rope and Trainer Red Lambert to Lakewood, N.J., to start training for Sammy Angott, claiming he didn't need anything else. Maybe Bobby forgot what happened to the Giants after they trained at Lakewood.

Quote, Unquote:

Manager Joe McCarthy (commenting on Joe Gordon's announcement that he won't train in the East next spring: "What difference would it make? Gordon is the sort of ball player who never gets out of shape. I remember Lou Gehrig once got off a train one morning in St. Petersburg and played an exhibition that afternoon. Gordon't like that."

Godoy Again

CARACAS, Venezuela—(AP)3. — Arturo Godoy of Chile, who stood up to champion Joe Louis for 15 rounds in 1940, defended his South American heavyweight title Sunday night by flattening Fernando Menichelli of Argentine in the seventh round.

AID TO RUSSIA

NAIROBI — (CP) — The colony of Kenya has contributed the equivalen' of $63,000 to Mrs. Churchill's Aid to Russia fund.

These days most people are working harder, worrying more, sleeping less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living lowers resistance—increases body and mental fatigue. Overwork; hasty meals: irregular hours; worry—any of these may upset proper kidney action.

When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and poisons remain in the system. Then backache, headache, rheumatic pain, disturbed rest or that "tired-all-the-time" feeling may soon follow. To help keep your kidneys in good order—to help guard against physical let-down—use Dodd's Kidney Pills, for over half a century a favourite remedy for faulty kidneys. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. Look for the blue box with the red band. 126

Mosquito Team Looms Strong

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Nov. 22 — (CP). — The Intruders roared out —on the ice—and railbirds nodded wisely and predicted that Wing Cmdr. Paul Davoud's team would become the "dark horse" of the Royal Canadian Air Force Overseas Hockey League this season.

There wasn't a big-name player in the practice, but the onlookers, impressed by the fighting spirit and teamwork, agreed that this all-Canadian Mosquito unit would provide as much trouble to the other teams as it does to the Nazis when members take to the sky. They'll know definitely when the first game is played in a couple of weeks.

The boys haven't chosen a coach yet, but one would not be surprised if Davoud, an all-round athlete from Kingston, Ont., took over those duties. He knows his athletes and his hockey.

Candidates for the team, representative of almost every part of the Dominion, belong to all branches of the Air Force and include pilots, navigators, armorers, and mechanics. Many have been overseas two years or more, but the ice game remains their favorite sport.

Leading Aircraftman donning skates, include Moose Rellinger, of Kitchener, Ont., Chet Woolnouth, Niagara Falls, Ont., and Fred Valenti of North Bay, Ont.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Billy Lech the 16-year-old Peterborough boy who took over the torch tossed by Al Marshall when that fine breast stroke swimmer and Canadian champion enlisted with the Royal Canadian Air Force demonstrated his class unmistakably here Saturday night in the city championship swims in the Y.M.C.A. pool when he clipped a tenth of a second off the Canadian junior 40 yards breast stroke record. The present mark is 24 8-10 seconds and the Peterborough youngster was clocked Saturday in 24 7-10 seconds. The meet was a sanctioned one and the officials in charge including Ernest Hobson of Toronto will report the time made by Lech to the Dominion swimming authorities and ask that it be recognized as a new mark. In any event officials state that the local swimmer will at least be credited with equalling the record. His performance was a noteworthy one, especially in view of the fact that the local pool is not equipped with starting mats and swimmers are handicapped to that extent in breaking when the gun is fired. The meet which brought to Peterborough some outstanding young swim stars including Ross Charlton of Toronto High Park, the junior back stroke champion, was a great success and Swim Director Gordon Minty rates orchids upon the event itself and also upon the fine swimming of his pupil, Billy Lech. Minty has given Peterborough two Dominion champion swimmers since coming here and that is a feat that deserves warm commendation.

* * * * * *

If Peterborough is to have organized 'teen age hockey this winter, with bantam, midget, juvenile and junior divisions it is none too early for the organization spade to be started. This column believes that there should be leagues in all these divisions if hockey is to be kept in a healthy condition so that Peterborough will be ready from the viewpoint of material when the new arena project is carried through to completion as undoubtedly it will be. We do not want to be in the position some other communities find themselves, forced to bring in a whole flock of junior players every year to keep the game alive. There is not half the satisfaction of being represented by a crew of imports as there is in watching bona fide home players perform but unless there is a real effort to meet the challenge that local conditions are creating at the present moment we are going to find oursleves behind the eight ball in a year or two. Organizations to back young teams and older players to coach the 'teen age aggregation are needed and needed at once. Unless there is united action in this matter the results will undoubtedly be serious.

Another Big Night

Promoter Frank Tunney is evidently out to give Peterborough wrestling fans their money's worth in tomorrow night's card at the Brock Street Arena. With such a main bout attraction as the return engagement between Champion Whipper Billy Watson and Jan Gotch, most impressarios would have been satisfied to have filled in the bill with anybody but Tunney comes up with a couple of other brawls that should be a show in themselves. The famous Indian wrestler Chief Thundercloud who has met tough opposition all over the continent is a new-comer on the program. The redskin grappler has the reputation of being a tough bird which means that Sergt. Ted Miller of the R.C.A.F. who is matched with him tomorrow night can look out for heavy weather. However the Air Force commando expert has shown himself capable of looking after these bad actors and he will probably hand the Chief a receipt for all the rough stuff that is dished out. There should be plenty of action in the other bout too for it brings together two classy performers in the flashy Mike Demetre of Montreal and long Joe Christie. Demetre has given some smart exhibitions in recent bouts here and the tall Christie has shown that he knows what it is all about.

* * * * * *

But good as these two preliminaries will be the interest will centre in the main bout where anything can happen and everything probably will. Both Watson and Gotch are all hopped over this clash. Both are sore. Gotch feels that he was robbed of a win here last week and Watson is aggrieved because he had. to take a lot of abuse from the Pole and after the attack at the beginning of the second round was not in shape to do himself justice. "That Pole will never get away with one like that again," Watson declares. "I'll watch him all the way out from the dressing room. I am not worrying about him on the way back. He'll not be in shape to attack anybody then." Gotch, of course, claims that his unexpected assault upon the champ was merely smart tactics and that an experienced wrestler like Watson shouldn't have fallen for that kind of stuff. He intimates that he may have a few more surprises up his sleeve to unload at the proper moment tomorrow night. All of which adds to the already high interest in the outcome. The biggest crowd of the entire season is assured and although extra seats are being arranged the Brock St. Arena management is advising the fans to come early.

A Close Fit

Big Paul Peterson of the Hamilton Wildcats saved a lot of red faces in the last minute of the Eastern football final in Toronto Saturday when he plowed over Lachine R.C.A.F. goal line for the touchdown that saved the day for the Cats. The faces were those of the newspaper commentators, including this column, who had called Hamilton to win by a city block. So far as we are concerned we admit that even that last minute saving of the day has not prevented our ountenance from taking on at least a rosy hue because that bunch of unheralded Fliers came closer than the next second to pulling off the biggest upset of the season. They had the game in the bag 6 to 1 with the minute flag flying when Peterson ripped over for Hamilton's only major score of the day. That tied the score and Joe Krol's educated toe kicked the convert for the point that meant a Wildcat victory. Despite the fact that Hamilton smashed through for 26 first downs during the game they had the toughest possible job to come down in front, largely through fumbles when in pay dirt territory. One of the Wildcat fumbles resulted in Libman dashing 65 yards for a Lachine touchdown and that one sprint looked good enough to more than offset all the Hamilton gains—until Peterson saved the situation.

Net result of the N.H.L. week-end doings is that the Canadiens are still unbeaten and the New York Rangers are still seeking their first win. The Flying Frenchmen walloped the Leafs 7 to 2 Saturday night and handed the Boston Bruins a 13 to 4 lacing Sunday. Toronto's far-from-powerful Leafs after five games without a victory finally found a team they could beat Sunday night when they trimmed the Luckless Rangers 5 to 2. At that the Leafs are in second place in the league race. The loop is really divided into two sections at the present time. One is made up of the Canadiens who are outclassing the opposition. The other consists of the rest of the teams who are foundering around without managing to get anywhere as yet although some of them will probably find themselves before long. After all it is a long time until March.

Mike Hedgewick was the star of the engagement....The stories of the Hamilton-Lachine battle indicate that the Wildcats turned in a terrible game....Mud Bruneteau is sure stepping on the gas for the Detroit Red Wings....He tore off the hat trick last night by scoring three goals against the Chicago Black Hawks as Detroit won 5 to 2....Flash Hollett of the Bruins also had the hat trick getting three counters against Canadiens....Bill Calladine had an assist on the other Bruin goal....Incidentally the two team came within a goal of equalling the modern scoring record for two teams in one game when they piled up 17 markers....Oshawa Generals romped through the Toronto Young Rangers Saturday night, winning 12 to 0....It looks as if they might as well wrap up the junior title now and ship it to the Motor City.

Hershey Bears Beat Caps 5-1

By The Canadian Press.

Hershey Bears strengthened their hold on first place of the American Hockey League by lacing Indianapolis Capitals 5-1 on home ice Saturday night in their lone week-end battle.

Cleveland Barons, who remained in second place, didn't collect as many points in their two games. They were trounced 4-2 by Providence Reds last night and held to a 4-4 tie by Pittsburgh Hornets on Saturday night.

In the fourth A.H.L. game Capitals came from behind three times to defeat Buffalo Bisons 6-3 last night.

Gaston Gauthier—flashy little left winger for Bears—put on a one-man show Saturday night and got four of the five Hershey counters. He started off by scoring one minute and 39 seconds after the opening whistle. He made another strike at 18.21 in the second period and went "all out" in the third period when he scored two tallies within two minutes.

Capitals made up for their loss last night by beating Bisons at Buffalo. Red Hunt opened the scoring at 1.38, but Caps' Red Morrison soon came along with an equalizer.

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—(CP).—Jack Park of the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder reports that folding of the Cornwall Army hockey team because of the players' transfer to training camps was "the severest morale blow this city ever took." It will be some consolation to Cornwall, however, to know that players transferred from these and other centres will provide a morale uplift for boys in camp. For instance, W. A. Hewitt, O.H.A. secretary, says: "There are enough players in Camp Borden now to run the National Hockey Leage." Thousands of soldiers at Borden will get plenty of entertainment from hockey played on the open air rinks there. Borden has 15 teams, operating in two intermediate groups. The winner will enter provincial intermediate playoffs. Imagine fellows like Neil Colville playing intermediate hockey.

Football Fancies:

Flt. Lt. Lou Hayman has finished his sales tour of the west and now is working the east on his idea for an eight-team "Canadian National Football League" after the war wtih teams in Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, Montreal, Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Calgary. Lew told Dick Carroll of the Montreal Gazette that western teams will be terrific a few years from now because senior players have been coaching High school teams. "The kids have been well-drilled in the fundamentals right from the beginning. You can tell that by the way they handle themselves. The senior coach who inherits that material will have a rocking-chair job."

Incidentally:

Entries for the Ontario Minor Hockey Association now total 37, highest at this time in the nine-year history of the Association which starts league play at the year end ....Jimmy Simpson, Hamilton Wildcats captain, admits 34 years but friends say he's 38. Quite an age to be chosen as an all-star! Jimmy began his senior career in 1928 wtih Hamilton Tigers, stepping into senior football without previous experience, even in school football. At that time Jimmy was out of work and Cap Fear, one of the greatest ends of all time, spent afternoons teaching Simpson to handle outside wing.

BUSINESS enriches the NATION and YOU

Business Has Contributed Much To Better Living

THE organizing and productive genius of modern business has put within the reach of most people riches undreamed of less than a hundred years ago.

The regal carriages of ancient Kings could not compare in luxury with the modern motor car today. The home of yesteryear knew nothing of the wealth of entertainment the smallest radio can bring. The greatest lords of feudal times would have been amazed at the infinite variety of tasty and nutritious foods that daily grace the tables of even modest homes.

Before the day of modern business, mankind toiled long hours at dismal occupations to eke out an existence. Now business coördinates the efforts of scientists, primary producers, manufacturers and distributors to give a higher standard of living which may be still further improved through the coöperation of management and labour.

Habitants Stand Undefeated In Ten Games

By The Canadian Press.

Records and near-records were strewn in the wake of Montreal's masterful Canadiens to-day as they surveyed their National Hockey League rivals from a lofty height, undefeated in 10 games since the season started.

Setting the dizziest early-season clip ever fashioned in the league's 26-year history, Canadiens reached the peak of their form in the N.H.L.'s fourth week-end of competition by defeating Toronto Maple Leafs 7-2 at Toronto on Saturday and Boston Bruins 13-4 at Montreal on Sunday to stretch their league lead to four full games over Toronto, Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings, co-holders of second place.

Although they were playing their sixth game in nine days against Boston, Canadiens picked up 35 scoring points for a league record in winning their eighth game against two ties. The total of 45 scoring points scored by both teams in the contest equalled the mark established February 11, 1936, when an earlier edition of Canadiens lost 11-7 to Montreal Maroons. The 17 goals registered on Sunday fell one short of the record made in 1936.

Centre Buddy O'Connor — described by Coach Dick Irvin as the best all-round player in hockey today—counted three goals and two assists in the holocaust which gave Canadiens at least one victory over every team in the league. Fern Majeau collected a goal and four assists. Flash Hollett was responsible for three Boston goals.

Wings Win 5-2.

Canadiens, attracting 24,976 fans in their week-end starts, accomplished their Saturday victory over Leafs on a pair of goals by Majeau and Gerry Heffernan, along with singles by Phil Watson, Bobby Fillion, and O'Connor. Bob Davidson and Lorne Carr scored for Leafs.

The third three-goal scorer of the week-end turned up at Detroit on Sunday, where Red Wings gained a 5-2 triumph over Chicago on Mud Bruneteau's hat trick, one by Carl Liscombe and Syd Howe's major penalty shot, first of the season. Clint Smith and Johnny Gottselig prevented a shutout for Chicago.

The Leafs fared better at New York on Sunday, handing New York Rangers their ninth defeat in as many games 5-2. Mel Hill was the hero, twice regaining the lead for Toronto after Rangers managed to tie the score on counters by Billy Warwick and Don Raleigh. Gus Bodnar, Ted Kennedy and George Boothman, adding their output to Hill's two-goal production, rounded out the scoring.

Corvettes Drub Frigates 46-36

A strong second half finish enabled Jim Ferguson's Corvettes to triumph over Steve Csumrik's Frigates in a Y.M.C.A. House League basketball game on Saturday night by 46 to 36.

It was the only game of the night. Military Training Centre No. 1 team was to have met the Algerines in the first game of what was to have been a double-header, but the khaki lads were in quarantine and could not field a team, and the fixture had to be postponed.

The Corvettes - Frigates battle was an even tussle all through the first half and the teams came off the floor with the score all level with 23 points each.

However, the Ferguson team began cooking with gas after the rest and sparked by some fancy sniping by Eddie Nicholls and Warren Smith pulled away from the Frigates to win by a ten-point margin.

Nicholls and Smith with 16 points each were tops for the winners and Csumrik with 12 and Chum Gillespie with 10 led the scoring for the Frigates. The latter is home on leave from the Navy, and made his first appearance of the season.

The teams:

Corvettes 46 — Smith 16, Brown 8, E. Nicholls 16, Ferguson 6, and Shields.

Frigates 36 — Csumrik 12, Collins, Franks 4, Seabrooke 6, Blackburn 4, Gillespie 10.

Wildcats Win Eastern Honors By Close Margin

By ALAN HARVEY

TORONTO, Nov. 22 — (CP). — Perhaps it's just as well for the Hamilton Flying Wildcats that Joe Krol wasn't sick enough Saturday to need a pair of crutches or a hospital cot. Otherwise, Lachine R.C.A.F. might have created the Canadian gridiron's greatest upset since Varsity Orphans defeated Toronto Balmy Beach 1-0 in 1928.

As it was, Wildcats won the Eastern Canada title 7-6 before 6,007 paid admissions who thrilled to a football finish most of them will never forget. Wildcats won the game, and a shot at Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers in next Saturday's Grey Cup final, principally because Krol shook off stomach flu and a high temperature to lead a sensational 85-yard march which paid off in game-winning points 15 seconds from the final whistle.

Lachine Outweighed

The massive Hamilton line, outweighing inexperienced opponents, 20 pounds a customer and rolling for 430 yards from scrimmage (365 rushing) against 327 for the Fliers filled a big role along with plunging Paul Peterson, but in the decisive last stand it was Krol's accurate passing which carried Hamilton from its own 25 to the Lachine three, without once losing possession, as the timer's clock snipped off the seconds.

From there, Peterson—the game's best ground gainer—hurtled three yards for a touchdown which tied the score 6-6. Fans surged on the field. Krol stepped back, kicked a convert which struck a Lachine man's outstretched fingers — and wavered through the posts. Nobody remembers what happened in the two plays after that. Nobody cared.

After the game, Krol told The Canadian Press he felt "pretty awful" because of an attack of stomach flu which started Thursday as a heavy cold. He was wrapped in blankets up to game time and played dully until his passes started clicking in the fourth quarter.

Despite the outcome, there could be nothing but admiration for Lachine. They started on the short end of 5-1 odds and they were even money at half time, even though Krol kicked the first point on the last play before the intermission, a deadline single.

Lachine kept hustling, and stayed in the game until Sgt. Art Libman seized a loose ball early in the third quarter and sprinted down the sidelines for a 65-yard touchdown which Sgt. Fred Lamoureux converted. They fought grimly to protect the previous five-point lead, but were not quite good eough.

This ruling, modified later, marked the beginning of the two-man team six-day events. The law was passed 39 years ago today.

Bill Lech Sets New Canadian Swim Record

Billy Lech, sixteen-year-old Peterborough swimmer who won the junior Canadian breast stroke championship in Winnipeg last summer added to his laurels here Saturday night when he knocked one-tenth of a second off the Canadian junior 40 yards breast stroke record, to feature the city championship meet in the Y.M.C.A. pool.

The officials in charge of the meet will report to the Dominion swimming authorities the new mark set up by the Peterborough boy and it is expected that it will be accepted as a new record; at all events he is sure to be credited with equalling the old mark.

The meet was a splendid sucecss. Six events were run off in fine style and some keen competition was enjoyed by the large crowd in attendance.

Lech was not the only champion on hand. Another was the Canadian junior back stroke champion, Ross Charlton of the High Park Club, Toronto, who won the 40-yard event in his favorite style in convincing fashion.

A number of other Toronto swimmers came down to Peterborough for meet as well as a number of officials from the Quen City. Ernest Hobson of Toronto was the starter and Mrs. Hobson the efficient recorder. Charles Harrington, Toronto, was the chief timer, along with William Mowat, Toronto and Alex Fitzgerald, Peterborough.

The present record for the junior 40 yards breast stroke event is 24 8-10 seconds. Lech covered the distance Saturday ngiht in 24 7-10 seconds and that time will be reported to the Dominion swimming authorities for official recognition.

Here are the results:

Junior 40 yards free style—1, Bob Dean, Toronto Central Y.M.C.A.; 2, Jack Matthews, Peterboruogh Y.M.C.A.; 3, Ross Charlton, Toronto High Park. Time: 22 3-5 seconds.

Junior 40 yards breast stroke—1, Bill Lech, Peterborough Y.M.C.A.; 2, Stan Connell, Peterborough Y.M.C.A.; 3, Lionel Neary, Peterborough Y.M.C.A. Time: 24 7-10 seconds.

Junior 40 yards back stroke—1, Ross Charlton, Toronto High Park; 2, Bob White, Toronto Central Y.M.C.A.; 3, Jack White Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. Time: 27 seconds.

Senior 100 yards free style—1, Gordon Gildner, Peterborough Y.M.C.A.; 2, Andrew Brown, Peterborough Y.M.C.A. Time: 1:04 5-10.

Medley relay race—1, Peterborough Y.M.C.A.; 2, Toronto. Time: 1:33.

Diving competition — 1, Ernest Wright, Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. 104 points; 2, Stan McBride, Peterborough Y.M.C.A., 88 points; 3, Wallace Graham, 81 points.

The meet was under the direction of Gordon Minty, swim director and coach of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A.

Radio's Quip Master Returning Dec. 12

MONTREAL, Nov. 22.— At long last it is now officially made known that the one and only Fred Allen will return to the air on Sunday, December 12, at 9:30 p.m., and will be heard locally over station CHEX.

With the inimitable Fred will be, it is expected, the same fun-making supporting cast as in past years and, of course, Al Goodman and his Star Theatre Orchestra will provide the music.

After Allen's long lay-off it's an even bet that Jack Benny is in for some real fireworks.

Hamilton Trims Kingston Outfit

KINGSTON, Nov. 22 — Hamilton took top position in the O.H.A. senior standings here Saturday night with a 5 to 3 victory over the reorganized Kingston Frontenac army team. With Art Childs playing a master game in the Hamilton goal, Kingston was unable to cash in on scoring chances while an alert Hamilton team ticked for tallies on limited opportunities around the Kingston cage.

Kingston was disorganized by Army moves with six of the original team missing and many of the players only checked into the Kingston army camps a few hours before the game. Kingston added Roy Giesebrecht, formerly of the Detroit Red Wings and Charles Phillips, Moe White and Jim Peters of the Montreal Army team while other senior hockey players moved to Kingston watched the game from the benches.

Hamilton played a clever game of careful defense work and making the most of the breaks. Kingston had the better of territorial play and poured 63 shots on the Hamilton goal during the game, but only three escaped the clever work of net custodian Childs. Hamilton had only 33 shots on Lt. Herb Mortimer in the Kingston cage and five hit the twine. Hamilton played a defensive game and waited for openings, while Kingston went all out on a ganging game and failed on many goal-getting openings.

Hamilton: Goal, Childs; defense, Dinning, Sherry; centre, Runions; wings, Brady, Conick; subs, Robertson, Liscombe, Shillington, Davey, Sherer, Monorek.

Kingston: Goal, H. Mortimer; defense, Booth, W. Mortimer; centre Giesebrecht; wings, Foster, Hamill; subs, Latoski, White, Peters, Phillips, Grigg, Tilson.

Referees: B. McCaffrey and J. Carr-Harris.

Rev. David Wren Sounds Optimistic Note

Faith in the eternal sovereignty of God and of the ultimate triumph of His church even amid the doubts and chaos of a world at war was vouched upon the assurance of the Psalmist by Rev. David Wren, M.A., B.D., of Central United church, Stratford, at the evening Service last night at Knox United church, concluding the celebration of its thirty-third anniversary.

"The Lord Reigneth; let the earth rejoice...Clouds and darkness are around about him. Righteousness and judgment are the habitation of His throne," was the text from the first and second verses of the ninety-seventh Psalm which Rev. Mr. Wren quoted as spiritual reinforcement in faith in the continuing progress of the human race which had suffered in the recent years a shattering blow.

The Psalmist himself was confronted with an atmosphere of pessimism and defeatism when he wrote the rallying Royal Psalm: "The Lord reigneth" as comforting reassurance in times of doubt, when the voices of the pessimists were whispering 'this is the end.' Rev. Mr. Wren recalled in passing some of the crises through which mankind had struggled from Old Testament times down to the present, and including the darkest night of all when Jesus walked alone, bore a heavy cross on His shoulders, and went into the tomb from which He arose three days later and said to the world "I am the resurrection and the life."

Europe today was a shambles that would take centuries to rebuild, Rev. Mr. Wren said. Once so prolific of great men and ideas, that continent was now bereft of both. Brutality and hatred have left multitudes seething with the spirit of revenge. Many of the great universities are in darkness, the medical schools of Austria, the great German seats of philosophy, the art schools of France, the architectural schools of Greece, are all gone and their foundations are only a mass of rubble. With them is a loss of faith which one nation could have in another, and a failure of that morality which should recognize the place of God in human life.

In spite of all this cloud of doubt that sometimes sounds a note of despair in the whisperings of the pessimists, Rev. Mr. Wren said he thanked God that there were many people of deep and profound faith in tomorrow. In their faith and certainty they believe that a new day is about to be born, that Jesus will ride triumphantly out of the skies, that His kingdom of grace will be established, and that there will come a new understanding among the nations. Rev. Mr. Wren said that, approaching the end of his ministry and having seen days of crowded auditoriums and days of diminished congregations, his outlook upon the future was never more hopeful of the triumphant universal dominion of God.

In conclusion Rev. Mr. Wren turned his theme to the men of the armed forces, of whom his own boy was a representative of 750,000, and recalled a letter his son had written to him "urging us to stick to it during these days, and in his words 'when we come back we'll take the work off your hands and put Christ upon His throne."

Rev. H. J. Mahoney, pastor of Knox church, conducted the morning and evening services, with Rev. Mr. Wren, former minister of Trinity United church in this city, as the anniversary speaker. Special choral music was a feature of both services, with Mrs. Alice Rourke of Pickering College, Newmarket, as soprano soloist for the occasion.

Rev. Mr. Mahoney read a letter of congratulation and good wishes from Rev. W. A. Filer and the congregation of neighboring All Saints' church.

Southwest of Dnepropetrovsk in the Dnieper bend the Russians continued to push their own offensive, capturing several heavily fortified German strongholds and the railway station of Nezabudino.

In the Cherkasy sector, north of Kremenchug and below Kiev, the Russian artillery which had moved across the Dnieper river to a new bridgehead was reported shelling the enemy lines as the Red Army ground steadily through thickly fortified positions on the outskirts of Cherkasy.

In the Rechitsa area of the White Russian front west of Gomel where the Russians are driving toward the pre-war Polish border, the Soviet communique said more than 20 populated places were captured. Guerillas, harrying the Germans from the rear, were said to have disorganized German defences.

Army lunge west of Agnone were destroying two towns in their path. One was Alfedena, three miles west of a fork in the central road to Rome. Alfedena is on the west branch leading directly to the Italian capital. Gastel Di Sangro is two miles north-east of the fork on the branch leading to the Pescara-Rome highway.

Sunday's announcements showed that the Allied forces swinging forward on the 8th Army's front had taken four towns and shortened the battle line by some 20 miles.

The towns were Agnone, Archi, Castel San Vincenzo and Rocchetta, taken in advances which finally cleared all of the lateral highway from Vasto on the eastern shore to Isernia in the mountains, and placed the British 8th Army face to face with the German Sangro River line.

By driving into Agnone, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's troops wiped out an eight-mile-deep salient the enemy had held in Allied territory. This forward lunge cleared the Vasto-Isernia highway and shortened the line.

low down, struck the tenth rib on the right side and was deflected upward, passing through the right lung and then lodging against the shoulder blade.

Hubert's wife, Elizabeth, 46, maintains that he was in good health and enjoying a cup of tea in the kitchen of his home when she went out to the barn, 25 yards to the northeast to do some chores around eight o'clock Saturday night. There was no one else in the house, the woman stated.

Thought He Had Fallen

"It must have been 20 minutes after when I went back to the house," she said calmly to reporters Sunday morning. "John wasn't in the kitchen. I called him and thought I heard a sound in the bedroom on the west side of the house. I went in and John was lying on the floor near the window with one foot on the window ledge and the other over a chair. He was moaning and I thought that he must have fallen and hurt himself."

"I said to him 'John can you hear me' and he seemed to open just one eye and looked at me. Then he said 'back' several times and closed his eye again. I didn't like the way he looked; his face had gone gray and there seemed to be a rattle in his throat. I waited for a minute or two, hoping that he was only stunned and would come around but when he didn't I realized I must get help. I put a pillow under his head, and started for the home of John Little."

"The window of the bedroom was open when I went in there," Mrs. Hubert said in answer to a question. "I was sure that it had been nailed down. I closed it again before I left."

John Little's house is on the east side of the road, a short distance south and Mrs. Hubert half ran, half walked over there seeking help.

Found Him Dead

"She came to my place about half past eight," the elderly Little said yesterday. "She said that her husband was very sick and she was afraid he was dying and asked me to come over: I knew that Leo Whibbs who lives close to me has a car and I thought I had better get him as he could go for help if it were needed. Whibbs and I went to the house and I went in. Hubert was lying on the floor of the bedroom and was dead when I got there. Whibbs then went and telephoned for the police and a doctor."

"He seemed like a hard-working man," Little said in regard to Hubert. "They had been living in the house since last spring and he had been working steadily at the C.G.E. He used to walk up the road to Nassau every morning and got a ride into work from there."

Married Five Years

Mrs. Hubert said that she was married to her husband five years ago, and that they had come here from Hamilton. Hubert, she said, was born in Guernsey, Channel Islands and had come to Canada when only three years old. So far as she knew there were no other relatives in this country but herself but some members of her husband's family were living in Jersey, another of the Channel Islands. He was a roofer by trade but had worked as a laborer in various parts of the country, living for a long time in Toronto and also in Bancroft and Hamilton.

"I have lived in a good many places myself," said Mrs. Hubert. "I was in the United States for a while and at one time I kept a rooming house in Toronto. We had bad luck in Bancroft and when we came to Peterborough last spring all we had left after paying our fares was one dollar." Mrs. Hubert said she was formerly Elizabeth Robinson and that she was born north of Madoc in Hastings county.

Unable to get a house in town the Huberts rented the old farm-house in which the husband had so mysteriously met his death, from Alex Tate, the present owner of the property. The house is situated on top of a high hill overlooking Thompson's Bay and situated on the west side of the road leading directly south from Nassau on the east side of the river. The farm is the old Leahy farm and the house is said to be in the neighborhood of one hundred years old. The Huberts took possession early in May and cultivated a vegetable garden and kept a few hens, and ducks, a cow and a horse.

Hubert had been employed at the C.G.E. from April last until Tuesday of last week when he gave up his job. The explantaion offered by the wife was that he wanted to get work closer to where he lived.

Mysterious Angles

The shooting has a number of mysterious angles. According to Mrs. Hubert her husband was sitting in a chair at the north side of the kitchen table when she left the house. Immediately back of where she said he was is a door leading into the north side of the house. There is a door giving access to the house at that side and it is pointed out that it would have been possible for an assailant to enter by that door, quietly open the interior door and shoot Hubert in the back as he sat there. On the other hand if he was shot in the bedroom where he was found, the attacked must have first raised the window because the glass had not been broken. No footprints were to be seen close to that window.

Petain's Stand

Saturday said that a woman's voice announcing that "Marshal Petain has resigned" was heard on the Vichy radio.

Out of the conflicting welter of rumors from Vichy, the report of an open break between Petain and Laval, his German- supported Chief of Government, appeared to be substantiated. The Vichy radio Saturday sounded a burst of reports on the old marshal. The emphasis of every broadcast was to try to give a rosy account of what is happening in Vichy.

A recording of a voice, purportedly that of Petain himself, was broadcast. This broadcast was designed to picture the marshal as laughing off reports that he is ill.

Vichy allowed mention of new pledges of loyalty to the Chief of State—possibly indicating that the Germans and the Laval collaborators had squelched any move that Petain might have tried to break away on his own.

Swiss reports, without confirmation, persisted that Petain was under house arrest. French politicians in Switzerland said they were certain Petain had not yet actually put his resignation into force, but hoped by threatening it to bring about a showdown.

TOOLS ARE STOLEN

Leonard Dunford reported to the police Saturday night that a box of tools that he had left in his car parked behind the Duffus garage had been stolen. The tools were valued at $23.

34TH ANNIVERSARY

The thirty-fourth anniversary of the Church of the Sacred Heart was celebrated Sunday. The evening sermon was preached by Rev. C. J. Carroll, of Norwood. Bishop MacDonald and some of the clergy of neighboring parishes were present.

$73.80 FOR FUND

Receipts at the Peterborough vegetable growers' stand on the market Saturday for the British War Victims' fund were incomplete at $73.80, Herb Doig told The Examiner today. He expects when all the money is in the total will be around $100.

THEY PASSED THE PLATE

A group of Peterborough men who hunt not more than 100 miles from here listened in to the morning service of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church over CHEX a week ago Sunday, and when the offering was being taken during the service they also passed the plate and have turned in the money to the radio fund.

A QUEER IDEA OF FUN

Reginald Reid 634 Park street, is being annoyed by some one who has a queer idea of what constitutes fun. A week ago a negative wrapped in paper was partially pushed through the letter slot in his door and set on fire. Smoke was seen in the house and the incipient blaze was extinguished, Friday night the experiment was repeated and a similar negative was burned in Reid's car, scorching the cushion.

Book Of Remembrance Unveiled In The George Street Church

On Sunday morning an exceptionally large and sympathetic congregation witnessed one of the most impressive and solemn services in the history of George Street United Church, when Lt. Col. Rev. Bruce Hunter, M.C. E.D. dedicated "To the Glory of God, and to those who have paid the supreme sacrifice and to those who are now serving in the armed forces" a beautiful, leather bound book of Remembrance

Assisting in this service, William Hamilton, a veteran of the last war and the father of two sons now on active service, unveiled the book while A. B. Burrows M. M. read the list of casualties from this church. The guest soloist, George Coleman Jr. sang "There is no Death", a beautiful and comforting message to those bereaved.

The names of approximately one hundred and seventy boys and girls who are now serving in His Majesty's forces, were read by Flt. Lt. Lloyd Parnell and was followed by the solo "Absent" by Mr. Coleman, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Charles Renaud the organist.

Introduced Speaker

The guest preacher, Lt. Col. Rev. Bruce Hunter of Toronto, was introduced and welcomed to the church by Lieut. Leo Copp who spoke of his service for the past four years as Senior Chaplain, as well as serving as Padre in the first world war when he was decorated on the field for valor. Lt. Copp also expressed regret at the absence of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Roberts, through illness.

In his inspiring and optimistic sermon, the preacher chose for his theme, "In the latter days" based upon the words by Micah 4:1 "But in the last days it shall come to pass."

"These words of the Old Testament prophet give us a hopeful vision of the golden age of man.

This was a daring and wonderful vision in the chaos and darkness of Micah's time, to look beyond the clouds and storms of life, the wars and rumors of wars, injustices and inequalities, the sorrows and sufferings brought about by the selfishness of men, to look beyond all this to the day when every individual should have opportunity to develop his own personality, when the will of God will be observed and Peace cover the earth, such a vision was not peculiar to Micah, but the prophets of all ages have been haunted by this dream of a "Golden Age". Twenty-three centuries ago Plato expressed it in his "Republic" and later Thomas Moore in his "Utopia." All dreamers and reformers speak with a thousand tongues telling us that this is only a dark phase through which we are passing.

Something Finer Coming

Even in the gloom we can see flickers of light in the Atlantic Charter, on the Beveridge plans which tell us that we will emerge into something finer and better.

"We too, must take our stand with these prophets of old and lift up our eyes to the mountain of hope."

The preacher pointd out the essential characteristics of the golden age which is first of all a spiritual Kingdom.

Secondly it will be a time of construction. In the past four years billions of dollars have been spent for destruction, while we realize there is no other way and that they must persevere in the war effort yet, is there nothing more pagan than to spend money and life in such a way."

"If we could have devoted this entire amount of money to sending the Gospel of Christ, what a transformation it would have made in the world.

In the second place we must have courage of which there two kinds one shown on the battle field in such a fine way today, the other unseen and unheralded such as shown by mothers and wives who have lost loved ones. Above all, we must have absolute dependence upon God. All great leaders today—Churchill, Roosevelt, Halifax, Eden exort people to prayer. Do you and I really pray for Victory and Peace not in public, but in private? For more things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of."

The music fo the day was under the direction of C. Renaud, choir leader and included the beautiful anthem "The Lords Prayer", while the arrangements for the general service was in charge of Miss Mary Elliott and her committee.

Flowers on the altar were placed in memory of the late Mr. Wm. R. Corner and daughter Caroline, by Mrs. Corner and family.

Veterans and service men acted as ushers for this unique service in honor of the boys and girls of George Street United church who are in Army, Navy and Air Forces.

Havelock Man's Leg Shattered

With his right leg shattered as the result of the accidental discharge of a high-powered rifle, Nelson Wellman, well known Havelock garage proprietor is in St. Joseph's Hospital in a serious condition.

The accident happened while Wellman was on a deer-hunting trip near Twin Lakes in Methuen township. Friday afternoon as Wellman and a hunting companion, a Toronto man named Goddard, were having the last hunt of the season, Goddard's gun accidentally was discharged as the two men were walking in the bush and the bullet struck Wellman who was in the lead.

It ripped into his right leg just below the hip and then went down shattering the main leg bone and finally stopping just above the knee. The bullet is .44 calibre and has not yet been removed.

The wives of the two men were at the camp and they and Goddard made an improvised litter of coats and poles and carried the injured man more than a mile through the woods to the party's truck and he was driven into Havelock. Afterward he was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital here by ambulance.

More Canadians Arrive In Italy

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 22 (CP Cable)—Arrival of a large new "number" of Canadians in Italy was frontpage news for London's afternoon newspapers today with the Evening Standard giving the brief announcement a five-column line.

(The announcement was made in one sentence of today's Allied communique from Algiers, which said: "Among the troops who have recently arrived in Italy is a large number of Canadians.")

Details about the contingent are lacking here and military authorities declined to make any comment or elaborate in any degree the Algiers announcement.

Speculative stories about the possible composition of the new Canadian force were stopped by censorship as well as any conjecture regarding it.

The news came as a surprise to most Canadian Army personnel here for large-scale moves are naturally shrouded in deep security precautions.

However there had been conjecture ever since the Canadian Sicilian campaign, among Canadians both in Italy and here, that Canadian reinforcements might join the Canadian force fighting with the 8th Army in Italy.

Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Army overseas, remarked in an interview in Sicily in August that the performance of the Canadian 1st Division in Sicily had shown that the Canadian army could operate effectively "in whole or in part" in co-operation with British or American forces.

The fact that this large contingent has gone to Italy may mean a considerable Canadian force is going to be built up for the tough campaign facing the Allies there.

During the Sicilian campaign the 1st Division, then commanded by Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., and the Canadian 1st Army Tank Brigade proved their battle skill and Allied commanders were highly pleased. After that campaign Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery said he would like to see more Canadians in his British 8th Army.

It appears that Canadian hospital units were probably included in the contingent in the light of a story by Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent now in Italy, who told Nov. 16 of the torpedoing in the Mediterranean of a ship in which, among other passengers there were 99 Canadian nurses, all of whom were rescued.

Addition of new hospitals to a theatre is generally significant and indicates in most cases that new fighting formations are going into the field.

$65,000 Total Passed By Fund Today

On December 5, the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund will mark the 3rd anniversary of its first appeal on behalf of the sufferers from air raids over Britain, since which time, not one business day has passed without money being credited to the account for the fund, or the appearance of this article on its behalf.

On this basis, the writer ventures to hazard the belief that few, if any, similar funds operated on the same basis in the name of a city and its immediate district, can point to an achievement more worthy of commendation than this, which will stand as an everlasting tribute to those citizens who have supported this humanitarian effort on behalf of the war, and incidentally reflects credit to all who live within the territory covered by the fund's operations.

In a little less than three years' work, with steady perseverance the fund on a regular monthly basis of $65,069.89, which approximates an average of $22,000.00 for each year, and that is fairly close to an average of $2,000.00 for each month of that period.

Legion Total $1,697.30.

Among all those who have supported the fund, one of the most outstanding groups is the Peterborough Branch No. 52 of the Canadian Legion, who have supported the fund o na regular monthly basis ever since it began operations, which is one of the reasons why it stands at the high mark of third in the records of the fund as regards total donations given.

All during this period this group has been under the leadership of G. Gimblett as president, and G. G. Torrance as secretary-treasurer, who have undoubtedly enhanced the reputation of their membership by rolling up the splendid total of $1,697.30 now given to the fund, with the contribution of $70.67 appearing in their name today, which is the donation responsible for putting the fund over the latest thousand dollar mark.

This has been made possible through the loyal work of a number of the active members, who give of their time and services at the operation of their bingo games on Wednesday night, which are conducted in the interests of their own welfare work, from the proceeds of which this money has been raised.

One nice personal contribution of $10.00 from Ernest Cook is recorded today, marking a repeat of help given about the same time in previous years, this taking its place in the special donations for Christmas, and thus carrying his personal help to give some cheer to the boys and girls at that time who have been bombed out of their homes through enemy attacks from the air.

Caban Draw Totals $175.

Yet another $2.50 is recorded from the draw for seven prizes donated and sponsored by Victor Caban, Sr., to honor the memory of his son, Victor, Jr., who gave his life on the battlefields of Sicily. This now makes a splendid total of $175.00 from this one effort alone.

Previously acknowledged	$64,986.72
Branch 52, Canadian Legion, per G. Gimbett and G. G. Torrance	70.67
Ernest Cook	10.00
Further proceeds of draw on seven prizes donated and sponsored by Victor Caban, Sr.	2.50
Total to-date	$65,069.89

Patton Reprimanded Commentator Claims

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP). —Drew Pearson, radio commentator, said last night that Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton had been "severely reprimanded" by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and expressed the opinion that Patton will not "be used in combat any more."

Pearson gave his account on the Blue Network in explaining what he termed the mystery surrounding the whereabouts of Patton, commander of the 7th Army in the invasion of Sicily. Eisenhower, as commander of Allied forces in the Mediterranean theatre, is Patton's superior.

The War Department said it had no information and no comment on the report.

Detailing his dispatch as Algiers, where Allied Headquarters is located, Pearson said Eisenhouser's reprimand followed an altercation involving Patton, a shell-shocked soldier in a Sicilian hospital and the medical officer commanding the hospital. Pearson said the argument started when Patton ordered the soldier from bed and the medical officer intervened.

Whistle Saved Life Of Sailor

An employee of the Canadian General Electric Company in Peterborough prior to his enlistment in the Canadian Navy, Able Seaman Milton Whymark credits to the whistle on his life belt his rescue at sea after he leaped overboard to miss a swinging sea-boat in rough and foggy weather.

This chapter in the routine of the corvette Cobalt was told to Phyllis Griffiths of the Toronto Telegram in an interview with some of the officers and men on their return from convoy duty to an Eastern Canadian port.

A.B. Whymark said: "Had to jump overboard to avoid being pinned by a swinging boat. It was mid-afternoon, but a thick fog enshrouded everything and the Atlantic was very rough."

"We'd never have found him but for the whistle attached to his life belt," said the skipper, Lieut. Denys Heward. "There's a whistle on every belt, and we all wear life belts when we are at sea."

Whymark kept blowing his whistle and was soon located, in a fog so thick "you could hardly see your hand a foot in front of your face." The rescued seaman said to the reporter: "The guy who thought of putting whistles on life belts is tops with me. I was in the water maybe half an hour, long enough to find out it was darned cold; but I sure was lucky."

Girl Confesses Killing Stepfather

MELBOURNE, Ark., Nov. 22 (AP) —Mary Durant, 21, was called to trial today in connection with the slaying of her stepfather, Charles W. Durant, 43, whose body was unearthed by a dog in the yard of their former home at Calico Rok last April 4.

The girl was apprehended last month by Federal Agents at Shelbyville Tenn., and since has been in jail here without bail on a first degree murder charge.

Sheriff J. A. Rodman announced after the girl's return to Arkansas that she confessed the slaying, saying her stepfather had abused her since she was 12.

The sheriff said she related she obtained a .22-calibre rifle, shot Durant while he slept last Dec. 4, buried him that night in the yard. and lived alone in the house for three weeks before departing.

Lonergan Pleads To Murder Count

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP). — Wayne Lonergan, 26 year old R.C. A.F. aircraftman, pleaded not guilty to-day to an indictment charging him with first degree murder in the slaying of his wife, Patricia, a month ago.

The plea, routine because a defendant may not plead guilty to first degree murder, was taken speedily before Judge George L. Donnellan. Lonergan's counsel saught and received 10 days in which to file motions. Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet said outside the rourt room that he hoped to bring Lonergan to trial "some time in January."

The Canadian airman was taken into custody in Toronto soon after his wife's body had been found, strangled and beaten, in her apartment. The District Attorney's office said Lonergan confessed the crime.

Restaurants Are Forced To Lock Doors

Some of Peterborough's restaurants had to lock their doors Saturday night to regulate the business that crowded about their tables and left a line-up outside trying to get in. Some of the customers were pleasantly jingled, just a wartime Saturday night custom.

According to Karl H. Von Wiegand, dean of American war correspondents, alcoholic drinks in Japan have been reduced until they are practically non-existent.

And as for food, this is the Wiegand statement: "Economy in food and self-deprivation is being raised by some Japanese almost to a religious fervor as part of the national sacrifices in order that Japan shall win through....The wife of a Swedish business man, many years resident of Tokyo, told me she could not ask her Japanese maids to buy anything in the black market because they would consider it a serious offence against the Emperor.

"Both rich and poor eat the same specific ration which to us would me a semi-starvation diet, wear the same standardized clothes, shoes and 'geta' clogs. The nation is fed scientifically on the basis of bodily requirement for strength and health, but in which the individual taste or desire is ignored or has almost been eliminated."

The Saturday night scene in Peterborough follows what seems to be an establishing custom. In the early evening the restaurants are comparatively vacant. Young folks are off to theatres, dance spots or parties, but they begin to emerge again under the bright lights around 11 o'clock, and the eateries bulge by midnight. The several all-night stands are kept fairly busy until along about four or five (in the morning). Possibly it "is adding to the war effort," only different from the way of the funny Japs.

Dr. Herbert Sullivan Awarded Fellowship

Dr. Herbert Sullivan of Hamilton, grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. John C. Sullivan of Ashburnham, was recently awarded a Fellowship of the Royal College of Surgeons in Canada, the highest degree in Canadian surgery. He was one of only four Canadians who succeeded in passing the exacting series of examinations.

Dr. Sullivan is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Sullivan of Hamilton. His father received his Collegiate education in Peterborough, during the principalship of the late Cortez Fessenden. The son attended Cathedral High School in Hamilton and went on to McMaster University and then to the University of Toronto, graduating in 1939.

Man Be Turned Over To Army Authorities

Pleading guilty to a charge of having failed to notify the divisional registrar of a change in his address, Martin James Coughlin, 25, was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to two days' imprisonment and an order was issued by the court that the accused should be handed over to the R.C.M.P. at the expiration of that time to be transferred to the military authorities at Toronto.

Magistrate Langley was about to order that Coughlin be handed over forthwith, but Corp. Karl Lockwood of the R.C.M.P. said that the army authorities would not receive a man after 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and asked that Coughlin should be held in custody so that he could be picked up tomorrow morning in ample time to reach Toronto before the dead line.

"They keep better hours than the bankers," commented Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who defended Coughlin.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

NOV. 22, 1939 — United States and Canada border towns prepare for transfer of warplanes bought by Britain. Nazis promised swift retaliation against Britain's unrestricted blockade of German sea-borne trade. Forty missing after Destroyer Gypsy hit mine and was beached.

OUR GOOD NEIGHBORS—United States Vice-President Henry A. Wallace is shown congratulating Wendell Willkie (LEFT), at the conclusion of the latter's speech before the twelfth annual New York Herald-Tribune forum in the Waldorf Astoria, New York. Willkie's topic was "the next step toward the world we want." The Vice-President discussed "the world we want."

Robert H. Hunter, Veteran Grocer, Passes Away In His 83rd Year

Another of the elders of Peterborough's retail business is gone from George Street in the death of Robert Henry Hunter, grocer, at his home early this morning in his eighty-third year.

Born in Verulam township, Victoria county, Mr. Hunter came from Bobcaygeon to Peterborough fifty-four years ago and established the grocery business which has borne his name near the corner of George and Brock streets down through the years before the chain stores thinned the ranks of grocerydom of all but its stoutest hearts and most enterprising salesmen.

R. H. Hunter simply refused to lock his doors and clear out before the powerful intruders who were cutting such a wide swath in retailing from one end of the country to the other. Few of the older independent grocers were able to stand up against the newer and smarter methods of the powerful organizations which were able to emphasize price inducements and present their wares in more attractive premises than the trade had ever conceived.

One of the survivors of this intensified competition during the last twenty-five years was R. H. Hunter, of Peterborough. He was educated at Lindsay Public and High schools. He adhered to the soundest business principles throughout his long and honorable career, and his name became a synonym of integrity and good faith.

His keen interest in world affairs remained undiminished up to the time of his recent brief illness.

Mr. Hunter is survived by his wife and three sons: Robert Bruce Hunter, Dominion Bank manager, Toronto; Donald H. Hunter, of Peterborough, who was associated with his father; Herman J. Hunter, principal of the Duke of Kent School, Toronto; and three daughters, Mrs. J. W. Watson and Miss Alberta E. Hunter, of Peterborough, and Mrs. A. R. Warner, of Lindsay.

The funeral of Mr. Hunter will take place Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the family residence, 548 George street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. The service will be conducted by Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, of which the decased was a member.

18-Year-Old Had Liquor Permit

Eighteen-year-old Keith Lasby pleaded guilty in police court this morning to illegal possession of a liquor permit and was fined $20 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., with the alternative of 15 days in jail.

"Did you use the liquor yourself"? asked the Magistrate. "I didn't have a chance" replied the accused.

"Is there any suspicion that he was buying for bootleggers" the court asked, and Inspector J. F. Reid said that he did not think so.

Curling News

Well, here we go again on another year. Just how successful we have been in the past, we don't know, but we will do our best, this coming season, to keep one and all well posted on the activities of our club.

To those of you who have taken time out to read this column, we say "thank you," and to those of you who have never read it, out have seen the error of your ways and intend to read it, we say to you, "thank you."

And now for the up-to-the-minute curling news. To begin with, and so there will be no misunderstanding, it was Friday, Dec. 18th, that we began curling in 1943. When we will start this season, can't say, but the rink is open and we will have everything ready just as soon as the weather man gives us the green light.

Regarding our membership, it looks like a complete sell-out. The membership committee, with D. L. Davis as chairman, has made a wonderful job of it and our advice to last year's members, if they intend to curl this season, is to sign your application and send it, along with some folding money, to the secretary, Tom McArthur, or H. R. Martin at once. This is very important. 'Nough said

In the ladies' section we believe there will be a large increase in their membership. Mrs. A. Gibbs is convener of this committee and they, too, have made a good job of it. So taking it all and all it looks like a good season. The ladies are meeting on Friday afternoon at 2.15 p.m. and then maybe we'll have some more news.

Although we have no curling here as yet, some of our boys are taking advantage of the bonspiels out of town. On Thursday of this week, Ray Best, president elect of the Ontario Curling Association, is taking a rink up to Kitchener. He will have with him W. M. Cruthers, J. E. Thomas and A. J. Gibbs.

And then early in December Tom McArthur, B. P. Scott and J. L. Welsh are going to take in the bonspiel at High Park, Toronto.

And that's all for now, but keep your eye on this column for later news.

Jivehounds Fade Before Longhair

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 22 (CP) — The London jitterbug has just about "had it."

Time is running out the hepcats and rugcutters here. Strauss is beating them and other longhairs, including the "moon-in-June" crowd, have them dizzy. A short-lived era seems to be nearing an end.

The English jitterbug was a tame creature compared to his Canadian and American cousin before the war. Then the cousin came to pay a visit, duration-length, and soon the English girls were cutting the rug every bit as mean as the girls left behind in New York and New Rochelle, Montreal and Medicine Hat.

Now the biggest of London's dance-halls which are jammed every night have hung up "no jitterbugging allowed" signs to the consternation of its champions.

The jitterbugs' crazy acrobatics, the swinging of partners completely off the floor and, above all, the look of concentration that is the trademark of the purist hepcat amused Britons at first. Now it has alarmed them — particularly the acrobatics and partner swinging.

Pace Too Hot

In one week-end in the dance halls here, one dancer fainted after an especially "solid" number. Another sprained a leg so badly he had to go to hospital. Tables and glasses were smashed by a dancer who misjudged one leap. And fights broke out between hepcats and their critics.

The Hammersmith Palais de Danse, one of England's most famous dancing spots, refused the jitterbug fans admittance. The Mecca Dance Agency, which operates Covent Garden, one of the biggest halls, and a number of other dancing spots in London and the provinces, has followed suit.

The hepcats have been politely asked to leave the floor in other halls and restaurants. And they don't like it.

"There's no harm in it and there's a lot of healthy exercise in jitterbugging," complained one.

One of London's newspapers, taking not of the ban, put the reason for it this way:—

"The jitterbugs kept their hats on, chewed gum and threw their partners in such frenzies that other dancers complained of bruises and injuries."

So the jitterbug finds himself with fewer and fewer places that'll accept him. He hasn't been banned altogether—the Mecca people still allow him at one of their numerous halls—but he's being confined.

War Optimism Upsets Industries Plans

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(CP)—United States government officials are struggling with immediate planning for the smooth reconversion of America's gigantic war industries for peacetime production but they are handicapped by the necessity of guarding against misleading the public into a belief that the war is virtually over.

Some persons favor placing the task of reconversion into the hands of the War Production Board headed by Donald Nelson.

A recommendation has come from the Senate Post-war Economy and Planning Committee that Congress will deal with this problem at once and nominate the procurement agencies for the re-conversion task.

Million Contracts

It is estimated about 1,000,000 contracts would have to be terminated at the end of the war and the senate committee warned that unless there was careful planning now there might be a long period of dislocation and unemployment.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in his address to Congress last week, gave a solemnly-worded warning against too much assurance that the worst is over.

However, the feeling among high placed, practical administrators seems to be that the time has come when the people should be told that ultimate victory is assured providing there is no unjustified let-up of effort, and that planning for a peace at this time is a vital necessity—as vital, as events have proved, as it was to prepare for war when war was so obviously imminent.

Any plans completed now for re-conversion to peace time economy would not be made effective until Germany is conquered but probably would be put into operation in some degree before the final defeat of the Japanese.

Alberta Would Ban Land Sale To Some

CALGARY, Nov. 22 (CP).— The Alberta Association of Municipal Districts Convention Friday unanimously approved a resolution urging the federal government to prohibit purchase of land by Hutterities, Doukhobors and enemy aliens.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to members of Parliament in Western Canada urging them to press for immediate legislation to carry out its demand.

Delegates claimed that Hutterites and Doukhobors were "gobbling up choice farm lands" while Canadian boys were overseas.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, November 23

A SUDDEN development possibly in the way of an unforeseen or unexpected windfall, is read from the predominant astral configurations. This surprise may have a far reaching influence on the life, being an uprooting force, changing plans, environs and destiny as well. While it is of a decidedly progressive and propitious nature, yet it might be well to give a moment's pause for considering pros and cons, lest there be some hidden factors. All phases of life may be involved, social, domestic and romantic, with business to be taken into account before abrupt changes be made. Adventure is in the air.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a strange, exciting and adventurous year in which there may be all sorts of surprises, unforeseen changes, travel, new places, and faces, with generally happy, productive and fortunate developments reaching far into the future. There may be romance and adventure in the emotional life, with travel, change and excitement in business.

A child born on this day should be progressive, inventive, unorthodox in its talents and character, but will enjoy surprising good fortune and happiness in its eventful career.

Indian Chief Meets Sergt. Miller

An Indian wrestler, right off the Reservation, has been added to Tuesday's card under the imposing name of Chief Thundercloud. The Chief is reported to be a solid man in every respect and he should serve as a difficult trial horse for Flight Sergeant Ted Miller. Miller has been hoping for more important bouts here and the result of his battle with the Indian Brave will determine much of his future.

With the Joe Christie-Mike Demetre bout rounding out a big evening, Promoter Frank Tunney announced today that if Whipper Billy Watson decisively beat Jan Gotch, that there is a good chance that he will bring the Whipper back against a formal challenger for the Empire Championship in the near future.

Tunney is appreciative of the way the Peterborough fans are turning out for the matches here and believes still larger crowds are in the making as the game catches on here with the ladies as well as the male fans. The fact that husband and wife or father and daughter, etc., can spend a highly interesting evening together at the wrestling shows is the astute Tunney's idea of resembling a family benefactor.

Says the mat maestro: "In Toronto we not only have a big proportion of ladies in Maple Leaf Gardens, but many of them are 'high society' gals and what's more lots of them make sure that hubby comes along too."

"Furthermore," says the unusually long-winded Tunney, "most of the credit is due to young Whipper Watson." Billy is the finest example of a young clean-cut decent athlete, and although he has had to meet some very tough adversaries in his ring career, he has always conducted himself like a gentleman." Which is quite true, brother Tunney, quite true.

DECORATED—Private Margaret H. Maloney, W.A.C., became the first American woman to be decorated for bravery in the Mediterranean theatre of war. Private Maloney sustained severe burns herself, while preventing the soldier from being fatally burned.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

After the players had visited the grave of Knute Rockne, Notre Dame, unbeaten and untied all season, continued its winning football record Saturday at South Bend with a 14-13 victory over Iowa Pre-flight Naval Cadets. The Irish now hope to wind up the schedule next Saturday without a loss in taking on Great Lakes Naval Training Station, thus duplicating its unbeaten season of 1930 which was Rockne's last coaching year.

The Michigan Wolverines continued to clean up the Mid-west Conference with a 45-7 win over Ohio State for their sixth straight league victory. Purdue managed to lick Indiana 7-0, also winning its sixth successive encounter. In the east, Army trounced Brown 59-0 while Colgate administered a 41-0 shellacking to Columbia and Penn State made it 14-0 against Pittsburgh. Dartmouth came to the fore with a 42-13 triumph against Princeton. Down south Duke was a 27-6 winner over North Carolina and Georgia Tech measured Clemson 41-6. On the Pacific coast, College of the Pacific coached by Alonzo Stagg, had decided to call it a season and the match with San Francisco was called off.

Italians Win

Italian soldiers yesterday won a victory on American soil yesterday, but it was only a soccer game and the players had been captured in Sicily. The match which resulted 4-1, was played at a Fort Benning, Ga., internment camp against a U.S. Army team before a crowd of soldiers and prisoners.

Francisco Segura of Ecuador, who made an impression in U.S. tennis circles last summer, yesterday bowed to Don McNeill, American court champion of 1940 in the Argentine championship final at Buenos Aires. McNeill is naval attache at the U.S. Embassy here.

Best In East

Halifax Navy really turned it on Saturday in an exhibition football game in the coast city when they walloped Toronto Navy 18-1. An eye-witness, Alex Hayes, former captain of the Sarnia Imperials, declared the Haligonians, coached by Lieut. Tiny Herman, could take anything in Ontario.

After 13 years with the Detroit Tigers, pitcher Tommy Bridges Saturday was ordered to report to Fort Sheridan, Ill., Dec. 11, to enter the U.S. Army, the move probably bringing his twirling career to a finish. Bridges is 37, married and has a daughter.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

DUPLICATE VS. RUBBERS

EVERY SKILLED devotee of match-point duplicate knows that he should not reach out to bid a game, as he would do in rubber bridge, unless he thinks the chances of making the game are at least even. In rubbers, the same players would extend themselves to seek the game, even if the odds were about 2 to 1 against them. In play of the hands, though, on both the offense and defense, there are not nearly so many players who understand clearly the main ways where match-point duplicate differs from rubber play.

Remember, in such a duplicate, you are interested only in comparative scores—how your result compares with those on the same deals at other tables. If you are the declarer on a hand, after the dummy goes down, and before you complete your plan of play, estimate, as best you can, what will be the contract at most of the other tables. Then act thus:

1. If you decide that most are in the same contract as you, plan to play in the soundest possible way, both to make the contract and score extra tricks.

2. If you decide you are in a contract which will give you a very fine score if you make it, and a bad one if you don't, bend every energy to making it, taking all necessary chances, but no unnecessary ones, and making any possible safety play.

3. If you decide you are in a bad contract, and your only chance to equal the others is by extra tricks, go the limit on long chances to get them.

4. If you decide the others probably are in a game, whereas you are not, and your only chance for a good score will be if they get defeated, bend every energy to make your contract safely, forgetting extra tricks, so that if they get set you will outscore them in match-points, with a plus against their minus.

5. If you are in a No Trump game, and see they probably will play in a major and make it, you must exert every resource to score an extra trick, beating them by 10 points, as merely scoring your game will enable them to best you by 20 points.

6. If you are the victim of an unusual lead, probably not made against the others, which costs you a trick, try to pick up an offsetting trick in some way.

When you are playing on the defense, try to make the same sort of estimates, but begin doing it the best you can even before an opening lead.

Turkey Shows Friendship To The Allies

By WILLIAM B. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ANKARA, Nov. 19 (Delayed) — (AP). — The Allied Governments have definitely won their diplomatic battle in Turkey and as a result that formally-neutral, but pro-Allied country, now is giving the United Nations all help short of war.

No longer are the badgering appeals and threats of German Ambassador Franz Von Papen sufficient to persuade Turkey to sway from its non-belligerent policy. Instead the policy of the government is frankly—though unofficially—to help the Allies quietly in its non-belligerent role.

This is a policy which has the endorsement of the Turkish people even though they realize it may lead to active participation in the war against the Axis powers or even to sudden attack by them.

The real story of how this diplomatic battle was won, of how German schemes were blocked in 11th hour moves, of how Turkey, whose President shares the idealism of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, was finally won over completely to the Allied side, is another of those stories which can not be detailed until after the war.

But proof of the victory lies in the ever-growing help Turkey is freely giving the Allies and will be further proved in probable future developments.

Canadians Run Hotel Near Front Line

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With Canadian Forces in Italy, Nov. 10 (delayed) — (CP) — Capt. Forbes Thrasher, former manager of the Lord Nelson Hotel, Halifax, and assistant manager of the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, is doing the same work in the army, managing a 32-room leave hotel for officers in "Canada Town" and finding it a lot more difficult than looking after 200 or 1,200 room places with great staffs.

The hotel the officer is running with the help of Sgt.-Maj. R. M. Clarke who used to be in the restaurant business in Vulcan, Alta., and a staff of 18 Italians, has had its name changed from tongue-twisting Grande Albergo Del Grece to the simpler and more familiar Royal York. It's doing more business than it ever did under the old regime and is giving Thrasher a few more grey hairs.

To begin with, Thrasher has only a limited knowledge of Italian. The Italians know evenless English and just stare at him when he tries to explain what he wants done.

He has been having trouble in the kitchen, too, trying to acquaint the staff with the eating customs of Canadians.

"The chef cannot understand our breakfast at all," he said. "Oatmeal is a mystery to him and the size of our breakfast amazes him. The tea habit is beyond his comprehension. However, he is a resourceful fellow and things are beginning to work out satisfactorily."

The kitchens have produced some tasty meals. Thresher has scouts all around the country buying turkeys, pork, eggs, fresh vegetables and fruit. Good wines are available.

The beds are comfortable and clean and that's what counts after a long spell at the front lines.

Presentation Made To Elgin Boy

HASTINGS, Nov. 22 — (ENS). —The bingo party which was held at the Elgin School, sponsored by the ladies of Elgin Red Cross, was attended by a fairly large crowd.

There were three special prizes, Mrs. Roy Scott winning two of them, a floor rug and a fancy quilt, Albert Thistlewaite, winning the card table. All prizes were donated by the local ladies. During the evening tickets were sold on a fancy quilt which brought the Red Cross around $6.00. The lucky draw on the quilt was won by Mrs. Willis Preston.

The main feature of the evening was the presentation, when LAC. Gerald Metcalfe of Toronto, was asked to come forward. Charlie Waters read a very appropriate address while Albert Thistlewaite presented Gerald with a gold signet ring with the R.C.A.F. crest on it.

He had been ill only a few weeks. Mr. Harris was a prominent figure in the Navy League of Canada and a past president of the Ontario division and Dominion council. He lived at 189 Dunvegan Rd.

Born in Lindsay, Ont., of English-Scotch ancestry, Mr. Harris came to Toronto as a young man and became interested in the development of the lithographing industry. Forty-three years ago he founded the company of which he was president and active as manager at the time of his death.

One-time president of the Toronto Employers' Association, he became associated with the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, serving on several committees and as a representative of the association on the board of the Canadian National Exhibition. Victim's Sister Suggests Murder

TORONTO, Nov. 22 (CP). — A coroner's jury decided Saturday that Frederick Stewartson hanged himself in a Toronto police station October 31.

The jury said evidence indicated death was self-inflicted, although Mrs. Stewartson, widow of the victim, and Mrs. Retta Woodhouse, his sister, declared on the witness stand: "He didn't commit suicide—he was murdered."

Police officers testified Stewartson was arrested on a careless driving charge following collision of an automobile and street car. Sgt. William Trim said Stewartson "didn't appear to be depressed and when I found him suspended from the cell I couldn't have been more surprised if it had been my own father."

Western Pioneer Dies In Edmonton

EDMONTON, Nov. 22 (CP3). — Mrs. Lovisa Jane McDougall, 89, widow of John A. McDougall, and one of a small group of covered-wagon pioneers of Canada, died at her home here yesterday.

Married in 1878 at her birthplace, Cannington, Ont., Mrs. McDougall and her husband started immediately on their trip west. They travelled by boat from Collingwood, Ont., to Duluth, Minn., by train to Fisher's Landing, now Fargo, N.D., by steamboat to Winnipeg on the Red river and by covered wagon to Edmonton. The Winnipeg-Edmonton trip took three months.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 22 (AP) — The Hamburger Fremdnblatt, received here today, says Gestapo Chief Henrich Himmler has decreed Germans may no longer ask police or the courts for help in cases of small thefts or other minor complaints "because the police have no time to bother with such matters in war time."

Quilting Engages Belmont W.I. Group

HAVELOCK, Nov. 22.—(ENS). — There was a good attendance at the Belmont Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon. Two large quilts were finished after the business meeting. The president, Mrs George Hartin, presided. The motto, 'There is a welcome on the mat,' was read by Miss Iva Smith. The answer to the roll call was 'Ways of serving eggs with the recipe.' The branch will apply for the $3.00 Legislative grant this year, which is to be used for educational purposes.

Mrs. Harry Scott and Mrs. C. Kennedy were named as a special quilt committee to make arrangements for the eleven new quilts on order. Although a canvass of the township for blood donors has not been made, four ladies have volunteered to go as soon as transportation is arranged.

During the winter months the branch has decided to hold all day quiltings on Institute day and to dispense with programs at the meetings.

Woman Hides Lover For 16 Months

LONDON, Nov. 22 (CP). — A story of a 33-year-old woman who hid a lover for 16 months in a coffin-like space—11 feet by 3 under her parlor came out of Chelmsford court today. By the official account related in court, the secret was so well kept that the husband never suspected.

But, the court was told, the lover suspected that three other men also were friendly with the woman. He emerged and the police seized him on a charge of desertion from the French Army.

The woman was sentenced to a month in jail for helping to conceal a deserter.

Jap Repatriate Sounds Warning

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP). — The American fighting spirit "cannot be underestimated," a Japanese repatriate told a Tokyo mass meeting yesterday.

The Japanese radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, reported the meeting.

The repatriate, Michio Ito, said the American spirit is higher than at the outbreak of war and he cited as an illustration American students volunteering in the air forces, high school students aiding in farming and women working in war factories.

The gathering was described as a "hate-the-enemy" meeting.

2 Appointments On Army Staff

OTTAWA, Nov. 22 (CP). — Defence Headquarters announced today appointment of Maj.-Gen. S. C. M. Archibald of the British Army as Director-General of a new directorate of anti-aircraft defence and of Col. Herbert R. Alley, 51, of Toronto, as chief of a new directorate of the Veterans Guard of Canada.

Gen. Archibald is on loan to the Canadian Army and arrived in Ottawa last December to submit recommendations in connection with Canada's anti-aircraft defences. Previously he had commanded an anti-aircraft defence in the defence of Britain.

In his new post he will act as adviser to the general staff on anti-aircraft matters, entailing inspection and supervision of training and operational efficiency of all anti-aircraft units in Canada. He will also act as liaison officer with the R.C.A.F. in respect to air co-operation.

Col. Alley has been officer administering the Veterans Guard since 1940. Formation of the new directorate was to simplify administration of the Corps, defence headquarters said, and to give the Guard "more autonomy."

Canadians To Join 8th Army Under Montgomery Reinforcing First Division

Tough Infantrymen Trained Perfectly For Type Of Fighting Facing Allied Units Along Adriatic

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 23—(CP Cable).—The Canadian corps now formed in Italy will probably fight as part of the British 8th Army when it goes into the line. It is no secret that Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery is an extremely strong supporter of Canadian troops, and it is likely that the commander of the 8th Army was one of the first persons to urge the Allied command to form a Canadian corps in Italy.

Now that the corps has been formed it seems hardly likely that they will not be under his command. If Lt.-Gen. I. D. G. Crerar, commander of the Canadian 1st Corps in Britain, is commanding the Canadian Corps in Italy it is logical he would work with Gen. Montgomery, for they were close friends in England, and Gen. Montgomery has expressed great admiration for Gen. Crerar's leadership.

Since the start of the war Gen. Crerar has been, in turn, senior officer at Canadian military headquarters in London, chief of the general staff at Ottawa, a divisional commander in Britain and commander of the 1st Corps.

With a corps in Italy, the Canadian army is going to make one of its big efforts there but other equally well-trained Canadian formations in Britain are slated for important tasks in the invasion of western Europe.

It now appears that the Canadian Army is not going to confine itself merely to one campaign. A large commitment has been made in the Mediterranean theatre but for four years Canadian leaders have had their eyes on Western Europe and it is in this second-front campaign that contributions may be even greater than in the south.

Disclosure that a Canadian corps now is in Italy would indicate at least another division was included in the recent large contingent to arrive there. This would still leave some divisions in England and a large number of corps and army troops and base installations.

Disclosure that the Canadian forces in the Mediterranean theatre were being expanded into a corps to operate under Canadian command, was made in a dispatch written November 13 by William Stewart, Canadian Press war correspondent in Italy, but released by censorship only after the Allied communique announced the arrival of a "large number" of Canadian troops.

The Canadian forces which fought in Sicily are known to have comprised the 1st Division and the tank brigade. Since it now is known that a corps is being formed it is logical to assume that a corps headquarters was included among the force whose arrival was announced yesterday.

Morrison Faces Heckling On Mosley Issue

By ROGER GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(AP).—Home Secretary Herbert Morrison, sharply heckled by some members, to-day described Sir Oswald Mosley, British Fascist leader, as a "man who stands for a doctrine almost universally detested in this country," but took full responsibility for Mosley's release on the grounds of ill health.

As he spoke in the House of Commons a noisy crowd of at least 1,000 war workers besieged the doors of Parliament, shouting 'Mosley to go back to jail." Police reinforcements were called to handle the swelling ranks of demonstrators.

Sir Oswald and Lady Mosley were released last week from detention in Holloway prison where they had been held since June, 1940. Mosley led the British Union of Fascists until he was placed in custody.

For the most part the government benches to-day supported Morrison's explanation of the granting of freedom to Britain's No. 1 Fascist.

Some Disagree.

There were cries of dissent when Cmdr. Oliver Locker-Lampson, Conservative, asked: "Is not Sir Oswald

Slav Partisans Score Victories

LONDON, Nov. 23 — (AP). — Yugoslav Partisans are fighting a successful defensive action against Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel's intensified drive in Bosnia and Montenegro while scoring local victories in Serbia, a Yugoslav Liberation Army communique said to-day.

More than 600 Germans and Quislings were killed and wounded in one Bosnian battle, while several enemy thrusts were repulsed with equally heavy losses, the war bulletin reported. One mixed column of Germans and Chetniks was annihilated, it was asserted.

Rommel, launching his offensive from Prijepolje and Brodorevo in Northern Montenegro was apparently attempting to break through to German-held territory on the Dalmatian coast and in Northwestern Croatia and Slovenia.

The Germans suffered one of their most stinging reverses, when after 19 days of sharp fighting in Northern Bosnia, they were compelled to fall back on the town of Brcko, 85 miles west of Belgrade. All their efforts to break through toward Bjelina and Pracanica failed, the Yugoslavs said, and they suffered severe losses in killed and wounded.

Fire At Petawawa Destroys Three Huts

PEMBROKE, Ot., Nov. 23—(CP)—A fire which started from a furnace explosion late at night destroyed three Royal Canadian Artillery huts at nearby Petawawa military camp last Tuesday and 30 officers lost all their personal belongings, but no one was injured, it was reported here today.

Military authorities declined information on the fire pending the report of a court of inquiry.

Sailor Prisoner Gets Home

Served In Merchant Marine For 17 Years

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 (CP) —If his wife has anything to say about it, Able Seaman John Butchart of Wiarton, Ont., isn't going back to sea for a long time. Butchart, a veteran of 17 years service with the Canadian Merchant Marine, has just returned to Canada after more than 3½ years in a German prison camp following his capture in the Indian Ocean by an enemy raider he believed was the German pocket battleship Admiral Scheer.

He was among the 2,500 British, Canadian and American prisoners of war repatriated in the recent exchange with Germany.

His wife and 12-year-old son John, Junior, came back to Canada with him and it's hard to say which was the happiest to get home. Butchart's family went to Britain just before the war to be somewhere near him—because incidentally he hadn't been home in nearly seven years before his repatriation.

Butchart was aboard a Canadian Merchant, the Canadian Cruiser, bound for South Africa when she was attacked.

After two weeks aboard the enemy warship they were transferred to a German prison camp and taken into Bordeaux four weeks later and then to the prison camp.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 — (AP).—David Warsen was perched atop a ladder in a garage when five tube-like objects plummeted 10 feet down from above, bounced on the concrete floor, then lay still. General Patton Strikes Shocked Veteran

ALGIERS, Nov. 23 — (AP). — It was disclosed officially to-day that Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton had apologized to all officers and men of the American 7th Army for striking a soldier during the Sicilian campaign.

At the same time Allied Headquarters said that correspondents might reveal all of the facts they knew of the incident which since last August has been one of the main subjects of discussion among soldiers in this theatre.

While Patton was not relieved of his command of the 7th Army and was not given a formal reprimand, he received a castigation from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower such as has seldom been administered to a commander of an army.

The story is a strange one— the story of a general who in the heat of battle lost his temper and later admitted he was wrong and made amends.

The incident consisted of this, according to eye-witnesses:

Gen. Patton slapped a shell-shocked soldier in a hospital tent because he thought the soldier was shirking his duty.

The incident occurred early in August when the Sicilian campaign was in one of its most critical periods.

Patton visited the evacuation hospital and went among the wounded, trying to cheer them. He patted some on the back, sympathizing with them.

Soldier Crying.

He then came upon a 24-year-old soldier sitting on a cot with his head buried in his hands, weeping.

"What's the matter with you?" Patton asked, according to persons who were in the hospital tent at the time.

The soldier mumbled an inaudible reply. Patton repeated his question.

"It's my nerves. I guess I can't stand shelling," the boy was quoted as replying.

Patton thereupon burst into a rage. Employing much profanity, he called the soldier a "coward," "yellow belly," and numerous other epithets, according to those present. He ordered the soldier back to the front.

The scene attracted several persons, including the commanding officer of the hospital, the doctor who had admitted the soldier and a nurse.

In a fit of fury in which he expressed sympathy for men really wounded but made it plain that he did not believe that the soldier before him was in that class, the general struck the youth in the rear of the head with the back of his hand.

Capital Takes Record Blow Bomber Crews Report Sea Of Fire And Explosions

26 Bombers Missing, 4 Canadian Cloud Formation Heavy No Enemy Fighters Oppose Raiders

By ROBERT STURDEVANT—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 23—(AP).—In the heaviest aerial bombardment in history, the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. engulfed Berlin last night with fire and devastating explosive thundered down from 1,000 bombers. First-hand accounts from Berlin correspondents of Stockholm newspapers told graphically how destruction ran through the heart of the city, wrecking government buildings and foreign legations.

"Berlin never can recover from this blow," the Aftontidningen quoted its sources as saying.

Industrial areas still burning from the heavy raid last Thursday night were smashed again. Strong formations of daylight bombers roared across the English Channel to add further weight to the growing Allied effort to wreck the Reich by aerial assaults.

Lancaster and Halifax squadrons of the R.C.A.F. joined in the massive bombing attack, delivering for their part what was described in a Canadian communique as the "heaviest attack yet made on the German capital."

Reports reaching Stockholm said the mighty blasting of Berlin was heavier than even the greatest raid ever launched on demolished Hamburg.

The great avalanche of bombs landed on a city, parts of which still were smouldering from the big raid of last Thursday.

All the districts of the city of 5,000,000 as well as the suburbs were damaged and particularly heavy devastation occurred in the centre of the capital near Unter den Linden, Alexander Platz, and Fredrichstrasse, said a Zurich dispatch to the Stockholm Aftontidningen.

Tonnage dropped on the Nazi capital probably exceeded the previous record weight of 2300 tons loosed over Hamburg in the last big raid in August on that German port and probably was more than five times the weight ever aimed at London during the blitz.

Mosquitoes Out Too.

Twenty-six bombers were lost in the great Berlin raid and subsidiary operations which included Mosquito bomber attacks on western Germany and mine-laying in enemy waters. Four Canadian planes are missing.

Berlin to-day is covered by a huge black cloud of smoke, Swedish correspondents reported.

"We have had horrible hours," messaged the Stockholm Aftonbladget correspondent from Berlin. "Berlin burned through the night. Great sections of dwelling quarters, including workmen's, are a flaming sea of fire. A great number of government buildings were hit."

It was unofficially estimated in London that the bomb load dumped on Berlin last night raised the total weight loosed on the German capital thus far in 1943 to around 10,000 tons, compared to the 7,500 tons dropped on London during the Battle of Britain when the heaviest raid was 450 tons.

Berlin had been the target for bomb tonnage which in each of the last two raids was at least equal to that dropped on all of Britain by the German Air Force in the past 16 months.

Hit Heart of City

Swedish dispatches detailing the last night damage in Berlin said the centre of the city suffered heavily. Several foreign legations and embassies in the diplomatic quarter, including the Swedish legation, were burned to the ground the Aftonbladet's correspondent reported.

The diplomatic quarter is locater along the Tiergarten not far from the Reich's chancellery and other government buildings.

The Berlin office of the Aftonbladet, located in Pariser Platz Seven at Brandenburger Tor and across the street from the United States embassy, was destroyed.

The Swiss radio said windows were smashed in the Swiss legation and adjoining offices handling business of Allied interests abroad were damaged.

"Berlin never can recover from this blow," the Aftontidningen quoted its sources as declaring.

It listed the following districts damaged:

Siesmenstadt, where the great Sismens Electrical Works are located; Spandau, Wilmersdorf, Neukoeln, Lichtenberg, Pankow. Many of these areas were hard hit by previous raids.

Communication between Stockholm and Berlin was difficult today. First reports said transport in many sections of Berlin was broken down and electricity and gas services interrupted.

The Aftonbladget correspondent said the work of clearing away debris was difficult, indicating the Berlin authorities were not equipped to handle such widespread destruction.

This already had been shown in an official order directing the owners of elevators, bulldozers and other machinery which could be used in emergencies to report them immediately to the air raid precaution authorities of the capital.

"Everything possible" is being used to extinguish the fires, said the Aftontidningen.

10,000 Persons Dead

The Aftontidningen gave a preliminary estimate of 10,000 persons dead and injured. Berlin admitted "a very large number" killed and injured.

There were two attacks, said the Stockholm Aftonbladet correspondent. The first came early, and when the all clear was given people swarmed from shelters. They hardly had reached the streets when the sirens howled a second time. Thus many were trapped outside shelters and the casualty toll mounted.

A fleet of nearly 1,000 R.A.F. and

Pearl Barrage

WINDSOR, N.S., Nov. 23 (CP).—When Mrs. Hedley Brown opened a 23-cent can of clams she got more than the makings of a chowder. Nineteen pearls, varying in size from an eighth of an inch to 'seed pearl' proportions, were clinging to the clams. Mrs. Brown used one to replace a missing pearl from a ring and the rest will help her with her Christmas shopping, she said.

Murder Hearing Laid Over Until Monday

The preliminary inquiry into the murder charge against Mrs. Elizabeth Hubert will be staged in the local Police Court on Monday morning next.

The 46-year-old Douro Township woman, who is charged with having shot and killed her 41-year-old husband on Saturday night, was arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Police Court on Monday afternoon.

Although the doors were open, there was no one in the spectators' seats. Only police, newspapermen, and the court officials were in the room.

The proceedings were very brief. Mrs. Hubert spoke only once when in answer to a question from the Magistrate as to whether she were married she replied in a low voice "Yes."

Magistrate Langley read the formal charge of murder.

"As I have no power to try this charge, I am not going to ask you to plead," he informed the woman.

"I am asking for a remand until Monday next," said Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., and His Worship announced that there would be a remand until 10 o'clock on the morning of November 29.

Mrs. Hubert was later taken to the County Jail to be held for the preliminary inquiry. She showed no sign of agitation as she stood in the docket and heard the dread charge read by the Magistrate.

Among those present at the short hearing were Inspector Harry Storey of the Ontario Provincial Police, Belleville, who had been in charge of the investigation and to whom Mrs. Hubert pointed out the hiding-place of a .22 calibre rifle and Inspector W. H. Lougheed of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the Ontario Provincial Police, Toronto, who came to Peterborough to take a hand in the solving of the case and arrived just in time to hear the woman arraigned.

Two Danes Executed Hangar Blown To Bits

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 23 — (AP). —Soon after the Germans announced the execution of two Danes, a hangar filled with planes was blown up by saboteurs in Copenhagen last night, reports from Denmark said to-day.

The resulting fire was said to have destroyed the hangar. A half hour later a chocolate factory in Copenhagen also was reported set afire.

One of the Danes was said to have been executed for knocking down a German soldier; the other for sabotage.

Stonewall Soviet Defences Block New Thrusts By Reinforced Hun Units

Nazi Forces Launch Several Sorties Seeking Weak Spots Along Entire 600-Mile Front

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 23—(AP).—Probing in vain for a soft spot in the Red Army lines west of Kiev, the Germans yesterday shifted their counter-attacks further to the north.

Strong forces of enemy troops, heavily supported by tanks and planes, were reported attacking in strength in the Chernyakov sector, 15 miles north-west of Korostychev, at the same time continuing to exert pressure in the Korostyshev area.

After recapturing Zhitomir, only to come up against stonewall Russian defences at Korostyshev, Field Marshal Fritz Von Mannstein launched a fierce drive against Chernyakov. This too, crumbled in the face of determined Red Army resistance.

Hold Junctions

The Germans appeared to be striving to clear their lateral communications on the Leningrad-Odessa railway, but Soviet forces were still holding two important junctions further to the north, Korsten and Ovruch, and the German armies in White Russia and the Ukraine were still as far apart as ever.

The Red Army continued its own offensives on widely separated sectors north and south of the Kiev bulge. Advances were registered southwest of Dnepropetrovsk, south of Kremenchug, on the lower reaches of the Pripet river, west of Rechitsa and north of beleaguered Gomel, anchor of the German line in the north.

War Department Backs Up Oil Development

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP).—The United States War Department stuck to its guns to-day on the $130,000,000 Canol oil project in North-west Canada, which Interior Secretary Harold Ickes has said "ought to be junked now."

Robert P. Patterson, Under-Secretary of War, described the program—designed to provide gasoline and other petroleum products for American forces in Alaska and Canada—as "a bold undertaking" of which the War Department "is proud" and James H. Graham, special assistant to Patterson, said war needs justified it.

They testified before the Senate War Investigating Committee, which heard Ickes' views yesterday. Ickes, Petroleum Administrator for War, said he had not been consulted about the project, for which the United States is footing the bill.

"I never consider costs in time of war," Graham testified in standing by his recommendation in favor of the Canol development, consisting of development of oil fields at Fort Norman, N.W.T., a pipe line to White Horse, Yukon, and removal of an aviation refinery from Texas to White Horse.

Spared No Cost.

Asserting there was no time to get estimates of manpower and material requirements, Graham declared:

"Gentlemen, there was a war going on and there still is a war going on. I've been taught not to consider costs in time of war."

The witness said he was a $1-a-year adviser to Lt.-Gen. Brehon Somervell at the time the recommendation was made.

Compare Costs Floating Loans

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 23 (CP Cable)—Prime Minister Curtin today issued a statement replying to criticism of Australia's methods of raising war loans and comparison of these methods with those of Canada.

Mr. Curtin said that Canada spent 21 to 22 shillings per £100 compared with Australia's costs of three shillings sixpence to five shillings per £100 in war loans.

"During loan periods, Canada uses 18,000 to 20,000 commissioned bond salesmen drawn from real estate life insurance, financial and trust companies, and the stock exchange," Mr. Curtin said.

"These men are paid. In Australia a maximum of 250 paid persons is employed outside the permanent loan organization. Canada makes a strong feature of canvassing among service personnel and obtains thousands of loan applications therefrom.

"In Australia the loan organization is not permitted to canvass service men so that the appeal is only to 6,500,000 people."

The Prime Minister also called attention to the publicity facilities in Canada which he said are not available here owing to shortage of newsprint.

British Troops Abandon Samos

CAIRO, Nov. 23.—(AP).—A special Middle East communique announced to-day that British troops had been evacuated from the Island of Samos several days ago.

The communique said "All British and Greek and a proportion of Italian troops have been evacuated without loss from Samos together with a large portion of the civil population. This evacuation was carried out several days ago."

The German High Command communique to-day claimed that 6,000 troops were made prisoners on the Samos and said those evacuated had gone to a neutral country, presumably Turkey.

The Allied communique said that patrol and harassing operations in the Aegean sea by Allied forces continues.

TORONTO, Nov. 23—(CP)—The Ontario Liquor Control Board today issued a statement announcing that gallonage of beer available for sale in hotels and clubs would be sharply restricted while quantities available for individual purchasers in brewers retail stores would be cut from 36 to 24 pints a month.

Americans Seek to Lure Jap Fleet Out

Japs Show Little Desire To Match Naval Strength Against Nimitz

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press War Analyst

The American landings on Makin, Tarawa and Abemama in the Gilbert Archipelago constitute the most ringing challenge of the war to the Japanese navy to come out and fight. It is fairly obvious that Admiral Nimitz, in the campaign now well launched against Japan's equatorial line of "unsinkable aircraft carriers," hoped for much more than the successive reduction of these island posts. Perhaps even above the objective of the seizure of the great naval base of Truk, some 1,600 statute miles to west of the current battlegrounds, he placed the hope of shaming or compelling the enemy grand fleet under Admiral Koga to give battle.

Would Decide War

Whether this can be done at this stage remains highly doubtful. It is more than a year now since the Japanese have risked any of their capital ships in gun to gun combat. The taste they received in those blazing night battles off Guadalcanal last November of the hitting power of the new American ships and the aggressiveness of the tactic with which they are fought apparently has taken the edge off the Japanese appetite for any more of the same.

The Japanese seem to know that if Koga's main fleet were drawn into a showdown fight at this stage it probably would be one of those battles which decide the fate of empires. They have shown little desire of recent months to stake great issues on a single throw.

Early accounts of the battle of the Gilberts indicate that once more Admiral Nimitz has gathered a force capable of dealing with anything the enemy might be willing to offer. Battleships, aircraft carriers and cruisers supported the landings, and it is safe to assume that the concentration of American striking power in that area is more than sufficient to deal with any eventuality or rise to any opportunity.

Promise To Lord

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 23 —(AP).—A promise to the Lord, Superior Judge Fred Witt rules, is stronger than the statute of limitations. A debtor, asked that a 1931 note be outlawed. Judge Witt denied the request after he read, in a 1939 letter from debtor to creditor: "I promised the Lord some time back with his help to at least pay the principal."

U.S. Taking Direct Route

Gilbert Raids Start Of Campaign

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 —(AP)—Landings by American Marines on three islands in the Gilbert group were described today by Frank Knox, United States Navy Secretary, as the "beginning of a new campaign against Japan from the Central Pacific on a much more direct route toward Japan."

He said two principal strategic objectives were ahead in the campaign, first to drive the Japanese out of the mandated islands and second to shorten by hundreds of miles American supply lines to the Southwest Pacific.

When the Marines gained control after battling the Japs from Tarawa, Makin and Abemama, the supply lines, Knox said, can be drawn on a much shorter and more direct line.

The effect of the shortened supply route, he said, will be the same as adding many ships to the job of carrying men and supplies to the Southwest Pacific.

Knox said both Tarawa and Makin were "badly mauled" by bombing planes before the Marines moved in. He described as "diversionary" aerial attacks at the same time on enemy positions in the nearby Marshall Islands.

U.S. Invades 3rd Atoll; Japs Retreat

Ground Fighting Severe On Three Islands

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 23—(AP). —United States Marines have swiftly expanded the four-day-old offensive in the equatorial Gilberts by landing on a third even as Japanese defenders continued to put up a fierce fight while falling back from the beaches on the other two.

The fact that the new amphibious operation on Abemama Atoll was announced by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz yesterday a day after he disclosed Saturday's initial landings on Makin and Tarawa indicated powerful supporting naval forces remained in the sector.

The broadening of the wedge being driven into Japan's mid-Pacific outpost defences was described in six words: "We have landed on Abemama Atoll."

On Tarawa, which is 80 miles northwest of Abemama, and on Makin, still farther north, "our troops have improved their positions ...but are still encountering considerable ground resistance," another bulletin said.

(These operations were integrated with others to the southwest. In the Solomons the opposing air forces exchanged blows around the American beachhead on Bougainville; on the Huon Peninsula of New Guinea, Australians and tanks bored to within half a mile of Japanese plateau defences in the jungles which are strategic because they overlook the Allied positions.)

15 Islands.

The investment of the Gilberts, a group of more than 15 atolls embracing 166 square miles, would push the Allies more than 700 miles northwest of the Ellice Islands and place a menacing flanking force just south of the Marshalls.

The central Pacific operations are being directed by Vice-Admiral Raymond A. Spruance who thus holds a newly-created naval command. The amphibious forces are commanded by Rear-Admiral Richard Kelly Turner.

Vice-Admiral John H. Hoover commands both army and navy ground-based aircraft.

The commander of the landing forces is Maj.-Gen. Holland Smith, U.S.M.

(In addition to the progress in the southwest Pacific by the Australians, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today reported the destruction or damage of 19,000 tons of enemy shipping by bombing planes over a sector ranging from the Acoe Islands north of Australia, across Dutch New Guinea, New Britain to New Ireland.)

Sea Of Flames Engulfs Berlin

By GLADWIN HILL
(Associated Press Correspondent Representing the Combined American Press).
Distributed by The Canadian Press.

AT AN R.A.F. BOMBER BASE IN THE MIDLANDS, Nov. 23 — (AP). — Berlin was a great sea of flames and explosions which even through a solid cloud overcast could be seen for 70 miles by fliers returning last night from what was probably the Allies' heaviest attack of the war.

The fliers, some of whom went through the London blitz and were getting their first chance to give it back to the German capital, commented that they didn't see how the city could hold out under many such bombardments.

And their success in executing the raid, despite what once were regarded as impossible conditions, pointed to only one thing: The raids are going to be continued probably in constantly-increasing force until Berlin and the Germans are through.

Mussolini Suicides Unconfirmed Report

LONDON, Nov. 23. — A Reuters news agency despatch from Stockholm last night said that, according to the Zurich correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter, travellers arriving in Switzerland reported Benito Mussolini, former Italian Premier, committed suicide yesterday at his Lake Garda villa.

Mussolini arrived at his villa a few days ago in an extremely nervous state, the correspondent reported. Specialists were summoned from Rome, but they were too late and the former dictator killed himself in a fit of depression.

A third appointment was that of Air Commodore Viscount Stansgate as Vice-president of the Economic and Administrative Section of the Control Commission for Italy.

Harold Caccia was appointed Acting Vice-president of the Political Section of the Control Commission for Italy. He has been a member of MacMillan's staff at Algiers.

Duff Cooper resigned from the Government post of Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster last week to take the post of representative to the French Committee. He has held several Governmental positions, including First Lord of the Admiralty and War Secretary.

Company Denies Employees High Pressured

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP)—Denial that the Employees Council in the Kingston plant of the Aluminum Company of Canada was dominated by the Company was made in Ontario Labor Court today by L. J. McVittey, chairman of the Council.

McVittey was one of three witnesses to be heard as the hearing of the Council's application before Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland for certification as Collective Bargaining Agent in the plant was resumed. There are two interveners in the case—the Aluminum Workers of America (C.I.O.) and the International Association of Machinists.

Patrick Foy, president of the A.W.A. local and also a member of the Council, was asked by Salter Hayden, Company counsel, whether he was serving on the Council as a spy for the union.

"No, I wasn't," said Foy. "I was elected to the Council."

Foy said that he saw no conflict between the two positions and that those who elected him knew his position with the Union. He agreed the Council had done some good work, its outstanding achievement being in "getting the cost-of-living bonus."

W. M. Nickle, acting for the Council, read from the minutes of an A.W.A. meeting an item dealing with co-operative action between the A.W.A. and the I.A.M. in the event of a vote in the plant. He asked if the two Unions had an agreement to "put the Employees Council out of business."

Foy said there was no such agreement.

Margaret Jeffery, representative of the women employees on the Council, said she had been a member of the Union, having joined after a Union organizer called repeatedly at her home and told her that if she didn't join the union her job wouldn't be worth anything.

Somervell issued the directive for the project.

"It was justified on the grounds of military necessity alone," Graham told the committee. "As economic proposition, the whole thing was cock-eyed from the beginning."

Patterson testified that the results so far have "surpassed our hopes," and that "twenty barrels a day is now assured.

"We already have uncovered an estimated pool of fifty to one hundred million barrels. But for our action, this would not have been discovered.

"Had our endeavor been unsuccessful, it have been a setback to us. But we should not have been censured for having tried."

3 Canadians Out Of 20 Escaped Japs

Written For The Canadian Press
By A. R. FORD

MILDURA, Australia, Nov. 23 — (CP Cable)—One of the most amazing histories of the war was extracted by me last night from the reluctant memory of Flying Officer Tom Watson of the R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Watson of Vernon, B.C.

One of three R.C.A.F. air crew men known to have operated from Australian bases, Watson was unwilling to tell of his adventures since joining the R.C.A.F. in 1940.

Trained at Edmonton and Regina, he was sent to Britain where he was attached to the R.A.F. and then posted to Africa. He was later placed aboard a British aircraft carrier equipped with Canadian-made Hurricanes.

After Japan entered the war the carrier was sent to the South Pacific where Watson and 149 other R.C.A.F. air crew attached to R.A.F. squadrons flew Hurricanes into Singapore.

Only two of the 20 Canadians got out.

Japs Took Base

Watson then operated from bases in the Netherlands East Indies. On one occasion he flew back to the base only to find it held by the Japanese.

He was shot down three times, the last time 150 miles behind the Japanese lines. While escorting, he was wounded by a fifth columnist.

He flew back to Australia in the last ambulance plane to leave his base. Since arrival he has seen action in New Guinea.

The other Canadian who escaped from Singapore was Flt. Lt. Henry Condon (Barney) Barnes of Toronto.

I interviewed Watson in this California - like fruit - growing centre which was founded by the Chaffey family of Brockville, Ont. This family, born Canadians, is revered in all Australian irrigation communities.

The Chaffey brothers, W. B. and George Chaffey, established the Mildura irrigation project in 1897 at the invitation of the Australian government. Previously they started the first Californian dried fruit industry. I met W. B. Chaffey's widow and son here.

Crerar Is Senior

Canadian corps commanders who have served in England are Lt. Gen. Crerar and Lt. Gen. E. W. Sansom. Crerar is the senior.

There was speculation here how the Canadians would be used —independently or as a component of Gen. Montgomery's 8th Army on the left wing of which the Canadians fought through the campaigns in Sicily and Southern Italy.

The Canadians training fitted them to fight any way the military command deems best for the situation. Their action will be the first by a Canadian corps in a battle area since the First Great War ended with Lt. Gen. Sir Arthur Currie in command of the Canadian corps in France.

Although the Italian situation is not exactly similar to the Tunisian campaign last spring when various armies converged on the Germans from different directions Tunisia might be a precedent for the Canadians fighting as an independent unit geared to the 8th Army and the Allied 5th Army through over-all command.

In Tunisia, it was recalled, the American 2nd Corps fought separately in the interior under Lt. Gen. George S. Patton and his deputy, Maj. Gen. Omar N. Bradley while Lt. Gen. Kenneth Anderson's British 1st Army moved along the coast.

IN THE NAVY—The son of the Canadian Minister of Munitions, 21-year-old William Hastings Howe, ABOVE, is serving as a sub-lieutenant aboard the H.M. C.S. Huron, Tribal class destroyer. He is torpedo control officer on the ship.

Veterans Back From Sicily

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 (CP)—Several hundred Canadian fighting men, including veterans of the invasion of Sicily and members of naval and Air Force who saw action on widespread fronts, have arrived back in Canada. Also coming to the Dominion were British war brides and their children, a large draft of British navymen and merchant seamen, R.A.F. personnel, merchant seamen released from German prison camps, civilians from British Ministry of Transport, and a few Canadian civilians.

Majority of the returning Canuck soldiers were invalided back from Britain because of illness or injuries. Other officers an non-commissioned officers have returned for advanced courses or on leaves.

The R.A.F. draft consisted mainly of newly-enlisted aircraftsmen, here to train as air or ground crew. The Navy and Merchant marine men will be redrafted to new ships or other vessels on this side of the Atlantic.

Among the arrivals were Brig.-John Girvan of Toronto, Bruce West of the Wartime Information Board at Ottawa, who had spent six months on official duties at Canada House in London, and R. Y. Karsch, Ottawa photographer widely known for his portraitures of leading Canadian and British figures.

A group of Canadian sailors came home for brief leaves.

Among new citizens of the country were the English wives of Sgt. Alfred Craig of Hamilton, Ont., and Gnr. Wilfred Reynolds of Montreal. Mrs. Craig, who left the English "WAAFS" to marry, came over to join her husband, now training as an officer after four years overseas.

Among soldiers being repatriated to Canada were Pte. Bob Hewitt, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., injured in a motorcycle accident.

MORE ABOUT—
General Patton

The soldier fell over slightly and the liner of his helmet which he was wearing fell off and rolled over the floor of the tent.

A nurse, intent on protecting the patient, made a dive toward Patton but was pulled back by a doctor. The commander of the hospital then intervened.

Patton then went before other patients, still in high temper, expressing his views. He returned to the shell-shocked soldier and berated him again.

The soldier appeared dazed as the incident progressed, but offered to return to the front and tried to rise from his coat.

Patton left the hospital without making further investigation of the case.

Not a Draftee.

The facts concerning the soldier were later ascertained: He was a regular army man who had enlisted before the war. He fought throughout the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns and his record was excellent. He had been diagnosed as a medical case the week previously, but had refused to leave the front and continued on through the strain of battle. He finally was ordered to the hospital by his unit doctor.

After Patton left, the soldier demanded to return to the front. This request was refused at the time, but after a week of rest he was in good shape and returned to his unit at the front.

The incident was reported to Gen. Eisenhower. The commander-in-chief immediately wrote Patton a letter in which he denounced his conduct and ordered him to make amends or be removed from his command.

"The old man certainly took the hide off him," an Allied Headquarters spokesman said.

Patton's conduct then became as generous as it had been furious.

Patton Apologizes.

He apologized to the soldier whom he had struck, to the commander of the hospital and to all those present at the time.

He then went before as many officers and men as could be assembled from each division under his command and repeated his apology.

At the close of the campaign in talking to correspondents, Patton after recounting the history of the Sicilian drive said:

"When these things are happening a commanding general is under great nervous tension. He may do things he may afterward regret. I know a great many people regard me as a—

"But I have patted five soldiers on the back for everyone I have spoken a hard word to. I dealt harshly with a couple of soldiers and was wrong. I am going to apologize to them."

The incident reflected the character of Patton—a general who drives both himself and his men to the very limit in battles, who is highly emotional at times and is given to outbursts when under strain.

But he is regarded by many officers as the best field general in the American army.

Morrison Faces

Mosley Enemy No. 1 and may I ask if he would not have been released if he had not happened to be millionaire? May I ask if the Minister will allow five doctors from this House to examine him?"

Coldly, Morrison replied: "That question with the insulting implication in the midde is hardly worthy of answer."

Morrison said he had consulted his fellow cabinet members before making the decision and declared, "This policy is not based on the expediency of making martyrs of persons who don't deserve the honor but on the general principle that these extraordinary powers of detention without trial must not be used except insofar as they are essential for national security."

Under House Arrest.

He disclosed that Mosley is still restricted to virtual "House arrest" and explained the release on the ground that "I am not prepared to let anyone die in detention unnecessarily."

Morrison said that not only the would-be British Fuehrer but "a large number" of his followers had been released.

"In view of the improvement in our national fortunes it has been possible without endangering national security to release a large number of former members of the British Union (of Fascists) on the ground their detention is not necessary in the present circumstances," the Home Secretary said. He added that the ban on the Union's activities still remains in force.

The improvement in the country's fortunes, he said, would not have been sufficient justification alone for release of Mosley because as Fascist leader "he would have been the last to be released."

But, Morrison said, it was the unanimous opinion of the board of distinguished doctors who examined Mosley that release was essential to check his illness from thrombophlebitis and give any reasonable prospect of recovery from the disease which might cause his death.

Morrison said Mosley would be detained again if he broke any of the restrictions imposed upon him, or if the national situation changed. The restrictions were:

He must reside at a specified country house and not travel more than seven miles from it.

He must report to the police monthly.

He must not associate or communicate with any former British Fascist other than members of his family and his wife's family.

He must not communicate or associate with anyone with the purpose of promoting political activities.

He must not publish anything or make any speeches or give any press interviews.

Lady Mosley was released on the same terms.

Continue To Heckle.

Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee offered to provide time for a general debate on Mosley but the House shouted him down. However, more persistent M.P.'s continued to heckle Morrison.

William Gallacher, the House's only Communist member, termed Morrison's explanation "highly unsatisfactory," and asked: "Can you give another case where there has been so much medical attention, concern and care shown? It was not shown to Terence MacSwiney (hunger-striking Lord Mayor of Cork) or (Mohandas) Gandhi (Indian Nationalist leader.")

"Let me remind Mr. Gallacher who is very indignant that there were very similar arguments against the war by his friends," Morrison replied.

Germans Strike Back At 8th Army Front

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 23.— (AP).— A strong German force launched a sharp counter-attack on the British 8th Army lines northwest of Agnone, but was beaten back after two hours of fighting, official reports from the front disclosed today.

Agnone, in the inland sector of the 8th Army front, was captured Sunday by Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's troops.

At the same time, other 8th Army units chased the enemy from more high ground overlooking Alfedena from the southeast in rugged inland mountain sectors.

United States troops attacked and wiped out a German machine-gun position northwest of Montaquila, also inland, without loss to themselves.

The Allied communique said that less rain fell in the last 24 hours, but the battle front was still a sea of mud and rivers rendering most operations impossible.

On the 5th Army front, British patrols observed movements of enemy forces and near Mount Camino, immediately southwest of the town of Mignano, and Allied artillery laid down a heavy bombardment over the entire zone.

Throughout the central portion of the front, the Germans continued to apply the torch to towns and villages near the front, particularly beyond San Pietro Avellana which is the 8th Army's possession.

In that area, Alfedena and Castel Di Sangro have previously been observed burning as the enemy sought to destroy all facilities and shelter which might be of value to the Allied troops when the Germans are finally compelled to retire.

Although the ground forces were generally bogged down, Allied medium bombers were out over the area north of Rome attacking railway centres and airfields at Foligno, 63 miles northeast of the Italian capital. The mediums were escorted, the communique said, by long-range fighters.

Medium bombers also chalked up hits on a railway bridge at Pessina, and road and railway targets along Italy's east coast were bombed by both mediums and light bombers.

Civitavecchia harbor, north of Rome on the west coast, received a double pounding from fighter-bombers, while railway targets north of Fabriano, 20 miles northeast of Foligno, were attacked.

All types of planes from medium bombers down to fighters, meanwhile, "co-operated in strength with the army, especially in the Lanciano and Fossacesia area," just behind Gen. Montgomery's 8th Army front.

The communique said one Allied plane was missing from these operations and others last night when night bombers attacked two airfields and railway yards near Ciampino, an important railroad town little more than five miles southeast of Rome.

Glow Of Fires Seen 40 Miles

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(CP Cable). —The R.C.A.F. bomber group sent scores of Lancasters and Halifaxes with the R.A.F. last night as the emasculation of German war centres proceeded, with Berlin blazing under its heaviest assault of the war.

Foreshadowing total destruction of the Nazi capital unless the Germans call quits, Britain's black bombers in hundreds circled over the city and dropped tons of explosives and incendiaries that started huge fires and set off great explosions. Bombers were protected by cloud cover and the opposition was probably the lightest of any major raid on Germany.

Wing Cmdr. Bill Newson, D.F.C., of Victoria, B. C., leader of the Iroquois Squadron, said one explosion lit up his entire cockpit while the plane was four minutes away from the target area.

"There were some terrific explosions and the glow of fires could be seen 40 miles away," said Sqdn. Ldr. D. H. Kenney, D.F.C., of Fredericton, N. B., who is making his second tour of operations.

Sgt. H. A. Lavivee, of Timmins, Ont., said huge white blasts exploded all over the target area.

Sgt. Syd Smith, flight engineer, of Lachine, Que., was one of the few airmen reporting an encounter with a fighter. His plane was skippered by Wo. Zalter Ferrier, of Montreal.

"The German came in at about 150 yards," he said. "Sgt. Ed Pridham, of Stayner, Ont., a gunner, gave him a burst and he sheered off."

Flak struck the aircraft piloted by Fo. Gordon White, of Ridgetown, Ont., and knocked out one engine. The plane took a steep evasive dive to escape after the flak rattled inside the plane. It missed both Pos. Kelly, of Montreal, and Irvin Labow, of Beachburg, Ont.

The air craft in which Flt. Sgt. A. Peche of Ottawa, was gunner also ran into heavy flak while on its way home.

"There are 30 holes in the kite," said Peche. "We escaped injury, but one chap had just stepped from his seat for a minute when flak smashed through the fuselage where he had been sitting."

County Roads Termed A Disgrace By Reeve Calder Of Campbellford

COBOURG, Nov. 23 — (ENS) — Fireworks over the county roads administration was indicated as impending during this session when Reeve Charles Calver of Campbellford told the counties council of Northumberland and Durham at its opening session yesterday that "things are a disgrace up in my district in connection with the county roads."

Reeve Calver prefaced his remarks with the statement that what he had to say was not intended as a reflection on the Road Commission.

"There is a great need to straighten things up, the way the road office is run. I don't want anyone to think that I am criticising the Road Commission. I would like to see an open and frank discussion, devoid of spite and ill feeling, of county road matters. Why up in my district—well if I was to say all I wanted to say, I would be down in the counties jail here for defamation of character. Things are a disgrace up in my district in connection with county roads. I would like to see a meeting to discuss it. There certainly is a need to bring things up to date. If we can meet, hold our tempers and discuss it calmly, we might get somewhere, but it would be very easy for things to get out of control," declared Reeve Calver.

Committee Meeting

The warden suggested that it be left to the Roads and Bridges Committee for a meeting, which will be open to all the council, which it was decided would be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

A number of communications, most of them resolutions from other county councils, were read at the opening of the November session and referred to the various committees.

A resolution from Wentworth County in regard to the interest rate of 4½% which was charged to municipalities borrowing from the bank, suggested that the municipalities borrowing money seek a lower rate as the loans were very secure and in addition a lower rate would make postwar planning an easier thing; referred to Finance Committee. Letters from the Cobourg Branch of the Canadian Legion, Judge J. C. M. German of the Cobourg Corvette Commission, Port Hope minesweeper committee asked for grants. These items were referred to the Finance Committee also.

A letter from the counties solicitor, Allan Field in connection with the account of the inmate of an institution, was also referred to the Finance Committee. Request of the Salvation Army for its annual grant was referred to Finance, along with a financial statement from the Children's Aid. A resolution from Bowmanville town council in which it was urged that the province not only increase provincial grants to the Children's Aid but also pay the cost of investigations by the Children's Aid into soldiers' families, referred to Finance. James Knox wrote council offering to sell 100 acres of land near the county forest; referred to the Reforestation Committee.

A letter from F. C. Richardson, town solicitor of Port Hope, pointed out that as a small spring was the cause of flooding of "Jacobs Ladder", steps going up a grade east of Mill Street, it had been decided to drain it off into a nearby ditch. To reach the ditch it would be necessary to lay tile on registry office property and permission of the county to do so, was sought. Council turned the request over to the County Property Committee.

Proper School Needed

A resolution from Simcoe County was read, which pointed out that due to the fact that the boys' and girls' training schools at Bowmanville and Galt had been turned over to the government during the war, there was a need of some extra facilities for training the children as they were being put out into foster homes without proper disciplinary training beforehand. The resolution was turned over to the Legislative and By-Laws Committee. Other resolutions read at yesterday's meeting were one from Peel County, re extra gas for council members; Gray County, urging more equitable distribution of farm manpower; Carleton County, urging increase in price of cheese; Gray County that the government provide a sufficient flow of feed from western Canada with prices as of October 15, 1942 plus free freight charges; Gray County, urging passing by-laws by municipalities incorporating permission from the province to assess municipalities up to ½ mill to cover cost of agricultural fedehrations; Waterloo County, that western grain shipments to Ontario be speeded up through government measures.

A letter from the Stirling Board of Education notified council that it could take some county pupils; Schools Committee. A letter from the Deputy-Minister of Education advised that the legislative grant for equipment in rural public schools in the counties was $5,070.10; Schools Committee; Peterborough Board of Education enclosed a list of pupils from the counties attending school there, for checking; Schools Committee. Hope Township sent on a resolution which petitioned the counties council to appoint for the township a representative on the Port Hope High School Board in view of the fact that so many pupils from that township attended that school. A similar request from Hamilton Township requested representation on both the Port Hope High School and Cobourg Collegiate Institute boards; referred to Schools Committee.

Cavan Township advised council that it had sold to Charles Hard for the sum of $10 a section of township road known as the Quarter Road, running between concessions 2 and 3. The counties clerk pointed out that it was now the job of the council to pass a by-law to close this road, although the township had placed the cart before the horse in selling it before getting a by-law to close it. The matter was referred to Roads and Bridges.

The report of Dr. A. R. Richards, surgeon at the Counties Home, pointed out that from June to November there had been about 103 inmates in the home; with no births, two deaths, and that on the whole they were healthy with mostly chronic ailments constituting the reasons for medical treatment. About 15 patients a week were treated, or a total of 360 for the period covered in the report. Dr. Richards paid tribute to the cooperation of the superintendent, Mrs. Rena Thompson.

The clerk and treasurer reported that out of 24 municipalities, nine still hadn't sent in their assessment returns, in spite of repeated requests by him. He declared that he was getting fed up asking for this cooperation and pointed out that under the Municipal Act. there was a penalty of $200 fine for failing to file these returns. The offenders were the townships of Clarke, Darlington, Hamilton, Hope, Manvers, Murray and Seymour, and the towns of Bowmanville and Cobourg.

Reeve Dodge pointed out that Cobourg's town clerk was ill and that fact likely accounted for Cobourg's failure in this regard.

Warden Prouse reported on the meeting of the wardens at Toronto, which he attended. He had on his desk a report of the meeting which was available to any of the council who wanted to see it.

Statement of revenue and expenditures as on November 19, 1943:

Revenue—Balance in bank, December 31, 1942, $132.72; division courts, $19.09; registry offices,

GUERRILLAS HARASS NAZIS—The German high command continues to throw in more and more divisions of troops to combat the strong guerrilla units battling in the mountains in Yugoslavia and in the Dodecanese Islands. Partisan fighters and Chetniks, in spite of many flareups between each other, continue to whittle down thousands of the Nazi invaders. Greek Andarts, members of a military and political organization, landed on Leros (INSERT) in the Dodecanese help British troops. Unfortunately the island was lost to the Nazis. Andart paratroopers, flown from Cairo. dropped on Samos, reinforcing Allied troops on the island, which is now under fierce Nazi attack.

County Appeals Tax Decision

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov. 23 (ENS). — Following the advice of their solicitor, J. E. Anderson, the Victoria County Council will appeal a decision of the Supreme Court that compelled the warden and treasurer of the county to issue a tax deed on land purchased by J. W. Gravestock of Lindsay.

The council who passed a motion asking that the Ontario legislature revise the statute concerning the redeeming of lands sold by taxes.

Mr. Gravestock purchased the land consisting mainly of bog and swamp on Pigeon Lake at a county tax sale in 1941, following the sale H. Wood of Peterborough gave notice that he wished to redeem the land and forwarded the cost of same to F. L. Weldon, the county treasurer, Mr. Wood based his claim on the wording of the Act that stated that lands could be redeemed by "any other person" When Mr. Weldon informed Mr. Gravestock that he could not purchase the lands a protest was entered and the case was brought before Mr. Justice MacKay of the Supreme Court. Judgment to the effect Mr. Gravestock should receive the deed was handed down.

Speaking before the council here Solicitor J. E. Anderson stated that if the council did not appeal the decision it would put a "hobble strap" on every warden and treasurer in the province. He stated that he had received the opinion of many lawyers and that they agreed that the case should have gone the other way.

Members of the county council passed a motion to the effect that no appeal would be entered if Mr. Gravestock would consent to pay his own costs in regard to action already taken. When this was refused the council decided to make an appeal which will come before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

Hastings Hunters Get Their Deer

HASTINGS, Nov. 23.—(ENS). — Dan Armstrong and his party of hunters are back from the north with their quota of deer. The party consisted of Dan, who is the capable guide, Frank Walsh, Sr., Harry Noonan, T. A. Walsh, George Lynch and Jack Kelly. They left Hastings Nov. 6 at 5 a.m., arriving at their destination at 2.30 p.m. A week later, Nov. 13, Hugh Walsh, George Saunders and Walter Yorke motored from Rochester, New York, to join the Hastings hunters.

Chief William Wellman and his hunting party, which included Pat Lemoire of Peterborough, Bill Scriver, Lou Scriver, Earl Clarke, Bill Fleming, all of Hastings, and Percy Willison, of Toronto, returned home on Sunday night from Crooked Lake with their full quota of deer.

Juvenile Delinquency Grows In Environment Now Created

"We have created the environment in which juvenile delinquency grows," said James M. Sampson, Toronto, Associate Boys' Secretary of the National Council of the Y.M.C.A., in a talk at the Rotary Club luncheon on Monday that pointed the responsibility for this increasing problem of 'teen-age to the older generation.

Mr. Sampson was introduced by George Roper of Peterborough "Y," with M. H. Riddle presiding.

"It is unfair to brand the great majority of our fine young boys and girls as delinquents," said Mr. Sampson. "There are many delinquents, but the condition which produces them, is that not our responsibility?"

If the elders of the community are not concerned about this problem, they should be, he added. Post-war work may be planned from the demands for materials and goods and repairs that can be left in abeyance for the time being, but the children of to-day can't wait for any planning of reconstruction. they are growing day by day, and this is a job we must not let slip, Mr. Sampson declared.

He quoted the figures showing an increase of 54 per cent in juvenile delinquency in 1942 as compared with 1939. Of delinquent boys, 96 per cent of them came from poorly conducted families, not necessarily poor families, and 75 per cent of these boys are from homes without fathers.

Instability of the Home.

There, said Mr. Sampson, is a field of service right at hand. The most serious aspect of present day delinquency is disclosed in the age category of 8 to 12 years, and in lapsing a primary cause is found surveying the factors bringing about this earlier lapsing a primary cause is found in the instability of the home, a condition that has been aggravated by wartime influences.

Another cause is an increasing lack of leadership in youth groups. This deprivation has shown itself in the Scouts and Cubs, the Y.M.C.A., and church groups. Great Britain faced the problem two years ago, and decided to recall from the active forces young men who had experience in youth training.

Youngsters are maturing earlier in war circumstances, Mr. Sampson

Woman Is Fined $10 For Reckless Driving

LINDSAY, Nov. 23 — (ENS). — Mrs. Dorothea Woodrow of Whitby was fined $10, and costs, in Lindsay Police Court yesterday on a charge of reckless driving. The charge was laid as a result of an automobile accident on the corner of Kent and William Streets on Saturday night in which Mrs. Woodrow drove into a car owned by Melville Brien of Pleasant Point.

Magistrate E. A. Gee stated that he was being lenient in view of the fact that Mrs. Woodrow was a married woman with several children and engaged in war work. Gordon Carleton of Brohm, an occupant of the Woodrow car, was given suspended sentence on a charge of intoxication.

25 Years Married

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 23 — (ENS). — Mr. and Mrs. Grant Anderson, Saskatoon Avenue, quietly observed their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary on Saturday. The couple marked the occasion by motoring to Bowmanville where they sent the day as guests of Mrs. Anderson's brother Mr. George Stephens and Mrs. Stephens. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were married by Rev. M. L. Hinton in the Seymour Parsonage here.

Swimming Pool Idea Discussed

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 23 (ENS) —Rotarians may build a swimming pool for this town as their primary objective for the coming year according to an announcement made at the noon-day luncheon here on Monday. The plan, fostered earlier in the year, but which had been dormant now for several months when difficulties arose over a location, received impetus from a $100 cash donation offered for the project by Rotarian Pete Barnes who felt a proper swimming pool should form an essential item of community welfare. He suggested several other ways of raising money and the matter was left with the executive for study.

The difficulty in getting speakers at this time of year was cited by President Stu Stuart as a strong argument in favor of forming discussion groups aimed at studying peace proposals and post war conditions. The suggestion made by Dr. H. B. Longmore, who a week ago offered the idea that four members be chosen to lead in such talks will be put into effect on December 6. Mr. Maynard Watson of Fergus, was a guest at the meeting.

Balancing The Books

For several months past the news from our battlefronts has been consistently good, we must not for that reason think that the remainder of the war will be a series of easy victories for the United Nations. It is still quite possible for us to lose individual battles, and it is even possible — though not very probable — that we might lose the war. It is by no means easy to see the war in proper perspective at present; we know that the situation inside Germany is bad, and is growing worse, and we know that the German army is having trouble in finding replacements for troops; but we also know that the Germans have counter-attacked in Russia with telling effect, that they have brought our advance to a halt in Italy, and that they have taken the Dodecanese islands of Kos and Leros from us. At Leros we lost 8,000 men and 130 guns, as well as a good jumping-off place for an attack on the Balkans; this loss in particular has alarmed the public, who want to know what our strategists were thinking about to permit such a thing. The answer is simple: they were doing their best, but we still have not enough troops and planes to make ourselves invincible at every point. Germans at home may be low in spirits, but the morale of the fighting forces is excellent.

• • •

What have we to show on our side of the score-board? We have wrecked German diplomacy in Turkey, and that country is reported to be ready to enter the war on our side in the spring, or perhaps earlier. Turkey has a million excellent troops, and holds many strategic points in the Eastern Mediterranean. The loss of Leros and Kos will matter little if Turkey is with us. We have bombed the Bulgarian capital of Sofia, and the Bulgarians are uneasily conscious that our planes came from bases only 450 miles away. The official announcement of this raid spoke of "the successful opening of the Balkan offensive", and these will be words of fear to the Axis satellite states. Mr. Churchill has declared that 1944 will be the great year of the war from our point of view, but as only a month of 1943 remains we should not be surprised if a beginning is made now on our scheme of grand strategy.

• • •

Germany is hard pressed, but is fighting magnificently. So long as German morale at home can be kept at a reasonable level—by fear or threats or whatever means work best—we need not look for anything but the most ferocious fighting. As many informed statesmen have said, anything may happen now, but we need not look for a German collapse as an inevitable thing. Nor should we take our temporary setbacks too deeply to heart. Only a few simpletons are complacent about the outcome of the war, but great numbers of people seem to think that every reverse which we suffer now is bound to upset our whole 1944 plan. The year which is coming will bring us good news and bad, and we must steady ourselves with the certain knowledge that in the final reckoning the good will outweigh the bad.

"... Not Man For The Sabbath"

The Dominion Government has passed an Order-In-Council which forbids prosecutions based on any act or law regarding Sunday observance without permission from the Attorney General of the province in which the charge is laid. Mr. Leslie Blackwell, the Attorney General of Ontario, has further ruled that in this province the permission must be clearly stated in writing before any charge is made.

These new orders are the outcome of the foolish procedings in York Township a few weeks ago, when a farmer and his assistants were charged with profaning the Sabbath under an old and forgotten law. Sabbath observance is more a matter of general agreement, dependent on what the Chinese call "proper feeling", than a matter to be dealt with by blue-laws and police action. As we have already pointed out, it is a very difficult matter to decide what is profanation and what is not. The new orders leave the matter in the proper hands—those of the community—except in cases where the profanation is gross and unmistakeable.

These orders are merely patching, however, and when the war is over the matter should be re-opened and a sensible decision reached. There are plenty of local blue-laws in Canadian communities which have passed their usefulness, and which are only invoked when some over-zealous person wants to make a nuisance of himself. They should be formally annulled.

Sabbath observance is a matter of common sense, and should be left as far as possible to common decency. It was Jesus himself who first told us that the Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.

Clean Your Medicine Cabinet

A few days ago we read of the death of a baby in Western Ontario, who had been fed a number of pills by her four-years-old sister; the little girl found the pills in a medicine cabinet.

This sad story should impress upon us the danger of leaving medicines and pills about where children may get them and eat them, or give them to others. In many homes the medicine cabinet is a glory hole, a recollection of rubbish in which it is possible to trace the medical history of the family for years past. Cough mixtures, gargles, after-shave preparations, stomach powders, disinfectants, cod liver oil, bath oil, deodorants, headache pills, depilatories, bromides, nasal oils and blood tonics jostle each other in a welter of bottles, boxes and tubes. Most of them are harmless when they are rightly used, but children do not know what they are for and cannot read the labels—if the labels still adhere to the bottles. Somewhere in the mess may be lying a few pills which are poisonous, or a bottle of something which is very helpful in the right circumstances, but may be enough to kill a baby.

Why not clear out everything which is not wanted, and set the cabinet to rights? Overcome your relucance to throw out medicines which you have paid for but have not taken to the final dregs. Throw away pills which the doctor gave you when you had influenza. And if you habitually take medicine, keep it somewhere that is convenient to you, but not likely to be discovered by children. A dirty medicine cabinet is a danger to anyone who is too young to read, and may, in a moment of emergency, be dangerous to you.

Who Are "The Workers"?

The release of the British Fascist leader, Sir Oswald Mosley, from prison has been the cause of many protests, one of the most eloquent coming from Theodore Bramley, the secretary of the London district of the Communist party. At a party rally Bramley is reported to have made this interesting assertion: "The reactionary forces see the end of the war in sight and are getting ready to take the offensive against the working class".

This is only one of many thousands of references which are reported every month mentioning either "the working class" or "the workers". One of the aspects of communism which we most dislike is its habit of splitting mankind up into classes and pitting one against the other. The folly of a fixed class system was well demonstrated during the nineteenth century when democracy began to assume its present form, but this fallacious division has been revived and fostered by the parties of the Left.

It is nonsene to talk about "the workers", meaning labouring and mechanical workers only, when nowadays we are all workers. The proportion of idle people in a democratic state is very small. Of course the industrial workers work, and very hard, some of them; but do they really work any harder than white-collar workers, or professional workers, or farmers? We do not think so. We all have to work hard in order to live, and in order to make the most of any ability we may have.

We have not thrown over one class system merely to embrace another. The use of expressions like "the workers" in political discussions serves only to obscure whatever matter is at hand.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Economists have their own ways of estimating inflation, but the ordinary citizen just looks out his front window to see how much the wolf has grown.

A doctor says that constant smokers are likely to have everything. This does not apply to women smokers, who never have a cigarette, or a light, and are usually not very well fixed for spit.

"Women Are Not Frozen", says a headline. No, and our spies tell us that in these days of manpower shortage they are not even very cold.

The Attack On V.D.

(What Manitoba Is Doing from the Winnipeg Free Press)

THERE are compelling reasons for the campaign of education which is being undertaken next week regarding the menace of venereal disease, which is becoming increasingly serious. It affects the war effort, causing many rejections from the armed forces and incapacitating many who are in the forces. It incapacitates many in the war industries and in other essential employment. Of the misery and unhappiness which it creates, a very considerable part is inflicted upon innocent people. The increase in the prevalence of the disease is greated among young people from 14 to 19 years.

There were 1,953 cases of venereal disease reported in Manitoba last year. There were many more not reported. It is estimated that the total number is now well over 5,000.

With this extremely unhappy picture, the very wide prevalence of a serious disease which it is difficult to deal with because of the attitude which most people have taken to it, the need for the education of the public will be questioned by no one.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE growth of this disease is a most serious problem for the provincial Health Department. It was bad enough before but it has become worse now, at the very time when the public health should be well maintained and the full manpower of the country put behind the war effort. Studies of the Council of Social Agencies of Greater Winnipeg confirm the need for the most effective measures or reducing the social diseases and preventing the spread of infection.

The necessity of arousing and informing the public was obvious, and it was decided that this could be done best in a concentrated campaign for one week in which the widest co-operation would be sought and the facts placed before the public to impress them with the seriousness of the menace and the formidable nature of the whole problem.

The Young Men's Section of the Board of Trade was induced to undertake the organization of the campaign of education and, as was to be expected, it has been doing a thorough job. The work of publicity and education to be carried on next week will be on a very wide scale in Greater Winnipeg, and similar activities are being organized by the Young Men's Section in Portage la Prairie, Brandon, Dauphin, The Pas and Flin Flon, through the Boards of Trade and other local bodies. Speakers will address service clubs and employee groups in industries and elsewhere. Films will be shown, and informative booklets distributed. Through these and other forms of publicity, it is intended that everyone shall learn the facts about this greatest threat to the public health.

◇ ◇ ◇

THERE have been fluctuations in the number of cases reported in the past decade, but there has been a definite increase during the war years, as will be seen from the following records of the provincial Health Department:

GONORRHOEA

	1939	1940	1941	1942
Adults—
Male	647	841	779	774
Female	205	237	219	303
Children— 0-17 years
Male	—	1	8	15
Female	20	20	38	65

SYPHILIS

	1939	1940	1941	1942
Adults—
Male	360	275	271	392
Female	212	177	167	257
Children— 0-17 years
Male	8	7	8	17
Female	8	6	20	30

The total number of cases of both diseases reported in 1941 was 1,510, and in 1942 it was 1,953—an increase of 433 or 28 per cent. Note the greater increase in the number of adult female cases—from 386 to 560, or 45 per cent. Note, also, the still higher rate of increase in the cases of young people, practically 50 per cent, and the very large number of girls who are victims of these diseases, the increase being from 58 in 1941 to 95 in 1942, or 63 per cent.

This is only the record of reported cases. The actual number is unknown, but the authorities all agree that there is a larger number of unreported cases all over the country. There is, therefore, a much greater amount of physical and mental suffering in Manitoba, and a great number who are incapacitated from work or whose efficiency is lowered, than the above figures would indicate.

It is estimated that as many as one-third of the cases of venereal disease are due to infection contracted innocently, chiefly by women and by new-born babies.

IT is perfectly clear how this alarming menace to the public health has developed. In the first place, there has been a general lack of sex education. Then there has been wide concealment of the diseases by those suffering from them. Finally, there has been too much reticence on the part of the public, too great a feeling that the subject was not one for open discussion.

This neglect of the situation has allowed it to become much worse, permitted the infection to spread more widely. It has allowed more people, through lack of education, to act unwisely, with the resulting trouble. And it has caused a great increase in the number of innocent sufferers. This, if nothing else, should sting the public conscience and bring strong support for preventive action. It should ensure the wide and sincere co-operation that is necessary in fighting this health plague.

Of the 50,000 patients in the mental hospitals of Canada, 5,000 are there because of syphilis, and apart from the blasting of their lives, their hospital maintenance cost is 32,000,000 a year. The venereal diseases have many other disabling effects.

Statistics for all Canada are not available but a high authority has estimated that five per cent of our adult population carry V.D. infection. In the United States, 100,000 men have been rejected by the army in this war—1 in 20 of the first 2,000,000 men called up—owing to this disease. About three per cent of industrial workers in the U.S. have syphilis, according to extensive surveys made.

◇ ◇ ◇

MANITOBA'S Health Department seeks to combat the social diseases by supplying factual information about them, and by making known where proper diagnosis and treatment can be obtained. It advises pre-marital blood testing, as precautions that should be provided for detecting the disease. It advocates a V.D. blood test as part of the regular physical examination by one's private physician. In addition, it would seek the abolition of quackery in the treatment of V.D., and the suppression of commercial prostitution, the chief source of the dis-

Fashion Trend

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

We hasten to pass on to our readers a breathless bit of information just sent us by something called the Bureau of Fashion Trends, with an august address on New York's Fifth Avenue.

The Fashion Trends people tell us that Mr. Harry Winston, of New York, has just paid $200,000 for a diamond "the size of a small egg", a diamond so important it has a name—it is the "Bolivar". Just exactly how this represents a fashion trend we are not sure, but there must be a trend in it somewhere. Perhaps there is a hint in the fact that the communication goes on to mention another diamond which sold for $700,000, and still another at $900,000, so it may be we are expected to note and applaud the economy of a sale for a mere $200,000.

But we feel we should tell the Bureau of Fashion Trends very frankly that egg-sized diamonds even at what is practically a give-away price are not likely to become fashionable in this country, no matter what Fifth Avenue may say in the matter. Most of us, even if we had the money, wouldn't know what to do with a diamond the size of an egg, even a small egg. It would make an awkward ring, if imposing, and as a scarfpin would be the least bit ostentatious. And if a two-hundred-thousand-dollar diamond is of any use at all it must be to let your neighbours know you have $200,000.

We take our orders from New York in popular songs, in slang, in a hundred of the little things of life, but when it comes to a trend towards egg-sized diamonds we have to draw the line.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

DEAR MISS DIX: Will you answer a question for a young service man a long way from home? For several years I had been going steady with a young woman in my home town. I was very much interested in her and at once time thought I had found THE GIRL, then it became apparent to me that I was only her man Friday—an obedient doer of her bidding—and that I was rapidly losing my personality and becoming Mr. Marjorie, if you know what I mean. Also, she had frequent fits of temper and I was always at fault, so I became bored and dissatisfied.

After one such misunderstanding I wrote her that it was plain that we were not meant for each other and that we could never be happy together. We have never been engaged, for I do not believe in war marriages. I never went near her again for I was tired of falling out and making up, and now I am perfectly content.

However, from friends I learn that the girl feels that I have not treated her squarely in breaking off with her, but my idea was, and is, when you see your are wrong, not to go ahead with it. Are these your sentiments?

PRIVATE K.

ANSWER: They are. Absolutely. Definitely. Everybody makes mistakes, but the wise guy stops making a mistake as soon as he sees he is in error. And he never make the same mistake twice.

Evidently the girl was never in love with you, she was just using you as a convenience, somebody to fill in when she had no other date, and the warmest feeling she had for you was a lukewarm liking. And you want the girl you marry to give you something better than that. Hence you did the only sensible thing when you called the whole affair off.

The reason she is trying to whistle you back now is on the principle of any port in a storm. The man supply is getting scarcer and scarcer and she is getting into a blue panic over being an old maid, so she is looking around for a husband and has hit upon you as the most likely prospect.

My earnest advice to you is not to bite. Don't offer any explanations to the friends who are acting as her comeons, about why you broke with her. And don't let her inveigle you into a correspondence. Let the matter ride until you return, then you can look the situation over and see how you feel about it. But go slow and watch your step now, Buddy, because the girls have gotten so scared over the newspaper reports of how short the husband crop will be after the war that they are grabbing every man they can lay their hands on and dragging him to the altar. It takes a foxy man to keep single these days.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am married to the sweetest man in the world and we adore each other. His work takes him away from home most of the time, so that I practically have only two days with him twice a month. Now he has a large family of sisters and brothers and aunts and cousins who know when it is time for him to come home and they arrive at our house thirty minutes after he gets there and proceed to monopolize him. We seldom get to eat a meal alone and are never able to talk by ourselves.

How can we get rid of these unwanted guests?

MRS. L. J. G.

ANSWER: I don't know, unless you put ant powder in the food, as well as sprinkle it around the premises. The problem of the visiting relative is one that human ingenuity has failed to solve so far, for even if we locked and barred the door they would somehow crawl in under it.

You would think that intelligent adults would have enough perception to realize that a young wife has priority on her husband's time and attention when he comes home if she only gets to see him twice a month, and that they would keep away and give her her innings. But they don't. They want to talk to Tom, Dick, or Harry, and so they descend, like the wolf on the fold, and nobody can head them off.

The other day there was a clever cartoon in one of the papers showing how a young soldier passed the furlough he had looked forward to with such eagerness. He had planned to fill it with girls and going places and doing things, but Mother had made out a schedule that took up every minute of the time, and she had arranged that he should address all of the various clubs that she belonged to and tell them about the war, and go to see all the old ladies who were too crippled up to come and see him.

Too bad, but that is the way things are. The only suggestion I can make is to hang out a smallpox sign in front of the house, and if that doesn't keep the relatives and friends away, try borrowing money from them. That is a surefire remedy.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am 28 years old and have gone with a man with whom I am in love for about a year. About four months ago he started working for the government, which took him away from here. He says he will only be able to come home about once a year and that in the meantime that we might as well go about with our old friends and make new ones. He think that separation will make no difference in our love, and that after the war we can be married.

Separation has always seemed the end of everything, especially love, to me. His letters already appear to have a cold tone. What do you think of this?

WORRIED.

ANSWER: I think that short separations foster love, but that long separations almost always kill it. It is practically impossible to keep in touch with those from whom we are parted for any length of time. New interests come into their lives. They meet new people. They do new things. Form new habits. So do we. And when we meet again, we meet with an invisible barrier between us that, try as we will, we cannot break down.

You must have realized how much harder it is to talk to old friends whom you have not seen for a long time than it is to even new acquaintances, because after you have asked the old friends about the state of their health, whether they are married, and how many children they have, you run out of conversation, and you are ill at ease because you feel that there should be an intimacy that has somehow been lost. Whereas with strangers, you just naturally confine yourself to politics and the weather, and let it go at that.

I think your friend was very wise, as well as honorable, in suggesting that while you are parted from each other that you should keep up your old contacts, because if the separation does play havoc with your love affair, you will still be in the running, still have something to fall back upon, instead of being stranded.

If Women Dictate

If women wanted to dictate their terms to the male world they could do it through a weapon over which we have a 70 per cent control — in other words, money, says Sylvia Porter, New York Post financial editor.

Women could stage a buying strike, because they dominate 80 to 85 per cent of the country's buying power; they could withdraw their savings from the banks, and since over 65 per cent of savings accounts are in women's names it could have a paralyzing effect.—Comet.

A Bible Message

And there went out a champion out of the camp of the Philistines, named Goliath, of Gath, whose height was six cubits and a span.... And he stood and cried unto the armies of Israel, and said unto them, Why are ye come out to set your battle in array? am not I a Philistine, and ye servants to Saul? choose you a man for you, and let him come down to me....

And the Philistine said, I defy the armies of Israel this day; give me a man, that we may fight together. When Saul and all Israel heard those words of the Philistine, they were dismayed, and greatly afraid....

And David said to Saul, Let no man's heart fail because of him; thy servant will go fight with this Philistine.... And David said unto Saul, Thy servant kept his father's sheep, and there came a lion, and a bear, and took a lamb out of the flock....Thy servant slew both the lion and the bear: and this uncircumcised Philistine shall be as one of them, seeing he hath defied the armies of the living God.

David said moreover, The Lord that delivered me out of the paw of the lion, and out of the paw of the bear, he will deliver me out of the hand of this Philistine. And Saul said unto David, Go, and the Lord be with thee. (I Sam. 17: 4, 8, 10, 11, 32, 34, 36, 37.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Hello! Is that the city bridge department?"
"Yes. What can we do for you?"
"How many points do you get for a little slam?"

One trouble with many of us white folks is that we haven't developed a working philosophy like that of the fat Negro cook down in Houston, Texas.

She was asked what was the secret of her calmness and freedom from care. Her reply was thorough and complete:

"Well, it's disaway. When I sits I sits loose. An' when I stah'ts to worry, I falls asleep."

Real Boom There

In the old boom days the newspapers used to be full of stories of the phenomenal growth that some places in Western Canada had undergone in a short time. But the records of none of them equalled that of Dawson Creek, which a British Columbia newspaper credits with a present population of 6,572, as against 842 last year.—Edmonton Journal.

Eggnogs

Lives of about ten out of every 100 Russian soldiers with abdominal wounds have been saved by feeding a rich eggnog through the wound while the patient was on the operating table at the battalion field hospital, P. A. Panikoff, surgeon-in-chief of a medico-sanitary battalion of the Red Army, reports in the Soviet medical journal Khirurgia. Details will be available in the forthcoming first issue of a new journal, American Review of Soviet Medicine.

The practice of feeding through the wound was adopted to fight general weakness, which often proved fatal on the second or third day after operation. Peritonitis, one cause of death in such cases, had not yet set in or was developing slowly.

The Soviet surgeons decided to forestall weakness by putting some food into the intestines through the wound at the time of operation. The food consisted of 13 ounces of milk, two ounces of sweet butter, two eggs, two ounces of sugar, a little salt, and two ounces or more of distilled alcohol.

Coldwell Denies Charges Strike Brewing

BIGGAR, Sask., Nov. 23— (CP). —M. J. Coldwell, National leader of the C.C.F., said in an address Saturday that the statement by Maj. Gladstone Murray, former general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, that there were plans for a general strike in Canada soon after the war, was part of a new campaign launched against the C.C.F.

At a public meeting here, Mr Coldwell referred to Maj. Murray's address Friday night to the Toronto branch of the General Alumni Association of Queen's University.

Mr. Murray had said "there is in existence now a complete plan for a general strike in Canada soon after the war. This strike is for the purpose of revolutionary action. Its planners have not yet concerned themselves with the grievances on which the strike will nominally be based."

Mr. Coldwell said Maj. Murray's statement was part of a bitter campaign launched agains the C.C.F. by powerful industrial and financial corporations.

The C.C.F. leader asserted that his party would have won 49 of the 80 seats in the last Ontario general election if civilians had voted for the C.C.F. in the same proportions as soldiers.

Mentions Showdowns.

Mr. Coldwell also said that Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, had tried to drive a wedge between the farmers and organized labor by making his charge of slowdowns in packing plants.

(Mr. Gardiner said at Theodore, Sask., last week that a recent slowdown in packing plants was fomented by the C.I.O. which he said was a strong right arm of the C.C.F.

(At Regina, J. J. Burns, manager of the Burns and Company Regina packing plant, said employees of that plant are making day-to-day records in production to meet the heaviest livestock marketings in the industry's history).

Speaking at Asquith, Mr. Coldwell repeated previous criticism of the policies. He suggested that the high Federal government's agricultural mechanization of the Canadian armed forces would later increase the demand for mechanization of the farms.

Sapphires once were thought to have curative powers. In the 13th century a large sapphire, believed to be effective in aiding weak eyes was presented to St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

This Modern Age

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Nov. 23 — (AP). — Elmer Layden, commissioner of the National Football League, one of Notre Dame's famous four horsemen and former Irish football coach, didn't see the Iowa Seahawk game at South Bend Saturday. It was the last day for pheasant hunting, so he decided to pass up the game. But he solved the problem nicely by packing a portable radio on his back. While listening to Notre Dame win, he bagged the limit of two birds.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 23 — (AP).— The Duke and Duchess of Windsor arrived in Miami from Washington on Monday perturbed over published reports that the Duke is dissatisfied with his office of Governor of the Bahamas.

"I dont know how that report could have started," said the Duke. "It is very wrong. I am quite satisfied and quite interested in the colony."

The Duchess nodded approval.

The Duke requested that no questions be asked about the recent trial of Alfred de Marigny, acquitted of a charge of murdering Sir Harry Oakes.

"I am the administrative head and have nothing to do with the judicial side," he explained.

Canada, Brazil Exchange Doctors

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 23.—(CP). —Exchange of professors on medical faculties of Canadian and Brazilian institutions was proposed by Dr. Miguel de Almeida, Brazilian research scientist, when he visited the University of Western Ontario Medical School Sunday.

Dr. De Almeida is a member of the Faculty of Medicine at Rio de Janeiro and is also on the staff of the Institute of Medical Research in that city. He is making a tour of Canadian universities to observe methods of research in medical schools and present his plan of exchange in post war years.

The plan would send Canadian professors to Brazil for a half year or whole year medical school term and Brazilian professors would come to Canadian schools. The purpose would be the interchange of research methods and findings as well as of methods related to other branches of the medical sphere.

WAR has meant added duties for Canada's Chartered Banks, too

Over and above their regular peacetime services, the banks have assumed many additional responsibilities of both a banking and non-banking nature since the outbreak of war.

They cooperate in the sale of Victory Bonds, arrange bond deliveries and the deposit of bond interest to the owner's account. In the field of wartime rationing, they act as agents for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in the conduct of "Ration Coupon Banking," assuming the tremendous task of handling, verifying and accounting for used coupons; and they also act as paying agents of the government organization handling subsidies to milk distributors. They cash hundreds of thousands of government payroll cheques. And they act as agents of the Foreign Exchange Control Board, handling the intricate technique of export and import transactions.

These extra duties and many others have placed a severe strain on bank staffs, in view of the enlistment of a large proportion of experienced personnel. Thousands of women have helped to meet the emergency and deserve the highest praise for the loyalty and skill they have shown in handling the record volume of work created by Canada's tremendous war program.

The banks' nation-wide facilities, manned by more than 30,000 trained workers, have been extensively used by the Government as a ready-made means of handling many special wartime tasks.

THE CHARTERED BANKS OF CANADA

1. The other evening . . .
somebody rang our front door bell . . . and I didn't want to put on my shoes so I said, "Put out the lights. Quick!" which my wife did . . . meanwhile, peering through the curtains, she said "It isn't the air-raid warden or anybody we know, and he doesn't look as if he was after money" . . . so I said, "Let him in" . . . which she did.

2. And the man said "Good Evening Friend" and for a nasty moment I was afraid he'd ask us if we'd been listening to our radio or what shaving cream I liked. But he was all right.

3. He just sat down, friendly like and told us about Postum . . . how good it is. He was a good talker and he had our mouths fairly watering . . . to taste that rich, full-bodied flavor . . . that heart-warming goodness.

4. And my wife said, "Thank you so much. I always thought that Postum was supposed to taste like tea or coffee . . ."

And the man crinkled up his face and smiled very patiently . . . and said, "People say that until they find that Postum is a grand drink in its own right. Would you like me to make you a cup?" And by that time we felt like he was one of the family . . . he even took off his shoes and wiggled his toes . . . with the best of us . . . so we said, "Wonderful!"

5. So he made us some Postum : : : using our hot water and his Postum . . . from a package which he carried in his pocket . . . and it was wonderful . . . wonderful.

6. Then he stood up and said "Good Night All." And there was a little puff of smoke and he disappeared.

He was gone just like that . . . with nothing but the package of Postum on the table to show or prove . . . he'd even been there.

And my wife said "Maybe it would be better if we didn't mention this to anybody".

I said, "We won't say a word about anything except how grand Postum tastes . . . and that it contains no caffeine . . . and that it can't hurt anybody or keep them awake . . . even children."

Postum comes in two convenient forms— Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup simply by adding boiling water or hot milk; Postum Cereal Beverage, made like coffee in pot, percolator or glass coffee-maker.

Coach Forsakes Crying Towel

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sport Writer

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 23 (AP)—It is a pleasure to report that although fretful Frank Leahy, the moaner of Notre Dame, apparently has abdicated the crying towel title of the gridiron world, wailin' Billick Whelchel of the Navy isn't going to let the throne go without a fight.

This was apparent today, just 24 hours after fretful Frank stepped down from the head of the parade by calling his Irish steamrollers great. Wailin Whelchel immediately showed he's a whole lot better than a green hand by practically overflowing the banks of the Severn here with his tears over what Army's bolt-of-lightning backs may do to his poor little Navy glue-foot footballers on Saturday.

Only, you got the idea talking to the otherwise particularly-pleasant wailin' Whelchel, that the lump in his left cheek was his own rolled up tongue, rather than an out-sized chunk of chewing gum.

Because (a) he gave you the same gags and patter a year ago — and then pulled the season's biggest rabbit out of the littlest hat by flattening Army, and (b) his Middie machine this year is better than it was then.

Timmis Favors Joust With Navy

HAMILTON, Nov. 23 (CP)—Brian Timmis, coach of Hamilton Flying Wildcats, said last night he personally favors a proposal to play a post-season war charity game between the 1943 Grey Cup champions and Halifax Navy, but added that any decision rests with the Hamilton club executive.

An executive meeting was held last night, Timmis said, bu there was no mention of the proposal announced by President Fred Hamilton of the Sports Service League, under which the benefit game would be played in Toronto Dec. 4

The proposed game, Hamilton said, would match the all-star Halifax Navy team against the winner of next Saturday's Grey Cup final between Hamilton and Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers in Toronto. Navy previously was refused permission to enter Grey Cup playdowns because its application was received too late.

Besides, Turner added, he must care for the baby while his wife is in bed.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

War breaks out again on the Brock Street Arena front tonight when Champion Billy Watson and Jan Gotch, Polish battler meet in the feature bout of the Frank Tunney weekly wrestling card. All indication point to a sell out. The wild brawl staged by the two rivals last week has got all the fans excited and the result will be reflected in an over flow into the Arena tonight that will tax the seating accommodation in spite of the fact that extra ringside seas have been provided. The argument itself should be another thriller. Watson the stylist of the mat game, a fast, clever performer, is matched with a rowdy back-alley fighter who will try anything in the line of rough stuff that promises to pay dividends. Style means nothing to the Pole. All he seeks is an opportunity to cut loose at the expense of the British Empire champion and he is surpemely confident that if his tactics are not hampered by too strict refereeing that he can hammer Watson into submission and take the bout. No announcement has been made as to tonight's referee. Gotch nas been complaining that he got all the worst of it from Tommy Nelson last week and if that official is named for the return bout there will be plenty of bickering between the Pole and him.

* * * * * *

To Watson this is a golden oportunity to show the local fans the stuff that has made him one of the most popular mat artists in the game today. The Toronto boy admits that Gotch made him look bad on many occasions during last week's bout but he hopes to wipe out the memory of those unpleasant moments by giving the Polish battler a thorough going over tonight. In short Watson plans on going all out and he declares he is going to set a pace that will keep Gotch busy trying to hang on. It shapes up like the battle of the entire season. Leading up to the main argument will be two snappy preliminaries. One of them introduces the colorful Chief Thundercloud to Peterborough fans and it is predicted that the Indian will be something of a sensation. He is big, clever and not too clean and Flight Sergt. Ted Miller will have to be on his toes or he will be facing his squad at the Trenton Air Port tomorrow minus his scalp. However the airman is no pushover for any grappler, no matter what his color and the Chief may run into a few jolts that will surprise him. In the opener long Joe Christie who demonstrated a lot of stuff on his last showing here is asked to meet Mike Demitre, the Montrealer, who has a neat bag of tricks and will likely trot them all out for the benefit of the tall Mister Christie.

It's A Sad Affair

The manner in which the Montreal Canadiens are spread-eagling the field in the National Hockey League race carries its own commentary on the strength of the cash-and-carry circuit this season. On paper the Flying Frenchmen do not rate their present standing or the high-scoring record they are setting up. Certainly players like Getliffe, Toe Blake and Murph Chamberlain are past their peak and with the N.H.L. at its pre-war strength would have trouble hanging on. They are stars today. The whole Canadien team in fact can be listed as stars. Dick Irvin's squad have rattled in 47 goals in ten games, close to five a game and they have allowed the opposition an average of less than two per game. Some of the critics are giving Bill Durnan most of the credit because of his fine goal-keeping. Yet the fact remains that Durnan was beaten four times by the Boston Bruins Sunday night and it didn't mean a thing for the Canadiens rattled thirteen pucks past Bert Gardiner. Again on Saturday night the Flying Frenchmen registered seven times against the Leafs so that they did not need much help from Durnan in winning that one.

* * * * * *

The chief explanation seems to lie in the reduced class of the entire circuit. Lester Patrick's Rangers have played nine games and have been beaten as many times. They are pitiably short of major league material and little help is in sight. The Leafs in spite of the fact that they are at present in a three-cornered tie for second place with Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks have won only four games and three of them were triumphs over the helpless Rangers. Boston Bruins are apparently suffering from goalie trouble and a change is indicated there. With that hole plugged the Bruins may come on. Detroit and Chicago too have elements of strength and should improve. They will have to or the Canadiens who have not been beaten in ten starts and should make it twelve with two games with the Rangers coming up will have the race in the bag and tied up before Christmas so far as the N.H.L. championship is concerned.

Felicitations, Orme

Congratulations are in order to that fine old sportsman Orme Gamsby, "Laird of Orono" who celebrated his 80th birthday the other day. For many years the Orono elder citizen has been a prominent figure at sporting gatherings of all kinds. Peterborough hockey and baseball teams have run across him repeatedly at home and abroad. Gamsby always used to make it a point to visit the dressing-rooms of both teams and wish them luck and at ball games he generally contrived to drop around at the benches of the rival outfits and exchange greetings just before the contest started. Years ago it is recalled when Alex Kay was first breaking into the Central Ontario League as an umpire he was handling a game at Port Hope. He was approached by a ruddy faced rotund individual who asked him if he would page Orme Gamsby of Orono later on in the contest. The Peterborough official complied with the request and to his surprise when he announced ot the crowd that Orme Gamsby was wanted it was the man who had asked him to do the paging who got to his feet in the grandstand and came down in answer to the call. A good publicity man has been going to waste all these years for the Orono sportsman has the art of bringing himself prominently before the public developed to the nth degree.

* * * * * *

Our hats are off to a former well known Peterborough citizen Pete Campbell, energetic president of the Toronto Ball Club. Official figures just released show that Toronto had 185,456 paid customers during the past summer, making it a most successful season for the Leafs. Only the Montreal Royals drew better and they had the advantage of Sunday ball, getting their best patronage on the week-ends. An interesting angle is the fair sex support given the Leafs. Women admissions to Toronto games totalled 33,336, tops for the league. Syracuse was second in that respect having 29,513 gal fans. Pete Campbell took hold of the situation in Toronto when baseball had struck bottom and in two years he has succeeded in bringing the game back to the top. The Leafs gave their customers colorful ball all season and the results are seen in the box office returns.

185,456 Fans Saw Toronto Play

The Toronto Baseball Club has received from W. J. Manley, treasurer of the International Baseball League, a report of the 1943 operations. The league had a successful season and showed a profit.

Montreal played to the most paid admissions—206,507. Toronto was second with 185,456 (without Sunday baseball). Newark was last in paid admissions, due no doubt to the elimination of night baseball and the very bad transportation facilities.

Toronto led the league in ladies' admissions (25c) with 33,336. Syracuse was second with 29,513.

This year's paid attendance was 1,121,369—which is about average. The record year was 1928, when there were 1,546,117 paid admissions.

In the Governor's Cup Series, 1943 season, although Newark drew very few people, the paid attendance was 120,191, third largest since this series were instituted. The receipts were second highest, 1941, when Montreal played off against Columbus being the record series.

Here and There in Sport

Reg. Threfall, loquacious coach of the Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers, recited a pre-battle piece yesterday in the Manitoba capital in which he declared he could not be convinced the Hamilton Flying Wildcats are anything approaching a super team. He based his statement on the broadcast of the Hamilton victory over Lachine R.C.A.F. at Toronto in eastern semi-final football last Saturday, adding the eastern defenders of the Grey Cup had scored only two touchdowns in two games and one of them unearned. Threfall said this did not suggest a powerful offensive.

The Bombers are having afternoon drills until they leave for Toronto, where they will go through a light practice Friday afternoon at Maple Leaf stadium before trotting out Saturday for the annual East vs. West battle at Varsity stadium.

Because they were able only to work out a 14-13 squeak win against Iowa Pre-Flight at South Bend last Saturday, Notre Dame Irish did not receive unanimous support in this week's Associated Press poll as the outstanding college team. Previously accorded 100 per cent. support by the experts, Notre Dame lost five out of the current 102 ballots, with Iowa second and Michigan third.

A meeting of the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association at Halifax received information that three, and possibly four, senior leagues will operate during the winter months. The largest is a six-team circuit in New Brunswick which includes two Air Force entries.

Atlantic City promoters yesterday presented plans to the New Jersey Racing Commission for the construction of a $2,000,000 race track on the 550-acre Atlantic Pines golf course. The licence applicants showed a certificate of a bank deposit in excess of $1,000,000 with which to finance the project.

Halifax to Play

A proposal was launched in Toronto last night for a post-season football game at Varsity Stadium between Halifax Navy and the winner of the Hamilton-Winnipeg sudden-death final for the Grey Cup, the exhibition to be staged December 4 in aid of war charities.

Barney Ross, former ring champion of Chicago from 1933 to 1938 was honored yesterday with the Silver Star and a Presidential citation for heroism in fighting on Guadalcanal. He is now stationed at the New York navy yard.

Second best batmans of the Philadelphia Nationals, Merrill May, 32, third baseman for six years, has enlisted in the United States Navy, it was announced yesterday. He was second in batting to Babe Dahlgren last season.

Bruins, Toronto Clash Tuesday; Both Off Beam

By The Canadian Press

Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs clash tonight in a National Hockey League game which could fittingly be billed as a consolation contest.

After their week-end games against Montreal Canadiens, the two clubs should have something in common. The Flying Frenchmen blitzed Toronto 7-2 Saturday and mauled Bruins 13-4, at Montreal Sunday.

Manager Art Ross promises that something radical will be done if Bruins fail to improve sharply before the home fans tonight. Coach Happy Day probably feels the same way about Leafs, who owe their present relatively high estate—a second place tie with Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings—to the fact that three of their four victories this season have been scored at the expense of New York's basement-dwelling Rangers.

A Massacre

Ross missed the Montreal massacre, but after weighing a report from playing coach Dit Clapper, announced that the only change for tonight's game will involve a shuffling around of Boston's forward lines. Buzz Boll will return to action as right wing with Art Jackson and Bill Cowley, shifting Herb Cain to the second line with Don Gallinger at centre and Bep Guidolin at left wing.

Chuck Scherza will centre a new third line; flanked by Busher Jackson and Norm Calladine. Ossie Aubuchon and Yank Boyd will not be dressed because of the new National League rule limiting playing squads to 13 men, and Ab Demarco is still on the hospital list.

Boston defeated Toronto 5-2 in the only previous meeting of the two teams this season. No other games are scheduled tonight.

TORONTO, Nov. 23 — (CP). — Since Vancouver Forum was returned to the city by the Army, 7,000 feet of new ice-making pipe has been installed and it is expected the rink will be ready for use in the week of December 4-11. Vancouver then will have hockey for the first time in three years.... Flt. Lt. Frank Fredrickson is coaching the Vancouver Sea Island R.C.A.F. hockey team. Frank is moaning because Bob Whitelaw, former Detroit Red Wings defenceman, is with the R.C.A.F. in Vancouver, but Seahawks cannot use him because Whitelaw is taking a training course which prevents him playing hockey....Harry (Calgary Albertan) Scott believes there must be something more to withdrawal of the Calgary R.C.A.F. Mustangs from the Alberta Senior League than the reason given—insufficient players. Calgary says available R.C.A.F. players there include Russ Dertell, Bill Dertell, Pete Slobodian, Ken Hunter, Johnny Chad, Mitch Pechet, Doug French, Curly Hunt, as well as some clever junior products.

Brian Timmis' statement that old-time football teams such as Regina Roughriders of 1920-22 would run right over teams of to-day brought criticism as expected. Vern DeGeer of the Toronto Globe and Mail recalls that Roughriders did not even win in the West in 1921 and '22 when Edmonton Eskimos came East and took 32-0 and 13-1 beatings from Argos and Queen's. And the next year many of the 'Riders of Timmis' day were on the team that took a 54-0 lacing from Queen's. There's been criticism of Timmis' statement Joe Krol of Hamilton is the greatest football player he has seen in Canada. Down here they claim Lionel Conacher was tops— but, strangely enough, Timmis never saw Conny play.

Incidentally:

The Kiwanis Club has taken over Storey Park in Moncton, N.B., planning to operate it as a playground and athletic park — something long needed in that city.... Manitoba curlers raised more than $40,000 for the Red Cross in the past three years and this year they are aiming at $25,000.....They're calling Johnny Ubriaco, former Sault Ste. Marie boy now playing hockey with Galt Junior Kists, the "Red Tilson" of 1943-44.....Bill Cook's eldest son Jimmy is training with the R.C.A.F. at Regina, and may try out with a junior hockey team there.

Toronto R.C.A.F. Upsets Kingston Army

By W. M. GLADISH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Trailing badly in the Senior O.H.A. race with losses in three straight games, Toronto R.C.A.F. spiralled to their first victory of the season last night at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, sending Kingston Frontenac Army into a dizzy third-period spin to win out 8-6 after being one goal down at the close of the second stanza.

It was the first clash of the campaign for the pair and the Airmen signalized the occasion by scoring more tallies than they had totalled in all three previous appearances.

As for the soldiers, they had won their first two league matches and looked like the team to beat but, after two straight lickings, they are in second place—with Hamilton Majors, the only crew in the unbeaten class, on top of the five-team heap.

Stars Missing

Without attempting to sabotage the Air Force success, it must be recorded that Kingston's line-up was a bit strange with several leading snipers on the missing list. Those absent included Steve Latoski, former Cornwallite; Red Tilson, previously with Oshawa; Macey and Nelson. Robert "Red" Hamill added to his season's count with two goals, a feat that was duplicated by Giesebrecht.

Collings, Wilson and Burns each grabbed a brace of direct hits for the air contingent while Bus Wycherley secured his first goal of the year. Norm Tustin was also right in there for a goal, to which he added no less than four points for assists. "Red" Heron was forced to be content with three assists.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. —(AP).— One ray of hope for the minor leagues at next week's baseball meetings— Leo Bondy the Giants' secretary, says his club has enough young players ta supply a couple of Class "D" teams if they can find leagues that are operating next summer....The Giants are trying to fix up a working agreement with the Bradford, Pa., Pony League club to-day because they don't want to risk spoiling some good prospects by starting them in too fast company....And no cracks, please, about the class of ball the Giants played last season.

Don Good Player.

Further word on Don Hutson from a guy who should know: Pete Cawthorn, the grid Dodgers' coach, argues that the other Green Bay players ought to chip in part of their salaries to raise Don's pay... "Why," says Pete, "one play Sunday Pug Manders had him completely covered and Hutson just stuck out one big hand in Pug's face and reached down around his knee somewhere to catch the ball with the other hand....Then he apologized to Manders for doing it."

One Minute Sports Page.

Harry Fitzpatrick, leading harness-race driver of 1943, will train exclusively for E. J. Baker of St. Charles, Ills., next summer....Deacon Branch Rickey will serve as guest arbitrator on A. L. Alexander's "mediation board" broadcast Sunday night—which probably will leave very little time for the customers to present their problems.

Would Build New Race Track

TRENTON, N.J., Nov. 23—(AP) —Application for a licence to construct and operate a $2,000,000 horse race track with pari-mutuel betting on the 550-acre Atlantic Pines golf course near Mays Landing was made Monday before the New Jersey Racing Commission by the Atlantic City Racing Association.

The site of the proposed track, 13½ miles from Atlantic City, is located between the Black Horse and White Horse Pikes, main highways connecting Philadelphia and Atlantic City. It is near the tracks of the Pennsylvania-Reading Railroad Seashore Lines.

The association deposited with the commission a certified cheque for $10,000 and a certificate from a bank that the applicants had on deposit a sum in excess of $1,000,000 as evidence of financial responsibility.

John Sloan, a New York architect, said plans called for construction of a modern racing plant, and that with a view to possible wide-spread use of helicopters after the war a landing field would be built. Plans also call for escalators to be installed in the grandstands.

Listed as incorporators in the papers filed with the Secretary of State were Dr. James H. Mason, Ventnor, and Max Malamut and Frank D. Fiori, operators respectively of the Breakers and Penn-Atlantic Hotels in Atlantic City.

Monthly Quota On Beer To Be Reduced

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—Two classes of beer licenses for hotels will be issued by the Liquor Control Board to establish a distinction between hotels operating as hotels and those which are nothing more than taverns possessing no more than the minimum number of bedrooms required by the Act, it was reported at Queen's Park yesterday. The Class A license will entail a smaller fee than the one to be imposed on the Class B authority holders, it was stated.

Liquor Board Chairman A. St. Clair Gordon will announce drastic changes in hotel administration as well as in the distribution of beer. All authority holders will receive between 10 and 15 per cent. less gallonage in beer and this will be diverted to brewery warehouses in an effort to end the queuing up. The beer quota, now standing at 36 pints a month, will be lowered to 24 pints a month, the idea being to distribute available supplies as far and wide as possible.

Affects Clubs, Too.

Club authorities are to receive new treatment as well, it was reported. Each club will be supplied with 24 pints per certified member per month, and probably a basic period for club membership will be set forth to prevent padding of membership lists.

A substantial fee payable to the Liquor Board will also be imposed, replacing the fee now paid. Class A hotels will pay a smaller amount than the hotels classed as taverns, but the former will receive no advantage in beer gallonage.

The beer to become available for authority holders will be on a pre-war basis when total consumption was about 25 million gallons yearly. Today the consumption is more than 41 millions.

Placing the beer allotment for hotels on a pre-war basis means that the hotel beverage rooms will be putting up the "sold out" sign much earlier than they do today, but the home consumer will reap the benefit. To those who may protest over the reduction in the individual quota, it is pointed out that they rarely received the present quota, anyway, and the cut in the amount available for each person will result in more people getting all they are entitled to.

Transfer Control System.

The Government and the Liquor Board plan to abolish trafficking in hotel transfers by a control system which will eliminate the profit motive. At present there are a number of hotel transfers awaiting approval by the board, some of them in the Toronto area. These will come under a new ruling which will direct that part of the purchase price of a hotel go to the board. These beer authority licenses will be treated as having no value, the board holding that a license is not granted to increase the value of a hotel, but to provide a service to the public.

More Russians Land In Crimea

LONDON, Nov. 23 (CP). — The Berlin radio said to-day the Russians had made another se-borne landing on the Crimean peninsula south of Kerch, where the Red Army of the Caucasus has been battling for days to enlarge its bridgeheads.

The broadcast declared, however, that three landing barges had been sunk and the others had been forced to turn back. About 20 heavily laden craft participated in the assault, the Germans said.

Nazis Start

Buttressed by fleet of giant tanks, the Russians smashed powerful Nazi attacks near Korostychev, 20 miles east of Zhitomir, a Russian communique said. Soviet forces also repulsed two vicious thrusts near Chernyakhov, 10 miles north of Zhitomir, apparently aimed at Korosten, key rail city straddling the Leningrad-Odessa and Kiev-Warsaw railways.

Still Hold Zhitomir

Field Marshal Fritz von Mannstein, who launched the tremendous new Nazi onslaught to halt the Russian offensive, apparently had little to show for his pains except the city of Zhitomir and a few segments of territory to the north and east. The Russians war bulletin announcing his repulse for the third successive day indicated a possible collapse of the savage Nazi counter-offensive.

Other Russian armies, meanwhile, pounded the German lines far to the north and south of the Kiev bulge.

In the Rechitsa area in White Russia, Gen. Constantin Rokossovsky's forces struck westward on a 100-mile front to liberate 30 towns and villages, the Russians announced. The Soviet troops were said to have reached the junction of the Berezina and Dnieper rivers, 15 miles north of Rechitsa, tightening the nose around the key base of Gomel, fall of which appeared but a matter of hours.

In the Dnieper bend twin Red army columns were battering their way closer to Krivo Rog and Nikopol, Moscow declared. South of Kremenchug, Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's armored forces were reported to have smashed repeated counter-drives and captured six strongly fortified defence points. Front dispatches said this drive had advanced 20 miles on a 30-mile front.

CBS recorded a Berlin propaganda broadcast last night which said that "thousands upon thousands of native Ukrainians are forsaking their homes in order to escape Bolshevik attacks; entire cities are being vacated and there are endless crowds of refugees making their way westward."

Canadian heavy bombers pounded Berlin and Ludwigshafen in the greatest assault of the war last Thursday night during which 350 two-ton block busters were dropped on the capital.

The International Information Bureau, a Nazi propaganda agency, said in a broadcast that "reports have been received of destruction of irreplaceable art and historical buildings and of damage suffered by buildings belonging to diplomatic missions of a number of neutral states.'

88th Raid.

Describing the attack a "heavy terror raid"—the usual Nazi label for heavy assaults — the broadcast said the raid caused "serious damage and losses among the population in numerous districts."

The broadcast made none of the usual claims of R.A.F. planes being shot down, indicating that the bombers, like the others last week, encountered little fighter opposition. In the last week's assault 32 British and Canadian bombers were lost—regarded as a small percentage for the magnitude of the operation.

The bomb total dropped on Berlin thus far this year already has reached 7,500 tons—equal to the total weight dropped on London in the Battle of Britain when the heaviest attack was 450 tons.

Last night's raid was the 88th on the German capital since the start of the war.

Chiang Kai-Shek May Attend Proposed Meet

By E. C. DANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP) — The long-awaited conference between Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin, which reports from abroad indicate is imminent, assumed greater potential proportions today as rumors circulated in London that Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek might participate.

In keeping with the strict official silence which has been maintained here in connection with all reports concerning a possible meeting of the British, American and Russian statesmen, the rumors concerning Chiang passed without comment.

The presence of the Chinese leader, however, doubtless would be welcome as demonstrating the determination of the four powers to collaborate in keeping the peace after the war.

Even without Chiang's participation, any meeting between Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin unquestionably would exceed in scope and significance anything previously attempted in the field of international diplomacy.

Never Tried Before

Certainly no such meetings of the chiefs of the three great governments, involving travel over enormous distances with attendant risks, has ever been attempted before.

The impression persists here that any such conference as that envisioned would have two major objectives:—

First, to obtain solid agreement of the highest authorities of the three powers on the terms of the recent Moscow decisions.

Second, to make absolutely final decisions on a military and propaganda campaign to end the war in Europe by persuading or beating the German people into surrender.

In this connection the London Daily Herald printed today a dispatch from its Washington correspondent saying that there was a growing belief in the United States capital that "a Roosevelt-Stalin-Churchill conference may result in a joint general staff of the three powers."

Chinese, Japs In Bitter Fight

CHUNGKING, Nov. 23—(AP)—Close-quarter combat at the outer defences of Changteh, key to the provincial capital of Changsha, in which both sides were suffering "great losses" was announced by the Chinese high command today.

Japanese infantry, artillery, cavalry and planes were pounding the Chinese southeast of Tzeli, 30 miles nortwhset of Changteh, and other Japanese forces were laying siege to Hanshow, 20 miles southeast of Changteh, in an effort to encircle the potential springboard for a fourth great battle for the capital of Hunan province in Central China.

Tankers Collide Few Escape

LEWIS, Del., Nov. 23 (AP). — Charred bodies of four seamen were brought ashore today as coast guard cutters searched the fog-bound North Atlantic off Cape Henlopen for more victims or survivors of a collision of two tankers—the Altair and the Bostonian—58 miles off the coast early yesterday.

The fourth naval district said an undetermined number of men were missing, with most feared dead, but 43 survivors already have been landed here. Four were taken to Beebe Hospital and two later were discharged.

The Altair caught fire after the crash, which occurred in dense fog. The navy said a tug had her in tow and the flames were under control. The other, although damaged, reached and unidentified Atlantic port under its own power.

Witnesses said survivors resembled West Indians, indicating one of the ships may have sailed from a Caribbean port.

If YOU waste THEY want!

It may seem tough, when you're making good wages, to go on wearing old clothes. But it would be a good deal tougher if our boys overseas didn't get the supplies they need. So please remember the United Nations have only so many ships, trains and machines. Anything wasted here means shortage somewhere else. Save now . . . spend when the war is won.

Germans Claim New Secret Weapon

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 23 —(CP)— The Germans are at their favorite game again, playing at "secret weapons."

Every so often, more and more frequently as the going gets tougher for them, the Nazis pull out this old chestnut, promising the people everything will be all right once the secret weapon goes into action.

Significantly, they promised one after Stalingrad, again after the Sicily landings and now again, with the Russian offensive rolling inexorably and Allied aerial assaults blotting out German cities, ports and war factories.

Discussion of a possible Nazi secret weapon was heard in London after a mystery explosion wrecked a five-storey building in Lindon's shop night club belt. However, enough evidence was accumulated Saturday to dispel the supposition that a noiseless invisible projectile might have caused the blast, or that it was due to any kind of enemy action, but the exact cause remains obscure.

Rocket-projectile

The favorite weapon of the moment is a rocket-projectile fired from the French coast to smash targets as far away as London. While the Nazis were talking this up they allowed the Berlin correspondent of the Geneva newspaper La Suisse to telephone this familiar line:

"Germany claims the right to abandon all principles of humanity in reprisal raids. Her revenge will not be directed merely against objects of all kinds in England, but against the civilian population as well."

From Instanbul, Cedric Slater, Daily Express staff reporter in Turkey cabled that he had been told only two things are keeping German morale from snapping. One is a belief that differences yet will arise between Russia and the democracies and the second is "the people's sincere belief in the terrible efficiency of the German secret reprisal weapon."

"If by Christmas this reprisal weapon has not materialized, I personally predict a rapid crumbling of the internal morale of the Germans," Slater quoted his source, an anti-Nazi Austrian industrialist refugee, as saying.

Wounded Man Shows Rare Courage

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 23 (CP)—He lies there on a hospital bed in a plaster cast or he hobbles about the ward on a crutch. In many ways he is the forgotten man of the war, the fighting man who can no longer fight, the discard for whom the future may hold the prospect of a pension or a fake leg.

He is the man who could be better, but isn't. He grins and takes it and is a pretty terrific guy.

So this is a humble tribute to Canada's maimed and wounded of World War II.

It is a tribute to a man like Maj. H. E. Irwin of Whitby, Ont., who can look at the scanty stump of what was a left arm and grin, "I've found that the only thing I can't do without it is wash my right hand."

This is his story:

Vehicle Upsets

As a tank officer, he went through the entire campaign in Sicily with the Ontario Regiment, gaining a strong respect for the British troops with whom they co-operated and for the Canadian troops fighting with the Eighth Army.

As a liaison officer, he joined in the plans for the assault on Italy and was returning to his unit to explain them when his vehicle overturned and virtually severed his left arm.

They returned him to Britain and he now is a patient in the hospital where his wife, the former Selma Erickson of Donalda, Alta., is a nursing sister. They met when he was in hospital months ago and were married 11 days before he sailed with the Sicily forces.

The pensions people wanted Maj. Irwin returned to Canada but he wasn't having that. Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton had told him in a Sicily hospital he had a job for him back in England and Irwin intends to fill it.

It looks now as though he will—as soon as they fit him out with an artificial limb. The major removed the last obstacle to that when he went back to the operating room to have an extra three inches cut from his arm.

Restaurant Man Is Fined $20 And Costs

"This is not a flagrant case," said Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., prosecuting for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in a charge in police court this morning against a George street restaurant owner of having sold meals during the month of October at prices higher than the ceiling price.

"The fine I have been imposing in similar cases has been $25," stated Magistrate Langley.

"In other cases there was a plea of 'not guilty' and the hearings took considerable time," said Mr. Gordon. "This man has pleaded guilty and that should make some difference. I believe that a $20 fine would be sufficient."

Magistrate Langley made the fine $20 with costs of $1.75.

Three Names Enscribed On Honor Roll

The names of Flying Officer Gerald William Fitzgerald, Lance Sergeant James Clancy, and Sergeant George Hall of the R.C.A.F., Peterborough young men killed in action, were inscribed in the municipal records of the city Monday night with a notation of their sacrifice.

A resolution by Aldermen Gordon and Cotton directed City Clerk Outram to enter in the minutes the record that Lance Sergeant James Clancy of Peterborough, a member of the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment, was killed in action in Italy on October 27, 1943, while fighting with the British 8th Army; and that the sympathy of the council be conveyed to his father, William Clancy, 784 Water street.

A similar resolution by Aldermen Sullivan and Glover recorded that Flying Officer Gerald William Fitzgerald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Fitzgerald, 254 Aylmer street, having been reported missing, has been reported officially as having lost his life while flying with the R.C.A.F. in July this year in air operations over the territory of the enemy, and "that the sympathy of this council be conveyed to his parents."

The third of these tributary resolutions, by Aldermen Gordon and Cotton, inscribed a minute that Sergeant George Hall of the R.C.A.F., 12 Crescent street, who was reported missing on March 13, 1943, following air operations over the enemy's territory, is now officially presumed dead, and that the sympathy of the council be expressed to his wife and to his father.

Labor Leader Dies In Ottawa

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 (CP)—Patrick M. Draper, 75, secretary-treasurer or president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada for 40 years and organizer in 1897 of the Allied Trades and Labor Association—central body of International Labor in Ottawa—died here today.

Mr. Draper was made honorary life president of the T.L.C. when he retired from the presidency in 1939. He was employed by the Government Printing Bureau for 45 years, retiring as its director and superintendent in 1933.

Born in Aylmer, Que., he learned the printing trade with the old Aylmer Times later working as a compositor and printer when the Government Printing Bureau was organized in 1886.

Mr. Draper advised the late Sir Robert Borden on Labor questions when Sir Robert—Prime Minister of Canada during the First Great War—was called in 1918 to counsel with Empire leaders in the drafting of the Versailles Treaty.

In 1902 and 1907 Mr. Draper was fraternal delegate from the T.L.C. to the American Federation of Labor, and in 1913 was first delegate from the Congress to the Manchester convention of the British Trades Union Congress.

He represented the working people of Canada at the International Labor Convention in Washington in 1919, and in 1925, 1927 and 1929 was representative of Canadian Labor at the International Labor Conferences, Geneva.

Miss Conley Named To Kingston Post

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 23.—(Special).—Kingston City Council last night appointed Miss G. Conley, of Peterborough, as supervising nurse for the local health department at initial salary of $1,800 plus yearly increase until maximum of $2,000 reached. Miss Conley assumes duties January 1. Some aldermen voiced objections to the appointment, claiming Kingston's health services are costing too much. Mayor H. A. Stewart, defending the move, said the plan was for eventual amalgamation of health services and nursing services.

Youth Of 16 Bags 280-Pound Buck

David Addyman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Addyman, Lansdowne street, a third year student at the Grove School, shot what is believed to be the biggest buck taken in the Haliburton district during the recent deer hunt.

This 16-year-old nimrod was on his first hunt with his father, Bill Addyman, who operates the Peterborough-Hamilton Transport. They were hunting along the north shore of Crooked Lake, sometimes called Lake Haliburton, and were at McDonald's Camp.

David bagged the buck early one morning, bringing it down with two shots from a .250-3000 calibre rifle, and the beautiful head had 14 points, or as is commonly known, a 7-point buck. The deer weighed 280 pounds.

Hull's Appeal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull caled last night on all peace-loving countries to resolve now "to construct an international organization so strong and so effective that never again can ruthless tyrants make a serious bid to conquer and enslave the world."

Mourners Missing At Funeral On Monday As Peterboro Native Buried Beside Sister

A pathetic irony of life and reflex of one of its deeper human attachments was indicated in the burial Monday in Little Lake Cemetery of John James Elliott, eight-six years old, who died in Saskatoon on Friday, November 19.

Described as the last member of an old Peterborough family, presumably Mr. Elliott wished to be buried here in the family plot. The burial service was held in the chapel at Little Lake Cemetery during the noon hour Monday, and shortly after the arrival of the noon train from Toronto.

This service was read by Rev. Fred W. Craik, and only two other persons were present, the undertaker, and the superintendent of the cemetery, C. F. Kitney. There were no pall bearers.

Death and apparently a strong family affection brought another of the Elliotts back home as the body of John James was placed beside the remains of his sister, Evelyn Elliott, who died in Portland, Maine, and was buried here in 1940.

At the request of the Examiner for any other available information, Mr. Kitney referred to the plot records which disclosed the fact that James F. Elliott and his wife, Isabel C. Elliott, parents, were buried there in 1890. Other members of the family who rest with them in their silent and timeless unity of the grave are Catherine, Robert and Margaret Elliott.

Norwood Church Gives $32 To War Victims

Memories of the greatest world war up to its time of some 25 years ago, were intermingled with those of a still greater one now existent, when a Remembrance Day service was held in the United Church at Norwood on the evening of November 7, to honor the sacred memory of those who had paid the highest sacrifice in defence of their country's cause both now and then.

At this service a special appeal was made on behalf of the victims of air raids over Britain, which has since been forwarded and received by the Peterborough and District British War Victims fund, in an amount of $32.07 through B. W. Squire and A. W. Weir, this being credited in today's receipts for the fund.

Nothing perhaps could have been more appropriate than that this appeal should have taken place at this time, for no better tribute could be paid to the memory of those who have fallen, than for those now living to do some good in their name to others who had suffered in the same cause, and needed help to re-establish their homes destroyed through the misfortunes of war.

Coming at this time, it was also most fitting that the Church should take its place in assisting the special donations for Christmas now being raised, for these celebrations have as their central feature, an historical fact around which all Christian bodies, irrespective of denomination evolve their beliefs.

Smith Township School Helps

In the special donations that were raised last year for Christmas, the boys and girls of the schools in Smith Township took quite a part, and today they have again made a start for this year, with school section No. 11 under the direction of Miss Ruth Cameron being the first to report with a donation of $8.00 also recorded today.

Given leadership in any act for good, children respond as a general rule in a manner far surpassing that which they would be judged capable of, and through it they are being led to a much preferred citizenship, which undoubtedly will show in their lives at a later date.

Nancy Gives Christmas Cheer

In both a personal way, and through association with others in group efforts, Nancy Derry living in the west-end of the city has helped the fund on a number of occasions. Some girls in Britain are going to be a bit happier this Christmas through the $5.00 listed in her name today, and that is a fine thing for her to remember in the days to come, when happily the whole world will again be at peace, and reminiscences of the strenuous days we live in are recalled.

Mrs. Hubert Asks To Attend Hubert's Funeral

Arrangements have been made for the funeral of John E. Hubert which will be held on Wednesday afternoon from Comstock's funeral parlors at 2 o'clock, with interment in Little Lake cemetery.

Mrs. Hubert expressed a hope Monday that she might be permitted to attend under escort the funeral of her husband, but Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., stated this morning that she would not be allowed to do so.

The arraignment of the Douro woman on a charge of murder has caused a number of citizens to remark that this is the first time in Peterborough County that a woman has been charged with murder.

That of course is not correct. It is true that no woman has ever been convicted here of murder but at least three others have been charged.

One case dates back to the end of the last century and was featured by the late Inspector Murray in his book "Memoirs of a Great Detective." It concerned a married couple who were brought back from Florida to answer a charge of murder in connection with the death of a man who had lost his life when the Scollie home was burned some time previously. The charges were dismissed when the case was tried.

Two other cases in which women were charged here with murder were recalled today out of his vast store of criminal investigations by Chief Constable Newhall, who played a big part in the arrest of both women.

One was a Dummer woman who was put on trial in 1922 charged with the strychnine-poison of her son. She was subsequently acquitted. The other was also a Dummer woman, who with her husband, was charged in 1916, with the murder of their daughter. That case was also dismissed when it came to trial.

Warn Sportsmen Shun Reserve

A warning that poaching in the Peterborough County game preserve is going to be closely checked and all offenders prosecuted, has been sounded by Charles G. Kingan, president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association.

"Overseer Windsor surprised four men in a boat crossing Eel's Creek below high Falls the other day" said Mr. Kingan, "these men had been hunting in the game park and the deer, boat, and some of the rifles were seized."

"We think its about time" he continued, "that hunters and trappers keep out of that territory so that we may have some game left to build up a new generation for the years to come."

"The department intends to keep a close watch and any offenders will receive heavy penalties if they do not discontinue poaching in the preserve."

GROCER PASSES—Robert H. Hunter, who for over 50 years has operated a grocery store on George Street, died on Monday in his 83rd year.

Claraday Asking Extension Of George Street

If the city were to hold out any promises or other inducements to the Claraday residents of North Monaghan, their action for annexation could thereby be invalidated, said alderman Gordon at the council meeting Monday night in reply to a deputation from that area.

Robert Hanscom, speaking on behalf of the deputation of about ten of the ratepayers from the southeast end of the township,-south of Lansdowne and east of Park street, said their petition had been presented to the township clerk. It was signed by more than 60% of the electors in that district.

In the canvass for support of annexation to the city, some special questions were asked by North Monaghan people, and the deputation was passing them on to the city.

Would the city, in event of annexation, extend George Street through the Exhibition Park?

Would the city assume a percentage of the cost of recent work done on McGill Street sewer, bear part of the cost of the stret intersections?

Would the council assume 40 per cent of the cost of any remaining paving that would have to be done in the suburban section?

These were some of the points which residents had brought to the attention of canvassers.

"Just expressing my own opinion, I think this council is favorable enough, but it would not do to put it on record . The petition to the Ontario Municipal Board could be put aside on that ground," Alderman ition time.

It seemed to be one of those situations in which a wink is as good as a nod.

Alderman Sands said he was personally in favor of "putting George Street through the Exhibition Park".

Alderman Bradburn pointed out that this is done through the properties of both Toronto and Ottawa Exhibitions. The street through the park could be closed during exhibition time.

The sentiment of a resolution by Alderman Gordon and Cotton was to the effect that a petition having been received from North Monaghan residents the council gave favorable consideration to it, and formally expressed its opinion that it was expedient to annex that southeast area to the city.

"I think you should send a copy to the Exhibition Board and to the Harold A. Morrow Trust," Alderman Glover advised.

James Baird Dies Suddenly

James Baird, of 315 Elias Avenue, prominent in Masonic and lawn bowling circles, died very suddenly on Monday afternoon while attending the annual re-union of the Scottish Rite Masons. Mr. Baird was assisting in some degree work when he collapsed on the floor of the lodge room, and although six doctors were in the immediate vicinity there was nothing that could be done for him.

Born in Deseronto 52 years ago, he was the son of James Baird and the late Sarah Baird, his mother passing away last May. He was a machinist by trade and was employed as supervisor of the Separator Department of the De Laval Company. Mr. Baird came to Peterborough 30 years ago after learning his trade at the Dodge Pulley Works in Toronto.

He was a member of the Trinity United Church, a vice-president of the Lawn Bowling Club, a Past Master of Peterborough Lodge A. F. and A.M., a member of the Lodge of Perfection, and a member of the Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Pearl Armstrong, one daughter Mrs. F. M. Vivash, and two sons George and Andrew Baird, all of Peterborough; his father, two sisters, Mrs. Fred Graham and Mrs. James McDonald, both of Toronto, and one brother John of Toronto.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at three o'clock from the residence 315 Elias Avenue, with the Rev. Dr. George Easton officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

Committee Is Named To Study Removal Of Gasoline Tanks

Opposition to oil tanks and warehouses in the heart of Ashburnham, accentuated since the Canadian Oil Company fire a few weeks ago, was expressed without and within the city council Monday night as Leo Allen and Fred Flaherty followed up a petition for removal of the gasoline and oil storage.

"There are five of those places in Peterborough and three of them are in Ashburnham," said Alderman Swanston. "If it was Gilmour Street they'd soon be out of there. I think the council should try to do something to have them removed."

Alderman Gordon dryly remarked that the oil companies owned their properties, have provincial permits, and were in possession.

"Do you mean to say they can go where they like," Alderman Swanston enquired.

Alderman Glover said he was convinced the Fire Marshall would not allow it if the situation was brought to his attention.

Mr. Allen said that the people across the river would probably be satisfied even if something had to be paid to bring about the removal of the tanks. "George Gimblett and his men did a swell job that night for Ashburnham. With all the churches and schools, the hospital and other buildings in that district it is really no place for gas and oil tanks. They should never have been allowed there."

Alderman Glover said he knew that some of the folks over there were not sleeping much these nights since the shocking experience of the fire.

Alderman Sullivan said he did not wish to dilute the tribute to the fire department, but he felt that the weather conditions the night of the fire were almost providentially favored to the Ashburnham residents.

Alderman Dutton commented that the council could not escape responsibility for the lives and property of the people.

Alderman Gordon moved, seconded by Alderman Dutton, that Aldermen Swanston, Curtis and Glover be appointed to consider what could be done to meet the appeal of the largely signed petition.

Alderman Bradburn proposed that the first thing to be done was to interview the oil companies and ask them to find other locations. Mayor Hamilton said he would be in Toronto Wednesday and would try to call at both the Canadian and British-American oil offices. The committee may consult the companies, the Fire Marshall and the Ontario Government in a determined effort to press the claims of the Ashburnham people.

Percy Farmer Is Fined $20

Giving judgment in police court this morning in a charge of reckless driving against James T. O'Reilly, Percy Township farmer, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., found the accused guilty.

The evidence in the case was heard a week ago and judgment was deferred until today.

The charge against O'Reilly had been laid by Provincial Constable Archie Grayling, of Norwood, after an accident 2½ miles west of Norwood on Highway 7 when a truck driven by the accused collided with the rear end of a milk truck parked on the side of the highway on a hill. Two passengers in O'Reilly's truck were injured.

"From the first I was convinced," said the magistrate in his finding, "that the accused would have been found guilty if the charge had been laid under the careless driving section of the Ontario Traffic Act, instead of under the code. But I have decided after consideration that a conviction under this charge is justified. I have considered every feature of the matter, including the various cases referred to me by Mr. Carley and other cases, and I think this is a proper case for conviction."

Magistrate Langley imposed a fine of $20 and $11.40 costs, pointing out that there were extenuating circumstances in the case and he had considered them in arriving at a penalty.

O'Reilly was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Women's Organizations Aid Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund

The introduction of women's services in England and the increasing number of women in uniform after the outbreak of war, presented a very real problem, and the government, knowing the experience the Y.W.C.A. had had in providing entertainment and recreation for young women, asked the British Y.W.C.A. to take charge of the problem of giving servicewomen a chance to enjoy themselves in the company of other girls, and to meet other women in the services.

To set up recreation huts, leave hostels, clubs, and mobile vans for the purpose of helping servicewomen, was a tremendous task, and of course funds were needed to begin the job of organizing and planning. The British Y.W.C.A. started a drive for funds, and soon began to put their ideas into practice.

The Canadian Y.W.C.A.'s, realizing that this new plan was an invaluable aid to Canadian girls who had been sent to England, decided to send a real token of their appreciation for the kindness and hospitality shown to Canadians, and an objective of $100,000 was set up, under the name of the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund. A sum of $70,000 has already been sent, and the final drive for the remaining $30,000 is now under way. The balance which Peterborough owes on its allocation to the fund is $400.

This idea of planned service for women is not confined to England, and where ever servicewomen have been sent, these services follow them, and hostels and huts have been set up in North Africa and also in the Near East.

Although the Y.W.C.A. has nominally taken over the task of the raising of money, women's groups and organizations all over the country have donated money to this fund. Towns and cities have also taken up the idea, and one town, Listowel, set up an objective of $1,000, one dollar per capita, and all the service and women's groups worked until that sum had been reached, and then it was sent to the Fund.

Women's groups and other service organizations in Peterborough have been most generous in their support of this fund, and Mrs. T. J. Carley, who is convener of the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund, is confident that the remaining $400 will be raised and sent, in the name of the people of Peterborough, to provide comforts and recreation for Canadian girls, and girls from all countries in the services.

M. E. Pratt Weds L. MacDonald

GORE'S LANDING, Nov. 23 —(EIS)—A pretty wedding was held in the United church on Saturday afternoon when Margaret Emily, daughter of Mrs. F. W. Pratt and the late Mr. Pratt, was united in marriage to Lynn MacDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. MacDonald of this village. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. C. Fisher and the wedding music was played by Mrs. R. J. Meggs.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Wallace Pratt, who gave her in marriage. Her costume was a cerise wool dress with brown hat and shoes and a corsage of bronze mums.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to Kingston and Gananoque. On their return, they will be at home to their friends in their new home on Valley Road, Gore's Landing.

Weevil Plague Beaten By Special Dust

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 (CP). — Discovery of a special kind of dust that spells death to weevils in stored grain does not mean Canadian farmers will be immediately relieved of the labor involved in turning grain to check damage by insects, Agriculture Department experts said today.

With hundreds of millions of bushels of wheat, oats and barley in store, insect infestation has been under constant study by entomologists for several years. While the weevil is one pest reported in Canada, it has not been as widespread as a tiny mite—looking like a "drop of water with legs"—which causes considerable damage, especially in the west.

Losses through mite infestation have been checked by the use of certain fumigants in larger storage centres, while farmers have been counselled to turn their grain in storage bins where infestation appears. Handling the grain has the effect of killing the pests.

"Before any new powder or other method is used, extensive tests will be undertaken to make sure it does not leave damaging evidence on the grain," said one authority.

BLAST PREHISTORIC ICE

COURTENAY, B.C. — (CP). —A huge block of ice—believed a relic of some prehistoric glacier — was shattered by a powder charge placed 120 feet below ground level in a gravel pit near here. Some of the ice fragments weighed more than 15 pounds.

20,000 Russian Girls Drive Tractors

Written For The Canadian Press
By ALEXANDER YAKOVLEV

MOSCOW, Nov. 23. — (CP).— There wasn't a single woman tractor driver in Russia before the October revolution in 1917.

After the Soviet rule had been established, however, and particularly in the years before the present war, more and more women appeared behind tractor steering wheels. Nearly 20,000 young girls and women organized in brigades now operate tractors.

Most of these women brigades participate in an all-union competition for the highest results of their work. The 1942 competition was won by a brigade led by Darya Garmash Rybnova. All members of this brigade exceeded their planned work for the year and saved 6,084 kilograms (about six tons) of fuel. For this achievement the brigade received first prize of 10,000 rubles and a challenge red banner.

On the eve of the spring sowing campaign this year the champions appealed to all women tractor drivers and brigades to participate in the 1943 competition. The contest continued throughout the agricultural season.

Darya Garmash and her girl friends are out to retain the Red banner. Towards the end of spring sowing the brigade exceeded the yearly program by 280 per cent. and with the autumn plowing drawing to a close Darya Garmash and her mates stand a good chance of winning.

There are nine girl tractor drivers in Darya's brigade whose age range from 17 to 28.

The girls work in shifts, night and day, in all sorts of weather. Darya inspects the machines twice daily and is present during every shift.

They keep their machines in good order, oiling and repairing their tractors. The tanks are refuelled on the field and the radiators filled with water at the end of each run to save time.

Marya Kostrikina, 21-year-old member of Darya's brigade, is the leading woman tractor driver in the Soviet Union. She won first place in the individual competition for women drivers last year in which 164,755 girls participated. Marya plowed 1,084 hectares (about 2,168 acres) of land in 1942, which equalled 3½ years' planned work. She also saved nearly two tons of fuel.

Unknown Soldier Saves Woman

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 23—(CP).— Forcing open a door of a burning wrecked car at Duchess and Edward Streets here on Saturday night while flames encircled him and singed his hair and uniform, an unidentified soldier pulled a London woman and her dog to safety. After the rescue the soldier disappeared in the crowd and police are still seeking his identity.

The rescued were Mrs. F. J. Hill, London, whose husband is overseas and her Scotty dog Kiltie.

The accident involved two cars, one driven by Mrs. Hill and the other, police said, by a 15-year-old youth, Robert Ross McCullough, of London, who was uninjured.

Use Coupons For Maple Syrup

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 — (CP)—The Prices Board announced today that beginning next March 2, the value of "D" coupons for purchase of maple syrup will be increased from 12 to 20 ounces, and that the last "D" coupon in the present ration books will become valid on that date instead of March 30 as originally scheduled.

The move was taken to permit consumers to buy maple syrup in larger quantities when the season opens. Eight coupons under the new ration allotment will buy one gallon of syrup.

"Any coupon holder who save these coupons (all "D" coupons) from December 1 until March 2 will be able to buy at least a gallon of maple syrup in one purchase when the season opens," said the board. "A family of two would be able to buy two gallons, with two 'D' coupons to spare, and so forth."

The board also announced arrangements would be made to facilitate mail-order business in the maple syrup industry. It has long been the practice for many westerners to purchase maple syrup from eastern producers and dealers by mail. A system for handling the necessary coupons will be announced later.

RECOVERED QUICKLY
Three days after an eight-hour blitz on the docks of Liverpool England, every shift was working

Whether you ask for tea or coffee at your grocer's, remember to say "Red Rose", for the name "Red Rose" means QUALITY . . . and QUALITY means extra coupon value— more cups of good tea or coffee per coupon used.

Remember, too, that Red Rose Coffee now reaches you in the new "flavor-fresh" container which assures coffee freshness such as you have previously associated only with vacuum-packed coffees.

Wolves Attack Deer Hounds

WARSAW, Nov. 23 — (ENS).— Wolves are blamed for the scarcity of deer by the hunters returning from the north woods. The Rock Lake Hunter Club had to abandon camp after sighting but one deer. Wolves attacked the dogs and only for a timely shot that frightened the animal away two hounds would have been destroyed.

Bear Cleans Out Camp.

The story is being told of one local hunter, camped in the White Lake district, who neglected to fasten the camp door while he enjoyed a well earned sleep. A bear, in search of a change of diet, crept in, cleaned out the store of provisions, and departed, leaving the sleeper blissfully ignorant of his loss until some time later.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23.— (CP).— "We need a revitalized democracy, but no socialism," John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, Monday told members of the recently organized practical democracy club at the University of Manitoba.

"There must be an acceptance of individual responsibilities as well as individual rights and privileges," he said.

Human welfare must transcent all other considerations in the building of a new order after the war, he said, adding that no national party can hope to command public support on any other platform.

Gets His Deer

Lindsay, Nov. 23 (ENS).

REPORTS that deer were scarce did not prevent Ivan Richards, young Lindsay grocer, from taking a day off, buying a license and going for a hunt. He returned the same day with a 200 pound ten-point buck. "I guess I was lucky," the young man modestly explained. "I just stopped at the first likely place north of Coboconk, entered the woods and while I was eating my lunch I saw the deer coming. I waited, then fired one shot clipping the branches ahead of it. The buck turned and came right to me skidding to a stop when it sensed my presence. It was a beautiful shot and I didn't miss."

Parties of hunters in the same district returned after a week's hunt empty-handed.

Juvenile Delinquency

said. They find ready employment at comparatively large wages and they quickly develop a feeling of independence because money is coming directly into their hands in larger amounts than they had ever dreamed of at their age.

"You can notice the change in many cases after these youngsters get their first pay cheques," Mr. Sampson said.

Then, there are boys who find themselves at thirteen to fifteen years heads of their homes. The father and perhaps an older son are in the armed forces, or otherwise away from home, and these 'teenoge boys are elevated to the ranks of the adults.

Mothers in war plants, leaving young children more or less to fend for themselves, was another affecting cause. And all these conditions were being permitted to continue without any serious effort to offset their effects. Mr. Sampson also mentioned the boys of 14 to 16 and their readiness to turn their backs on school because they could not take a long view of their own futures. They knew that within two years or thereabouts they would be called for military duty. All these factors were lessening the stability of homes and seriously contributing to present day delinquency of children.

Meeting Conditions.

The Y.M.C.A. was endeavoring to meet these conditions with their High Y and Grade Y group organizations. They were also directing neighborhood groups which were increasing in great numbers all across Canada as their efficacy was recognized. Enforcement of child labor laws would be another help if carried out more stringently.

"We've got to show our 'teen-age young people that democracy really works. We must realize that they are going to have a most important part in anything we undertake to do in setting up any new world order. We have got to be friendly with them, patient. No 'teen-age boy or girl should grow up afraid of the future. We have got to help them meet it intelligently and realistically."

Mr. Sampson suggested that Rotary could help in this work of which the public is becoming more and more aware as a social necessity.

The club's thanks were extended to Mr. Sampson in a motion by C. S. Cummer.

Gordon Dobbin was introduced as a new member of the club by Ross L. Dobbin.

City Council Names Committee To Inquire Into Proposed Layoff Of Men At Genelco Plant

As a preliminary action upon the request of Genelco workers to co-operate with them in appealing to the department of Munitions and Supply for war orders that will keep the local plant at its recent level of operations, the city council last night appointed a committee to interview Ian F. McRae, works manager, for information from the standpoint of management prior to any further steps toward Ottawa.

The case of the employees was presented through Genelco Local 524, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, in a written statement to the council, and was reviewed last night by two representatives, Ellis Blair and N. Hamblin.

The Union's brief, as previously reported, informed the council that within a short time, according to notification from the management of Genelco, some 150 employees would be laid off; hours of work would be reduced on the day shift fror 54 to 50 a week; with a transfer of workers to other departments involving adjustment of wage rates, mostly downward.

Mr. Hamblin stated that thirty employees had been laid off at the recent week end.

Hope For Solution

Mr. Blair said the union was not antagonistic to the company nor to anyone else, but was trying to find a solution to a condition of reduced production of war supplies at Genelco. The company had informed the union that they were carrying out the instructions of the Department of Munitions and Supply, and the desire of the union was to assist the company in trying to obtain orders for some other work that could be done in the local plant.

"We suggested that the company and the union should apply jointly to the government, but the company replied that they felt they had gone as far as they thought they could go. We believed we should go further."

Mr. Blair said the union had submitted its case in writing to each member of the council. The statement, he said, was based on information received from the company in regard to certain changes which were to take place in the production of war supplies. The wish of the union was that the present employees should be retained in war production. They were averse to changing jobs after becoming accustomed to them and to the plant practice, and, in going to new conditions at another plant, they might have to face lower wages. Another objection, Mr. Blair said, was that they would have to leave Peterborough with a general upsetting of all their affairs.

"As citizens of Peterborough we felt that this matter and what is involved was of interest to the whole community, and we felt we should try to bring some pressure to bear in an effort to bring orders to this plant in Peterborough."

A Government Plant

Because it was a plant owned by the government, Mr. Blair said the members of the union considered they owed it to themselves and to men returning from the forces to endeavor to maintain its operations, and to that end a delegation to Ottawa might be able to secure from the Department of Munitions and Supply some re-allocation of orders. He said they were encouraged by changes in other plants which had avoided lay-offs.

"We were informed by the company today that one of the parts which we are able to make here has been transferred to a Hamilton plant that is working pretty well at capacity. We felt that the city council would consider it proper to assist in trying to secure extra employment for Peterborough. We are not concerned about immediately going to the government. We have been informed that Mr. Howe is willing to meet us, but we want to see if a turnover in the local plant might take up the slack of unemployment. At the week-end the company found it necessary to lay off fifteen men. They are being transferred to other jobs in the city. That is all right as far as it goes, but if the other plants here are not in a position to absorb men they will have to leave their homes in Peterborough. The keeping of working people in employment here is of direct benefit to the city. We have asked the company to cooperate in applying to the government to re-allocate orders to Peterborough because the local plant has both the machinery for making great many parts needed in war work and they have the employees who can produce them."

Mr. N. Hamblin, accompanying Mr. Blair, said he had nothing to add to the statement except the fact that the fifteen Genelco employees mentioned by Mr. Blair as having been laid off was nearer thirty.

Alderman Dutton asked whether the council had any information about the possibility of the C.G.E. taking on any of the Genelco employees. Mayor Hamilton answered that he was out of the city last week and was not in touch with any recent developments.

Mr. Hamblin said that Mr. Mellis of Selective Service was trying to place the men at Johnson Motors and Dominion Woollens, but that the C.G.E. was not mentioned.

Fair Presentation

"I appreciate the very fair manner in which Mr. Blair has explained things," said Alderman Glover, "After discusing the matter, there might be something we could do. It is of interest to the city, and I think we would all like to do anything we can to help out."

When the council arrived at the final stage of discussing general business, the union's request was re-introduced.

"If anything can be accomplished we should endeavor to meet their wishes," said Alderman Glover. "Wouldn't the company itself be perfectly satisfied if we sent some one to Ottawa? Mr. Blair said the company made representations, but got no results."

Alderman Sullivan said the situation was a forerunner of what was to be expected as orders became filled.

Alderman Glover said he agreed that there would have to be a gradual shift to civilian production.

"In fairness to ourselves and everybody I think we ought to hear the other side," Alderman Dutton suggested.

"If representatives went to Ottawa, and the minister said 'yes, we'll give you work,' it might take a year before we could get it. I believe the company has done all that can be done to get new work. They don't want to see machines standing idle any more than we do," said Alderman Sands.

"When several of us met members of the Union," Mayor Hamilton recalled, "we suggested that their parent organization should go to Ottawa, and find out how matters stood; that one deputation from Peterborough and another from somewhere else was not likely to get anywhere."

Alderman Gordon proposed that Aldermen Glover and Swanston be designated to go to Ottawa.

Alderman Swanston said it was not clear to him that the council should interfere. It seemed to be a matter between the government and the employees of Genelco. "If it is a government plant, then it is up to them. We don't come into the picture. We don't know anything about the war situation and the Department of Munitions."

Alderman Gordon—"Go down and find out."

Alderman Swanston—"You can't find out much. If other industries can't absorb them, probably we might go. I feel sympathetic toward those fellows, but as Alderman Sullivan said, the Selective Service was set up to take care of such cases."

Mayor Hamilton—"They want us to go down and see Mr. Howe, and ask for more work that could be done here."

"No Harm In Going"

Alderman Glover—"I don't see any harm in going. It would clarify the situation, and we'd find out what it was."

Alderman Gordon proposed that Alderman Glover represent the council, and could interview Genelco management first.

Alderman Dutton: "Why shouldn't the chairman of the manufacturers committee (Alderamn Bradburn) go?"

Alderman Bradburn—"I won't go to Ottawa until we've got more information. When we have got that, then we could decide what to do."

Mayor Hamilton accepted the desire of the council to appoint a committee to ask for an interview with Ian McRae of Genelco, and named for that purpose Aldermen Bradburn, Glover and Swanston.

Alderman Gordon closed the discussion on the remark that Mayor Hamilton had authority to send a representative council on a deputation at any time.

Crimean Slaughter Worries General

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 —(AP). — Maj.-Gen. Martin Lattman, a German officer who was captured at Stalingrad and is now a radio speaker for the Soviet-sponsored "Free Germany Committee," said today in a Moscow broadcast that the German Army had five to seven divisions hopelessly bottled up in the Crimea. Lattman called upon the Nazi division commanders to remember the "human aspects" of Stalingrad and surrender to avoid "senseless sacrifice."

"There may be only five or perhaps seven divisions out there, but there are a great number of wounded in various military hospitals," said Lattman in a broadcast to Germany reported by the United States foreign broadcast intelligence service.

"Does the German command on the peninsula seriously believe all these troops and wounded can be evacuated by sea and air," Lattman asked, "or do they intend to fight to the bitter end as Hitler had ordered the sixth army at Stalingrad? Their struggle on the Crimea is without the slightest significance for the outcome of the war."

Welsh Members Continue Demands

LONDON, Nov. 23 — (CP). — The Welsh parliamentary party is still working for the creation of a Welsh office and the appointment of a secretary of state and an undersecretary for Wales despite a refusal by the Prime Minister to meet a deputation in support of the proposal.

Unanimous in their stand, the 36 members of parliament for Wales and Monmouthshire contend that "there is no one within reach of the cabinet who can speak for Wales as a whole and who can give an objective and an unbiased account of Welsh public opinion."

The refusal of Mr. Churchill to meet their deputation, they said, "must surely be the first time in history that a completely united party in the House of Commons, presenting a unanimous request have been refused a hearing by the Prime Minister."

CONSIDER THE LEADS

MERE POSSESSION of a lot of big cards does not constitute enough reason to make a business double with the expectation of scoring penalty points. If those cards are bunched in your own hand, and you are reasonably sure your partner is not destined to get in the lead, you must revalue your own cards on their ability if you have to lead away from them. In case they are in tenace positions, this may make every lead cost you a trick.

North: ♠ J 10 5 3 2; ♥ Q 10 3 2; ♦ 9 3; ♣ J 10

West: ♠ A 6; ♥ K 7; ♦ A Q J 8 6 4; ♣ A Q 7

East: ♠ 9 8 7; ♥ 9 6 4; ♦ 10 7 5; ♣ 8 6 4 2

South: ♠ K Q 4; ♥ A J 8 5; ♦ K 2; ♣ K 9 5 3

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♥	2 ♦	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♥	Dbl

West explained after the disaster that he had expected to take two tricks each in the minors and one each in the majors, since his cards all were at the left of the opening bidder. That is exactly what he would have done if East could have led to him a couple of times, instead of West having to lead. But such was not to be.

It made little difference what defense West put up. Each of the two times he would have to lead would be sure to cost him a trick, cutting down his winners to four. He actually chose the club A as a choice of evils—a bad choice apparently, though it really did not matter. After that set up South's K, West led the 7 to it, setting up the 9 for South, who promptly used it to discard a diamond from dummy—though that didn't make any difference either.

After laying down the heart A, South put West in again with the K. West scored his spade A, to see what East would do, and then decided he had better score his diamond A. It was good he did, for if he had made any other lead, South would have had an extra trick, by dropping the last trump and using spades for discards of his two diamonds.

What principle of play should govern North's bidding on this deal?

PACIFIC-FAR EAST SITUATION—With announcements that the India-Burma-Chinese campaigns against Japan are about to be combined into one of the major thrusts of the war and the U.S. Navy Department statement that Japan was expected to abandon Rabaul, this map gives a complete picture of the scope of Pacific and Asiatic activities. At the UPPER RIGHT, pincer point indicates how Admiral Nimitz may approach Japan from Kurile Islands. Centered in the map are islands already the scenes of U.S. air attacks. The Gilberts and Marshalls have been raided; New Guinea bristles with action; the last of the Solomons has been invaded; U.S., Chinese and British troops and planes begin hammering a path out of India; Lord Mountbatten is quoted as "ready" for attacks in the Persian Gulf, and on Burma, and blasts against Indo-China will increase in force.

44 Countries Tackle Food Problems

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. Nov. 23 (AP)—The manner in which 44 countries will try to rehabilitate the war zones became clearer today as plans began to take shape both for footing the bill and for the actual task.

Through both plans — "financial" and "scope" in United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Conference terminology—ran one idea: that the countries, both those who receive aid and those who give it, intend to consult each other at every major step.

There are two objectives behind this:

To insure Allied armies all the supplies needed, even though fighting still is going on when the bulk of the buying starts.

To protect the Allied buying boards, now buying and allocating 95 per cent of the world's supplies outside enemy territory, from a world-wide inflation when U.N.R.R.A.'s purchasing begins to compete with war purchases.

A Mammoth Task

Col. John J. Llewellin, British delegate who is chairman of the committee on scope, said at a press conference that his committee believes U.N.R.R.A. Director General Herbert Lehman and the U.N.R.R.A. council must have full knowledge of relief and rehabilitation import requirements of areas. He said it has been agreed that member governments will keep U.N.R.R.A. fully informed.

Lehman will be requested to present overall relief requirements to the Allied purchasing boards, with his own recommendations and objections, he added.

The financial plan places the following safeguards arounds funds:

It asks that Lehman present as early as possible a program flexible enough to meet special emergencies; that he prepare an annual budget, accompanied by justification of the amount required; that member governments pay at approximately equal rates, and that Lehman make a "careful accounting" of all U.N.R.R.A. funds and properties.

Brigadier Wells Goes To Navy

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 CP).— Royal Canadian Navy headquarters today announced the appointment of Hon. Brig. the Rt. Rev. G. A. Wells as chief naval chaplain. Former principal Protestant chaplain to the three armed services, Bishop Wells was retired recently when he passed the maximum age of 60 years for active army service.

Because of increasingly heavy duties, the chaplaincy service of the three services had been separated in the last year, a separate chief Protestant chaplain having been appointed for the R.C.A.F. a year ago, while a separate army chaplain was appointed more recently.

Bishop Wells, formerly Bishop of the Anglican Diocese of Cariboo, served in the ranks in the South African war and in the First Great War was in the chaplain service. He was appointed chief Protestant chaplain to the three services in the present war in 1939.

Since navy chaplains hold no navy rank, he will be known as Bishop Wells.

New Division Believed Now In Italy

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 — (CP). — Belief that at least another division has been added to the Canadian strength in Italy with the arrival of new infantry and armored forces—announced yesterday at Algiers—was expressed in military circles here Monday.

William Stewart, Canadian Press war correspondent with Canadian forces in Italy, said in a dispatch that Canadian troops there will operate as a corps under Canadian command.

"I would conclude from that that another division has been added," said on informant. "The very fact that the Canadians are going to operate as a corps indicates that the strength now is too big for one divisional commander to handle."

Defence headquarters here were silent as to the identity of the new Canadian arrivals in the Italian theatre, but overseas dispatches said infantry and armored formations were included.

The new Canadian troops join the 1st Division which has been fighting since the opening of the Sicilian campaign last July as a part of the 8th Army.

Tobacco Moves

SIMCOE, Ont., Nov. 23 (CP).— It was estimated here Saturday that 43,000,000 pounds of flue-cured tobacco grown by the Marketing Association have been sold to date, leaving only 6,000,000 pounds to be cleared on the market which reopens to-day.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

The Scouters Club held their second and most successful annual banquet and social evening in the Y.M.C.A. during the past week. Only one thing marred the evening, that being the absence of the President Scouter Fred Ford who was confined to his home through sickness and we all wish him a speedy recovery. Mr. Barry Ottewell, president of the Local Scout Assoication filled the vacancy of Scouter Ford and was chairman. Short addresses were heard from the chairman, Commissioner E. Wolff and Sec. W. G. Shiner. One of the facts brought forward was the lack of information being sent in by the group officers. There are yet six groups that have not sent in their census returns although the necessary cards have been mailed to them for that purpose. Also group registrations have not yet been forwarded by many of the groups.

Quirt McKinney led in the sing-song and also took charge of the folk dancing that followed. The officers for the year were chosen as follows: President, E. McNabb; vice presidents, Bill King and Reg Perks; secretary, Mrs. Langhorne; treasurer, Miss Peggy Houghton; representatives to the local association, Messrs. McNabb and King. Mrs. K. Baxter was presented with certificate by Commissioner E. Wolff.

The next meeting of the club will be held in the home of Mr. A. Hope on Wednesday, December 8. Every officer is invited to attend and bring some small gift nicely camouflaged. Let us get behind the new slate of officers and reserve that date for them.

Word has been received from our old friend Pete Dominik. He is now in the far northern districts and will be there for the Christmas season and longer. I would urge that every one possible send him a letter. His address is: R.175451 LAC. Dominik L.C., N.W. Staying Unit, 2 R.C.A.F., Ft. St. John, B.C.

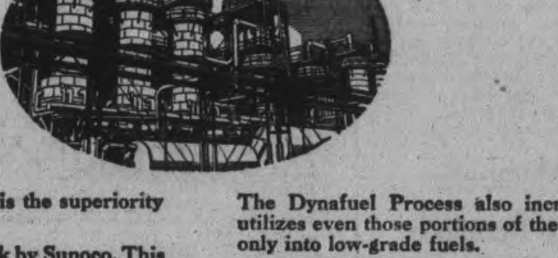
SUNOCO

DYNAFUEL

A SUPER AVIATION FUEL CONCENTRATE

50% more powerful than U. S. standard 100-octane test fuel



One reason for Allied mastery of the skies is the superiority of the fighting fuel that powers our planes.

Millions of gallons are being made every week by Sunoco. This huge quantity and the high quality of our output are made possible largely by Dynafuel, an exclusive development of Sunoco engineers and chemists.

50% More Power than U. S. Standard 100-Octane Test Fuel

Sunoco Dynafuel is more than a gasoline; it's a super aviation fuel concentrate which tests 50% higher in power than U. S. standard 100-octane test fuel! That is because Dynafuel contains a larger percentage of certain ingredients which have extraordinary power-producing qualities.

Increases Quality and Quantity

Dynafuel is never used undiluted, but is blended with gasolines produced by other methods, in order to step up their quality.

The Dynafuel Process also increases quantity—because it utilizes even those portions of the crude which formerly went only into low-grade fuels.

A Triumph of Private Initiative

Dynafuel was developed by Sunoco without government aid or subsidy. The company risked its own capital, its own credit, in order to pay the huge costs of building the plants for its production.

It is through such free play of private initiative that progress on this continent has been achieved.

Opens Up a New Future for Motorists

Dynafuel is not now available for civilians. Every drop is reserved for military needs. But just imagine what this super fuel will mean to future motor car development! The same processes and equipment which have contributed so importantly to the war may well revolutionize post-war travel, on our highways and skyways.

EVERYTHING SUNOCO DOES HAS VICTORY AS ITS PURPOSE

BERLIN BLASTED TWICE IN TWO DAYS

Russian Forces Withdraw For Third Time; Nazis Move Close To Kiev

New German Drive From Zhitomir Starts Soviet Retreat
Reds Fear Flank May Be Turned

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 24—(AP).—Strong German forces pushing toward Kiev with violent tank and air attacks have failed to break Russian army positions in depth, Red Star reported today. Three successive retreats which the Russians have made since the start of the major German counter-attacks in the Ukraine were attributed to heavy pressure of superior enemy numbers, but the army newspaper indicated the main Russian line was intact for the decisive stage of the battle.

(The German communique reported strong new Russian attacks along the lower Dnieper north of Nikopol and near Cherkasi were repulsed after temporary breakthroughs. The Germans said strong Russian forces were encircled west of Kiev.)

Kiev was captured November 6, and the Germans today were within 45 miles of the Ukrainain capital in the environs of Brusilov, after covering nearly half the distance back from Zhitomir.

The Red Army continued its own offensive in the triangle between the Pripet and Dnieper Rivers and the border between White Russia and the Ukraine.

8,000 Germans Die.

Red Star said Bragin, 65 miles southwest of Gomel, was captured by forces which penetrated deep enemy defences through swamps. In the Rechitsa sector just north of Bragin, Izvestia reported German tanks rolling westward under Russian pressure while Soviet planes strafed the German ground troops.

Inside the Dnieper Bend, Pravda reported that the Germans raised a strong screen of fire southwest of Dnepropetrovsk with artillery and mortars concentrated closely around their positions. Small Russian squads were reported operating against this line, taking the defences bit by bit.

At midnight, the Russians summed up a violent day of combat in which nearly 8,000 Germans and 180 tanks were destroyed on all fronts.

Von Mannstein sent in other strong forces against Russian positions in the Chernyakhov area, 45 miles northwest of Brusilov, in his all-out effort to turn the southern flank of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukrainian army.

Although the Germans succeeded in gaining ground on a straight west-to-east line through the Zhitomir-Korostyshev-Brusilov sectors, the Red Army appeared to be holding strong positions in front of Kiev, and apparently was falling back mainly to avoid encirclement of its advance units.

Make Some Gains.

While front dispatches indicated that the decisive stage of the battle for the Ukraine had not yet been reached, the Red Army continued to

Throne Speech Traces Allied Progress

LONDON, Nov. 24 (CP Cable)—References to the Dominions and Colonies were sprinkled through the speech from the Throne yesterday, read by Viscount Simon, Lord Chancellor in behalf of the King, at prorogation of the old session of parliament. The speech was released for publication today coincident with the opening of the new session.

The prorogation speech said the King "rejoiced in the warmth of the reception accorded my Ministers in Washington and Moscow and in the historic city of Quebec in my Dominion of Canada."

It said that in various theatres of war throughout the world "my navy, army and air forces have fought in close and continuous fellowship with their comrades from my Dominions and India and my Colonial Empire and with the forces of the United States and my other Allies. Their united efforts have produced solid and striking achievements in every theatre of war."

Tribute to Women

After paying tribute to British women who have combined domestic duties with other work, and other war and civilian workers, the speech declared: "The perseverance and industry of my people in the United Kingdom have been emulated by my peoples in my Dominions and Colonial territories and in India."

This thought was carried a step further in today's speech from the throne opening the new session of

142 Tons Bombs Hit Gasmata

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, Nov. 24 —(AP)—Allied bombers and fighters making their latest visit to the Gasmata area on New Britain have plastered air and supply bases with 142 tons of bombs, the heaviest load yet.

The Monday raid, announced today, brought to 329 tons the total amount of bombs dropped there in three consecutive days.

It was the outstanding punch delivered during the day by Allied airmen who visited 11 enemy localities, in all, dropping a total of 275 tons of explosives.

Once again, as in the previous two raids, there was no enemy interception.

No mention was made of fighting in the Sattelberg area on northeastern New Guinea, where Australian troops and tanks have been advancing slowly against Japanese entrenched on a plateau.

A 7,000-ton Japanese freighter-transport was bombed and left sinking off Kavieng, New Ireland.

Nazis Will Use Reprisal Weapon

LONDON, Nov. 24—(CP)— Germany will use her "reprisal weapon" because "terror attacks" on Berlin and other German cities have grown to such proportions, a military spokesman told a foreign press conference in Berlin today, the Berlin radio announced.

The spokesman declined to disclose the nature of the "reprisal weapon" which he said Germany regretted she had been forced into using.

Woman's Ingenuity

LONDON, Nov. 24—(AP). — Feminine ingenuity at last has hit on a way to overcome the inconveniences of clothing rationing. A London drapery shop director disclosed that many women have been buying ration-free materials intended for blackout curtains and are making them into coat linings, slips and underwear.

Battle Is Won In Gilberts Nimitz Claims

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 24 —(AP). —United States forces were so firmly implanted today in the heart of the equatorial Gilberts on the fifth day of the invasion that Admiral Chester W. Nimitz spoke confidentely of 'preparing to make further attacks."

"The Gilberts now are securely in our hands," said the commander in chief of the United States Pacific fleet, after only one of the more than 15 atolls had been completely conquered and while two others tottered toward a fall.

The plain implication of the admiral was that from Makin, Tarawa and Abemama the invader are in position to dominate and rout what Japanese troops may be on other nearby islands.

Makin has been captured.

Tarawa, with a fine bomber base whose importance was emphasized by the fierce defence of an estimated 4,000 Japanese is about to fall.

Abemama is being mopped up.

Admiral Nimitz, asserting the co-ordinated victory of army, the marines, navy and coast guard services "opens another road to Tokyo," said his forces were prepared for any eventuality.

Fleet Hidden

Tokyo radio gravely reporting to the Japanese people that "a part of our territory has been exposed to fierce battles," speculated on the inevitability of decisive action by the long-hidden Japanese fleet.

American leaders linked with expressions of readiness for such a move an implied doubt of its early development.

Admiral Nimitz expressed belief that the Japanese fleet was dispersed from the Kuriles, to the north of Japan, all the way to the Dutch East Indies far to the south; that recent air blows struck at Rabaul, New Britain, against enemy cruisers and destroyers seriously had impaired enemy naval ability to retaliate in the area, and even if Japanese units were within striking distance, the enemy admirals had held back in fear that the Gilbert invasion might be a diversionary feint.

Nimitz, however, foresaw violent Japanese reaction by planes and submarines from the nearby Marshalls.

United States aircraft carriers and undisclosed land bases poured bombers northwestward beyond the Gilberts to pin down air power on Japan's five bases in the Marshalls.

San Angelo Is Captured By 8th Army

Six-Mile Advance Bring Allies 80 Miles From Rome

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 24—(AP)—The British 8th Army surged forward six miles into enemy positions in the central portion of the Italian front to capture the village of San Angelo, half a mile from the upper Sangro River, and occupied the deserted and devastated mountain town of Alfedena, Allied headquarters announced today.

The capture of Alfedena, apprimately 79 airline miles southeast of Rome on the road to the Italian capital, was the result of a gain of more than five miles beyond Rionero in recent days during which Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's left wing pushed the Germans off high ground, dominating the town from the southeast, in a series of brisk clashes.

Canadian troops are fighting in this area. It was not known immediately however which 8th Army units occupied the town.

Before leaving, the Germans destroyed Alfedena with explosives and fire.

San Angelo's capture represented a six-mile advance in the Castiglione region. The village is eight miles to the west of Castiglione.

One Man Wounded

Near the mouth of the Garigliano, British troops of the 5th Army clashed with a big German patrol, inflicting casualties at a cost of only one man wounded.

The Allied communique also referred to heavy rain on the remainder of the 8th Army's front toward the Adriatic and said "there was little change" in ground positions.

(The Cairo radio said 8th Army units crossed the Sangro, presumably near its mouth on the Adriatic; Berlin said yesterday that a crossing had been made.)

"Enemy artillery was active on the 5th Army front," the communique said. "There was little improvement in the weather which continues to hamper operations."

Canadian troops signalled their return to the battle line after a two weeks' rest by stopping a strong German counter-attack northwest of Agnone in a hard-fought two-hour battle.

Observers believed that the famed Princess Pats—the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry — might have borne the brunt of this attack, as coinciding with announcement of the engagement was the naming of that western unit, a practice that usually indicates special valor in battle. However, no definite word was forthcoming concerning this, and the official communique listed the Canadians repelling the attack merely as "light Canadian forces."

Meanwhile, other units of the British 8th Army were also busy clearing the enemy from additional heights overlooking Alfedna from the south-east. These units were within a few miles of the upper reaches of the Sangro River.

Lanky Reporter Hit By Shrapnel Fragment
Fifth War Writer To Be Hurt In Italy

With the 5th Army in Italy, Nov. 24 (AP)—Richard Tregaskis, International News Service war correspondent and author of "Guadalcanal Diary," was injured Monday at the front when a shell splinter struck him in the head.

The six-foot six-inch reporter, who came from the Pacific theatre of operations to the Mediterranean, was hit at 4 p.m. Three hours later he was in an evacuation hospital under the care of a brain surgeon, undergoing an operation.

Doctors said that Tregaskis was "getting along nicely," although it will be six months before he will be able to resume his duties as a correspondent.

Tregaskis was the fifth casualty among war correspondents in the Italian campaign. Jack Belden of Time and Life magazines was wounded at the Salerno landing operations and later three British correspondents were killed when a shell hit their jeep.

Soldier Slapping Incident Attracts Wide Attention

ALGIERS, Nov. 22 (Delayed)—(AP).—The case of Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton versus a shell-shocked United States army private now is being tried before the Court of Public Opinion. The case already has been tried in private chambers, so to speak, and a decision made by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the United States War Department. That decision was that both men should remain on their jobs—because good generals, temperamental or not, are too scarce to be spared. So are good privates.

There wasn't anything in the way of punishment to be dished out to the soldier who got slapped. He had a good fighting record. He had been sent back for treatment over his own protest, and medical examination disclosed he was a victim of true battle fatigue—or 'shell-shock.'

Not Injured.

He suffered no physical injury when the General struck him twice and called him "yellow belly" and "coward" before other soldiers in the hospital admission tent. He subsequently recovered from battle fatigue and rejoined his unit.

The incident created an under-the-surface sensation in the United States 7th Army, then, as now, commanded by Patton.

Frankly, there was considerable bitterness. Patton's action was deplored by his officers as much as by his men.

There is this to be said for Patton: He was under great strain himself. The incident took place between two amphibious landings which cracked the German line along the north coast of Sicily. In deciding on trying the landings, Patton knew he was gambling with hundreds of lives. No pressure could be greater. Then too, he was quoted afterward as saying that he had hoped his outburst would snap the soldier back into shape.

Many old line commanders believe that shell-shock is something like a woman in the grip of hysteria who can be brought to her normal senses by sharp, decisive discipline.

The question at issue was not, however, whether Patton was wrong. He was. The question was, what should be done about it? A correspondent in Sicily at that time, who had spent many years in Germany before the war said:

"If this thing had happened in the Germany Army the general would be broken so quickly he wouldn't know what had happened."

To make amends for his unjust, rash and indiscreet treatment of the shell-shocked private, he called in all principals of the case and apologized. All concerned accepted his apology. Patton then assembled his officers and men and apologized to them.

The United States Army has protected the dignity of the soldier in this case. It has shown all ranks that even a general can not slap a buck private around, and get away with it. It won't be tried again in a hurry.

Asphalt Boils In Berlin Raid

By JOHN H. COLBURN
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 24 (AP) — Berlin was an inferno of indescribable horrow where even the "asphalt on the pavements was boiling" following the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F.'s 1,000-bomber assault on the Nazi capital Monday night, eyewitnesses reaching Sweden said today.

The city yesterday was "still one big fire," one traveller said.

(The Air Ministry announced today that the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. gave the crippled capital another "heavy" raid last night)

"The heat was so terrible that it was almost impossible to walk or drive on some streets," another witness said. "I saw people collapse on the pavement from the intense heat."

Travelling from the Swedish Legation in Berlin to the Templehof Airdrome was "like going through an inferno," another Swede said.

A man who was eating at the Esplanade Restaurant near Postdamerplatz when the alarm sounded at 7 p.m. Monday, said "we emerged from the shelters to find everything burning. All the windows in the Fuertenhof were shattered although the nearest bomb fell a quarter of a mile away. It seemed as though 1,000,000 incendiary bombs were dropped. The planes flew up and down the Tiergarten diplomatic quarter and everything was hit."

Woman Injured In Room Fight

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—(CP).—Police said to-day a 50 year old woman is in critical condition in hospital and two men are being held on nominal charges of vagrancy following a fracas in a Toronto rooming house early to-day.

The woman, listed on hospital records as Myrtle Galloway, suffered a possible fractured skull and head cuts. Police said when they arrived in response to a telephone call they found the woman unconscious on the floor and two men seated on a nearby bed. They gave their names as Frank Knapman, 44, and Simon Taylor, 46.

Detectives said there was evidence of a "fierce struggle" in the room.

Bomb-Torn German Capital Ravaged By Fire Gets 2nd Saturation Raid

Casualties Exceed 10,000 In First Raid
Heart Of City Hit Hard
Damage Tops Amount In London Raids

By GLADWIN HILL—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 24—(AP).—The R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. hurtled tons of destruction down on Berlin again last night for the second night in succession, seeking to knock out the German capital, much of it already devastated.

The force and weight of bombs dropped probably approached but did not exceed the record of Monday, when more than 2,300 tons were dropped by approximately 1,000 bombers, nearly all of them four-engined giants.

"Concentrated and effective," was the Air Ministry's description of the second great attack on the world's most-bombed capital.

Despite more favorable weather for the defence, the R.A.F. lost only 20 planes in the second successive Berlin attack and simultaneous Mosquito attacks on western Germany, compared to 26 lost in comparable operations the night before. Of these the R.C.A.F. lost two last night and four the night before.

Berlin already was chaotic from history's greatest aerial attack delivered 24 hours before when the new deluge of Allied bombs struck last night.

Great Walls Of Flame.

Berlin correspondents of Swedish newspapers said new fires and "walls of flame" more than half a mile long swept Berlin after the second attack.

The Stockholm newspaper Aftontidningen said fires started by incendiary bombs linked up with flames still burning from Monday night's attack.

Stockholm's Allehanda estimated 25,000 persons were killed in the first attack. It added the centre of Berlin again was the main target and railway stations, gas and water mains suffered heavily.

The German capital was isolated from the world today by telephone and telegraph. Swedish correspondents were unable to telephone out of the city. Telegrams from Stockholm intended for Berlin were being sent to Hamburg but it was unknown how they were being relayed to the capital.

Because Berlin is the hub of Hitler-dominated Europe communications with virtually the whole continent were affected.

Eden Hotel Ruined

A new and unconfirmed report said the Eden Hotel on Budapest Strasse near the Zoo was ruined.

The impact of the paralyzing attacks on the German capital made it clear that wholly aside from physical damage to either the administrative centre or the large war industries in the suburbs, the new

War Develops Australia Beyond Belief

Written for The Canadian Press.
By B. T. RICHARDSON

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 24 —(CP Cable).—In 16 months after the fall of Singapore early in 1942, Australia's Allied Works Council has mobilized the construction capacity and labor of the Commonwealth and built nearly 1,000 major defence projects ranging from a vast inland road network to massive graving docks.

Explaining this work to visiting Canadian newsmen, E. G. Theodore, the council's director-general, indicated that many of the projects were built for the United States forces in reciprocal lend-lease.

Theodore discussed one of Australia's most dramatic war enterprises, namely the work of the council he heads, but most of the actual details are still withheld.

The scope of the undertakings supports the statement obtained authoritatively that it is without parallel in Australian history.

Work carried out by the council has transformed the physical and economic features of the continent to a total value exceeding $250,000,000. This program is still under way.

Huge Program.

Theodore was appointed the day Singapore fell. Since then the council has directed construction of roads, depots, camps, airdromes, storehouses, hospitals, magazines and numerous other facilities for United States and Australian forces and has built many great munitions

American Casualties Now Total 121,319

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP).—Announced casualties in all armed services of the United States since Pearl Harbor total 121,319, with the army bearing the greater share—89,650 as of Nov. 11.

But the statistics show that of those killed in action there is a difference of only 42 between the army and the navy, with the navy having the larger loss—12,883 to date.

The army's total of 89,650 listed 12,841 killed, 30,263 wounded, 23,954 missing and 22,592 prisoners. The navy's 31,669 total gave 12,883 killed, 5,640 wounded, 8,918 missing, and 4,228 prisoners. Navy figures include the coast guard and marine corps.

Sicily Wounded Reach Halifax

HALIFAX, Nov. 24—(CP)—The Canadian hospital ship Lady Nelson docked here today with several hundred wounded and ill Canadian and United States servicemen, including several R.C.A.F. personnel repatriated from German prison camps in the recent prisoner exchange with Germany.

Aboard the vessel as she completed her fifth round trip voyage across the Atlantic were Canadian soldiers who had fought in the battle of Sicily.

A large group of the Canadians were "category men," those who had been ill or injured in Britain and were being sent home for discharge.

The vessel had not started to unload her cargo of sick and wounded early this afternoon, but was awaiting the arrival of hospital trains and equipment to take the men to their destinations in military hospitals in various districts.

Bad Weather Fails to Protect Berlin

Hints Indicate Allies Have Technical Means To Mark Targets

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press War Analyst

Winter weather, dire enemy of the Nazis in the East, has turned against them in the West as well. Through ice-forming clouds which kept Berlin's defensive fighters out of the air, the R.A.F. has repaid the Luftwaffe for all it could do to London and now is piling on the interest.

It was Hitler who promised to repay Britain with hundreds of pounds of explosives for each pound dropped on Germany, but it is the R.A.F. which has carried to Berlin 10,000 tons of bombs this year, as compared with the 7,500 dropped on London during the Battle of Britain. Berlin, Hamburg, Cologne and the Ruhr, not London, have suffered history's heaviest bombings.

But the last two raids on Berlin carry a significance over and above their material weight.

There have been some hints that the Allies have developed technical means of overcoming bad weather around their targets. Whether the use of fast, low tracer planes to mark the target with flares is the whole story on this remains to be revealed. But the last raids on Berlin, the greatest of all, have been made through weather on which the Germans formerly depended for a breathing spell.

It is natural that we should get exaggerated reports of the effect of bombing on German morale as well as on her industry. The sources available pre-ordain that. But there is no denying that in 1940 Britain bowed her head to the storm and said "we can take it and will come back"; and in 1943 Himmler is executing people for defeatism inspired by the wreckage in Western Germany.

Winter Distress

While Allied aviation leaders have been promising heavier and heavier blows against Germany there has kept recurring the old reminder that, in past years, the weather has restricted important bombing forays in five or six days a month.

How must the Germans feel now, as winter starts, with a shattered hope for help by nature in the west, and Hitler's armies in the East in even worse position than they were in the two previous years?

So far as is publicly known, weather is still the greatest hindrance which Air Forces have to face. If the Allies continue able to ignore it—even use it to help them—Germany is indeed near the end of her fighting potential.

Insurance Men To Report

Special Arrangement Made in Labor Call-Up

TORONTO, Nov. 24 — (CP). — An arrangement has been made for registration of life insurance agents in Ontario through the Life Underwriters Association of Canada under the latest Selective Service order calling for registration of several categories of workers by December 1, it was learned today from Ontario Selective Service officials.

The arrangement is similar to those made with other industries in previous registrations, an official said, and is designed to relieve district selective service offices of congestion during the registration.

Under the plan, Selective Service registration forms are distributed to the agents through the Association and men whose experience and capacity fit them for war work are given immediate notice to report for this work. Others are given temporary permits until called.

"The arrangement was made to make the registration as practical and sensible as possible," said the official explaining that it had worked out well in previous registrations and was confined to industries or organizations able to carry out the work efficiently.

3 Canadian Planes Lost

2 Lancaster Squadrons Raid Berlin Again

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 24 (CP Cable)—At least two Canadian Lancaster squadrons, the Goose and Thunderbird, went back to Berlin last night in R.C.A.F. formations to stoke fires already blazing high from the giant R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. 1,000-bomber raid of the night before.

Three Canadian bombers failed to return, part of the night's losses of 20 aircraft

"I could see the streets plainly," said FO. Jim McKay of Dodsland, Sask., bombaimer in a Lancaster piloted by Flt. Lt. Tom Kneale of (320 Drew St.) Woodstock, Ont.

"I never saw fires like those last night," said PO. George Jones of (97 Moore Ave.) Waterloo, Ont.

Others describing blazes sweeping over Berlin included Sgt. Ernie Bishop of (150 St. Julien St.) London, Ont.

Goose Squadron airmen rated the attack "the best and most concentrated" as far as they were concerned and said there was plenty of light flak but few fighters.

Sgt. C. O. Draper of Elgin, Man., tailgunner in a Lancaster, said smoke was seen 25,000 feet over the city.

Patton Always Frowned On Shell-Shock

By WILLIAM FRYE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 —(AP)— The Senate Military Affairs Committee voted unanimously today to request War Secretary Henry Stimson to report it officially on the incident in which Lt.-Col. George S. Patton, Jr., commander of the United States 7th Army, struck an army private in a hospital in Sicily.

Chairman Robert Reynolds (Dem.-N.C.) said he had been instructed to obtain a report by Stimson in connection with the committee's consideration of President Roosevelt's nomination of Patton, who now has the permanent rank of colonel, to hold the permanent rank of major general.

Long time friends of Patton, seeking to explain the slapping incident, recalled that "Old Blood and Guts" never could comprehend that shell shock can be as real as a shrapnel wound.

The explosive leader of the United States 7th Army who goes into action with a pearl-handled revolver was said by these friends to have a blind spot toward warfare's psychological or nervous casualties he remains unconvinced by medical evidence that all the wounds are not necessarily visible to the naked eye.

In the absence of any official report to Washington on the episode, for which Patton apologized to his entire command, they assume the hard-driving general found a group of shell shocked patients in a hospital tent and, under the stress of a developing campaign, leaped to the conclusion that they were "gold bricking" or malingering.

He is said to have denounced an entire group in his fury, while expressing sympathy for men who were "really wounded." Then he struck one of the soldiers on the back of the head, knocking the man's helmet off.

Although retaining his command of the 7th Army, Patton received from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower such a castigation as has seldom been given to a general commanding an army. It was not a formal reprimand — althought there was speculation in informed quarters that officials here might insists a formal entry be made on the general's record.

Besieged by inquiries, and obviously distressed by the news, officers in the War Department public relations bureau here could say only that they had no report on the matter. They refused to comment when asked if a report now has been requested from Eisenhower.

Surprisingly Quick Relief. No Cooking. Saves Money.

Here's a medicine for coughs due to colds, that you mix in your own kitchen. It's so easy to prepare that anyone can do it. Once tried, you'll never again be without it in your home.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. No trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces—a family supply—of really excellent cough medicine. It's thrifty, too—about four times as much for your money. And children take it willingly, because it tastes so good.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that really satisfies. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable agent for soothing throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Victory Loan Costs Are Low

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 (CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley said Tuesday he has very good expectations that the cost of selling Fifth Victory Loan bonds will not exceed 87 cents for each $100 of the loan issued.

This figure compares with about 90 cents for the Fourth Victory Loan last spring, and an average of about $1 for each $100 worth of bonds sold in all five Victory Loans.

The $1 includes "all expenditures for preparation and delivery of the bonds, advertising and publicity, salesmen's commissions and all payments to financial firms and institutions, organization expenses, etc."

Mr. Ilsley's statement was issued as a result of some published statements attributed to Prime Minister Curtin of Australia, comparing the cost of issuing loans in Australia and Canada — contending Canada's costs were higher than those in the Commonwealth.

Mr. Curtin was quoted as saying Canada used during loan periods

Unable To Secure Water For Rink

The special rink committee of the council was requested Monday night to reconsider the question of getting water to the Townsend Street lacrosse box.

"And this is not a reflection on the committee," Alderman Bradburn remarked.

Alderman Glover had reported that the use of the lacrosse spot for an open air rink would have to be abandoned. In the first place it was hoped that the Utilities Commission would lay a water main on Townsend street from Aylmer street as protection for the incinerator and the oil storage tanks nearby. R. L. Dobbin had informed that this work could not be undertaken this fall, and the best that could be done as a safeguard for the incinerator group of buildings was to lay a main 30 or 40 feet westerly from George street.

That change would entail use of a considerable length of hose, and that created another difficulty, to prevent hose from freezing, and also to have a place for thawing it when it did freeze. Hose had to be carefully husbanded because of the rubber shortage, and altogether the rink project seemed hopeless.

Alderman Glover said he doubted that the "box" would ever be used again for lacrosse. The boys who had built it were in the war, and by the time they were back to civilian life they would have passed the lacrosse age.

centres in Australia.

Some of these centres have been visited by the Canadian newspaper party made up of Arthur R. Ford, editor of the London, Ont., Free Press and president of The Canadian Press; Lorenzo Pare of L'Action Catholique, Quebec, and myself, of the Winnipeg Free Press.

The munitions plant program alone has added more to Australian industrial capacity than any other enterprise in the country's history.

One great air base in Northern Australia served United States' aircraft in round-the-clock operations during the battle of the Coral Sea. It was built and ready for heavy bombers 17 days after a request was received. This meant halting many less-urgent projects and concentrating labor on the base.

5,000 Miles of Roads.

To date, more than 5,000 miles of roads have been constructed for military purposes through the Australian interior. This project is regarded by Australians as possibly having the greatest post-war value, opening up remote regions.

Labor for all these enterprises volunteered from the cities but in view of Australia's acute manpower shortage since May, 1942, compulsion has also been used to draft labor until more than 50,000 men have been mobilized with hundreds of them dispatched northward to the great defence roads projects.

Every man receives medical examination and if sent to the tropics full X-ray examination also. Workmen's compensation benefits cover them all. Latest records show 2,600 men of more than 60 years of age work on this force, known as the civil construction corps. The actual draft applies however only to men up to 55 years of age.

This represents the most severe labor compulsion applied in Australia and there is nothing to compare with it in Canada or in the United States.

Spitfires Attack Road Convoys

ALGIERS, Nov. 24.—(AP).—R.A.F. Spitfires attacked road convoys in German-occupied Albania yesterday as bad weather restricted major air activity, it was announced to-day.

At least nine trucks were destroyed and at least a dozen more damaged.

In the only other air operations, R.A.F. Bostons strafed more than 20 motor trucks on a highway between Prescara and Ortona on the Adriatic coast the previous night. A few patrol and reconnaissance flights were made over the battlefront.

In the sea war, a belated announcement said Allied coast craft sank an enemy lighter loaded with gasoline near Leghorn, Italy, Sunday night.

Given Seven Days On Vagrancy Count

"Better not be found again wandering around here at 4 o'clock in the morning," was the advice Magistrate E. A. Gee handed out in police court this morning to Gilbert Jones, who had pleaded guilty a week ago to a vagrancy charge.

Jones was sentenced to seven days in jail to date back to the day of his arrest, which meant, of course, that he was given his liberty.

Inspector James F. Reid said that Sergt. W. E. Wigg had seen the accused on several occasions during the night he was arrested, wandering around in alleyways, and that Jones had not given a very satisfactory account of himself.

In police court today Jones said that he had come into town that night from the country and had missed his ride home. He had no place to go, he said in explanation of his wandering around.

Here more than 40 towns fell to Soviet forces, including the district centre of Bragin, 65 miles southwest of German-held Gomel, in the triangle formed by the Dnieper and Pripet Rivers.

In the Gomel area in White Russia the Russians enlarged their bridgehead on the western bank of the Sozh River north of the beleaguered German stronghold. Around Rechitsa, west of Gomel, several towns fell into Russian hands, as well as quantities of German war material.

(Berlin broadcasts, admitting breaches in their White Russian lines between Smolensk and Gomel said the Red Army thrusts appeared aimed at Orsha and Mogilev. They asserted that the Russians had hurled 34 infantry divisions and six tank brigades—perhaps 450,000 men—into this battle, which they said was already seven days old. Moscow was silent on operations in this sector.)

Red Army forces in the Dnieper Bend south of Kiev captured 19 German strong points, including the rail centre of Lekarevka, 23 miles southwest of Kremenchug, the Soviet communique said.

Thousand Fires Burning Across Berlin

By FRANK BRUTTO
Associated Press Staff Writer

ON THE SWISS-GERMAN FRONTIER, Nov. 24—(AP)—A neutral diplomat who lived through the Allied bombing of Berlin Monday night described it to a correspondent of the Gazette de Lausanne as a "vision of the Apocalypse" and said the German capital "is burning with a thousand fires."

The effect on the residents of Berlin was considered, the diplomat continued, but was not yet fully measured because "many are still stupefied by the catastrophe."

On all sides, he said, "there are bitter complaints at the passive defence which proved inefficient."

The newspaper's informant said Monday's raid was "much more impressive than the unforgettable attack March 1."

"Red clouds from which hot cinders incessantly rained weighed heavily on the city," he related. "Trucks and automobiles scurried in the streets gathering able-bodied men to form first-aid groups. Women and children formed chains to sprinkle windows and roofs in an effort to check the spread of the fire. None closed an eye throughout the night in the Reich capital.

"From the first hour of dawn, enormous crowds began to move toward the hardest-hit areas, but SS militiamen with gas masks on their faces barred the roads.

"The first spectacle was that of the bombed-out carrying on their backs or in small carts a few goods, clothing and their most-prized possessions.

"The whole length of Leipzig street, one of the most-loved thoroughfares in the capital, was blazing. The presidential palace where Marshal Paul Von Hindenburg lived was destroyed as well as a great part of the Foreign Ministry."

aerial drive bulked as the war's greatest offensive against enemy morale.

The Stockholm Aftontidningen said the repeated concentrated bombing was virtually as big as Monday's.

Explosions of blockbusters rocked all sections of Berlin, the newspaper said, but fires provided the worst horror. Storm clouds of ashes swept the streets and often there were terrific gusts of flames caused by the peculiar effect of big bomb blasts.

The explosions seemed to create a vacuum which was followed by a cyclonic wave of fire.

Fire fighters were unable to cope with their task and entire areas 10 to 12 blocks long were enveloped in flames this morning.

The smaller loss in the second attack suggested that Berlin's defences were hard hit in Monday night's raid.

(The German High Command claimed only 19 British bombers downed.)

This meant the Allied attack was gaining in strength and immunity as it moved ahead.

Compare Attacks

Veterans of the 1940 and 1942 aerial assaults on London were staggered today trying to conceive the havoc wrought in Berlin by two such heavy attacks in a row.

They compared the situation with that in London the night of May 10, 1941, which caused heavy damage. The May 10 raid on London was scarcely one-fifth the force of Monday night's assault on Berlin.

In relatively clear weather some Nazi night fighters were up last night but even they were fewer than usual in raids on Berlin, R. A. F. pilots said.

Fires from Monday night's attack could be seen 50 miles away by pilots returning to the target a second time.

Stockholm eyewitness reports, said every building in the Zoo area in the southwest corner of the Tiergarten was wrecked. The fashionable restaurants, opposite the Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial Church are in ruins.

The Ufa Palace, Berlin's largest cinema, was destroyed, these eyewitnesses said. The Tiergarten was raked with bombs, apparently because heavy anti-aircraft batteries were located in the park.

20 Bombers Lost.

The raid on Berlin was accompanied by simultaneous assaults on other unspecified targets in western Germany by speedy Mosquito bombers. Twenty bombers were lost in the night's operations, the Air Ministry announced—six less than were lost Monday night.

It was learned that as on previous raids squadrons from the R.C.A.F. bomber group flew with the R.A.F. to Berlin.

It was the R.A.F.'s 89th raid on Berlin and the third in the last six days. The persistence with which the airmen returned to the attack indicated their intention to give Berlin the same treatment earlier accorded Hamburg, vast areas of which were obliterated last summer in the greatest sustained aerial offensive ever directed against one city.

Monday night's attack, which was reported to have set afire or wrecked the homes of Hitler, Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, and Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, made Berlin the world's most bombed capital. The raid brought the bomb tonnage dropped on Berlin so far this year to about 10,000 long tons.

France Hit Too

The night blast followed daylight attacks on France in which United States bombers escorted by R.C.A.F. fighters hit at St. Omer and Berck Sur Mer while R.A.F. planes bombed targets in the Pas-de-Calais area without meeting fighter opposition. Two bombers were reported missing.

Swedish dispatches quoted Berliners as saying after the Monday night raid that the German capital "can never recover from this blow." These advices declared that the nerve centre of Hitler's government in the Wilhelmstrasse had suffered paralyzing damage from the deluge of explosives and incendiary bombs.

The foreign office was set ablaze, the dispatches said, and the British Embassy near Unter Den Linden at the end of the Wilhelmstrasse was destroyed.

The newspaper Aftontidningen said preliminary estimates of dead and injured totalled 10,000 and that the Nazis officially announced a "very large number" of casualties.

German authorities, unable to cope with the widespread destruction, were said to have ordered all owners of excavating equipment, bulldozers and similar machinery to report immediately.

"There is hardly a window left intact in the centre of Berlin," one traveller was quoted as saying in Stockholm.

Russian Women Fly Planes Via Edmonton

EDMONTON, Nov. 24 — (CP).— Russian women pilots are playing a prominent role in the United Nations lease-lend scheme by piloting planes from Alaska to the Russian Front after they have been flown to the Far North from United States factories.

While not all the pilots are women, they have been acting as ferry pilots for the Russian Government after the U.S. manufactured military aircraft are turned over to the Russians for combat duty against the Germans on the w... front.

Planes bearing the Soviet insignia, a plain red star, have been seen in Edmonton and along the Alaska Highway for some time. They are flown via Edmonton and the string of Alaska Highway airports to Fairbanks where the Russians take them over.

None of the Russian women pilots have been seen on Edmonton streets although Russian male pilots have been seen in public here.

The planes are transported by the United States Air Transport Command from U.S. factories to Edmonton and then along the string of Alaska Highway airports to Fairbanks, where they are taken over by Russian pilots. From Fairbanks the planes are flown to the Russian front.

The planes follow a chain of seven airports, most of them war-built.

The northwestern ferry route w... disclosed by Robert P. Patterson, United States Under-Secretary of War, before a senate committee investigating the Canol Oil Project.

Construction of the chain of airports was started on the suggestion of the joint defence board, which made it one of its first recommendations. Early surveys by Canadian fliers enabled swift completion of the route.

From Edmonton the planes fly to Grand Prairie, Fort St. John, Fort Nelson, Watson Lake, Whitehorse and then on to Fairbanks, Alaska. The distance between fields is comparatively short, providing emergency landing facilities and allowing short hops by craft with a limited range.

Counties' Road Superintendent Explains Why Roads Are Bad

COBOURG, Nov. 24 — (ENS).— Explanation of counties road superintendent A. S. Miller in regard to complaints about the Counties road system was accepted at a meeting of the Roads and Bridges Committee Tuesday. Reeve Charles Calver of Campbellford who on Monday charged that things were a disgrace up in his district expressed his satisfaction with Mr. Miller's explanation at the committee meeting.

Reeve Roy Dodge of Cobourg opened the discussion by asking the Counties road engineer why a road north of Cobourg was "torn up" in September, when at that time there was doubt that gravel could be secured for it this fall.

Error Made

Mr. Miller explained in reply that every fall roads are shaped up preparatory for winter. The road shoulders are given attention but in this case more was brought in than he had instructed and the heavy rains did the rest. It was an error, one of those things which happen and for which he was willing to assume the full responsibility. However the road base remained the same even although the top was not so good.

Deputy-Reeve Frank Lee of Seymour Township asked about a stretch of county road between Campbellford and Stirling. It was in very bad shape he said and ratepayers were threatening to refuse to pay the county tax on it. The bus had been detouring for two months, tearing up the township road.

Warden W. Prouse pointed out that this was not the only jam they had been in. They had been disappointed in the crusher. They had secured one tender who later wanted to sublet. The tender was the Harvey Construction Company but as his gravel crusher would only crush gravel it apparently could not handle the heavy stuff in the gravel and he turned it over to Harvey-McFarland Co.

"We were then given to understand that the Harvey-McFarland Co., would do the crushing and we got no official word that the second company would not handle it. His foreman said that they had to do 36,000 tons for Trenton airport and that if the Department of Munitions and Supply said they had to go there, then they had to go there, so we gathered then that he would not be looking after our needs. The Harvey Company then asked if there was any pit where we could get larger production and Mr. Miller told him of the one near Campbellford," the warden said.

The warden added that he understood that the Harvey Company was to move into the pit and to start crushing. However there was still work to be done in other parts of the Counties. The original intention had been for Harvey to go from Manvers to Darlington and the second crusher company to go to Seymour.

"Where is our own crusher and why was it not used. It seems funny that there was only one tender received," commented the Deputy -Reeve, Mr. Lee.

"Don't forget the government is paying twice as much for gravel as we are," Deputy-Reeve W. A. Smith of Murray Township pointed out.

Reeve Calver asked Mr. Miller why he didn't notify the original pit owner when he changed pits and Mr. Miller replied that it was done at night and it was common knowledge in no time that the change had been made.

"We were a little late getting in there but under the circumstances we did the best we could," declared Reeve W. Boggs, of Manvers Township, chairman of the Roads and Bridges Committee.

"Not Our Fault"

Mr. Miller told the council that according to the tender, the work was to have been completed by November 1. The road referred to by Deputy-Reeve Lee was accordingly prepared for gravelling and it was expected that the crusher would have been there in time. Then the rains came and made things worse.

"It was not our fault that the crusher didn't show up on time," Mr. Miller said.

Charlie Poynton, highway department engineer, said that he wanted to help out and contacted the Harvey-McFarland Co. and that he had accepted in good faith their word that they would do the work.

"There is a war on. Tell your taxpayers that. It is not the engineer, or the Road Commission's fault that things are as they are.

Government Priorities

Deputy-Reeve Lee demanded to know why the county crusher was not used.

Things always seemed to be in a jam. Nobody seemed to know what the other was doing, the engineer, the road commission or anybody.

"You simply can't get the priorities to get the parts to put the crusher in shape," Mr. Poynton said.

On motion of Reeve C. G. Morris of Bowmanville, seconded by Deputy-Reeve J. L. Moncrief of Port Hope, the committee accepted Mr. Miller's explanation.

Million Dollar Program

Earlier in the meeting, Mr. Miller outlined the million dollar postwar programme which the post war committee had drawn up in regard to county roads. The programme covered five years with half a million for construction and half a million for maintenance. This would amount to $500,000 more than ordinarily expended.

The first and second years would see $225,000 expended each year; $200,000 would be spent the third year and $175,000 each in the fourth and fifth years. This would include widening of road allowances, arjusting curves, grades etc. Land would have to be purchased and more machinery would be needed. It would require a raise of ¾ of a mill to get the extra $25,000, the government paying a subsidy of 75%. This would boost the old road rate up from 1½ to a new rate of 2.2 mills. The work would cover the whole country, each rural municipality participating in it to the extent of its assessment. Actually $500,000 would be spent as another $500,000 would be required to keep it up. There was no provision for towns and villages.

Post-War Plan Endorsed

Deputy-Reeve Gene Saunders of Port Hope asked why the towns and villages were being left out. In that event would their road rebate be in proportion to the new million dollar outlay, he asked. Reeve Morris said that he agreed with the Port Hope representative. There should be some assurance that the towns and villages' surplus men would be absorbed in the new road programme.

Warden Prouse declared that the council was taking too much for granted. All the government wanted was some idea of what post-war projects were being contemplated after which, as he had been informed, the government would sit down and figure out a plan of cost. It all depended on the amout of subsidy the government would pay. As far as the towns and villages were concerned, they could send in an estimate of their respective postwar plans. In this particular interest all that had been asked for was in regard to the county roads.

The committee then passed a resolution endorsing the county road postwar plan. A second resolution asked the government to define the amount of subsidy it would pay.

HAROLD ICKES, U.S. Secretary of the Interior, has attacked the Canol project of Norman Wells, Canadian Northwest Territory, financed by the United States as a war project. He says the whole venture should be "junked." The U.S. army has to date authorized the expenditure of $100,000,000 on the project. The Truman committee is now hearing the charges.

Leah Sherwin Wed At Cobourg

ROSENEATH, Nov. 24 (ENS) — A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, November 20 at two p.m. at the United church parsonage, Cobourg, by Rev. W. Woodger, when Leah Jane, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Sherwin of Roseneath, became the bride of Norman Forman, Roseneath, son of Ashley Henry Forman, and the late Mrs. Forman of Sceptre, Saskatchewan.

The bride wore a street length dress of blue crepe, the bodice appliqued in contrasting blue, blue hat, navy coat and accessories. She was attended by Miss Ila McCracken of Roseneath, wearing blue crepe, navy hat, coat, and harmonizing accessories. Neil Sherwin brother of the bride was groomsman.

Following the ceremony dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents to the immediate relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Forman left later by motor for Montreal. On their return they will reside near Roseneath.

Masaryk Claims Czechs Will Rebuild

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP).— Jan Masaryk, Czech Minister for Foreign Affairs and Deputy Prime Minister, expressed the opinion here last night that most of the post-war rehabilitation of liberated peoples will be done by the affected peoples themselves, rather than by international relief organizations.

The Czech Minister, a member of the United National Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, now meeting at Atlantic City, told a "United Nations forum" discussion group here he believed U.N.R.R.A. would not have to be maintained for a lengthy period after the war, as the liberated peoples would soon take over the work.

Praises Farmers

OTTAWA, Nov. 24. — (CP).— Without the help of Canadian farmers the war would have been lost two years or more ago Rt. Hon Malcolm MacDonald, British High Commissioner to Canada, said yesterday in opening the Eastern Ontario export food show at the Central Experimental Farm here.

Landlords Chisel

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(CP).—The Prices Board said last night that some landlords apparently are "misinterpreting" fuel conservation instructions to mean they can "drastically" lower temperatures, and warned that they must maintain "reasonable healthful" temperatures in their rented accommodation.

Coldwell Raps Mr. St. Laurent

EDMONTON, Nov. 24 — (CP). — M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the C.C.F., said at a public meeting here last night that a C.C.F. government in Canada would guarantee the rights of workers and farmers to organize in groups of their own choice. His address marked the closing of the two-day provincial convention of the party.

He criticized Justice Minister St. Laurent for what he termed a "hypocritical denunciation," of Harold Winch, leader of the C.C.F. in British Columbia.

Mr. Winch merely stated "a democratic principle" in his address at Calgary recently "when he said a C.C.F. government, like any government, would put down sabotage or forcible resistance to the expressed will of the people. But what is Mr. St. Laurent's record as Minister of Justice?" asked Mr. Coldwell.

Intimidate Workers

"For months he and his government kept men in confinement without the kind of trial to which any Canadian is entitled . . . and less than a month ago the Mounted Police, who are under his department and within his own jurisdiction, and soldiers, were sent to Shawinigan Falls, Quebec, to intimidate aluminum workers who struck because the government of which he is a member failed to fulfull their promise that these men should have the right to vote to choose what organization should represent them.

"He uses the forces of the state not to put down rebellion, not to stop [illegible] against the people's will, but to prevent the peaceful protest of workers against injustice.

"The C.C.F. government intends to guarantee the right of the workers and the farmers to organize in organizations of their choice and to protect all our people against those who would prevent the people's will from being carried out."

Red Cross Needs Knitted Goods

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 24 (ENS) —Further evidence that the Follies sponsored by the local branch of the Red Cross had been a success was seen from the report given members at the meeting Tuesday afternoon. According to the treasurer, the branch would clear $150 and thanks was voiced to all who had supported the affair. It was announced that a shortage of knitted goods existed at the present time and there was particular need for turtle neck sweaters for the navy and for 26-inch seamen's socks. Supplies in the Ontario warehouse were reported as being "almost exhausted" owing to the stupendous demands being made and for the first time since the outbreak of war it has been impossible to completely fill requirements.

The Toronto Red Cross has been asked to provide a monthly quota of 400 turtle neck sweaters to H.M.C.S. York, and last month, only 155 of these were ready for shipment. Similarly the monthly quota of 100 pairs of seamen's socks also came considerably short of requirements. To expedite this work locally it was suggested that the women work in teams on these sweaters with one knitting the back and front and another the sleeves, and wool for this purpose is available at the work rooms any time.

1 cup warm water
1 cup prune juice
1 cup prune pulp
2 tablespoons sugar
2 egg whites, unbeaten

Dissolve Jell-O in warm water; add prune juice. Chill. Combine prune pulp and sugar. When Jell-O is cold and syrupy, place in bowl of cracked ice or ice water, add egg whites, and whip with rotary beater until fluffy and thick. Fold in prune pulp. When slightly thickened, turn into sherbet glasses or molds. Chill until firm. Top with small pieces of prune.

Present-day problems have not brought about any change in the quality of Jell-O and Jell-O Puddings.

A Word For Old Russia

The man who champions a cause that is forgotten, or unpopular, or merely unfashionable, need expect little thanks and little success. Still, there are always a few who admire his quixotry. We were stirred to admiration by the letter which a gentleman named Alexander Tarsaidze (unknown to us) wrote to the New York Times on Thursday last.

In an editorial called 'Anniversary For Russia' the Times published this sentence: "Nevertheless they (Americans) have reason to be glad that our ally on the Eastern Front today is a people and not the corrupt and inept Government of the Romanoffs". Mr. Tarsaidze, whom we take to be one of the many emigres from revolutionary Russia, was not prepared to let that pass; certainly he does not think that such a sentiment is necessary in order to cement our friendship with the Soviet Union. The Russian Imperial Armies, he points out, comprised 76.3 of all the belligerents in the first World War, and did much to bring about the defeat of the Germans in that conflict. Men of the reputation and inside knowledge of Foch, Churchill and Pershing admit this to be true, and Mr. Tarsaidze does not see any reason why the orld should forget it. In the last war the Russians held their frontier for three years; no German fought on their soil; but they were the only belligerents to fight on German soil. Russians fought not only in their own country but on the German, Austrian, Turkish, French and Greek fronts.

Russia's sacrifices in the last war, in this gentleman's opinion, were a direct cause of the fall of the Romanoff regime. He reminds us gently that Russia in those days supplied war materials to her allies, but received nothing from them, as the U.S.S.R. does today. Supplies for Russia did not begin to arrive until after the revolution was begun. Concluding with the statement that it was the "corrupt and inept" government of the Romanoffs which maintained the 140 years of unbroken friendship with the United States, Mr. Tarsaidze leaves us to our reflections.

And well we may reflect. At present the United Nations are deep in a love affair with the U.S.S.R., which sometimes threatens to become maudlin; it is rarely so silly as when it tries to flatter modern Russia by aspersing Old Russia. The U.S.S.R. makes no such mistake; it insists that the greatness of modern Russia is rooted in the greatness of Old Russia, although it puts its own complexion on this assertion. The Romanoffs produced some extremely able rulers and some extremely bad ones; the life of Old Russia had its disgraceful aspects and its noble ones. Most condemnation of Old Russia and most praise of New Russia are alike based on a very slender store of facts. New Russia fights well; we know that. Old Russia fought well too; let us not forget it. Old Russia was ruled by a succession of despots, some humane and noble, and some stupid and brutal. Because Modern Russia is at present ruled by an extremely able despot we need not assume that Russia's problems have been settled forever, or that the U.S.S.R. is a New Jerusalem.

The Metropolitan's Jubilee

The Metropolitan Opera House of New York opened its sixtieth season on Monday night, and 3,418 people heard and saw a notable performance of Moussorgsky's Boris Godunoff, the greatest of all Russian operas. We should hardly feel justified in making extended comment on a matter apparently so remote from the interest of Peterborough if the whole continent of America were not to have an opportunity to hear Forza Del Destino broadcast on Saturday afternoon; that brings the Metropolitan to any of us who care to hear it.

The sixty years in which the Metropolitan has been the chief home of opera on this continent have not been easy ones, and the great theatre has had its ups and downs. Older music lovers recall with sighs its great days just before the first World war, when Caruso was the most brilliant in a firmament of stars; it is not merely nostalgia, but solemn critical truth, which makes them say that there are no singers like that nowadays. But there are compensations. Opera is better produced and better acted now that it used to be, and the legend has been exploded that a singer must be as fat as a porpoise in order to make a truly great opera star. Modern opera is a delight to the eye as well as to the ear.

In many ways opera is more efficient than it used to be. The memoirs of the late Mr. Gatti-Cazazza tell of many a bitter struggle of temperament, of interminable waits between acts, of last-minute crises, and of all the operatic hullabaloo which Huneker has satirized so sharply in Painted Veils. Today, things are different. Mr. Edward Johnson rules over a co-operative group of artists, each one as interested in the total effect of a production as in a personal success. Canada, by the way, may be proud that one of her sons, formerly the greatest tenor of the Metropolitan, has now become its manager. As Mr. Johnson will not return to Canada to manage our CBC for us we may at least take pride in his fine work elsewhere.

The six years of the Metropolitan's life have seen a remarkable growth in the popularity of opera on this continent. By the time it has completed its first century we shall doubtless see opera, and hear it, by means of television. When that day comes it will only be just that we shall pay a little something for the privilege, which is now ours for the cost of a radio license.

Ignorance About Canada

A recent Gallup Poll draws to our attention once again the remarkable ignorance of Canada and its affairs which exists in the United States. We can never rid ourself of an impression that the Gallup investigators ask their questions of a peculiarly lackwitted section of the populace, but still it is alarming to learn that only 8 per cent. of those questioned made a reasonably close guess at our population, and that 72 per cent. thought that we payed taxes to Great Britain. This is a situation which must be remedied.

It is useless for us to storm at the citizens of the United States. If we ask them why they do not know more about Canada they will very properly say, Why should we? What is interesting about Canada? Why do you imagine that you are so important?

The United States, we must remember, is a young country, deeply engrossed in itself and its own affairs. It has little time to bother with Canada and Mexico, except as resort grounds. Government officials, men of large business or professional interests, and Americans of education and culture, of course, know a great deal about Canada, but these groups, as everywhere in the world, are a minority; the average American citizen knows nothing about us and cares less.

It is up to us to overcome this attitude of indifference. Already our Wartime Information Bureau has done some good spadework, but it will take a quarter of a century of really hard work to do a good job in this direction. Nor will the work of a government bureau be sufficient. Americans respect achievement, and if we can tell them a story of great achievement we shall really command their interest. It is foolish, of course, to devote ourselves wholly to a program for impressing our neighbours, but on the other hand we cannot be indifferent to their ignorance and lack of concern with us.

And, as this paper has pointed out many times before, Canada will impress the U.S. and the rest of the world more effectively and rapidly by achievement in the arts than in any other way. So long as we make this country an impossible one for painters, musicians and writers we must be content to remain obscure, for they are the people who spread a nation's fame.

NOTE AND COMMENT

If paper is really so scarce, couldn't we declare a moratorium on all bills until the situation is better?

A clergyman says that married men are more outspoken than bachelors. A man has to speak out if he hopes to get married.

Bedbugs are reported in Cleveland streetcars. We doubt if a bedbug could even squeeze into one of our buses at rush hour.

Some of our contemporaries are bewailing the fact that St. Andrew's day falls on a meatless Tuesday. What, they cry, will become of the haggis? Though not a Scot, we have long known that a haggis need not contain meat, and is, indeed, a close relative of that old boarding-house favourite, Mystery Stew.

New Books For Canadians

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

TODAY let us look at three books which have recently been published and which should be of special interest to Canadians. The first is "Boughs Bend Over," written by Maida Parlow French, and published by McClelland & Stewart. So far as I know this is Mrs. French's first attempt at novel-writing; she nas wisely kept clear of anything too complex in construction or too high-flown in writing, and in consequence she has produced a book with a great deal of simple charm. If more beginning novelists would decide to keep well within their capacities, instead of straining them to the uttermost, the lot of the reviewer would be less embarrassing and bitter than it is.

◇ ◇ ◇

MRS. FRENCH'S book tells a story which could be duplicated scores of times in the history of Ontario. It tells of the Van Doorn family, originally settlers in the State of New York, who were forced to come north at the time of the Revolution because of their Tory British opinions. They were pioneers from necessity, and not from choice; they had enjoyed a pleasant and cultivated life in the older colonies, and the change from that to the desperate struggle for existence in Canada was terribly hard for them. But they had only two choices: they must succeed or they must suffer the full consequences of failure; no one thought that a system of social security was necessary for them. This hard choice brought out the best that was in them, and they succeeded in a measure that leaves us gasping at their achievement.

◇ ◇ ◇

MRS. FRENCH makes no secret of the fact that the Van Doorns are drawn from her own forbears. Many an Ontario family has just such a background, and for that reason alone the book should have a wide sale and a sympathetic public. But it can stand on its merits as a novel, apart from the personal interest which it will have for many of us. The story has charm and strength, it moves quickly, and the author has wisely made it shorter, instead of longer than the reader could wish. "Boughs Bend Over" is a modest but permanent addition to Canadian letters.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANOTHER new book which will appeal to readers who care for Canadian history is "West To The Setting Sun," written in collaboration by Harvey Chalmers and Ethel Brant Monture, the latter being the great-great-granddaughter of Joseph Brant, the Mohawk Chief. This book appealed to me strongly because the Indians in it were so good. Most Indians in fiction are what Mark Twain used to call Fenimore Cooper Indians—creatures of unbearable sagacity and nobility, with the athletic ability of Douglas Fairbanks and a wholly unaccountable devotion to very ordinary white people. The Indians in this book are intelligent, but not too much so; they have powers of expression extending beyond the ugh-ugh of tradition, and they have a lively sense of humour. Frankly, how anyone could live the life of an Indian without a sense of humour has always been beyond me. As one of the authors of this book has an Indian ancestry we may assume that these Indians are nearer the real thing than the dummies invented by authors who would not know a real Indian from a Jap, if they met one on the street.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE story is about the great Joseph Brant, a man of striking intellectual power and military genius, who led the Six Nations' Indians during the last period of their greatness. Brant threw in his lot with the British in the American Revolutionary War, and his aid was invaluable to their cause. As everybody knows, the British had no notion of how to fight in the American forests, and were constantly putting themselves in positions of great danger; on many occasions the forest wisdom of Brant saved them from the massacres which their parade-ground methods invited. Perhaps, if British leaders had paid greater heed to this fine strategist, they might have won that war; but at that time British leaders never paid any attention to anyone who could keep them out of trouble. I recommend this excellent historical novel highly; my own maternal ancestors enjoyed the friendship of the mighty Thayendanegea—as Brant was called by his own people—which may prejudice me in its favour, but quite apart from that circumstance I feel that it is an account of a crucial period in our history which no one should neglect.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN WRITING of domestic matters, how faithful should an author be to fact? If he is too faithful the mediocrity and pettiness of domesticity will swamp his book. That is what has happened in "Stand On A Rainbow," by Mary Quayle Innis, which Collins have published. It tells of an ordinary mother and her three children who live in Toronto and do all the things that such people do; the mother is an aspiring, but incompetent housekeeper, an ambitious but weak and frustrated parent, and a dreamer whose dreams have no poetic scope. The children have no particular charm or individuality. The result is depressing and dull. Clearly Mrs. Innis wanted to create an atmosphere of intimacy and truth in her book, but she has given us too much fact and too little fancy. The result is a record of experience which is common to many homes, but of no interest to anybody. The great lack of the book is dramatic emphasis, which would pull the various elements in it together, and give it coherence and direction. As it stands, it is merely a reprint of a number of indifferent magazine stories.

The Act of Voting

The advocates of compulsory voting utterly ignore the fact that voting is both a physical act and an intellect act. Compulsion can be exercised with respect to the physical act—the making of a choice. And if the intellectual act is muddled, where is the advantage in seeing that the physical act is performed? The voter who cannot make a choice and so refrains from voting at least does no harm. The voter who cannot make a choice but votes nevertheless, because he has to, adds nothing of value to the election in which he participates, and may do untold damage.—Vancouver Province.

Boys In Short Pants?

Re cuffs on trousers, I don't care whether they have them or not, but if the government is really in earnest about material, let it prohibit the sale of suits with long trousers for boys under 16. Let the boys wear the short pants that you and I did when we were kids. Besides saving thousands of yards of cloth the small boy would look like small boys and not, as they do now, like grotesque cartoons of men or disreputable midgets out of some-rate side show. — (Magistrate Watt of Guelph.)

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

An Ancient Title

(SHERBROOKE RECORD)

THE improbability that it will be possible to fill the ancient post of Prince of Wales, traditionally held by the oldest son of the reigning monarch, has brought strong pleas, especially from Wales itself that Princess Elizabeth be named Princess of Wales when she becomes of age in April next.

Wales has been a principality without a prince since the present Duke of Windsor became King in January 1936, and led by David Lloyd George, Prime Minister during the First Great War, prominent Welshman, have been urging the restoration of a dignity regarded as attaching Wales to the realm and it is understood that a petition may be delivered to the King before the end of the year.

Since the title of Prince of Wales was first conferred on Edward Plantagenet, Earl of Carnarvon, in 1301, it has been usually, but not invariably, held by the male heir apparent to the throne.

There is no constitutional succession to the title which is renewed at every vacancy at the sovereign's pleasure. When Edward VII became King in 1901, his title Prince of Wales, was in abeyance until he conferred it ten months later on his son. Later King George V conferred it, in turn, on the present Duke of Windsor after about the same lapse of time.

Princess Elizabeth probably would be the first king's daughter to be created directly Princess of Wales, other princesses having held the title only by virtue of marriage to the Throne. Some historians say that Mary, eldest daughter of Henry VII, afterward Queen Mary I, held the title for a time and was the only Princess of Wales in her own right. This has been denied by other authorities.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

THE other day a woman said to me: "I am trying to live so that when I die people won't say "what a blessing!" and feel like offering my family and friends congratulations instead of condolences." The remark was intended as a witticism, but it must have given a jolt to all who heard it and made them wonder if those about them would be glad instead of sorry, when they pass on.

For such a human vanity that none of us can bear the thought that no one will miss us when we are gone; that no one will mourn us, and that no tear will be shed above our graves. But few of us have the courage to ask ourselves: "Will anyone be glad when I am dead? Have I stood between anyone and happiness? Have I made life harder for others? Have I given no one reason to remember me with love and tenderness?"

Yet how many of us who are smugly satisfied with our own virtues and expect to have handsome monuments erected over us by our bereaved relatives when we are laid in the cemetery, could answer those questions in the negative, if we were honest? Take married couples, for instance. The X's have been married for 25 or 30 years, and Mr. X has considered himself a model husband because he didn't beat his wife and paid the household bills. But in all of that time he has been a petty tyrant who has ground down the face of the woman who was in his power. He has vented his temper and his nerves on her. He has made her nothing but a domestic drudge, who worked without wages.

He has never paid her a compliment, or showed her any affection, or given her a dollar that she could spend as she pleased. And when he dies no one need be surprised that she bears his loss with marvelous fortitude. Maybe widows' veils were invented to hide something else beside their tears.

And there are the Y's. Mrs. Y is a noble, Christian lady, but she is a champion nagger and since she inveigled poor Mr. Y to the altar he has never known that his soul was his own. She has supervised his uprisings and his sittings down and not only told him what to do every minute of the time, but she has seen that he did it. She has bought his clothes, made him eat what she liked, go to the places she wanted to do, and turn over every penny of his earnings to her.

And when at last Mr. Y's Guardian Angel, or whoever it is that arranges these little matters, sees fit to remove Mrs. Y to another and better world, isn't it perfectly logical for Mr. Y to feel like a prisoner whose life sentence has been commuted and who is set at liberty, and that he would look about ten years younger and buy himself some Klassy Kut Kollege clothes?

And there are the old people who make martyrs of their children by their whims and prejudices and by their refusal to alter their ways, no matter what burdens it lays upon others. Mother won't move out of the big house she went to as a bride and in which she says she will die, although it works her children to death to keep it up.

Mother makes Sally promise that she will never marry as long as she lives, and Sally's sweetheart gets tired of waiting for her and marries another girl. Mother has hysterics every time John talks about moving to another city, and John waits for Mother to die until his opportunity has gone by. Nothing is more common than to hear people say: "We can't send Jackie off to college because Mother doesn't want him to leave her." Or, "We can't build a new room that we sadly need because Mother doesn't like change." Or, "We can't let the children have parties at home because Mother doesn't approve of dancing."

Or maybe it is Father who holds on to his fat pocketbook with a grip that only death will loosen. I have known more than one rich man who was so stingy he refused to give his children an education, or help them get a start in life, or even to provide them with the medical attention they needed to save their lives. You can't blame them if they look forward to the reading of Father's will.

And think of all the disagreeable people with whom so many have to live—the cranky, the high-tempered, the selfish, the bores, the people who never miss an opportunity to say something that hurts us—surely they never will be missed, as they used to sing in the old Gilbert and Sullivan opera. Or, if they are, it will be a pleasant miss.

The moral of all of which is: If we want to be mourned when we are dead, we must so conduct ourselves that we are loved while we are alive.

Carrier Pigeons

Alexander the Great used pigeons to carry messages and in the present War every branch of service of every power uses the birds as a substitute for radio where radio is either inadvisable or unavailable.

"One disadvantage pigeon-borne messages evade is censorship," explains W. B. Courtney in Collier's. "The pigeons themselves have 'censors' to contend with, however—flak (a pigeon was killed by this over Red Beach at Dieppe), bad weather and 'sportsmen.' But hawks are the worst. To censor these 'censors,' the R.A.F. has a special unit composed of former gamekeepers and other bird experts whose sole job is to hunt the hitherto-protected falcon.

"Recently in Scotland some of these marksmen found, in the nest of a hawk they had killed, dozens of tiny leg-ring message containers. One revealed tragedy—the final call for help, now months too old, from the crew of a disabled bomber as it was fluttering down into the North Sea."

What Soldiers Eat

A soldier or a sailor eats about one and a half times as much as a civilian. He reduces civilian supplies only by the differences between what he ate as a civilian and what he eats now—the difference between 5 1-4 pounds a day compared with 4¾ pounds in civil life. This U.S. War Food Administration says the average weekly diet for a man in training includes: 6 1-5 pounds of meat; 7 eggs; 3½ pounds of fresh milk; 1¼ pounds of evaporated milk; ice cream once a week; at least 1 pound of butter, margarine and other fats; 4½ pounds of bread, cereal and other grains; 5 pounds of potatoes; 5 pounds of fresh and canned vegetables; 4½ pounds of tomatoes and citrus fruit; 2 pounds of other fruit. For men quartered in the United States the Army and Navy require at least a three-month reserve supply; for men abroad, a nine-month supply.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Ordeal by Water

Victorian England was vaguely convinced that nineteenth century France had too good a time; that France laughed too much and cooked too well for this vale of tears. Victorian patriotism demanded that we should stand by that ordeal by water—Victorian cooking.—Lord Vansittart's Book, "Lessons of My Life."

A Bible Message

And Saul armed David with his armour, and he put an helmet of brass upon his head; also he armed him with a coat of mail. And David girded his sword upon his armour, and he assayed to go; for he had not proved it. And David said unto Saul, I cannot go with thee: for I have not proved them. And David put them off him. And he took his staff in his hand, and chose him five smooth stones out of the brook, and put them in a shepherd's bag which he had, even in a scrip; and his sling was in his hand: and he drew near to the Philistine.... And the Philistine said unto David, Am I a dog, that thou comest to me with staves? And the Philistine cursed David by his gods....

Then said David to the Philistine, Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield: but I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou hast defied. This day will the Lord deliver thee into mine hand.... And all this assembly shall know that the Lord saveth not with sword and spear: for the battle is the Lord's, and he will give you into our hands....

And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a stone, and slang it, and smote the Philistine in his forehead, that the stone sunk into his forehead; and he fell upon his face to the earth.

So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and with a stone, and smote the Philistine and slew him; but there was no sword in the hand of David. Therefore David ran, and stood upon the Philistine, and took his sword, and drew it out of the sheath thereof, and slew him, and cut off his head therewith. And when the Philistines saw their champion was dead they fled. (I Sam. 17: 38-40, 43, 45, 46, 47, 49-51.)

"If there was anything you didn't quite like—"

A man had a 'cello with one string and used to play on it for hours on end, always holding his finger in the same place. For months and months his wife had to listen to his excruciating noises. Finally, in desperation, she said "You know, I've noticed that other 'cellos have four strings, and the players move their fingers about all the time."

The man stopped his playing for a moment and said, impatiently: "Of course the others have four strings and move their fingers about all the time. They are looking for the place I've found it!"

Talk Of Britain's Narrow Escape Irks Shaggy-Browed Warhorse

By D. E. BURRITT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 24 — (CP). — The farther the battle of Britain fades behind the smoke of newer struggles, the greater delight some people take in relating how close a shave from disaster it was for the Empire.

Such talk is odious to many of the old warriors—who obviously wouldn't admit defeat if it had them hamstrung—and they are starting a little battle of their own. So incensed have some of them become that they think "something should be done about it."

One of these grand old veterans is Viscount Trenchard who, in his 72nd year, is serving as Marshal of the Royal Air Force, which after all, did play an important role in the Battle of Britain.

One day at a luncheon he suddenly turned on me when he read "Canadian Press" on my table card. He gripped my arm menacingly and challanged: "I suppose you as a journalist are being told a lot of rot about how we were almost defeated. What?"

Kept On Talking

He didn't wait for any reply. From beneath his great shaggy brows he glared and continued "A lot of damned rot. Absolute rot. People who say that sort of thing make me furious, absolutely furious," and he looked it.

"Let me tell you this," he insisted "Those people don't know what they are talking about and people who listen to them are just as foolish. They say 'we wouldn't have had enough planes if Jerry had kept coming at us.' They say 'We didn't have this, we didn't have that'."

"Now listen to me," he suggested (and there was no alternative). "Those people didn't know anything about it at the time. They don't know anything about it now. And they never will know anything about it. What they talk is utter nonsense. What? Absolute, utter nonsense. Bah!"

The waiter came around and, as my arm still was in the vice of the former chief of Scotland Yard, carried away the better part of a good lunch.

"So you see," he said in the voice of a man who has scored a convincing victory, "they're just like a lot of old gossips, who, having got over some minor illness, love to tell how they almost died. If you had been here at the time, I'm sure you would feel the same way as I do about it."

"I was here," I admitted timidly.

"Jolly good! Then you and I agree. Have a cigar."

Radio Error.

Apocryphal may have been that popular story about the American announcer who expressed in unbecoming language the hope that his "children's hour" had satisfied his small listeners.

But something along the same line has really happened here. Dr. T. H. Stephens, medical health officer for Merthyr, Glamorganshire, has complained to the BBC that one of its announcers declared at the end of a feature program: "Thank God that's over."

"I was thoroughly disgusted," said the doctor, who demanded an explanation from the BBC and said if it was not forthcoming he would have the matter played up in the press and also in the House of Commons.

The BBC declined to comment and, as the "slip" apparently occurred only on the Welsh circuit, there was no outcry from other parts of the United Kingdom.

But it's a safe bet the announcer will repeat his remark—to himself—once this little storm blows past.

French Restore Lebanon Group

BEIRUT, Nov. 24 (AP).— Yves Chataigneau, acting French delegate-general in Lebanon, announced to-day the reinstatement of the Lebanese Chamber of Deputies and repeal of the principal sections of the ordinance which has suspended the constitution of the little republic.

The announcement followed the action of the French Committee of National Liberation in ordering reinstatement of President Bechara Khoury and promising to negotiate the question of full independence. Khoury was arrested with several cabinet ministers after steps taken by the Lebanese government to attain full sovereignty had aroused French ire.

Chatigneau also announced cancellation of the appointment of Emile Eddeh as premier to succeed Riad Sohl, who had been arrested.

There were 20 women present, who quilted four quilts. Tickets amounting to $44.00 have been sold on a pair of pillows donated by Mrs. L. Sutton. Mrs. Moses Sutton made the draw, and Mrs. Arthur Reid of Millbrook was the lucky winner. The proceeds are to be used for war work.

656 Lbs. Of Jam Sent Overseas

MILLBROOK, Nov. 24 (ENS).— Mrs. J. W. Hilton was hostess for the November meeting of the Women's Institute held at her home on Saturday evening, with the president, Mrs. Delbert Olan, in the chair. The roll was answered with a parcel for the layette which is being prepared for the Red Cross. At the December meeting the roll will be answered in a similar manner.

A total of 656 pounds were sent together with 196 pounds of honey. Millbrook not being in a fruit district, the branch sends $5 each year toward the jam, the Byron branch being in the London area. Raspberry, plum, ginger and grape jam made up the variety mentioned.

Mrs. Hilton was appointed again as war work secretary. Mrs. Blakely and Mrs. Olan thanked the branch for sending them as delegates to the Central Ontario convention, the former giving her report when work for the young people was specially stressed.

To raise funds, a euchre will be held at the home of Mrs. Hilton on Wednesday evening, December 1, four tables to be arranged for, and a lunch served. Christmas cards will be sent to the shut-ins, and the hostess served refreshments at the close of the meeting, the usual votes of thanks being passed before dispersal.

Afternoon Tea

An enjoyable event of Saturday afternoon was the tea and sale held in the waiting-room, under the auspices of the St. Thomas' Anglican Church Guild, at which over $115 was realized. Mrs. A. E. Chevis, wife of the rector, welcomed the incoming guests, Mrs. G. F. Harrington, Mrs. R. A. Ford and Mrs. D. R. Fowler served at the fancy work table, and Mrs. C. M. Westmacott poured tea. The hostess table was lace-covered, centred with a silver basket of 'mums, and had tall white candles burning in silver holders; those attending to the service included Mrs. Arthur Thorne, Mrs. Percy Hamilton, Miss Ada Attwooll, Miss Anna Fair, Mrs. T. A. Campbell, Mrs. Douglas Sheppard, and Mrs. Fred Lowery. Practically everything was disposed of by closing time, the home baking and vegetables, fresh eggs, etc. bringing a ready demand, while at the fancy work table the dainty aprons, of which there was a wide variety in materials and patterns went almost immediately after the sale opened.

The rector, Rev. A. E. Chevis, was present during the afternoon, and took his turn in social converse with the large number present from the village and cuontryside.

CHRISTMAS CAKE—1943
True, we haven't as many accessories, but we can still make a rich, moist fruit cake with what we have.
LIGHT FRUIT CAKE
Temp. 325° F Time: 1 hr. 45 mins.
1 cup mixed peel, sliced
1 cup glace cherries, sliced
1 cup raisins (optional)
2½ cups all purpose flour
1 cup shortening
1 cup white sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
5 eggs
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Slice the peel, cherries and raisins. Dredge with ½ cup flower. Cream together the shortening, sugar and vanilla. Add eggs, unbeaten and one at a time; beat thoroughly after each addition. Sift together the remaining flour, baking powder and salt. Add to the creamed mixture in 3 additions. Add the lemon rind and juice; add the floured fruit. Line a pan 9" x 5" x 3" with heavy waxed paper. Pour in the batter; bake in moderate oven till done. This makes a 3-lb. cake.

TAMBLYN
Emphasizes Two Facts
The first fact — that we are indeed a very lucky nation is or should be daily becoming more impressed upon us. That knowledge also cannot fail but tinge our thoughts of the coming "Holiday Season." Christmas in many of the Allied countries this year again, will indeed be far different from that in our own. For one thing, "Christmas Giving" in most cases will be rigidly restricted, and in many places impossible. Here in Canada the only restraint placed upon us is that of "Supply," but naturally that influence will to a great extent govern the amount and variety of "Gift Items." The other fact that many of us, we are afraid may be overlooking, is that the important thing is not the "gift" but the "Spirit of Giving." May we, therefore, take the liberty to suggest that rather than be upset about our inability to procure certain "pre-meditated" items—now no longer obtainable, that we approach our "Christmas Shopping Problems" with an open mind and be reconciled by the acquisition of suitable Gift Merchandise still available. A visit to your nearest Tamblyn Store will, we know, be most helpful in this respect!

Rugby Spies Missing On Sidelines

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 24—(CP)—The calendar says the East-West final will be played here this Saturday, but somehow it doesn't seem like old times.

There are no slinky characters from Portage and Main stalking around town, ready to ransom their ranches for a set of signals or a tip from the star quarterback's girl friend.

In fact, it looks as if Hamilton Flying Wildcats and Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers will have to be formally introduced when they meet at Varsity Stadium Saturday for the 18th Dominion championship clash between East and West since 1921. If the West has larceny in its heart, it has covered its tracks neatly.

It wasn't always that way. Remember the classic espionage Winnipeg Blue Bombers claimed after they took Ottawa Rough Riders 18-16 in the 1941 Grey Cup final? Coach Reg Threlfall, flourishing pad and pencil after the game, gloated that Bombers won because assistant coach A. H. (Bert) Warwick had "stolen" a complete set of Ottawa plays by scouting Riders in the Eastern final against Hamilton.

3 Out Of 17

Flt. Lt. Syd Halter, then Bomber president, and former player Capt. Bert Oja led the Winnipeg safari in 1942, spying on Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes and Uplands R.C.A.F. in the eastern final that year.

Despite Oja and Halter, Winnipeg lost to Hurricanes. In fact, the West has won only 3 of 17 Grey Cup games. Maybe that's one reason there has been no infiltration en masse from the Prairies this year.

The closest thing to a reconnaissance contingent Winnipeg boasts this year might be Johnny Peterson, manager of Osborne Stadium in Winnipeg and, naturally, a Winnipeg supporter.

Peterson watched Wildcats defeat Lachine R.C.A.F. 7-6 for the Eastern title last Saturday and he's been in town all week, but the word is out that Bombers aren't counting too heavily on Johnny's reports.

Coach Brian Timmis of Wildcats says he doesn't know anything about Winnipeg this year except what he sees in the papers.

"All season, we've been taking each team as it comes along," said Timmis. "We'll do the same with Winnipeg."

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

President A. J. Greene of the National Boxing Association announced at Paterson, N.J., last night, a ban had been placed by his organization on quickly-arranged return bouts for championships unless there was a sportsmanlike reason or public demand for the re-matching of the fighters. The ruling had been adopted to put a stop to see-saw games between such scrappers as Bob Montgomery and Beau Jack in the lightweight class and between Phil Terranova, featherweight champion, and Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont. In future proposed return bouts would require approval of the N.B.A.

The Association refused to recognize a third Callura-Terranova fight "as a title defence" said Greene, who added he did not regard the Canadian as a logical contender. He also brought out Terranova stands suspended in all states under the jurisdiction of the N.B.A. until Phil fulfills a contract to fight Callura in New Orleans or until the Louisiana Boxing Commission raises his suspension.

The National Association of Minor Baseball Leagues at Durham, N.C., announced yesterday 2,915 players were in the armed forced and 724 others were in war industry or farming. The minors had lost 3,836 players since Oct. 1, 1940, the report showed.

The outlook on the hockey front at home is far from bright; in fact it is decidedly gloomy. In the first place if there had been any hope that the Peterborough Hockey Club would operate this season it has been thoroughly chased out of the picture by developments at the annual meeting of the O.H.A. Saturday when not an entry was made in the intermediate series from this district. Tilly Donihee of Belleville Reliance was on hand but entered a junior B outfit from his club. There will also be another Belleville junior club but nothing higher. Whitby also made a junior entry but left the intermediate division blank. In other words even if the Petes were favorable to facing all the difficulties involved in trying to run a hockey team with no home ice available there would be no group in which they could play. They would have to accept a bye into the playdowns which nowadays means until the end of February at least before getting an O.H.A. game and obviously that would be an impossible situation. Jim Ellis sat in at the annual meeting but when he saw the situation he did not bother making a formal entry in behalf of the Peterborough club. At a meeting some weeks ago it was decided to await the annual meeting of the O.H.A. before coming to a final decision as to whether to operate but in view of developments since any prospects of O.H.A. here this year have vanished.

The second bit of bad news is that the committee appointed by the city council to consider ways and means of converting the old lacrosse arena on Townsend street into a hockey cushion for the use of 'teen age leagues has been stymied by the problem of how to flood the place. It had been expected that the Utilities Commission would lay a main along Townsend street and that this would provide water for rink purposes but that project is off and the committee has not up to now been able to hit upon a solution of the flooding problem. The council has referred the matter back to the committee for further study and it is to be hoped that a way may be found out of the difficulty. If 'teen age hockey is to be encouraged and developed here as a feeder for future senior teams the lacrosse bowl is needed. There is no other accommodation that would be half so satisfactory and it is to be hoped that a solution of the problem may be found. One of the foundations for the new arena project should be a crop of young hockey players ready to represent Peterborough in foreign competition and that cannot be provided unless something is done now to keep the game going and to give the kids the benefit of organized hockey and of supervision and coaching.

No Peterborough Players

No Peterborough names appear in the list of players available for Kingston's Navy team in the O.H.A. junior B series. According to stories from Kingston the team representing H.M.C.S. Cataraqui expects to go far this season. The boys in the blue of the Navy will be coached by Bernie White. Sports Officer Ryan has charge of the squad and Jack Mateer of Toronto is the business manager. The Sailors hope to get a game in Toronto very soon. They boast a first-class centre in Smythe of Etobicoke Indians and Marlboros and he is flanked by Urquhart of Montreal Pats on the left wing and McCaffrey of Iroquois Falls on the right. The second forward line has Lamorre of Trenton Juniors in the centre, Brown of Ottawa Pats on the right wing and Stevenson of Flin Flon Bombers on the left. Joe Watts of Kingston Juniors and Fielson of Trenton are the defence pair and McKenzie of Calgary is the netminder The club has an extra forward in Meller who played for Trail Juniors in British Columbia.

According to Charlie Edwards' Canadian Sports Snapshots there are scores of crack hockey players, many of them former pros in the Camp Borden area and they will operate a fifteen-club league of which the winner will emerge into the O.H.A. intermediate playdowns. There is nothing wrong with that program. That in fact seems to be a proper linking up of hockey and military training, and we are all in favor of it. But as we pointed out in this column the other day we are anxious to watch George Dudley and Company's reaction to a request for intermediate certificates for soldier players who have already played senior hockey this season. We have always contended that when Dudley took the position last season that because Hub Macey and Perce Nicholls had previously played with Kingston in the senior series they were not eligible to drop back to the intermediate ranks even after being legitimately transferred here he was violating the entire spirit of the wartime regulations. He's going to have to face the same situation this season and we know what the answer will be before it is given. The players will be allowed to play intermediate hockey in spite of their early season senior experience; in other words the ruling of last year which about ruined the Petes' chances of winning the intermediate title will be conveniently forgotten. It is a habit of the Old Guard who run hockey in Ontario. They are a law unto themselves—even at annual meetings.

That Hall Of Fame

Says the veteran Sports Scribe J. P. Fitzgerald in the Toronto Telegram: "Jim Sutherland, chief sponsor of Kingston's bid for the hockey 'Hall of Fame" location, and Bill Walsh of the Kingston Whig, were in our midst for the hockey game last night. Incidentally, Kingston is going right ahead with its plans for the Hall and most important of all hockey itself is lending its financial assistance by playing special games there for that purpose. There will be more, too, and the persuasive captain from the last war may be depended upon to find the ways and means. In fact he has invited Halifax, one of the rival cities, to erect a memorial window or some other such monument to its part in the creation of the game from shinny, field hockey, and like foundations. Kingston, by the way, is in a fair way of solving the Army problem, if any, as to the part it should play in hockey. Depending almost exclusively on the armed forces in their neighborhood for hockey talent for its Senior O.H.A. entry, the team is sponsored by civilians, who find the heartiest co-operation from the Army. And that makes an ideal combination which, however, is neither new nor novel, but the regular thing these days. And it works out admirably."

Whipper Watson does not know and may not care that the gong that robbed him of a win in last night's bout with Jan Gotch has a history dating back to the South African War. It was dug up by Fred Scates and used for the first time at last night's show. The gong was used for many years on the Dan Spence Memorial Ambulance, a horse-drawn vehicle that was purchased by public subscription after the South African conflict as a memorial to Dan Spence a popular local young man who lost his life fighting the Boers. The ambulance was eventually out-moded by the arrival on the scene of motor ambulances and was finally disposed of by auction several years ago. Timer Scates got in touch with the purchaser of the gong and had it on hand for Tuesday's card.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: The attendance at last night's wrestling card was the largest ever to witness a grunt-and-groan bout in Peterborough....Many late comers had to stand....Bill Calladine worked on a line with Harvey Jackson and Scherza against the Leafs Tuesday night and had assists on two goals scored by the Busher. Boston won the argument 8 to 5....The Toronto gang have won only four games in eleven starts, three of the wins being registered against the Rangers....Among those who will be pulling hardest for a Hamilton Wildcat victory Saturday will be Les Ascott....The Peterborough boy is playing middle wing for the Halifax Navy and in the event of a Hamilton win the Haligonians will play the Wildcats in an exhibition tilt in Toronto or Hamilton on the following Saturday....And that would mean a chance for the Peterborough sailor to get home for a day or two....On the other hand the Winnipeg Bombers have announced that they will not play any post-season game if they should happen to come down in front.

Gotch-Watson In Draw; Action Aplenty

With Jan Gotch ensnared in Whipper Billy Watson's pet Commando unconscious hold the timer's gong saved the battering Pole from defeat in the feature bout of Frank Tunney's weekly wrestling show at the Brock Street Arena last night. Gotch was helpless and a Watson victory was as certain as the annual arrival of the tax bills when the bell rang out the end of the hour and the struggle ended in a draw.

It was another tough, gruelling battle. Gotch took the first fall in 30 seconds, Watson used his famous Canadian avalanche hold to even up the bout at the end of 39 minutes, and the two fought it out for the balance of the hour with honors about even until Watson almost won in the last minute of the scheduled time.

Once more Gotch proved a tough baby. He again centred his attention on Watson's back, evidently figuring he had discovered a weakness there and the Whipper took quite a pounding from fists and knees that didn't do him any particular good. In fact, he was in difficulties frequently. So too, for that matter, was Gotch, for the champ was out to get revenge for last week's rough passage and mixed it freely.

The Pole got away to a good start by recalling the military strategist whose motto was "Get there fustest with the mostest." Watson was out for the kill from the first bell and was the victim of his own impetuosity. He launched a series of vicious flying tackles right off the reel. The first two bowled Gotch over and the Whipper set himself for another charge. This time Gotch beat him to it, throwing a block into Watson as the latter took off and the result was the champ bounced back as if he had struck a brick wall. He hit the canvas heavily and Gotch pounced on him and pinned his shoulders to the mat for a fall after only 30 seconds.

A Tough Round.

The second round was something else again. It was hammer and tongs for 39 minutes of sustained action in which both athletes had a turn in the driver's seat and both took a lot of punishment. Twice Watson managed to apply the whip tossing Gotch heavily, but he could not follow up his advantage and take the fall. Gotch on the other hand hammered the Whipper on two or three occasions with a series of punches and kicks in the back that had the champ groggy. However, he came back from one of those vicious attacks to hang the Pole, Cantonwine style, from the ropes. Gotch had a tough time releasing homself from that jam. A little later Watson emerged from another tough passage to drop kick his opponent right out of the ring.

Finally after 39 minutes of fast, hard going the end came suddenly. From a mixup near the ropes Referee Maxwell was knocked out of the ring, and almost at the same moment Watson got a chance to clap his avalanche hold on the bashing Pole and it was all over.

The champ gave his helpless opponent a merry-go-round tour of the ring, and then using Gotch's arm as a lever raised himself up and dropped on the prostrate Polish grappler with a jolt that must have been felt by even Jan's second cousins. Maxwell got back into the ring in time to award the fall, but that was a mere formality.

With the brawl all even the rivals staged a tough duel for the remainder of the hour. Both tried a lot of stuff and there was little to choose until time was nearly up. Then Watson cut loose with a barrage of flying tackles that bounced Gotch around. One of them, however, missed the target and got Referee Maxwell instead. The official went hurtling through the ropes and was slow in getting back. In his absence Watson softened his rival up with a couple of elbow slams and then clamped the Commando hold on the Pole. He had him all ready for the kill but before Maxwell could get back and affirm the Whipper as the winner the timer's gong ended the official doings. There was nothing left for Referee Maxwell to do but call it a draw. Watson protested bitterly, but the decision stood, and that was that.

Both Counted Out.

In the first bout on the card, long Joe Christie and Mike Demitre wound up with a draw too, when both were counted out after Christie had pushed his Montreal rival out of the rink and then followed him out. The two were still battling on the arena floor when Referee Maxwell counted ten and that automatically made it a draw. They fought a clean battle, featuring a lot of arm holds and release and the flurry at the end came as a surprise, for up to that time both men were sticking closely to the code.

An Indian bad man made his appearance in the semi-final in the person of Chief Thundercloud, an experienced mat battler who gave Sergt. Ted Miller of the R.C.A.F. plenty of trouble. The redskin was none too scrupulous in his methods. At one stage he picked up a cigarette butt and tried to blind the Air Force grappler.

Miller grabbed a towel to wipe his eyes and when the Chief tried to renew the attack Miller wrapped the towel around his opponent's neck and had him in difficulties. A little later when the R.C.A.F. Commando expert kicked Thundercloud out of the ring the Indian picked up a piece of rope and carried it back with him to use on his opponent. Finally, after 18 minutes' hard going Chief Thundercloud hit Miller squarely with a couple of pile drivers. When he tried a third one, however, the Air Force mat artist suddenly grabbed the Chief by the heels, pulled him off his feet and let him drop with a bang. Then he piled on top of him to take the fall. It was an O. Henry ending so far as the surprise element was concerned.

Bert Maxwell refereed the three bouts and Fred Scates, armed with a new gong, was the announcer and official timer.

Conacher Names All-Star Outfit

TORONTO, Nov. 24 — The Big Train pulled into this station last night, and the welcoming committee bade him pull up a chair.

"That was quite a football game Saturday, wasn't it?" said the Big Train. Everybody agreed, even one bystander who had been kicking himself for departing for home at halftime just because it got a mite too cold for his slender frame.

He Gets in the Swim

The small talk was chiefly about football, and then somebody said something about this being the open season on all-star teams, and the Big Train might just as well go ahead and name his men, let the sparks fall where they may.

"Okay," said the Big Train affably, "I'll name a team. Let's start with Red Grange, then there was . . . ." Then he laughed. "No good?" he asked. "All right I'll give you my team, but first I want to point out that the team I name is selected because of consistent good performances, not off any one game. I've often thought it might be worth a shot to mention an all-star team off a one-game show, like Hanson in 1935, Storey in 1938. But this team, I think, is a pretty good team."

Then the Big Train—Lionel Conacher to you—a gent who has been named to more "dream" teams than any one in the country, gave out with this team.

Flying wing — Warren Snyder, (Varsity).

Halfbacks — Harry Batstone (Queen's and Argonauts), Pep Leadlay (Queen's and Hamilton), Fritz Hanson (Winnipeg).

Quarterback—Bill Stukus (Argonauts).

Insides—Bert Oja (Winnipeg) and Bill Ceretti (Winnipeg).

Middles—Dave Sprague (Hamilton and Ottawa) and Martin Gainor (Winnipeg).

Ends—Cap Fear (Hamilton and Argonauts) and Bernie Thornton (Queen's, Argonauts and Winnipeg).

Landis Bars Cox From Baseball For Rest Of Life

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 — (AP). — In the most drastic action of his 22-year regime, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, Tuesday barred William D. Cox, president of the Philadelphia Phillies, from baseball for life for gambling on games in which his club was involved.

Landis ruled Cox was permanently ineligible to hold any baseball office hereafter, either in the major or minor leagues. His decision was reached after a three month investigation that included several interviews with Cox by Landis.

After the ouster had been announced, directors of the Phillies, meeting in Philadelphia, elected a 27-year-old former Duke football player, Robert R. M. Carpenter of Wilmington, Del., president, succeeding Cox. Carpenter's father, an executive of the E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company, purchased all of Cox's stock the exact amount of which was not revealed.

Two-Page Statement

Landis, in a two-page typewritten statement, reported:

1. Cox had resigned as president and director of the National League Phillies last Thursday.

2. Investigation of reports that Cox was betting on games last season was begun in August.

3 A week ago he notified Cox that a hearing on the charges would be held in New York Dec. 4.

4. As the result of admissions by Cox and because Cox refused to attend the Dec. 4 hearing in an effort to clear himself, Landis was obliged to notify Cox that:

" . . Your betting on baseball games of the Philadelphia Club, as to which games, as chief executive of that club, in charge of operations, you had a 'duty to perform' requires me . . . to declare you to be permanently ineligible to hold any office or employment with the Philadelphia Club or any other club or league party to the Major League agreement or Major-Minor League agreement."

Cox, wealthy 34-year-old New York lumberman and sportsman took over the financially troubled Phillies as president and syndicate head less than a year ago. His fling in the game was marked by a series of tempestuous events, culminating in the sudden firing of Stanley (Bucky) Harris as manager of the club in the middle of last season.

Landis stated Cox had resigned as president and director of the Phillies three days after the commissioner had ordered him to appear at a formal hearing on charges against him in New York next week.

Cox refused to attend that scheduled meeting, writing Landis that he had "decided to devote all of my time to my lumber business, essential to the war effort."

Admits Betting

Cox, Landis said, after first asserting that "any allegations" he had bet on games 'were ridiculous' admitted to Landis in New York on November 3 and later in Chicago that he had placed through a bookmaker "approximately 15 to 20" bets of from $25 to $100 a game on Philadelphia to win, but he had discontinued the wagering about May 20 when he learned of the rule prohibiting such betting by persons having connections with the sport. This rule was promulgated by the Major and Minor Leagues in 1927 following charges of gambling made against Ty Cobb then manager of Detroit Tigers, and Tris Speaker of the Cleveland Indians. Both Cobb and Speaker were cleared by Landis.

Landis' statement further said that Cox continually refused to give him a "full statement" to his betting activities, and had maintained that "inasmuch as I have resigned. I do not see any useful purpose would be served by my attending any hearing before you."

Disagreeing, Landis concluded, that "the proposed hearing was intended to develop fully statements of the facts by yourself and others and to give you an opportunity to present anything you might want to have considered. Therefore, I am not in accord with your views that such a hearing would serve no useful purpose."

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—Judge Landis was 77 years old the other day but it was Bill Cox who got the birthday present from the Judge.... At any rate, when Cox was bounced out of organized baseball, nobody could accuse Branch Rickey of being the brain behind his move....That permanment cure for the National Leagues' Phillies headache that Ford Frick found last winter must have worked to some extent; the league didn't have to locate a new buyer this time....Col. Biff Jones and his staff have been checking every application for Army-Navy tickets with postal authorities to make sure they stay inside the 10-mile limit.

Hearing about an Oklahoma Aggies-Arkansas game last Friday, when 80 passes were thrown, Frank Bridges, the football Dodgers' scout and assistant coach, admitted that they really pitch 'em in the southwest....Frank recalled officiating that kind of a game in Oklahoma some years ago and, toward the end, when a pass came sailing down the field with no receiver in sight, the umpire became exciting and jumped up to make a perfect catch...."Then he really got confused," said Frank, "so while he was just standing there wondering what to do, I patted him on the back and asked, 'Why not give the game back to the boys?' "

The first, Joe Smaza, is in the army. ....The latest major league bulletin lists only 30 scouts for the 16 clubs, but when somebody asked the Yanks' Paul Kritchell the other day how many scouts there are in the United States, Paul asked: "What is the population of the United States?"

Calladine Gets Two Assists In Boston Win

BOSTON, Nov. 24 (CP)—A little thing like tearing off part of his thumb on farm machinery couldn't stop Frank (Buzz) Boll from opening his 11th National Hockey League season with an unassisted goal.

In his first start since a knee injury curtailed his play late last season, the 32-year-old left wing connected at 3.02 of the first period last night to give Boston Bruins their first goal in an 8-5 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs before 10,000 home fans.

That opening shot by the aging Boll provided an example for such oldsters as Busher Jackson Bill Cowley and Herb Cain, who scored two goals apiece. The eighth Boston tally was provided by Don Gallinger as Bruins atoned, at least in part, for the worst defeat they have suffered in 20 National League seasons—their 13-4 loss to Montreal Canadiens Sunday.

The victory left Boston two points behind Leafs, Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings, who now are tied for second place.

Leafs scored three times in the second period and twice in the final 15 minutes, Pratt figuring in all but the fourth tally. He scored on a pass from Gus Bodnar and set up goals by Lorne Carr, Jackie Hamilton and Jack Ingoldsby. The other Toronto scorer was Rookie Ted (Teeter) Kennedy.

TORONTO, Nov. 24 — (CP). — The Ontario Rugby Football Union and the Quebec R.F.U. both were formed in 1882 and the O.R.F.U. has operated continuously since that time. The Interprovincial Union, known as the Big Four, was organized in 1907. Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick reports the Ottawa Football Club was formed in 1876 and that same year affiliated with the Football Association of Canada.....Let's hope this historical research doesn't lead to a campaign for a football Hall of Fame. Sport fans need at least a couple of years to recover from the hockey museum rumpus.

Football facts:

The magnificent showing of Lachine R.C.A.F in the Eastern football final removed any ideas that the Quebec Union is not on a par with the O.R.F.U. unless the player losses are overly severe, the game should boom in Montreal next season because fans should be convinced the class of play is tops.... Eight members of Hamilton Wildcats are in the Air Force and two in the Navy. A majority of the others work in war plants.

Across Canada:

There's a suggestion by Roger Peck, owner of the Tacoma, Wash., Baseball Club, that Bob Brown, Vancouver baseball promoter, be made president of the Pacific Coast Baseball League to succeed William C. Tuttle, resigned. The position carries a $7,500 salary...Dean Griffing, who moved to Regina from Kansas in 1936 and has been a power in Roughriders football since then, plans to move to California shortly. As player and coach, Griffing did much to keep Regina in football since the war.

Incidentally:

Heading in last Saturday's Montreal Herald: "Irvin fears leaders are tiring after heavy schedule." So Dick Irvin and his Montreal Canadiens managed to beat the Leafs in Toronto 7-2 and nose out Bruins in Montreal 13-4. Too tired to stop scoring, we guess....In the Manitoba Junior Hockey League, Winnipeg Monarchs beat St. James Canadians 10-2 and the Monarch management was so dissatisfied with the team's showing they appealed to the M.A.H.A. for services of four members of Winnipeg Rangers who won the Memorial Cup in Toronto last April — Ben Juzda, Joe Peterson, Bill Vickers, Cal Gardner. What do they want? The Stanley Cup?

Benny Goldberg Takes Beating

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24 —(AP) —California's Aztec assassin, Manuel Ortiz, still wears his bantamweight crown like a true champion.

Ortiz last night belted the previously undefeated Detroiter, the southpaw Benny Goldberg, from one corner of the ring to another and gained a unanimous verdict in 15 rounds. It was the eighth defence of the title this year by the slugging Ortiz, most active champion in the game.

The hard-hitting Mexican, after being held about even for the first eight rounds, suddenly lashed out with a terrific body attack that all but exhausted his foe.

In the 11th the tiring Goldberg was hit solidly on the jaw shortly after he answered the bell. Through the 11th and 12th he took heavy punishment and the 6,500 spectators, yelling themselves hoarse, fully expected Benny to drop to the canvas at any moment.

Goldberg had a bad left eye cut and Ortiz's nose was still bleeding from a stiff right he took in the fourth. Yet Goldberg, refusing to hold on, assimilated all Manuel had to offer. He was still swapping punches furiously at the finish, even if there wasn't any question as to the outcome.

Ortiz weighed 117½, a half pound under the limit, and Goldberg weighed 116½.

Rangers Obtain New Defenseman

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—(AP)—The New York Rangers, who have lost their first nine National Hockey League games this season, yesterday signed an amateur defenseman and released a rookie forward.

The defenseman is Roger Leger, 24-year-old, 195-pound husky who has been rejected for military service in Canada. He was given an offer by the Montreal Canadiens two years ago but broke his wrist before he was signed. Last season Leger played for the Canadian Pacific Club of the Montreal War Industry League. He is expected to play against Boston Thursday.

Archie Fraser, young centre, was released at his own request because of a back injury that has failed to respond to treatment. He will return to Canada Thursday.

Winnipeg Team Stronger Than Last Year

By HAL WALKER

TORONTO, Nov. 24—What's to follow certainly isn't calculated to make Brian Timmis sleep any more soundly, but the Hamilton coach may as well learn the worst.

The worst—brrrr—is that Winnipeg Bombers are stronger than the 1942 team which fell before the powerful Toronto Hurricanes, 8-5, That's what the Winnipeg coach, the estimable Mr. Reginald Threlfall, claims, anyway, and unless Threlfall is talking through his chapeau he brings important tidings to the annual classic of East v. West.

Bad News for Hamilton

Threlfall told Herb Manning, columnist of the Winnipeg Tribune, that this year's Bombers are "a collection of boys who happen to like the game of football," and then added that they were most certainly stronger than last year.

When you recall that the '42 Bombers lost to Hurricanes only by the margin of a placement kick, then you've got to start thinking they're not bad, not bad at all. One thing is sure: Hamilton Wildcats are by no means as strong as the '42 Hurricanes. Wildcats have developed into an unpredictable ball club, but even with all their 20 points a game over the O.R.F.U. season they didn't have anything to equal the power of Lew Hayman's 1942 kingpins. Wildcats haven't got a backfield that could compare with Eddie Thompson (since reported missing by enemy action at sea), Don Crowe, Bill Stukus, Jack Parry, Pop Poplowsky, Joey Richman, Fred Kijek, Jack Alexander, Art West, Charlie Prince, or a line that could measure up to Mike Ozarko, Don Durno, Paul McGarry, Truck Langley, Ed Poscavage, Ed Burton, Jack Buckmaster, Jake Gaudaur, Jack Taylor, Red Reynolds, Jim Partridge.

Waddya Know, Joe

Threlfall's decision may, or may not have been influenced by a conference he held with George Shields, former Balmy Beach middle wing. Shields looked over the Hamilton lineup and concluded that the Hamilton wingline is "good in spots, but not exceptional," and that the Cats, except Joe Krol, are merely "fair football players."

Shields went out of his way to praise Joe Krol, Hamilton's one-man gang.

Herb Manning writes with skepticism of the praise of Krol. He writes: "If Krol is more slippery in the open than Ken Charlton of Regina and more damaging off the tackles than Paul Gates of United Services — two backs whom the Bombers harnessed this season— then we're going to see a combination Ralph Pierce-Art Stevenson-Andy Bieber, nothing less. After the Dominion final, with the permission of Selective Service, we'll hire that guy just to outshift the Christmas lineups at the beverage vendors."

Buddy O'Connor Moves Up To First Place

MONTREAL, Nov. 24.—(CP). — Those 10 scoring points that Buddy O'Connor of Canadiens picked up in two week-end games had their effect on the official National Hockey League statistics released today.

Buddy shot up to a first place tie with Bill Mosienko, who rapped in two goals and three assists during the week to raise his total to 17.

Doug Bentley of Chicago, picked up four points, but dropped from second spot to a third-place tie with Mud Bruneteau of Detroit, who added five to his score, including four goals. Boston's Bill Cowley slipped from third spot to fifth with three points for the week.

Bruneteau continued his wide edge in the goal-scoring department, his four for the week giving a total of 12 and a margin of four over Herbie Cain of Boston. Cain was one up on Mosienko and Jerry Heffernan, Fernand Majeau and Toe Bake of Canadiens.

O'Connor had seven assists during the week to slide into a tie with Cowley among the leading playmakers. They held a two-point margin over Mosienko, Bentley and Elmer Lach of Canadiens.

Pat Egan of Detroit took over the bad-man role with 24 minutes in majors and minors, closely trailed by Mike McMahon and Murph Chamberlain of Canadiens with 22 and 21 minutes respectively. Canadiens, who have yet to lose this season, lead all clubs in penalties with 106 minutes.

Parliament Open King George Reviews War

LONDON, Nov. 24 — (CP) — The King today opened a new session of parliament—the ninth since the present House of Commons was elected in 1935—reading the speech from the throne which confidently said: "In the fourth year of the war the forces of the United Nations have assumed the offensive in all theatres of war....and in the coming year we shall with God's help be able to bear upon the enemy a still greater weight of attack."

The King, wearing the uniform of an admiral of the fleet, was accompanied by the Queen as he personally opened the new session of parliament. At the same time it was disclosed that the prorogation speech of the old session was read yesterday.

Reviewing the Allies' forward strides during the last year, today's speech recalled:—

"The enemy has been cast out of Africa; freedom has been brought to Sicily, Sardinia and Corsica, and in Italy our forces and those of our American ally now are engaging the enemy on the mainland of Europe."

Will Go Forward

"With the growing help of our great American ally and together with the other United Nations we shall go forward with confidence in our cause until we have delivered the peoples of the world from fear of the aggressor," the speech said.

Of Russia, it said:

"On his eastern front the enemy has given ground before the massive, unrelenting advance of the Russian armies whose magnificent achievements we have watched with ever-deepening admiration."

Turning to the conquered nations of Europe, the speech declared that they "are everywhere preparing to throw off the yoke of the oppressor and we shall continue to afford them such help and encouragement as lies in our power."

The opening ceremony was held in the King's robing room in which the House of Lords has met since the House of Commons chamber was demolished by German bombs in 1941. Commons, which by ancient tradition the King may never visit, now meets in the original House of Lords chamber.

"It is unpaid voluntary workers drawn from every section of the community which form the main body of workers attached to our Victory Loan organization," said Mr. Ilsley.

"I am satisfied that our wartime financing is being undertaken with a sincere regard for economy, having in mind the tremendous distribution which is obtained for our Victory Loans.

Cut Beer Ration To Curb Drunkenness

TORONTO, Nov. 24—The Liquor Control Board's official statement regarding its plans to make more beer available for home consumption was issued yesterday, together with an announcement of a change in administration policy in connection with transfer of hotel authorities.

The statement, over the signature of A. St. Clair Gordon, the Chief Commissioner, features the following changes: (1) Hotel authority holders will receive 75 per cent of the gallonage of beer which they received during the first year of war; (2) a greater gallonage of beer will be made available through brewery warehouse outlets; (3) individual beer quotas are reduced from 36 pints monthly to 24 pints; (4) clubs will receive a gallonage of not more than 24 pints per member per month; (5) guest room service for beer will be discontinued; (6) additional brewers' retail stores will be established; (7) hours of sale in hotels will be from 10:30 a.m. until 2 p.m., from 4 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. and from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The Liquor Control Board's radical change in beer selling policy which places emphasis on home consumption instead of beverage room drinking, comes at a time when drunkenness has reached its highest point in the history of the Ontario Liquor Control Act, it was stated yesterday.

The board's statement says in part: "Consideration is being given to the matter of differentiating in the issuance of new authorities at the commencement of the next fiscal year between the authorized premises which are conducted primarily as hotels, and those which should be more correctly classified as taverns. Furthermore, it is likely that higher fees payable by authority holders will be imposed at that time."

The diversion of beer gallonage from hotel and club authorities will result in a curtailment of the Liquor Board revenues to the extent of approximately $350,000 yearly, it was declared.

Dealing with the new policy to stop trafficking in the transfer of hotel authorities, the statement declared that any "unearned increment" which has developed by virtue of the operation of authorities by hotelkeepers shall accrue to the benefit of the public.

Scores of complaints from Chiefs of Police in municipalities throughout Ontario have reached the desk of the Liquor Control Board in the past year. These complaints told the same story: an alarming increase in insobriety chiefly by prolonged drinking of beer in beverage rooms. Added to these were numerous protests from individuals of all classes.

Liquor Board inspectors, quietly investigating beverage room conditions, found plenty of confirmation of the reports. Beverage room drinking on an unprecedented scale was going on, chiefly due to the knowledge that the supply of beer was limited and the "sold out" sign might be hung up at any time. According to a well-informed source, domestic disturbances have been an inevitable consequence of workingmen drinking too much.

On the basis of a comparison with prewar or even 1941 volume, the hotels will still receive more gallonage of beer than they did in those periods, but they will not be able to take advantage of the tremendous increase in demand, one informant said last night. It was not equitable that hotel-owners should receive the full advantage of greater demand while the home consumer suffered, he pointed out.

Room Service Ban

The removal of the hotel service in beer to hotel guests is expected to bring satisfactory results. Many hotels have made a policy of holding back a portion of their daily quota for room service.

When thirsty individuals entered a beverage room and inquired for beer they were told none was available, but they could obtain a supply in a hotel room. This meant renting a room in order to get beer, and thousands of persons did just that, it is claimed.

Class A hotels, those operated primarily as hotels and not merely taverns, will be permitted to serve beer with meals even though beverage rooms are closed at the time, it is understood.

As far as the selling of beer at hotel dances is concerned, there is no board ruling on this point, and Class A hotels likely will find themselves free to continue with this practice—if they have any beer to sell. But as one official pointed out, there will be little bottled beer available in hotels from now on. Home consumers will receive the benefit of the administrative changes, and in this way it is believed a sharp drop in drunkenness will follow.

Condemns Union In Coal Strike

EDMONTON, Nov. 24 (CP). — The Royal Commission investigating wage demands of Alberta and British Columbia miners, members of District 18, United Mine Workers of America, to-day declared in its report that "it unanimously condemns the methods adopted by the U.M.W.A. in the existing circumstances" surrounding the union's action in calling the men on strike.

The report, directed to Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell and the National War Labor Board, confirmed its findings and directions, under its powers as a Regional War Labor Board, directing payment of a $1-a-day increase, retroactive to Nov. 1 to miners "not above the rank of foreman or comparable rank" and two weeks' vacation with pay after 12 months' employment. The findings and directions of the Board were released yesterday.

The report, made public to-day by Mr. Justice O'Connor, chairman of the three-man commission, said the commission made a "determined effort to secure a reconsideration by the U.M.W.A. of their intention to go on strike" and added that "in the opinion of the commission, the action of the U.M.W.A. was ill-conceived, unwarranted and against the national interest."

6 Companies Reduce Power Charges

MONTREAL, Nov. 24 — (CP). — Six electric companies in Quebec Province to-day agreed to a temporary reduction of electricity rates equivalent to one month's free electricity for domestic consumers.

The six companies had been ordered to appear before the Quebec Public Service Board to discuss the board's proposal for a reduction in rates during the last quarter of 1943. Similar reductions had previously been made in Ontario and British Columbia.

The six companies agreeing in principle to the plan to-day were Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated, Quebec Power Company, Southern Canada Power, Gatineau Power, Saguenay Power, and Shawinigan Power and Water.

In concurring in the board's suggestion, the companies said it was understood that excess profits taxes would be reduced to correspond with the decrease in revenue, and that the temporary reduction in rates would not affect rate structures effective in 1944.

R.C.A.F. To Start Carrying Mail

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 (AP)—Air Minister Power said today the R.C.A.F. is forming a new transport command which will handle trans-Atlantic flights carrying mail to all Canadian servicemen in Britain and perhaps to the Mediterranean area as well.

While the minister did not say so, there was some belief here the new transport command set-up will include the various transport squadrons already operating in Canada, like the one between Moncton, N.B., and Goose airport in Labrador, and another in the northwest.

Maj. Power said efforts now are being made to obtain aircraft for the new service, and it was believed they would be available soon. Crews were receiving special training for trans-Atlantic flying.

The new R.C.A.F. service will be in addition to the existing trans-Atlantic service operated by Trans-Canada Air Lines, using modified Lancaster bombers.

Tourist Conference Is Being Planned

Alex Sollitt suggested to the council Monday night that it should be to the advantage of the city, as centre of the Kawarthas, to be represented at a conference in Quebec City next week, which has been called by General L. R. LaFleche. One of the subjects that will be given prominence will be the tourist business, especially means of expanding it when peace returns.

Some members of the council suggested that Mayor Hamilton should consider attending, but His Worship declined.

His Worship said that Peterborough would be represented by Mr. Sollitt who is going as president of the Ontario Motor League. General LaFleche is convening the conference November 29 to December 1, as Minister of National War Services. Mr. Sollitt said that future design for the tourist traffic might be by encouraging the establishment of traffic lines to centres such as Peterborough which would be regarded as a distributing point for an entire district.

The council left the decision to Mayor Hamilton telling him that they would be agreeable if he sent a representative to the Quebec sessions.

102 Unmarried Parents In Ten Months

The mining district of Northern Ontario exerts a disproportionate influence in the deliberations of the Ontario Municipal Association, Reeve Gilbert McIlmoyl told the County Council this morning in reporting as their delegate to its recent convention in Toronto.

"The Townships of Teck, Tisdale and Whitney and the town of Whitney each seemed to have half a dozen representatives," Mr. McIlmoyl said. "They'll control the whole situation if other parts of the province don't meet that representation. I think our own Council would be wise to send representatives to that convention, and I feel our clerk should also attend them. I got the impression while I was in Toronto that recommendations from the Municipal Association carry weight in various departments and if we are going to let things be taken over by the mining district, some of them may not be to our interest. The northern and eastern parts of the province seem to be well represented. One man from the east, an auditor, told me he paid his own exxpenses to attend, because he wished to keep in touch with things. There may be others like him."

The attendance at the convention was about 60 per cent rural, Reeve McIlmoyl said in the course of his interesting report.

Illegitimacy Grows.

"Miss Rachael Young and her staff are doing a wonderful job under present day problems," said Deputy-Reeve A. W. Archibald, Councils representative to the Children's Aid Society.

For the first ten months of this year, Mr. Archibald continued, the society has supervised 515 families, and has had 102 unmarried parent cases.

It has made 286 investigations for the Department of National Defence in regard to soldiers' families. The society has 34 wards with maintenance chargeable to the county. Only 19 of them are being charged to the county. "For two others we receive maintenance from the Dependents' Allowance Board, and the others are in free or wage homes. There are 10 children in the Shelter, five being from the county.

For the first ten months in 1942 the Shelter gave 2,681 days' care, and for the first ten months this year 3,268 days' care. Comparative figures for boarding home care were 12,626 for the first ten months of last year and 12,438 for the same period this year.

"The decrease in boarding home care," said Mr. Archibald, "is partly due to the difficulty of getting foster homes, particularly if children present problems. People now have increased incomes and are less interested in opening their homes for this purpose. The society feels that more severe measures in regard to type of houses in which families are allowed to live would be helpful to some of the children of the community. In most instances it is not a case of insufficient money, but lack of desire on the part of the people."

Reports on the several agricultural meetings, the organization of the Leitch Commission of Inquiry, and the more recent meeting of Wardens of the province, both planned and arranged by Col. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, were given the Council by Deputy-Reeve Harry Reed of Otonabee, Reeve M. H. Johnston, and Warden Mathers

Quoting expression of purpose by Colonel Kennedy, Mr. Reed said, "The Minister told us at the Leitch Commission meeting that if he could not do something for the farmers of Ontario, Premier Drew would have to get another Minister of Agriculture."

24-Year-Old Lancashire Air Stowaway Given Permission To Remain In Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 24—(CP).—Margaret Drury, 24-year-old Lancashire girl and first east-to-west Atlantic air stowaway, has been granted entry to Canada for six months to work with the R.A.F. transport command.

The announcement, made today by A. L. Jolliffe, commissioner of immigration, said Miss Drury has expressed a wish to accept such employment. Her case will be reviewed again at the end of the six-month period.

Miss Drury stood 19 hours in the nose-wheel compartment of a big Liberator bomber on her trans-Atlantic flight. When she got out at Dorval airport near Montreal her feet and ankles were swollen.

She was reported from Montreal to have told a Canadian immigration board of inquiry which originally rejected her plea for admission to Canada:

"For three years I've been a mechanic and I had my heart set on flying. But there are so many other women in Britain with the same idea that I was afraid the war would be over before I could get an opportunity.

"So I stole a ride to Canada and I would greatly appreciate a chance of taking flying lessons. If not I'd be content to work at an airport or aircraft factory until I get a chance to be a pilot."

After the Montreal board rejected her the case was sent to Ottawa for review.

German Demolition Crews Dynamite Every Italian Home

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With Canadian Forces in Italy, Nov. 22 (delayed)—(CP Cable)—Fire and high explosives are weapons the Germans are using to delay the march of the British 8th Army through the mountains of Italy.

The destruction they are causing by scorched-earth methods is complete but is not stopping the 8th Army's slow advance.

Civilians are suffering more than soldiers.

I spent yesterday in a town recently occupied by Canadians. It was never much of a town, perched on the side of a hill painted with the autumn colors of turning leaves. But it was home for 3,000 persons.

There is no home there now for anyone.

There is nothing left but piles of stones, bricks and tiles, nothing but scarred walls and ruins from which smoke still curls, no personal belongings but broken bits of furniture salvaged from the rubble.

Pasquale Calainanni is probably the town's most respected citizen for he owned the only pool parlor and once lived in Brooklyn. He had several houses and a family.

In broken English this thin-faced Italian with a week's stubble on his chin told of the devastation created by a handful of Germans skilled in the art of destruction.

They entered one day, told everyone to move to the outskirts. Then they placed dynamite charges in the houses, one by one, and blew them up. They set fire to buildings which would burn easily.

Returned 2nd Time

A few buildings escaped complete destruction the first day so the Germans came back the second. Where a room was intact they applied the torch; where there was still a roof they used dynamite.

The town died as sure a death as the methodical Germans can mete out. Only churches and one small house bore any resemblance to what they had been before.

The Germans left the Italians to fend for themselves as best they could, taking the fittest men with them to work behind their lines. Already some of these Italians have escaped and returned to save what they can from the ruins.

Others have left, or like Calaianni, are awaiting transport to take them to safety. Those still there are living in cold crypts in the cemetery. They are eating turnips, normally fed to pigs and donkeys.

There are still some women and children in the town, weary-eyed and unsmiling.

Canadian troops are doing what they can to help, sharing chocolate with the children, giving the men cigarets and letting the women warm themselves by open camp fires.

Coke Pit Explodes

HAMILTON, Nov. 24 —(CP)—A heavy explosion shook Hamilton's industrial area in the vicinity of Burlington and Depew streets early today when a coke storage pit exploded. There were no serious injuries, police said.

The blast took place in the government-operated coal carbonizing company's plant. There was no fire nearby, police said, and the cause of the explosion could not be ascertained immediately. Damage to the coke container was said to be "extensive" and an ammonia still was damaged also.

Air Squadron Is Organized

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov. 24 (ENS). —Marking the formation of Number 347 Air Cadet squadron, the Lindsay citizens were out enmass Tuesday to witness the interesting demonstration of precision drill by cadet of Number 139 Air Cadet squadron, Toronto, who paraded with the R.C.A.F. band from Trenton.

During the parade a march past was held with Group Captain A. D. Bell Irving, commanding officer, Trenton, taking the salute. Other notable R.C.A.F. and Air Cadet League officials were on the reviewing stand.

Lindsay's Air Cadet squadron is being formed under the sponsorship of the Lindsay Kiwanis Club and both parents and children alike are showing considerable interest in the project. This marks the 86th squadron to be formed in Ontario since the inception of the Aid Cadet League of Canada in 1940. Members of the Kiwanis Club forming a committee in connection with the formation of the squadron include Col. R. I. Moore president J. W. MacMillan and R. W. Groves.

SHORTAGE OF MEAT

PRETORIA — (CP). — Introduction of one meatless day a week will shortly be introduced in South Africa. One of the main causes of the meat shortage is the presence of large numbers of refugees, Allied troops and Italian prisoners of war.

Grocer Forced To Dole Out Canned Goods

The extent to which the Dominion Government is continuing preference in foodstuffs for the men and women in the forces is shown in the percentages of the canned vegetables crop which has been withheld for that purpose.

A circular letter from Canadian Canners to the retail trade indicates its deliveries this year, based on 1941 deliveries, will be as follows: Peas, 40 per cent.; corn, 45; green and wax beans, 30; tomatoes, 22; tomato juice, 60.

The Government is holding for the armed forces the following percentages of the pack; Peas, 25; corn, 25; green and wax beans, 25; and tomatoes, 50.

Of the canned tomato pack the military tables are going to be assured of more than twice the allotment to the civilian population.

Furthermore, Canners explain, they had to use 20-ounce containers instead of 16-ounces, which accounted for another 25 per cent. cut in "cannage," that is in the actual number of cans of vegetables as follows: Peas, 25 per cent.; corn, 25; green and wax beans, 25.

"Supposing we received 1,000 cases of tomatoes from Canners in 1941," said a main street grocer, "we are going to receive from the new pack just 22 per cent. of the 1941 deliveries, or 220 cases.

"How far would 220 cases go with us? And then according to the instructions from control authorities we have to dole out the stock in fixed volume, 10 per cent. a month, throughout the winter, until we can raise it to 25 per cent. in April and May. Imagine on that basis 22 cases a month!"

The tall gentleman who presides over a George Street store was rather ruefully counting out cans in imagination for a moment, and then he said: "We ought to be mighty glad to have any at all; and the boys at the front need them far worse than we do; so everything is all right, isn't it!"

$37 Overcoat Is Taken From Cafe

A Picton young man, M. Hamley, recently discharged from the Canadian Army after serving three years in England, has had a rather expensive visit to Peterborough.

He dallied too long in the beverage rooms Tuesday night and eventually was arrested in a restaurant on a drunk charge.

This morning he pleaded guilty before Magistrate Gee in police court and was fined $10 and $1 costs. Then he discovered that a customer in the restaurant where he had been arrested had stolen his new $37 overcoat, leaving an old trench coat in its place.

In answer to a question from the magistrate, he said that he had been discharged from the army recently because of nerves.

"You weren't in Sicily?" queried the court.

"No, my condition was caused by the blitz in London," the Picton youth explained.

County Deficit At Hospital $2,461 For 1942

Nicholls Hospital deficit on the care of county patients in 1942 was $2,461.74, Reeve R. Ferguson of Norwood, reported to the county council this morning.

The number of county patient-days was 7,855 at the daily cost of $3.79, amounting to $29,770.45. Of that amount $24,481.65 was paid by patients, and the Ontario government paid $690.50 for indigent patients; total $25,172.15, leaving an operating loss of $4,598.30.

This sum is reduced by endowment revenue, computed at 27.2 cents a day for the 7,855 patient days, equivalent to $2,136.56; leaving the net loss to the hospital on county patients at $2,461.74.

Mr. Ferguson reminded the council that Warden Mather, Reeve Gilbert McIlmoyl and himself had been appointed to interview Nicholls Board about its application for a grant to the maintenance of the hospital.

The committee consulted the Board, and then asked F. D. Kerr, K.C., what was the council's position in regard to making a grant to the hospital.

Must Be In Estimates

"Mr. Kerr told us we could not pay any money that was not provided for in the current estimates, without approval of the Ontario Municipal Board," Reeve Ferguson said. "He gave us his opinion that he did not think the Municipal Board approve a large grant this year to the hospital by passing a bylaw at the end of the year of what might be called a "dying" council."

The committee was in sympathy with the hospital, Mr. Ferguson said, but it seemed the council would not be well advised if it proceeded to make a grant during the present concluding session of the 1943 council.

Petition Government

A resolution by Mr. Ferguson and Mr. McIlmoyl petitioning the Ontario government to increase their allowance to the hospital, was adopted.

"I can't see anything else we can do at the present time," Reeve Ferguson said.

Serious Condition

"We are faced with a very serious situation," said Reeve Gifford of Ennismore. Both hospitals in the city were filled to capacity, he said, and mentioned one patient who suffered intense worry until he finally obtained a bed at St. Joseph's Hospital.

It was also said that Nicholls Hospital was still turning patients away from time to time.

Short 8 Doctors

"I was told they are eight doctors short in Peterborough, the population had increased 4,000, and there is a scarcity of nurses.

Reeve Johnston, North Monaghan, supported Mr. Gifford's statement. He said most doctors would not accept night calls to the townships, and cited the experience of a little girl "who nearly died. On the third telephone call the family got a doctor, who rushed the girl to the hospital, in his own car, and operated on her that night."

Disastrous Fire

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 24—(AP)—A $500,000 fire towering at times 300 feet into the night sky swept war-idle properties of the Berkey and Gay Furniture Company here early today and led one fireman to his death.

The spectacular blaze destroyed two of the three Berkey and Gray buildings which have been used for storage purposes.

Life-like Decoys

MISSOULA, Mont., Nov. 24 —(AP).—The decoy geese which C. C. Wilhite, retired Forest Service employee, put out near Nine Pipe reservoir were too life-like. A 15-year-old farm boy saw them and blazed away with his rifle. Wilhite's blind was in the line of fire, and he was struck in the small of the back, the hip and the neck. He escaped with minor injuries.

Emily WA Group Supports Christmas Fund

Buyers on the covered in market last Saturday who were in the vicinity of the spot where the Bethel United Church W. A. of Emily Township had their stand on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, could hardly have failed to notice the splendid assortment of homemade cooking and kindred articles that the ladies had prepared for the purpose of raising money to help along the special donations for Christmas that the fund is now endeavouring to raise.

It was also quite apparent that this active group of Church workers were well versed in efforts to raise money for a good cause, and were able through Mrs. McCarrell when the final count was made, they and Mrs. Wellman to hand over the nice sum of $33.00 which is recorded to their credit in this days receipts.

Mrs. Ira Switzer is the president of this group, who have given to this same cause on previous occasions, and there was a hint that still further help from them might be forthcoming in time to give still further help for these same donations now being raised.

Rev. R. M. Patterson of Omemee, who represents the fund in that place, and through whom the fund had already previously received over $600.00, as coming from that district, is the minister in this church, and his interest and support has been a source of much gratification to the fund management.

Their School Also Helps

Making the effort of these ladies from their district also the opportunity to do something for the Christmas Cheer fund, the pupils of school section No. 13, under the direction of Miss Janet McIntosh, their teacher, had a portion of the same stand from which the sum of $4.00 was realized to be also credited today, showing that the interest in the raising of the Christmas funds to help the victims of air raids in Britain is quite widespread in that district, and what a fine thing it was to see the effort of the children and their elders, standing shoulder to shoulder in a common cause.

Bridgenorth Class Helps

Still further credit goes to the district outside the city limits, when the tiny tots of the Primary Class of the United church Sunday School at Bridgenorth sent in another $3.00, continuing a long stream of donations from the same source which has been a real credit to these youngsters and the leadership of their teacher.

One personal donation from H. R. Scott is also listed to keep that part of the fund's activities alive, and it is hoped that many more will take advantage of the facilities the fund affords to help in this work in a personal way.

Scalloped Kartoffel

In certain parts of Denmark they call it "KARTOFFEL". In any part of Canada we'd say "scalloped potato". But this "scalloped potato" recipe is different. Your family will like it. Incidentally, H. P.—that grand old English type sauce adds a wonderful flavour also to meats, fish, fowl, stews, salads and sandwiches. Get a bottle today and try this wartime "economy" dinner.

Slice 6 medium, pared potatoes and 1 peeled onion and arrange in alternate layers in a casserole. Add 1 tablespoon of H. P. Sauce to 2 cups of medium thick white sauce and pour over potatoes, making sure that the sauce mixes thoroughly through the vegetables. Sprinkle ¼ cup of old, grated cheese on top and bake in a moderate oven 400 degrees for one hour.

EATING FOR VIM AND VICTORY — Food makes a difference, and workers owe it to themselves and to their jobs to see that the lunch they eat is the kind that will keep them on their toes through the last half of the day's work. Management is realizing more and more the difference a proper lunch makes to output and working efficiency. The plant where this picture was taken is one of the largest war plants in Canada. It, and many smaller plants, has installed a pleasant and well run cafeteria for employees. Workers, like the two girls pictured here, have learned that a lunch containing milk, fruit or vegetables and a building food such as meat or fish, eggs or cheese gives them energy that carries over into after-work hours.

Normal Students Hear Red Cross Speaker

The Peterborough Normal School held its regular literary meeting on Monday afternoon, with the president, Miss M. Card, in the chair. The meeting was in charge of Form 2, and the opening number was a chorus by the form, accompanied by Mr. Q. McKinney.

Miss V. McNally and Miss W. Judge gave a pleasing violin duet, "Danny Boy," and Miss D. Miluck gave a reading by Kipling, entitled "Keep Fit." Miss F. Sexsmith was the critic for the meeting.

An amusing singing demonstration of a Grade 3 health class, under the direction of the teacher, Miss P. O'Donnell, was presented, and the students taking part all wore large pastel hair ribbons, to help the audience to visualize them as Grade 3 pupils.

Miss M. Cathcart, vice-president, introduced the guest speaker, Miss Bartlett, a representative of the Junior Red Cross, who gave the students a clear idea of the wonderful work the Junior Red Cross had done, and was doing, in the schools. She explained to her audience how the Junior Red Cross would aid them to solve many difficult problems, which they, as teachers, would have to meet in the future.

Listening Groups Are Organized

Listening groups have been formed from all over this city, and in cities and towns all over Canada, to gather and hear the new series of broadcasts which are now being delivered over the network of the C.B.C., on the topic, "Of Things to Come."

This series of broadcasts is being presented to the people of Canada to give them some idea of how the world will be after this terrific struggle is over, and to enable them to plan for a better and brighter future.

Post-war problems will be discussed, and possible solutions will be given. In addition, an insight in to the mind of the average Canadian will be obtained, and thus new trends of thought,—their good points and their limitations, can be discussed, and thus improved.

The C.B.C. broadcasts can be heard over Canadian stations on Tuesday evenings, from 8:30 to 9:00 p.m. The Peterborough So-Ed group which is studying the topic, "Of Things to Come," is using these broadcasts as its lectures, and a discussion of the radio talk follows each presentation.

Why ARE NEILSON'S CHOCOLATE BARS SO OFTEN "SOLD OUT?"

The answer is this:- Neilson's Chocolate Bars are so popular that they sell faster . . . but the big reason for the scarcity is that there are so many more buyers today than ever before . . . this, in spite of the fact that Neilson's are manufacturing and distributing to their dealers the maximum quantity in accordance with wartime restrictions on the use of raw materials.

Neilson's Quality remains as always —the highest!

Wooden Springs Patented New Invention

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 — (CP). — Don't be surprised, folks, if you walk into a furniture store one of these days and the salesman offers to show you chesterfield sets and easy chairs that have wooden instead of metal spring structures.

And don't think your grocer or druggist is joking if he offers to sell you your favorite fruits and vegetables in tablet form.

Patents for the invention of both the tablets and the wooden springs have been issued by the Dominion Government, it was revealed today in the report of the Commissioner of Patents for the year ended last March 31. The report did not give the details of the inventions or identify the inventors but it did say that 7,686 patents were issued during the year, 660 less than in 1942.

Twenty-two of the patents issued were given for women inventors seven for men and women jointly and 7,657 for men. Only 500 patents were issued to Canadian inventors, with more than 6,000 going to United States inventors and more than 640 to inventors in Great Britain. Others were issued for those in British Colonies, Europe and South America.

The report said that there was "notable activity" of inventors in the chemical and allied arts. New synthetic rubbers and the improvement of those already known were the subject of many applications.

In radio, the outstanding features were mainly in oscillation generating and translating apparatus.

Big Business Dominates Canadian People

WINNIPEG, Nov. 24—(CP)—Pat Conroy of Ottawa, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said in an address here last night that a Canadian form of Naziism was possible after the war "unless the people get rid of the representatives of big business who are brazenly in the saddle running our country." He spoke to a mass meeting called by the C.C.L. Winnipeg Council.

"Big business is not only running the country as it has been ever since confederation, but has dropped the camouflage," he said. "Hundreds of thousands of representatives of big business are at Ottawa while labor has only about half a dozen in purely advisory capacities without any power."

Mr. Conroy said that since 1939, there had been 27,000 orders-in-council issued "all co-ordinating the people into straight jackets, so that in one way or another they come under the control of big business."

He claimed that only one order-in-council "was supposed" to have contained anything in labor's interest—the one "supposed" to bring about compulsory bargaining.

The order-in-council on compulsory bargaining was the only one which did not carry any penalties because "that would have meant they would have imposed in this case on the employers," he said.

The labor executive warned that if labor left power in the hands of "big business" sooner or later it will lose everything.

77-Year-Old Grandmother Kills Husband Says He Abused Her For Many Years

NEW CITY, N.Y., (AP). — A 77-year-old grandmother was charged with murder today after confessing, District Attorney George V. Dorsey said, that she took advantage of what appeared to be a perfect alibi and shot her husband to death because he was a "bad man" who had abused her for years.

The district attorney said the woman, Mrs. Anna Belak of Tomkins Cove, related, after an all-night grilling, that she fired a bullet into the brain of her husband, John, 69-year-old caretaker, as he lay in bed Sunday following a fight with a friend.

After Belak died the friend, John Kovach, 42, was jailed in the belief he was responsible for Belak's death. The district attorney said the charge against him would be dismissed.

Polish Refugee Starts Industry

ACTON, Ont., Nov. 24 (CP)—This Central Ontario town is the home of a war-born industry established by a refugee from Poland and a titled Yorkshire wool magnate.

The management of the plant is in the hands of the refugee, Kasimir Markon, who was an outstanding wool manufacturer in his native country before the war. He was assisted in its establishment in 1940 as Lord Barnby.

The plant handles about 10,000,000 pounds of wool annually—about one third of it from Canada—and produces about 5,000,000 pounds of wool tops from which worsted cloth is made. Previously most Canadian wool used in the manufacture of worsteds was exported to other countries for processing. About 200 workers are employed.

Price Control Deemed Necessary By Forum

STEWART HALL, Nov. 24—The third meeting of the farm forum series was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dawson. Fifteen members were present for a discussion of price control and its effect on farm prices.

The consensus of opinion was that price control is necessary and helpful, but that it must be planned by farmers in collaboration with government experts and that quality in farm goods must be equalled by the quality of manufactured goods.

During the evening, an invitation was accepted from Central Smith Forum through their leader, Charles Moore to join with them on Monday next in a meeting to be held in the schoolhouse on the Lindsay highway.

The next regular meeting will be held on Monday, December 6, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Savigny.

Fishermen Marooned

WINNIPEG, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Thirty fishermen, marooned on floating ice in Lake Manitoba, were rescued late Tuesday near Delta Beach, 70 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

The fishermen suffered no ill effects, but lost nets and other equipment valued at $4,000.

The action in which the Princess Pats repelled the Germans took place northwest of Agnone in the central Italian sector and lasted two hours.

Conacher Names

Snyder Peer of 'Em All

Conacher spoke eloquently of Warren Snyder, praised his durability, and, without as much as saying so, left the impression that he believed Snyder the peer of 'em all. "Warnie had to carry the mail, lift a club on his shoulders and carry it for 60 minutes, game in and game out. And he could do it, too." Of his former teammate, Batstone, Conacher said he was putting him on the team out of "respect" to some great games he played. "Batstone was a smart, heady halfback, but he wasn't as good as Snyder. You must remember Batstone always had some pretty fair players on the halfline with him that he could 'feed' the ball to."

Lionel spoke warmly of big Doug Turner at centre, but claimed Ernie Cox was better. He also gave honorable mention to Bob Cosgrove. People might be surprised, he said, at the inclusion of Bert Oja, Bill Ceretti and Martin Gainor of Winnipeg on his team, but "you can't keep 'em off." He was particularly keen on Oja, the big guy who came to Winnipeg after being named an All-America centre at Minnesota in 1934. But because Oja was used as running guard, he placed him at guard, or outside wing, if you will.

Dave Sprague he termed "an all-time great," and concluded his summation by saying that Cap Fear was the greatest end wing he ever saw. Bernie Thornton he ranked next in line.

TRY TO BE DECLARER

OTHER THINGS being equal, it will pay you to strive to become the declarer, rather than support your partner's call, if you have a guarded king in some off suit. By so doing, you prevent the defenders from coming through your king on the very first trick, and setting you before you can even strike a lick in your own behalf. If you are the declarer and they open that suit, the lead comes right up to your king and makes certain it is a trick taker, which may possibly be needed to give you the number you bid.

Wasn't it funny to see two players in the North position so similar-minded in the bidding of this duplicate deal? Each forced with a short suit after hearing the partner's heart bid. But at Table 1, North tried to prevent a club lead, intending to stick the hand into hearts, on the theory that a four-four division of trumps with a long side suit makes more discards possible. At Table 2, North tried deliberately to cause a club lead up to his guarded K, intending all along to put the hand into his own spades, so that the club K could not be captured.

At Table 1, West opened with his club Q in spite of North's effort to steer him away from the suit, so the contract was beaten right there. East at the other table also was cantankerous, and thought he saw through North's plan of wanting a club lead. So he opened the diamond 10. It didn't make any difference. The diamond A won, then two trumps, and the heart K put him in dummy to use the diamond K for a club discard. So he lost only one trick anyway, in clubs.

Railway Men Would Regulate Traffic

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 (CP) — The Railway Transportation Brotherhoods today suggested to Federal and Provincial Governments "more equitable regulation" of all forms of public transport with a view to formulating and adopting a National Transportation policy.

Such a policy can be realized only through co-operation of Government authorities within whose legislative competence the several transportation agencies operate, said the Brotherhoods in a brief submitted to the House of Commons reconstruction committee.

To assign each agency to the place in the transport field where it can give its greatest service on a remunerative basis was a service demanded by the national interest.

"It is our considered judgment that, because problems of transportation are of such vital importance in economic life of Canada, the public interest and national necessity demand a centralized government authority to ensure equitable regulation and effective control over all forms of transportation offered and maintained for public service."

As post-war reconstruction undertakings, the Brotherhoods suggested extension of the Federal Housing Act and provision of the government subsidies for building houses for low-income families.

A non-profit, slum-clearance program and development of a modern housing and town-planning scheme were suggested, with co-operation between governments in surveying requirements for public buildings and recreational facilities.

Reconstruction should bring about development of water-power resources and rural electrification, said the brief. Sewage disposal plants should be constructed to prevent contamination of lakes and rivers, while further services for the protection and improvement of present forest assets and reforestation were required.

All labor employed on government - sponsored projects should be paid in accordance with fair-wage schedules and collective agreements.

A six-hour day and a five-day work week should be established as a post-war measure.

Pension At 65

The brotherhood said the retiring pension age should be reduced to 65 years for all persons in remunerative employment, with an adequate allowance to provide a "Canadian" standard of living.

Railway level crossings should be eliminated, since there were 30,000 places where highways cross steam railway tracks at the grade level.

"The nerve - wracking experiences of firemen and trainmen and the hazard involved owing to coming into contact with various types of vehicles at level crossings with frequent fatal results, demonstrates the vital urgency of undertaking this task at all level crossings where practicable, particularly those known to be most hazardous," said the brief.

The railway act should be amended to provide that the annual appropriation of $200,000 to the railway grade crossing fund be increased to at least $500,000.

"We submit that the conservation of human life and property is of such vital importance as to justify at least, that amount being appropriated by the Federal Government to assist the provinces and municipalities in this important work."

Giant Quarries Converted Into Arsenal

By HENRY B. JAMESON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP).— From an underground city carved out of solid rock and rivalling sections of the famous Maginot and Siegfried Lines will flow much of the ammunition to be used in the Allied invasion of Europe.

Existence of this huge bomb-proof arsenal, along with the fact that Britain started building it seven years ago, was made public yesterday for the first time as the press was taken through it on a guided tour.

It has been one of this country's best kept war secrets and newsmen looked on in amazement as a war office official explained how some old, abandoned quarries were converted into a giant subterranean warehouse for explosives.

Details of the vast stores are of course secret. All that can be said is that there are stacks and stacks more of ammunition ready for the big day.

One enters the underground city through what looks like an ordinary railway tunnel. The interior is a maze of tunnels, rail lines, conveyor belts, elevators, storage rooms, offices and barracks for workmen and guards.

"I was here three months before I could say I knew the place properly," said the commanding officer. A stranger gets hopelessly lost in five minutes."

Over the entrance of one of the great storage sections is painted the words "Germany's Bogey."

Yet on emerging from the depths of the earth into daylight, one sees only peaceful pasture land and grazing cows.

Report Reveals McNaughton May Retire

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 — (CP). — The Ottawa Citizen said yesterday an "unconfirmed but widely-accepted report" circulated in Ottawa that Maj.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian Army Commander overseas, "may retire before the end of this year."

The Citizen said:

"With regard to the reports of Gen. McNaughton's retirement from his present position, any official announcement would most likely come from the Defence Minister. While he was last reported as being as far away as the Mediterranean area an early return is anticipated....

"Gen. McNaughton, being a Lt.-General, is not directly affected by the age limit applicable to lower ranks, but he is at the age when many others have retired and his health is not robust, from recent reports.

"In the event of his retirement from the command, it is believed that the wealth of his experience would be availed of in some helpful but less strenuous capacity.

"Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar (a Corps Commander) is the next ranking officer overseas.

"Authorities here are not disposed to confirm or deny, or even discuss, the reports about General McNaughton when the whole setup abroad is the object of the visit there by the Minister of National Defence. Whatever is to be said about it would properly be for him to say.

"In the meantime, out of the five Canadian Divisions overseas, an Army Corps, or the set-up of one, is in Italy, according to the dispatches which have been passed...

"Various changes in commands have been made and more are evidently in prospect including the highest of them all....

"One of the reasons given for the retirement of Gen. McNaughton is the breaking up of the Canadian Army in England obviating the need of an Army Commander."

Drowsy Hun Guard Crawls Under Fence
Nazi In Tower Jugged For Missing Buddy

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 (CP).— German soldier, like any fighting man, has to be observant and he has to be a good shot but there's at least one Nazi who found to his sorrow he apparently wasn't much of either. Repatriated prisoners of war from a German prison camp told the following story about one Fritz who was on the spot.

A German guard at the camp, feeling drowsy, crawled under the barricade separating the prisoner's from the guard's quarters, to have a little nap. Friend Fritz on the watch tower saw him and thought is was a prisoner trying to get out of bounds so he lifted his rifle and took a pot shot.

When an inquiry was held, the first Nazi was given seven days confinement for being near the prisoners' quarters. The guard who fired at him was punished with 14 days C.B. for failing to recognize a German uniform. Then he was given another 14 days—for missing his target.

Nazis Print Paper For Prison Camps

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 24 (CP). — You can't get away from German propaganda, even in a Nazi prisoner of war camp.

Canadian and British soldiers repatriated from Germany brought back with them one of the most cunning and fascinating Nazi propaganda weapons of the war, a four-page illustrated weekly paper, named "The Camp," printed, the paper tells the soldiers, at No. 60 Saarlandstrasse, Berlin.

It is believed that this is the first time that copies of the paper have reached Britain. One copy was smuggled out by Pte. John Gallagher of North Bay, Ont., and Timiskaming, Que.

At first glance the paper is much like any other small publication. It runs an accurate and informative column on British sports on the third page. But placed so that the prisoners will glance straight to it after absorbing sport news is a propaganda feature "The German point of view." It is persuasive rather than bombastic.

Home news isn't as innocent as it appears. It records a large number of strikes and discontents.

Canadian Boat Refuels Plane At Sea

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 (CP).— The minesweeper Georgian has come to the rescue of a second United States aircraft forced down at sea and is the first Canadian Navy ship to refuel a plane at sea, the Navy announced today.

Recently Georgian, under command of Lieut. Allan Boucher of Halifax, Ottawa and Regina, was commended by the Canadian and United States governments for rescuing 10 American fliers who crashed at sea and were drifting on an icefield.

The second rescue brought praise from navy authorities to her crew for their efficiency in answering a seaplane's emergency call after it ran out of fuel and landed in the ocean.

Georgian was dispatched from a North Atlantic port at night, carrying aviation gasoline, after the plane set down close to the coast.

"We bucked through heavy swells and fog for several hours until we reached the position where the plane was last reported," said Lieut. Boucher. "Although we searched the area carefully, it was not to be found. It had drifted 70 miles."

On several occasions huge icebergs moved across Georgian's bow. A couple of times the crew mistook a small ice island for the disabled plane.

"It was a night I'll never forget," said Lieut. Boucher. "The sea was about as rough as I've ever experienced and the fog didn't help. About noon next day the fog lifted and a plane been assigned to search for the missing aircraft located it and guided us to it.

Was a Jockey

"The sea was still much too rough to attempt refuelling. I decided it would be better to tow the plane into calmer water."

The seven men of the plane's crew were miserably sea-sick after being tossed about for almost 24 hours.

Able Seaman George (Buckshot) Taylor of Edmonton said getting the hose into the gas tank was "just like trying to thread a needle in in the dark."

Able Seaman Harry Osborne of Port Credit, Ont., former jockey, and Leading Seaman Albert Baker of Ottawa, had to keep the plane from ramming the ship.

"We were sitting on the plane's pontoons," said Osborne. "I had more ups and downs than I ever had pushing hayburners around Woodbine and Thorncliffe tracks."

RUSSIANS STOP POWERFUL HUN DRIVE

Destruction Indescribable In Burned Out Berlin; Smoke Spreads 300 Miles

Travellers Claim Entire City Blocks Wiped Out Completely
Lack Of Water Handicaps Firefighters

By EDWIN SHANKE—Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 25—(AP).—Nazi firefighters and rescue squads still labored to bring order out of chaos in bomb-shattered Berlin today as eyewitness accounts from the German capital disclosed new details of almost unbelievable destruction wrought by two successive nights of intensive R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. assaults.

Vast areas of the great metropolis, including many historic landmarks, have been literally obliterated, these accounts said, with block after block wiped out by explosives and fire. Much of the city simply no longer exists.

A timely rainfall was reported to have helped the work of firefighters materially but the destruction of water mains left many sections of the city at the mercy of the flames.

The following picture of destruction was given by the latest haggard, red-eyed arrival from the German capital, many of whom still were wearing clothes singed as they walked through streets walled by fire:

Must Evacuate Area.

"If you look at the map starting at Ruhleben, which has ceased to exist, a great arc of destruction gashes Berlin from the west to the east. So many houses have been destroyed in the Spandau north-west suburb that it is estimated at least 85 per cent. of it will have to be evacuated.

"There is simply not room enough for all those bombed out. To the north the industrial districts of Tegel, and Reinickendorf, and in the north-east Pankow and Weissensee, are all badly mauled. But the heart of Berlin, centring around the governmental quarter on the Wilhemstrasse is the worst of all.

"Since the Monday night raid, new sticks of bombs and incendiaries destroyed or damaged almost every building on the left side of the Wilhelmstrasse, from Wilhelmsplatz to Unter Den Linden, with the exception of the Reich's Chancellery, additional buildings received heavy blows.

Hit Gestapo Building.

"Dr. Alfred Rosenburg's staff building for ruling the occupied east, located in the former Russian embassy on Unter Den Linden, was badly damaged. Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering's luftwaffe building, which was damaged in raids last March, was hit again by incendiaries and explosives. The Prinz Albrecht-Strasse was damaged.

"In the Wilhelmstrasse, the evacuation of many government buildings, insofar as it was not done earlier, started Wednesday morning. This was true of the Foreign Office and the Air Ministry, where trucks began carting off records."

The eyewitness said Berlin railway centres were so badly mauled that almost the only way out of

Patton Decision Put Squarely On Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP).—The responsibility for disciplining Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Junior, for striking an enlisted man in a fit of anger was place squarely on General Dwight D. Eisenhower by War Secretary Henry Stimson today.

At a news conference, Stimson said that until a full report has been received from Eisenhower he had nothing to say about the case, but for "background" asserted that from the beginning of the war he and General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, had adopted a basic principle of selecting the best possible theatre commander, and then giving that commander a free hand and complete authority.

"Under these principles," said Stimson, "Gen. Eisenhower is responsible for all matters of administration and discipline within his theatre.

"The War Department has full confidence in his fairness, his ability to conduct the affairs of his command in the highest interest of his troops and of his country."

After Eisenhower had rebuked Patton — not a formal reprimand which would have appeared on Patton's record—the incident was closed, Stimson said, and the War Department then was informed, but only of the general nature of the incident and not of the details.

100,000 Irish Have Enlisted

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 — (CP). — John D. Kearney, Canadian High Commissioner at Dublin, said today the official attitude of the Eire Government to the war, as stated by Prime Minister De Valera, is "benevolent neutrality, friendly neutrality."

The benevolence and the friendliness is towards the United Nations and, Mr. Kearney added, "Mr. De Valera says that is the most that Ireland can do under the circumstances."

The High Commissioner, formerly from Montreal, met newspapermen at a press conference on his first visit to Canada since assuming his post two years ago.

He said estimates of the number of Eire citizens in the armed forces of the United Kingdom range from 90,000 to 150,000. There were no accurate figures. About 200,000 Eire citizens were known to be working in British war industries.

The cost of living has risen about 64 per cent above the 1939 level in Ireland, he said, and food prices are up 84 per cent. All clothing and most foods are rationed.

Airmen Reach Canada After Service Period

TORONTO, Nov. 25 — (CP).—About 25 Toronto and district airmen reached their homes here today after service overseas in the R.C.A.F. fighter and bomber squadrons.

Senior officer in the group was Sqdn. Ldr. W. C. Langstaff, D.F.C. and Bar, who said that during two years of operational flying on bombers overseas had "helped to make hamburger out of Hamburg, but missed Berlin."

Diaper Shipments Probed

Claims Enough For Millions Sent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP).—Senator Styles Bridges (Rep. N.H.) yesterday began a one-man investigation into lend-lease shipment of diaper cloth to North Africa.

The Senator, stirred by reports on Capitol Hill that 2,500,000 diapers had been shipped abroad in the lend-lease program, made a preliminary check and disclosed these findings:

1. In reality, 450,000 yards of diaper cloth had been sent in one shipment to North Africa for the white population.

2. This would be enough material for 600,000 diapers, by popular measures in the United States—"if the cloth was not diverted to some other use."

Bridges said lend-lease administration would not say that all the cloth went for diapers—it makes an excellent wipe for a gun barrel, for example.

The Senator is not finished with his inquiry yet, saying, there's a shortage in this country, as reported. Lend-lease shipments deserve a critical inspection.

Strike Losses Below that of Last War

DEMANDS FOR WAGES LEADING CAUSE OF DISPUTES WHICH DOUBLED DURING 1943

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 — (CP).—Time loss through strikes in Canada has more than doubled during the last year but has not reached the high point established by the smaller working population of the First Great War, it was shown today in the figures compiled by the Labor Department for the Canadian Press.

Steadly-increasing pressure on the wage ceiling — wage structures in many industries have moved upward as a result of such pressure —is indicated as one of the primary causes of disputes which have led to the strikes.

Preliminary figures show loss of 989,174 man-days from strikes in the 12 months ended September 30 this year with 450,302 man-days in the previous 12 months and 159,484 in the pre-war year ended September 30, 1939.

During the most recent 12-month period there were 328 strikes. In the worst strike year of the first Great War—1917—160 disputes piled up at times loss of 1,123,515 man-days. In the last year of the first Great War, time-loss dropped to 647,942 man-days but in 1919, the immediate post-war year, it soared to an all-time high of 3,400,492 as a result of 336 strikes.

Of the 126 strikes in the year immediately before the present war, 30 were attributed to demands for increased wages, reduced hours or other such changes; nine resulted from decreased wages; 20 from other causes affecting wages and working conditions; 41 from union recognition and other union questions; and 26 were marked down as "other causes."

A similar tabulation for the year ended last Sept. 30, with figures for the previous year in brackets, shows: Wage increases, hours and other changes, 135 (165); wage decreases, four (seven); other causes affecting wages and working conditions, 100 (57); union recognition and other union questions, 71 (53); other causes, 72 (46).

Canada Plays Big Part In UNRRA Plan

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Nov. 25 —(CP). — Indications here to-day were that the permanent committee on supplies would emerge from the UNRRA conference as one of the most important bodies set up to advise the United Nations' Relief and Rehabilitation administration, and that the Canadian government may be elected to name its chairman.

Delegates saw the possibility of completing their work a week from today. L. B. Pearson, head of the Canadian delegation and the chairman of the sub-committee on organization of supply and transportation, had made its report.

It reflects the policy which has been followed by Canada since the project of United Nations effort toward co-operative relief of war-distressed countries was first advanced — that the supplying countries be given a real job to do in the provision and distribution of supply rather than to leave this task to the "Big Four" (Britain, the United States, Russia and China) or to the director general's administration.

Canada is expected to be the third largest supplier of food and other relief material in the $2,000,000,000 project to relieve and rehabilitate the war-torn countries.

Ninety Millions.

Canada's contribution under the proposed financial scheme will be about $90,000,000 of which 10 per cent. will be in cash and the remainder in kind for which the money will be spent within Canada.

But other contributing countries unable to send domestic supplies in kind may spend large sums for Canadian products to be contributed to the administration.

Canada will also bear three per cent. of the estimated annual cost of administration which may reach $10,000,000.

Pearson said that in the score of international conferences he has attended he has never known Canada to play so lange a part.

He said also that he had been impressed by the readiness of the big powers, particularly Britain and the United States, to give the less powerful but important countries every opportunity to express themselves.

Brooke Claxton, Parliament Assistant to Prime Minister Mackenzie King in the capacity as President of the Council, an alternative delegate from Canada, spoke at the opening session on Canada's idea

Nazis Massacre 54 Men And Boys

ALGIERS, Nov. 25 — (AP). — Allied headquarters today gave out the story, as related by a British observer officer, of the massacres of 54 men and boys in the town of Bellona, Naples province, by the Germans on October 7.

The massacre was in reprisal, the British officer said, for the killing of one German soldier and the wounding of another after they had seized and attempted to carry off a young Italian girl.

The girl was 21-year-old Maria Cafaro, daughter of a naturalized American citizen, Gabriel Cafaro, formerly of Rutland, Vt., who presumably is in the United States at present.

Cafaro returned to Italy in 1921 and married. He later returned to America but because the Fascist government would not let him take his money out of the country he left his wife and daughter behind to look after affairs.

One of those executed was 15-year-old Filaccio Genaro, a student for the priesthood who wore a brown cassock, the British officer said.

As the machine-guns mowed down the victims the women and children watched through the streets from a little way off and wept. They could hear the priest praying through the walls.

The Germans then buried their victims by setting off explosives which threw tons of rock over the bodies.

Several days later when British patrols entered Bellona they found women digging in the ruins for the bodies so they could reinter them in the cemetery.

LONDON ALERT

LONDON — Air raid sirens sounded in London tonight—the city's first alert since Nov. 20 and the first since the Germans threatened reprisals for the mass bombing of Berlin.

Heavier Raids Promised German People

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(Delayed).—(CP-Reuters). — "This is the real stuff," Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair declared shortly after Berlin reeled under Monday night's mighty air attack. "The real power of the bomber command now is operating normally. They will keep it up."

In an exclusive statement to Reuters News Agency and the London Star, Sir Archibald explained that the only limiting factor is the weather.

"Our bomber offensive was planned in 1941. Few people realize the enormous mass of preliminary work necessary to achieve continuous operations of this magnitude. You have to begin from nothing.

"Land has to be bought, factories built, machine tools either made or imported from America, foundations laid—and all these years before you see any result.

"At last, after all this time, our expansion is becoming evident and we have not yet reached the end of it.

Go On All Winter

"Our attacks on the heart of Germany will continue to be as heavy as at any time this year; indeed heavier, like those of last Thursday night when Berlin and Ludwigshafen were bombed simultaneously and very heavily.

"These attacks will go on the whole winter — only the intervals when bad weather stops bombing will be longer in winter than in summer."

Sir Archibald admitted that bombers used in the spectacular 1,000-bomber raids more than a year ago were not all "heavies" and that bombs then dropped were far lighter than those dropped today with fewer planes.

"We are always," Sir Archibald continued, "looking to the future. Bigger and better bombers even than Lancasters are on the way.

Faster Bombers

"New types have actually left the drawing-board and will presently be coming from factories, bombers that can fly faster, carry a greater weight of bombs and are better defended than those we have now."

Asked about the "peak" loss ratio —the danger line which, if reached, might cause the bomber command to change its night raid tactics, the Air Minister said, "There may be a 'peak' loss ratio. I do not know. You see, we have never had to find out. It certainly is not in sight.

Bombs Hit Zoo

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 25 — (AP).—Elephants and bears of Berlin's Zoo, liberated during the record Monday night raids, were hunted down and shot in Tiergarten Park by guards with machine-guns, travellers arriving here by plane from the devastated German capital said last night.

Other reports to the Swedish press said that every building in the zoo was destroyed.

Declares Pope Will Mediate

BERNE, Nov. 25—(AP).—The Basler Nachrichten said in a dispatch from the Swiss border town of Chiasso today that Pope Pius XII had undertaken a mission of mediation between Germany and the Allies.

No independent confirmation was obtainable from diplomatic or church sources, although the dispatch quoted "Italian Catholic circles" as the basis of its information.

The Basler Nachrichten's correspondent said the Pope definitely had increased his diplomatic discussions greatly in the last few days, seeing the German, British, French and American Envoys to the Holy See.

The Pope talked to his closest advisors in private audiences yesterday, the dispatch said, seeing Francesco Cardinal Marchetti-Selvaggiani, vicar general for the city and district of Rome; Pietro Cardinal Fumasoni-Biondi, prefect of the congregation for propagation of the faith; Monsignor Alfredo Ottaviani, and Luigi Cardinal Maglione, Vatican secretary of state.

The Pope has been seeing Cardinal Maglione at least once, and frequently twice daily, along with his assistants, Monsignors Domenico Tardini and Giovanni B. Bontini, it was said.

The dispatch said other reports of the Pope's activity concerned a request by "belligerent nations" that the Pontiff leave Rome and take up refuge "in a northern land" and discussion of the church attitude toward Mussolini's new Fascism.

The possibility that the attitude toward Fascism was most delicate was suggested by quotations from the Milan Fascist newspaper, Il Fascio, which declared that the Vatican's diplomacy favored Premier Marshal Piero Badoglio, that the Vatican had "no sympathy for Germany" and that it must be decided "whether the attitude of the Vatican is for or against."

Navy Man Would Obliterate Tokyo City

Warns Japan Will Sue For Peace If Germany Is Beaten

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press War Analyst

"If General Pershing had had his way, an American army would have marched through Berlin down Unter Den Linden and our young men would not be facing me to-day in uniform. I do not advocate that we march an American army down the main street of Tokyo....I merely advocate that when this war is over, there may be no main street of Tokyo left to march down."

These are the words of Rear Admiral Thomas L. Gatch, Judge Advocate of the United States Navy, to a group of graduating naval reservists. He spoke as a good navy man, raised in the tradition that the ultimate in life is to deliver a good licking to the Japanese.

But, probably unwittingly, he raises a question which is causing some discussion to-day. That is the possibility of a Japanese peace offer after the war ends in Europe, presented in such guise that the public, sated and limp as it may be from effects of the final bitter blows against Germany, could conceive refusal as an unnecessary prolongation of the war.

Feeling Strong.

Many feel that complete military victory over a Germany which fights to the last gasp will be cheaper in history's long run than an early surrender under conditions such as to-day's.

The public probably feels even more strongly than that about Japan.

There is some uneasiness in some official quarters that this may die out; that an offer of Japan to retire to her home islands, coupled with the let-down of a change-over period in war emphasis from Europe to the Orient, might produce a "what the hell" attitude and leave ultimate disposal of the Japanese question to future generations.

Everybody is busy nowadays settling Germany's post-war status. Only a few are making themselves heard above the din about Japan

Admiral Gatch can get his wish, the streets of Tokyo may be made just as impassable as is Unter Den Linden to-day. Neither will settle anything unless a hoopla-sort of demand for vengeance becomes an unflinching determination to stick to the job when cleaning up will be less a crusade and more plain, dirty work.

12-Day-Old Counter Attack Believed Petering Out 45 Miles From Kiev City

Von Mannstein Exhausts Army Strength Against Stubborn Reds In Bitterest Fighitng Since War Began

MOSCOW, Nov. 25—(AP).—The Red Army appeared today to be overcoming successfully the German "last gasp" attack 45 miles west of Kiev. After a dozen days of violent battle along the edge of the Kiev bulge in the western Ukraine, the Russians reported they not only were repulsing enemy assaults against the Brusilov and Chernyakhov sector but improving their own positions.

(Berlin claimed both towns captured.)

Foreign military opinion was that if the Germans were unable to make headway with such strong forces as they have concentrated for this attack after the Russians had been advancing for four months the chances of further major counter-offensives from the Germans were extremely slight. A Russian communique declared:

"All attempts of the Germans to penetrate our defences met with failures. Our gunners, infantry and tankmen . . . inflicted heavy losses on the Germans and improved their positions."

The German communique said more ground had been gained to the west of Kiev, but admitted Nazi lines west and north of Gomel in White Russia had been breached.

The Russians also were said by Berlin to be thrusting against Kherson at the mouth of the Dnieper River where "heavy fighting continues despite the bad weather. The Russians also had breached Nazi lines south of Kremenchug in the Dnieper bend but Berlin claimed the attackers were annihilated by counter-attack.

Earlier the Berlin radio had claimed the capture of Brusilov, midway between Zhitomir and Kiev, and Chernyakhov, a railroad town 13 miles north of Zhitomir and while the Russians have admitted the loss of some towns and villages in this sector of the Kiev bulge, today's bulletin indicated the German driye had been halted short of those two cities.

Whether Von Mannstein had exhausted his strength in the bitter fighting of the past 12 days was problematical, but previous reports had said he had been ordered to break the Russian lines before Kiev at all costs. Indications that he had been halted half-way to Kiev led to the belief that Gen. Nikolai Vatutin, whose forces reportedly were intact, might try to resume his offensive toward the Polish border.

The German-controlled Paris radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, claimed the German counter-offensive at Zhitomir had not yet reached its height, but admitted Vatutin had brought up reinforcements and had launched a series of counter-drives.

To the west of Gomel Red Army columns captured Khoiniki, a district centre 30 miles southeast of the rail junction of Kalinkovichi.

Determined Americans Have Turkey Dinner

NAPLES, Nov. 25 (AP)—Up in the bleak, foggy, wind-swept, mountain positions of the farthest American advances on the Italian front, American troops ate Turkey and all the trimmings with one hand while they cradled their rifles with the other.

The army quartermaster had said that American soldiers were going to have at least a Thanksgiving dinner if they didn't have anything else to mark the day, and the quartermaster kept his word.

For weeks past dressed turkeys have been coming into Naples by ship and plane. Army trucks and pack mules carried on from there.

8th Army Rips Chunk From Hun Winter Line

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 25 — (AP). — Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army has battered its way across the swollen Sangro River, the toughest obstcale yet encountered in the march up the Italian peninsula, in the face of ferocious fire and thereby has cracked a piece out of Hitler's winter defence line, Allied headquarters announced today.

A bridgehead 9,000 yards wide and 2,000 yards deep has been firmly established and held against furious counter-attacks it was stated.

The onslaught across the river on a front of a little more than five miles was made "during the past few days," official reports said.

Veteran German forces began slashing back and grim fighting raged as British troops slowly forced the enemy back a distance of nearly 1½ miles from the north-west banks of the flooded stream.

Hold Bridge Points

The bridgehead was established in the lowland area near the river mouth on the Adriatic and includes the sites of one railroad trestle and two highway bridges, restoration of which would insure a steady stream of reinforcements and supplies for the troops holding the newly-won ground.

Official sources announced that the German 65th infantry division was thrown against the British troops in desperate counter-attacks to prevent a breach in the river line.

One prisoner from this division told 8th Army officers his unit

Chinese Wipe Out 5,000 Japs

CHUNGKING, Nov. 25—(AP).—More than 5,000 Japanese have been wiped out in a battle for Changteh, gateway to Changsha, in the enemy's offensive against the nation's ricebowl, the Chinese High Command said tonight.

President Chiang Kai-Shek issued an order eulogizing the defenders of Changteh, which lies 100 miles from Changsha where the Japanese have been bloodily repulsed in three previous offensives.

The High Command again charged that the Japanese attacking Changteh used poison gas.

The communique said the Chinese were holding out against vigorous infantry attacks, launched under cover of artillery which poured incendiary shells into the city.

A large number of Chinese troops were said to have reached areas be-

Sailors Try Odd Stunt

Plead Guilty To Crime When Innocent

HALIFAX, Nov. 25—(CP). — Two naval ratings from Ottawa, who pleaded guilty to robbery with violence though they could not have been at the scene of the crime, were placed on two years' suspended sentence in police court yesterday.

Assistant Crown Prosecutor Parker Hickey told the court the two men — Howard McAinsh and Reynolds Brewster—perhaps had "admitted" participation in the robbery to get discharged from the Navy. On the date of the offence, it had been established, they were under naval discipline on McNab's Island, in Halifax Harbor.

The pair were charged with attacking M. H. Kominsky, Halifax antique dealer, on September 27 and stealing $1,500.

Yesterday, McAinsh suggested to Magistrate R. E. Inglis he be sent to Dorchester Penitentiary. Instead, the magistrate ordered them turned over to naval authorities and placed on suspended sentence.

Mosquitoes Terrorize Hun Capital

Dazed Berliners Hear Sirens For Third Night

By JUDSON McQUINN,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Nov. 26 — (AP). — Swift R.A.F. Mosquito bombers set the air raid sirens howling in Berlin for the third successive night by stabbing at the German capital again last night as smoke still rose skyward from conflagrations set by British and Canadian heavy bomber fleets.

The purpose of the attack, from which only one of the raiders failed to return, obviously was to harass and confuse the battered defences of the city, which already had been burned and devastated on a scale hitherto unknown.

A thick yellow pall of smoke spread 30 miles from the German capital—far as the Swedish east coast—as the speedy all-wood bombers set the sirens to wailing again.

Lose One Plane.

The effect of the Mosquito raid must have been to put a new strain on the morale of dazed Berliners who were unable to tell whether to expect another blow from the great forces of heavy bombers which struck on Monday and Tuesday nights.

Only one Mosquito of a force of undisclosed size failed to return from the "Berlin run" which in recent months was a familiar trail for the twin-engined aircraft. The Mosquitoes have been over Berlin 17 times since the middle of August.

By all accounts the heart of Nazidom still was a sea of fire. A report from Stockholm said a blanket of yellow haze over Oeland Island off the Swedish east coast covered the island for three hours yesterday.

An R.A.F. commentator indicated that the German capital, now the most heavily bombed city in the world, would be hit as often and solidly as the weather and strategy permitted.

"It is the greatest prize," he declared.

The Allied aerial offensive was kept rolling, meanwhile, as several waves of planes swept out across the channel in bright sunlight this morning in the direction of the French coast. There was no immediate indication of their targets.

Only a small number of planes—no heavy bombers—engaged in the offensive operations from Britain last night, but Berlin had no reason to breathe easily.

Destruction was piled on destruction in this week's two mammoth attacks, but all available information suggested that methodical obliteration of the metropolis still had some distance to go.

Mouth Threats.

The Berlin double blow sent Nazi leaders into a fury of high-sounding threats, one military spokesman declaring that "we, to our regret, are forced to use our reprisal weapon."

There was not even a hint of what this might be, if not pure propaganda for both foreign and domestic consumption, out cautious Londoners, remembering their own

BARCELONA, Nov. 25 — (AP).—Gaston Jacquelin, chief of the Vichy militia in the Upper Savoy department, and Roger Franck, head of the militia propaganda organization for the same area, were slain by four armed men today at Thomes, near Annecy, according to advices from France.

A third Vichy official, Paul Courtois, was said to have been wounded.

The assassins, who were unidentified, were reported to have cornered their victims in a hotel dining room and mowed them down with sub-machine-guns. After the attack they fled in the direction of Verslemont Forest, said to be the hiding place of a large band of guerillas.

"The percentage of loss today is actually lower than it was a year ago. Quite definitely the losses we have suffered in our bomber attacks have never influenced our policy of strategic bombing of the German war machine.

"Aircraft now coming from factories in this country, the dominions and America—coupled with pilots turned out by the Empire training scheme—are sufficient not only to supply our wastage but also to provide for steady and most desirable expansion of the bomber command.

"There have been many occasions when our investigation of crashed German aircraft has shown workmanship not up to the 1939-1940 standard; but, generally speaking, the quality of German Luftwaffe materials is still good.

"No one can say with absolute certainty that the Germans will not produce in the next three or four months something that may put them ahead of us in some branches of technical production. But we, too, have great improvements.

"We have, for instance, the development of the four-engined bomber—which the enemy still lacks—and the Mosquito.

"The speed, range, ceiling and firepower of our fighters all show great technical superiority over the enemy. From the beginning of the war, despite the handicap of time with which we began, our experts have progressed technically faster than the Germans.

"They have progressed farther. They are still progressing. I see no reason why they should not continue to lead in the race.

"It is not easy to assess the morale of the whole Luftwaffe from our experiences in the west. But certain significant facts are emerging. We know that, as a result of the very heavy casualties they have suffered, the Germans have been compelled to shorten their period of air crew training.

Crews Under-trained

"We have evidence that some of their crews are under-trained personnel, particularly their bomber crews. On the other hand, the morale of their fighter pilots in the west is still high."

Starting from this point, Sir Archibald argued that the whole theory on which the Germans built up the Luftwaffe had broken down when brought up against the facts of war.

"Here is the German high command," he added, "fighting a great battle in Russia with an air force trained to work in closest co-operation with its land forces; a powerful army with a big air force supporting it.

"Then in the west it is suddenly faced with our strategiv bomber offensive. The question become critical: how are they to dispose of their available fighters? Shall they put them against our bomber offensive? If so how many?

"Are they to run the risk of leaving their land troops without that air support on which all their training has been based?

"Now that is just what we have compelled them to do. Judged by standards of the early days of the war, the armies in Russia certainly have inadequate air protection.

"Not only has the Luftwaffe three times as many fighters in the west as on the eastern front, but it has been compelled to send its best-trained pilots to protect the Reich from our air attack. And our men are their masters."

"Is this necessity to meet the air offensive from Britain the reason why Germany has switched from building bombers to fighters?" the Air Secretary was asked.

"I would not put it quite like that," replied Sir Archibald. "Ask our aircraft builders how long it would take them to switch from Lancasters to Spitfires. It is a big undertaking.

"I think that the truth is that a year or 18 months ago the German high command saw a red light shining from Cologne, Rostock Lubeck and other cities.

"It was then that they decided—not to switch from bombers; for there is no fall in German bomber production which is not the direct result of our bombing—but to divert big resources from other forms of armament to that of fighter aircraft.

"It was a huge program and has produced a very big increase in the number of German fighters in the front line, an increase which would have been much bigger still but for the result of British and American bombing. The only real switch from bombers to fighters is the production of a fairly substantial number of Junkers 88's as night fighters.

"But now the Germans have passed the peak of their aircraft production. Trust British and American bomber crews not to let them regain it."

Four Jap Destroyers Sunk Two Others Damaged In Running Pacific Battle

Decisive Enemy Defeat Thwarts Effort To Remove Officer Personnel From Beleaguered Buka In Solomons

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Nov. 25—(AP).—Swift United States warships all but wiped out six enemy destroyers today during a two-hour running battle extended to within 90 miles of Rabaul, Japanese naval and air fortress.

Moving boldly near the entrance of St. George's Channel, whose waters wash between New Britain and New Ireland, the United States destroyers sank four of the enemy ships. A fifth was damaged but managed to escape with the other survivor.

Admiral William F. Halsey's spokesman said the decisive enemy defeat thwarted an attempt to remove key personnel from often-bombed Buka on the northern tip of Allied-invaded Bougainville in the Solomons.

Not a Scratch.

(Such a significant move could mean that Japan, hard-pressed from the invaded Gilberts to the jungles of northeastern New Guinea along her outpost island defences, may be preparing to pull out of her last holdings in the Solomons — Buka, Bougainville, Choiseul and the Shortlands.)

Not until almost dawn did the little group of destroyers, commanded by Capt. Arleigh Burke, give up the chase. They returned without a battle scar.

The entire action took place in seas far above the Empress Augusta Bay beachhead on Bougainville's west central coast where United States marines and soldiers have extended their hold more than a mile along the shore and several miles inland.

The naval blow of Babaul's waning power increased Japanese warship losses in that area during November to 14 destroyers and four cruisers sunk, 20 destroyed and 15 cruisers damaged or probably damaged.

Fliers Riddle Jap Cavalry

CHUNGKING, Nov. 26 — (AP).—United States planes attacked Japanese targets in the Central China battle area on Monday and Tuesday in suport of Chinese forces and raided the enemy base at Yochow in North Honan Tuesday, it was announced today.

A communique said that explosions, large fires and dense smoke at Yochow indicated that medium bombers hit both ammunition and oil storage dumps. Yochow is important as a base for a potential drive on Changsha.

Fighters and medium bombers teamed up for the battle area forays in the Tungting Lake district, destroying landing barges and inflicting casualties among Japanese infantry and cavalry units, the communique said.

Sofia, Toulon Bombed At Same Time

ALGIERS, Nov. 25 (AP)—Striking simultaneously at targets 1,000 miles apart, American heavy bombers from the Mediterranean hit the Nazi-controlled French naval base of Toulon and the Bulgarian capital of Sofia in daylight raids yesterday.

Heavy bombers shepherded by fighters attacked Toulon in its first Allied raid of the war. Submarine pens, docks and repair facilities were targets.

Other heavy bombers without escort smashed into southeastern Europe to hit Sofia railway installations in the second attack on objectives there from this theatre. The Bulgarian capital was heavily blasted Nov. 14.

Both formations yesterday were sent out by the U.S. Air Force, part of the fleet raiding Toulon branched off to give a drubbing to the coastal rail viaduct near Cannes, about 60 miles east of Toulon.

Turin Hit Also

R.A.F. Wellingtons attacked their most northerly target from this theatre last night, going to Turin to bomb industrial targets.

Photographs taken during the Toulon raid showed a concentration of bombs exploding in the repair shop area, submarine pens and in the harbors where a number of ships were at anchor. Oil fires in the repair shops emitted thick smoke clouds.

Three submarines and a merchant vessel in drydock were covered with bombs and a number of other hits scored on ships, believed to be naval units, in the harbor.

The planes which attacked the rail yards at Sofia were unable to observe results because of clouds.

The first wave was attacked by 21 German fighters and three of these were shot down. Escorting fighters shot down another enemy fighter which attacked the second wave.

Three U.S. heavy bombers and one escorting fighter were lost.

Suggests Germany Be Asked To Quit

LONDON, Nov. 25 — (CP). — While reports from abroad of a meeting among Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin remain unanswered, Cmdr. Stephen King-Hall, independent member of parliament today proposed that the three leaders issue a joint statement to the Germans urging them to abandon the war.

King-Hall gave notice in the House of Commons he would ask the Prime Minister "whether he will consult Marshal Stalin and President Roosevelt with a view to issuing a joint message to the German people analagous to that addressed to the Italian people on September 11."

The September statement was an appeal for the Italians to quit the Axis and turn against the Germans.

of "functional" representative on international bodies.

That idea, as expressed by Mr. King in the House of Commons last summer, was that representation of both large and small countries should be determined on a functional basis, admitting to full membership those, large or small, which had the greatest contribution to make the object in view.

Claxton urged that this idea of representation would be particularly applicable and useful to UNRRA and today he said it is being discussed and approved by numerous members of the delegations.

Canadians may be asked, in common with the people of other supplying countries, to endure wartime restrictions and shortages for some time into the post-war period, in order that Canada may make her full contribution to the distressed countries.

But according to present indications and largely because of the insistence of the Canadian delegation, they are likely to have assurance that the Dominion will have a fully proportionate voice in administration of supplies their sacrifices make available.

Four-Day Battle Annihilates Japs On Gilberts

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 25 (AP)—In a bloody four-day battle United States troops have annihilated all but a few of the Japanese on the Gilbert Islands, climaxing their conquest with the capture of Betio and its strategic airfield from where new thrusts may come soon.

Betio fell at dusk Tuesday: Most of its 4,000 defenders dead or dying on its sandy battlefield.

Even as it was overwhelmed, marines and soldiers were ferreting out remnants of the enemy on the other two Atolls, Makin and Abemama.

The Japanese fought back desperately on Betio, largest of the Tarawa Atolls. Only a few hours before the decisive blow, the defenders counter-attacked fiercely.

No time was wasted by the Americans in mopping up or in constructing new defences on the Islands.

Repairs probably have begun too, on the excellent airfield at Tarawa for more blows at the Japanese, possibly toward the more strongly-defended Marshall Islands a couple of hundred miles to the north or toward Nauru to the southwest in the direction of Rabaul; again perhaps at Truk itself, 1,600 on west and the hub of Japan's sea might.

Bombings by the United States Army Air Force, begun both on the Marshalls and the Gilberts a week before the invasions, are continuing on the Marshalls.

Nazis Stalled Across Balkans

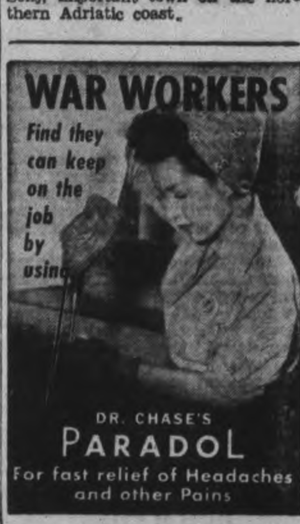
LONDON, Nov. 25 — (CP). — Fought to a standstill by Partisan forces in Serbia, Bosnia and Croatia, the Germans are rushing up reinforcements preparatory to launching new attempts to break through in those areas, headquarters of the Yugoslav Liberation Army said in a broadcast to-day.

On the Dalmation coast, the Partisans are battling superior German forces attempting to gain possession of the entire coastline, the Yugoslav bulletin reported.

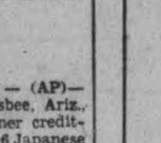
Hurled back near the town of Kremen in Serbia the Germans, strengthened by fresh troops from Uzice, resumed their attack and heavy fighting is still going on, the communique declared.

In Bosnia, Germans and Bulgarian troops were said to be continuing their drive in the direction of Pryepolte. They, too, were forced to call for reinforcements.

Two Nazi motorized columns were reputed driven back in Croatia as they attempted a break-through near Glina and toward Senj, important town on the northern Adriatic coast.



Painful, Pus Filled Boils the Cause of Much Misery



If you suffer from boils you know how sick and miserable they made you feel.

Boils are an outward indication of impurities in the system, and just when you think you are rid of one another crops up to take its place and prolong your misery. All the lancing and poulticing you can do may not stop more coming.

To help overcome boils you should purify the blood, so why not give that old, reliable blood medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, a chance to show what it will do in helping you get rid of them? Thousands have used it for this purpose for the past 60 years. Why not you?

Committees Make Their Reports To Council Of United Counties

COBOURG, Nov. 25 — (ENS). —Aftermath of Reeve Charles Calver's charges anent the County roads, which were subsequently cleared up at a meeting of the Roads and Bridges Committee, Reeve W. A. Smith of Murray township told the counties council in session yesterday that the whole thing turned out to be "a tempest in a little tea pot."

"The newspaper headings, I have some of the papers here — why the whole thing was nothing but a big tempest in a little tea pot. My friend in front of me (Reeve Calver) said that he would be jailed if he was to say what he could say. He says he didn't mean the Road Commission, but who else could he mean? However, we all know Charles and that he likes to talk a bit," declared Reeve Smith.

"I said what I had to say and said it in the proper place," said Reeve Calver.

The Special Property Committee reported:

"We inspected the Registry Offices in Bowanville, Port Hope, Cobourg and Colborne and found everything in good order. We also inspected the Jail and Counties' Offices in Cobourg and found everything in good order except the Road office where we recommend that something be done in another year.

At the Registry Office in Bowmanville we found that the caulking of the doors and windows ordered at our last inspection in the spring completed.

At the Port Hope Registry Office we found that the lighting system was still inadequate but requested the Reeve Mr. Moncrief to secure bigger and better bulbs for temporary better lighting.

At the Cobourg Registry Office we found everything in good order but the Registrar pointed out that we should have a porch roof erected over the front door and the Committee ordered the Deputy Reeve Mr. Lowe to see about having same built.

The Provincial Police Office in Cobourg was inspected and the work ordered in the spring has been completed except that the new desk and counter should be finished by a coat of varnish."

Reforestation Committee

The Reforestation Committee reported:

"We inspected the Northumberland and Durham forests and we found everything in good order, the fire guards in both forests were ploughed. We found the buildings and grounds at both the forests in clean, tidy condition.

We recommend that Messrs. Campbell and Stewart be commended on the co-operation and special care shown in the forests.

We inspected the east half of Lot 1, Concession 1, in the township of Cavan and have authorized the Solicitor to search the title and carry out the purchase at $400 for the 100 acres.

We recommend that the property offered by Garnet Isaac of 175 acres more or less at Lot 29, Concession 7 in Haldimand township at $4.00 per acre be purchased.

"We recommend that $1,000.00 be put at the disposal of the Reforestation Committee annually for the purchase of additional land; in order to carry out a reasonable Reforestation Program in these United Counties.

Road and Bridge Committee

The Road and Bridge Committee recommended:

That the communication from the Township of Cavan re by-law No. 83 for selling a portion of a road be referred to the Legislative and By-Laws Committee.

That the resolution from Wellington County re payment of expenditure on County Roads being paid quarterly be endorsed.

That the communication from Victoria County regarding asking the Department to take over a road from Provincial Highway No. 7 at Fowler's Corners to Provincial Highway No. 28 be endorsed.

That the report of the Postwar Committee be approved regarding the expenditures on County Roads for Post-War Works.

Schools Committee

The Schools Committee recommended that the Counties equivalent for 1943 for Public and Separate Schools for accommodation and equipment be paid under the order of the Inspectors.

That the communication from the Stirling Board of Education stating that Stirling High School will receive pupils from these Counties upon the same basis as their own County pupils be received and filed.

That Council appoint trustees from the rural districts to all the High Schools and Collegiates within the Counties.

That the grant for maintenance of County pupils attending Trenton and Norwood High Schools, for the year 1942 be paid as follows: Trenton High School, $3,000.71; Norwood High School $1,071.72.

At the annual warden's banquet last night, Warden W. R. Prouse, reeve of Hope township, was presented with a gold watch by his fellow counties councillors at a banquet held at the British Hotel. Deputy-reeve H. Woodley of Hope township was chairman. County officials and ex-wardens were present. Among the ex-wardens present were Frank Rickard, M. P., of Newcastle; Milton Elliott, Fred Bowen, Fred Waterman, Bert Reid, Roy Dodge, Herman Morrow Percy Stinson and others.

Cobourg Council Names Reeve Assistant Clerk

COBOURG, Nov. 25 — (ENS) — Reeve Roy Dodge was appointed assistant town clerk at a salary of $1,800 a year at a special meeting called on Tuesday night by Mayor Jack Burnet. The town clerk, Alex Young has been absent for three months on account of illness and council at its meeting gave Mr. Young six months leave of absence, dating from Dec. 1.

Reeve Dodge, following his new appointment, resigned his position as reeve.

Mayor Jack Burnet expressed his disapproval of the appointment on a point of policy. Last week the mayor issued a statement in which he said that the job of town clerk should be held open for a returned man in the event that Mr. Young was unable to return to work.

"Reeve Dodge told me last Wednesday that he was aspiring to the post of town clerk-and-treasurer and asked me to call a special meeting of the council to consider it. We were quite frank with each other. I told him that I could not alter my personal opinion in the matter and I still felt that the position should be left open for a suitable man when the boys were home from overseas and in the meantime should be filled temporarily. If council feels that the position should be filled now, then I am strongly of the opinion that the position should be thrown open and advertised. I don't know about the legality of proceeding with the matter before nominations," said the mayor.

Action Is Legal

"We are informed by our solicitor that it is quite legal," explained Deputy-Reeve R. Love. Reeve Dodge informed the mayor that he had contacted the Selective Service in regard to obtaining permission to leave his present job to accept a new post. Reeve Dodge is bookkeeper at a local dairy.

Councillor Alan Field spoke in support of the reeve's appointment. There was no assurance, he said, as to when Mr. Young might be back and it was felt by the council that an assistant should be appointed, with full authority to act in his place, until Mr. Young came back. If and when Mr. Young was able to resume his duties there was the question as to whether he would be able to carry on at full time.

Reeve Dodge was competent and experienced in municipal matters and should get the job, Councillor Field said. There would be no advantage in advertising the job as the council felt that the reeve was the one to fill it.

"I appreciate Councillor Field's comments," stated Reeve Dodge. "I know that the mayor, with his positions, has a duty to perform, and I know there are colleagues with similar duties toward certain organizations. I don't want anyone to throw stones that I got a position to which I had no right. I know that if I am appointed I shall be delighted to work with Alex Young for a year, or even longer."

"I want it understood that there is nothing personal in this matter but a matter of policy only," said the mayor.

With the mayor keeping the chair and not voting, council then passed the by-law appointing the reeve to his new post. Councillor W. Wenn was absent as he had an important Masonic meeting.

Mayor Burnet informed the council that the audit had been completed of the town's finances up to November 15, and that an operating surplus was on hand until the end of the year, amounting to $3,464.95. One pleasant feature was the fact that the bank loan had improved as it would not exceed $30,000 at the end of the year. Some revenues, particularly the harbour dues, were below expectations.

Reeve Dodge estimated that the tax rate next year should be down about six or seven mills. This is due to debentures expiring.

The Children's Aid Record

Excellent work is being done in the city and county of Peterborough by the Children's Aid Society; the annual report from the Department of Welfare praises the local branch of the Society in words which should bring gratification to every citizen. It is not commonly realized how much work the Children's Aid does or how far-reaching its influence can be.

Society nowadays lays great stress on environment and home influence as elements in the formation of character in children. It is the work of the Children's Aid to investigate and deal with cases in which there may be money difficulties which make the decent upbringing of children impossible, or where there is cruelty, or negligence, or dangerous ignorance on the part of a child's parents or guardians. The Society gives advice on bringing up children, advice and help in matters of medical and dental care, helps in clothing children who are without proper garments, and undertakes the protection of children who are in danger of improper treatment.

The Society also does extremely valuable work in cases of illegitimacy, by inducing the father of the expected child, whenever possible, to undertake at least a share of its support, and by seeing that the expectant mother is given proper care and feeding. There is no possible reason why an illegitimate child should be launched on life with an inferior physique, or why the mother should be allowed to reach a state of health where she will suffer needlessly in bearing it. If proper care for the child cannot be assured by one or the other of its parents, the Society undertakes to find it a good foster-home; such children are also available for adoption, and as they are given to their adoptive parents in extreme infancy they have a chance to grow up in an affectionate and protective atmosphere like any other child. This work, by which the Society assures that children who are born as the result of an indiscretion should not suffer for the fecklessness of their parents, is, in our opinion, one of its most valuable contributions to our community life.

In this connection it may be well to point out that the Society has dealt with 102 cases of illegitimacy in this county during the first ten months of 1943. Without its assistance, who can say how many of those children would have had a fair start in life?

We hear a great deal these days about juvenile delinquency, and it is an admitted problem of our times. It is as well, however, that we should be conscious of the influences which are at work to combat and lessen this problem, and to work toward a square deal for every child. Of these influences the Children's Aid Society is easily first.

Cut Out The Melodrama

Some of our contemporaries appear to agree with our criticism of the extreme sentimentality of the playlets used on the national radio programs supporting the recent Victory Loan. This sentimental quality, we urged, weakened the appeals by giving the public gruel when it was ready for red meat. In a personal letter a reader in another Ontario city extends the criticism, saying: "Can't something be done about the regular programs, which are supposed to stimulate recruiting or patriotic fervour? They are usually begun by an announcer with a sonorous, Wagnerian voice — much like that used by the Marks Brothers of a generation ago, when saying, 'Once aboard the lugger and the girl is mine!'—declaring that the broadcast is a military operation, and that 'Canada needs you', or some similar melodramatics?" And he concludes, "I can't listen to Canadian programs of this nature without suffering from an unstable condition of the digestive tract".

We need these programs to support the war effort and the Loans, but we are convinced that they are not doing the best possible job, because they underestimate the intelligence and taste of the listeners. Canadians know what is expected of them, and they know that the Victory Loans are necessary and that subscription to them is a public duty. They would welcome a playlet of a stirring nature, and of a truly dramatic nature, but weepy episodes about nurses with frozen hearts or lads who are killed just as the news of an armistice comes over the wire only moved them to ribald comment, or disgust. The best of the last series of Victory Loan playlets was that which in James Cagney was the star actor. It had strength, it held the interest of the hearers, and it was stimulating; it was an excellent piece of dramatic art; and it made the hearer want to buy Bonds.

In the Victory Loan playlets there is no need to play down to the intelligence of Canadian listeners. We can take the best that Canadian writers and Hollywood actors can give us, and like it. When the next Loan comes along, let's cut out the melodrama, based on magazine stories about war, and have in its stead drama drawn from war and from life. The best is not a bit too good.

Berlin Faces The Music

The two recent raids on Berlin are reputed to be the heaviest in the whole history of aerial warfare, greater even than the devastating raids on Hamburg. A force of a thousand bombers dropped two and four ton blockbusters on the German capital, with such effect as we can only guess at. We know, however, that five hundred tons of bombs were dropped on Coventry in one disastrous night, and that the damage there was immense; from that we can form some vague idea of what has happened in Berlin. Neutral correspondents in that city are of the opinion that Berlin will never recover, by which we presume that they mean that it will never recover until the war is concluded and re-establishment and civil co-ordination on a large scale can be undertaken.

The circumstances under which these raids were carried out were remarkable and, for the German people, profoundly alarming. A remarkably accurate use was made of the "pathfinder force", which precedes the main body of the bombers, and drops flares to mark objectives; this technique, and a number of secret devices on the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. planes, enables our fliers to drop their great bombs with remarkable accuracy, avoiding any waste of ammunition or effort. What is more, the raids were made in bad flying weather, so that although our forces were made to do their work efficiently, the German anti-aircraft and fighter forces were severely handicapped. Searchlights and sound-location machines which work well in clear weather are almost useless against high-flying bombers on a cloudy, rainy night. If the Germans cannot even count on bad weather to bring them a respite they are in a poor way indeed.

The psychological effect of heavy blows at the capital city should not be overestimated, but it is still great. If neutral reports are true, Hitler, Goering, Goebbels and Ribbentrop lost their homes in these raids—an indication of the intensity of the bombing in the diplomatic and governmental section of the city. The railway system, which has its heart in Berlin, was another important target. When the Germans attacked London they did so with ferocious and calculated profligacy, dropping bombs everywhere in order to strike terror into the hearts of the English; our bombers have attacked important targets with the greatest possible accuracy and with immensely superior weight of explosives. The effect on Germany's ability to make war will be so much the greater.

The war may yet be won by air power. No capital city can withstand this sort of pounding for months, or even weeks, on end.

"Never at Sea"

(THE W.R.N.S. MOTTO)

By LESLEY BLANCH

THE W.R.N.S. or Wrens, as they are colloquially called, are the Women's Royal Naval Service. They were inaugurated in the last war and consider themselves part of the Senior Service. Their motto has always been Never at Sea — a punning one, which is almost untranslatable, for it plays on both fact and phrase. The fact that they were not sea-going, and the phrase "never at sea," which is an idiomatic expression meaning never at a loss, never in a muddle.

But today their motto should be changed, for while still never at a loss, they have become sea-going or semi-sea-going, at any rate. Once, their work was strictly on shore, in dockyards, in offices, depots and such. Now, thousands of men have been released for more active forms of service by the Wrens taking over all the Boats Crew work. Today they are responsible for manning and maintaining much of the harbour craft, launches and cutters, which ply about our coast, ferrying the Naval personnel from place to place, bringing stores and equipment aboard, and piloting the liberty boats which take the men ashore for leave. They even man that most sacred of all craft, the Admiral's barge.

THEIR work is probably the most spectacular of all the women's Services, for they must learn to man the boats in the Navy fashion, which means pelting down the plunging rope ladders and swarming out along the quarter boom, thirty feet or more above their craft, to climb down with gymnastic abandon and the speed of monkeys. They must learn to swarm up a rope ladder, double-quick. All these things and many more besides, such as the theory of navigation and helm-work, must be mastered during their training.

They are trained on a huge depot-ship which is primarily a repair base for submarines. Round it, shoals of fish-like submarines are jostling alongside. There is a perpetual metallic clanging uproar from the belly of the ship; blast furnaces and machine-shops work all day and night as the repairs are rushed through. The great cranes crank and rattle as they hoist and stow. There is an endless chain of signals being flashed from the bridge to the far-away smudge which is the dockyard. Behind the great guns on the quarter-deck, glimpsed through the mist, are the forbidding hills of the coast. Here, then, in all weathers but chiefly in the cold, damp, blanketing fogs and early dusks, the Wren Boats Crews train.

I watched them at work. For once it was fine, but even so half a gale was blowing, chopping the water so that the little boats pitched uncomfortably. From the solid comfort of the depot ships' quarter deck I watched the Wrens at practice. Under the kindly sympathetic eye of their coach, a white-haired Petty-Officer whom they lovingly called "Pops," they go through their boat-drill. At the word of command they are over the side and swarming down the iron boom ladder; from there they must run, cat-like and foot-sure out along the quarter boom, which juts out, thirty feet high above the boats. A rope ladder is the next step: it plunges wildly as they pelt down, to drop on their boat, start up the engines, cast off, and away, streaking across the harbour in a sheet of spray, the coxswain at the helm, and her crew balanced nonchalantly on the narrow decks.

WHEN they begin, there is a first terrifying moment of sheer nerves, comparable to the "over the top" feeling experienced by soldiers in the trenches. But shaking all over or not, they've volunteered for the job, and they are expected to do it. "Pops" babies them along with teasing good humour. And they do it—somehow. And do it again. And again. And by then they've lose their terrors, and "Pops" begins to slick them up, to work on their technique and speed. Sailors do it in thirty seconds. The Wrens learn to do the same. There must be no shuffling or groping. No slip-shod methods. Everything must be Navy-fashion. Hand over hand down the rope-ladder, one foot on each side to break the wind. Then they must also learn to climb up a single rope, which is no picnic even for the sports-loving girls of today. Their hands blister badly at first but gradually they master this, too.

They learn to keep their boats ship-shape and "Bristol fashion": to swab and scrub the wood, and to polish the metal work. They learn all the intricacies of rope-work, of slip-knots, reef knots and such. They learn rudimentary mechanics, and engine repairs, the handling of various types of craft, as well as coxswain's work, chart-reading, helm-work, the elementary theory of navigation, boxing the compass, and the rule of the road at sea. All these things are part of their work.

So are signals: signalling by morse and semaphore is learned first by models, and later, in actual practice at the signal mast. Women have proved to be particularly adept at signalling, and the men on the depot ship take an almost jealous pride in the work of "our girls," as each batch of trainees are called. The story is told, with relish, that at a recent Combined Operations exercise, the flag-ship was short of a signaller, and a Wren was sent to fill the gap. Her rate of transmission was so rapid that she left the Army recruiting station on shore so many words behind that they were compelled to ask for a second, rather more rallentando rendering.

I WAS conveyed back to port, piloted through the cutting mists by a blonde coxswain muffled in oilskins. She had been a manicurist, she told me, which made me reflect on the quite extraordinary number of Service girls who seem to have been in Beauty Salons, and who are always those who undertake the most hazardous, toughest jobs. Perhaps it is a natural reaction to so much artifice....

I took a last look back at the great hulk of the depot ship. There, away on the quarter deck were the trainees swarming out along the boom. "That's right, splendid—I knew you could!" I heard Pop's stentorian tones, wafted across the water. A shrill whistle: they were climbing up, now, hand over hand. Their endeavour, their determination and final, hard-won achievements will remain in my mind as being particularly eloquent of the British women at war.

Backward Communities

Note on "backward" communities, from The Tillsonburg News.

A recent writer to The Tillsonburg News spoke about this being "a backward town," which we referred to in these columns. We resented the calling of our town a backward place, but we wonder how many backward citizens we have. Our definition of a backward citizen is one who takes no interest in the nominating of men and women to fill the community's positions of responsibility. He often has unpleasant remarks to make later about a clique running things. From what we read in the press, we infer that the apathetic condition in Tillsonburg is a similar one in mos of the communities in Canada.

Pulpit Politics

(TORONTO TELEGRAM)

IN the course of his sermon recently, a reverend gentleman of this city permitted himself to wonder whether there was not more religion in the armed forces than in the churches. How the amount of religion in either case is to be measured is not clear, but in view of the fact that the armed forces are a cross section of our population, it would not be startling to discover that they share most of the characteristics of the population as a whole.

For a congregation it is a wholesome and sobering experience to hear from its minister that it is abnormally deficient in religion, but such a situation places a heavy responsibility upon the pulpit. From the layman's standpoint it is to be questioned whether even socialist propaganda is a complete substitute for gospel fundamentals, or party catchwords of the moment for the enduring truths of the Scriptures. Extravagant political theories will not do much to nourish religion.

In his sermon in which he doubted the amount of religion in churches, the reverend gentleman indicated that he was a Russian fan and that he had a leaning toward the C.C.F. He further said, "Nothing could contribute more to the unity and stability of this country than an immense national debt, and the possession by the Federal Government of as much as possible of the people's money....Nothing could protect us better against exploitation, revolution or disintegration than the fact that a Government elected by all the Canadian people of every sect and racial origin is in the position of being everybody's debtor and the soundest investment within sight."

It is by no means an original statement that a large national debt is a good thing for a country, but the suggestion that nothing could more contribute to national unity appears an extravagance which loses sight of national ideals which must be the true foundation of unity. The idea that we must hang together or we will hang separately may be practical philosophy, but it lacks any moral impulse. The impression that the larger the debt the stronger the national unity is one that might well add national bankruptcy to the suggested bankruptcy of the churches.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

DEAR MISS DIX: Am I right to keep a home for our only child, a son now in the Service? I have been married over twenty years to a fine and generous man who has made my life very happy, but lately I have found out that he has been philandering. When I taxed him with my knowledge of it, he admitted it, but promises that he is through playing with fire.

Should I believe him, and forgive him, and keep our home together for the sake of our son? Or should I divorce him?

UNCERTAIN.

ANSWER: What a wife should do to, and with, an unfaithful husband is a problem she must settle for herself. No outsider can possibly decide it for her because she alone knows what are the extenuating circumstances, if any; how badly hurt she is, and whether she should let one fault outweigh a thousand virtues.

When many a wife thinks about Reno, if she is honest with herself, she knows that she is accessory before the crime of her husband's philandering. She made no effort to hold him. She didn't dress up for him. She didn't try to entertain and amuse him. She didn't jolly him along. She went slouchy and slovenly around the house, and nagged him and fretted him and told him of his faults. She let herself get fat and dull. After the first baby came she was ALL mother and NO wife until she literally drove him away from her.

Other women love their husbands so much that they are nappier with even a small part of their hearts and attentions than they would be if actually sepaprated from them and out of their lives. And still other women have so many years of ease and luxury their husbands have given them, so many kindnesses they have done to them, such tenderness and consideration they have always shown them, to remember, that it makes them secretly wonder if a little hurt vanity and a little affront to their wifehood is worth giving up so much for, even if their Tom, Dick, or Harry has done a little sidestepping.

It is this heart-searching session that every middle-aged wife should hold with her conscience before she divorces her husband. She should not let her family and her friends, with their "poor Mary's" and "you shouldn't stand it's" and 'you ought to leave him's" drive her into it, as so many women do.

And this I take it to be your case. Your husband has been a good husband to you except for having a wandering foot that strayed now and then off of the straight and narrow path. He has given you an easy, comfortable, safe life. He has been pleasant to get along with. You have a grown son who loves and honors and respects both of his parents, who will be torn in two between you if you part.

You are not young and alluring any longer. You couldn't hope for love and romance to come to you again, or to marry any man who would be kinder to you than the husband you have. So what do you think you will get out of divorce that will be of advantage to you and be worth all it will cost you?

Don't you think that you will be happier with your husband than you would be without him? Don't you think that when your boy comes home from the war you will be glad for him to return to an unbroken home, instead of one that is just as much a shambles as any wreck in a devastated city? And if, as, alas, will happen to many mothers, he doesn't come home at all, that you will be glad not to have told him that you were divorcing his father and shamed him in his eyes, and thus have dealt him as deadly a wound as any enemy's bullet could have given him?

Think it over, lady, a long time before you divorce your middle-aged husband who is good to you, barring a few flirtations.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married for about three years and have two baby boys, one is 6 months old and the other is a year and 6 months. I am 20 and my husband is 22. We were doing fairly well until my husband had to have a minor nose operation. He has always been babied and waited on by his mother, so he took a long time off from his work and then decided to change jobs, and he hasn't drawn a very good pay for about three months. If we don't get quiet a lot of money real soon, we will lose everything we have.

I am very worried and nervous, and there is no money for any pleasure and we have no car and can't go anywhere. So we are talking of getting a divorce. I don't think I love him any more and he isn't sure that he loves me, either. But I am still a girl, and I don't think I should have to devote my every minute to taking care of my children and doing household duties when I long to get out and feel free and have a good time. Taking care of two small children is a big task, and when I am invited to go to the movies or some place with a neighbour, I can't go because I am tied down with them.

I have been sick about the whole time we have been married, and now that I have learned my lesson and am able to do the things I want to do, like bowling, skating, dancing and swimming, I find that my husband doesn't care for any of these things, for he is strictly not an outdoor man. I hate to think of having to sit home night after night just watching the babies sleep. What shall I do?

MRS. J. B. B.

ANSWER: There is an old saying, that as we make our bed we must lie on it. There isn't much comfort to you in reminding you of that unalterable fact, or in telling you to meet your fate with courage and bear your lot with philosophy.

You ask me for bread and I offer you a stone on which to grit your teeth, but it takes money for pleasure, good clothes to be a glamour girl, and freedom in which to roam around among the bright lights. And how are you to joyride when you have no car, and you have no gas if you had one; and how are you to go skating and bowling and swimming and dancing when you have nobody to take care of the babies? I don't know. What you ask for calls for a miracle to be worked in your behalf.

I print your letter as another warning against too youthful marriages, and marriages that have no adequate financial backing, in the hope that it will make some other 17-year-old girl stop, look and listen before she takes the fatal step. And then stay at home with her parents until she is old enough to accept the responsibility of wifehood and motherhood.

For what you ask of Fate is perfectly normal. It is what belong to your time of life. It is because you have taken upon yourself burdens that are too heavy for your childish shoulders to bear that you are crushed under them. It is because you lack experience and training that you find your problems insoluble. It is because you mistook calf love for the real thing and your taste in men has changed that you are tired of your husband. It is because you weren't ready for motherhood that your babies are a burden instead of a joy.

Your experience is what comes to practically every girl who marries too young. She hasn't had her playtime and she can't be satisfied without it. Her feet ache to dance, instead of walking the colic. She wants to do all the foolish innocent things the other girls are doing, and because she can't she is miserable and discontented, and she and her boy husband, who is equally disgruntled, keep the path to the divorce court hot.

A Bible Message

And Saul said to him, Whose son art thou, thou young man? And David answered, I am the son of thy servant Jesse the Beth-lehemite. (I Sam. 17: 58.)

◊ ◊ ◊

And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking unto Saul, that the soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul. And Saul took him as his own soul. And Saul took him that day, and would let him go no more to his father's house. Then Jonathan and David made a covenant, because he loved him as his own soul....And David went out whithersoever Saul sent him, and behaved himself wisely: and Saul set him over the men of war, and he was accepted in the sight of all the people, and also in the sight of Saul's servants.

And it came to pass as they came, when David was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, that the women came out of all cities of Israel, singing and dancing, to meet king Saul, with tabrets, with joy, and with instruments of musick. And the women answered one another as they played, and said, Saul hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands.

And Saul was very wroth, and the saying displeased him: and he said, They have ascribed unto David ten thousands, and to me they have ascribed but thousands: and what can he have more but the kingdom? And Saul eyed David from that day and forward.... And Saul was afraid of David, because the Lord was with him, and was departed from Saul. (I Sam. 18: 1-3, 5-9, 12.)

The museum attendant approached the millionaire.

"Smoking is forbidden here, sir. You are liable to a fine of ten shillings."

"Well, here's a pound note," replied the culprit.

"I have no change, sir," said the attendant.

The millionaire turned to his secretary and handed him a cigar. "Here, John, you smoke as well."

Canadians Given Unique Service By New Minister

By GEORGE K. WONG.

CHUNGKING, Nov. 24.— Working in a bedroom-office furnished with a desk and a soldier's cot, Canada's Minister to China, veteran soldier and newspaperman, has sounded a new note in diplomacy by mobilizing Canadians in China to further his legation's work, and he talks to them throughout free China in our own legation newspaper, I learned to-day.

Major-General Victor Wentworth Odlum, of Vancouver, told me how through his Canadian "news bulletin" he has brought the 200 other Canadians in China back into living contact with Canada, and at the same time has enlisted the help of each of them to widen the circle of personal contacts between the Canadian legation and the Chinese people.

Unique Contrast.

In this method is seen a unique contrast to the orthodox or "palace diplomacy" which ambassadors the world over have limited their contacts merely through the Foreign Office of the country to which they were accredited.

Gen. Odlum's innovation is regarded as the practical application by a newspaper publisher of his experience to the task of reaching all strata of the people, to promote reciprocal relations and a two-way flow of information.

Gen. Odlum's personal quarters in the legation, which itself is temporary in borrowed rooms, were adorned with war maps, and it was here that he worked out his first issues of the "bulletin" which, he told me to-day, "is not a propaganda sheet, because it should never have a big circulation."

Are Scattered.

The Minister told me that the Canadians in China to-day live mostly in the districts in western Szechwan Province. They are scattered in cities including Chengtu, the provincial capital, Suifu, on the confluence of Yaugtze and Min Rivers, and Kwangshien, the scenic summer resort which is famous for its ancient irrigation canals.

There are about 200 Canadians in China to-day and there are roughly 30 copies printed.

The tall, grey-haired Minister said that an encouraging response had been received from the Canadians who receive the bulletin.

"Their letters are full of enthusiasm," he said, "for they feel they have again been brought back into living contact with Canada. Because of this war they have been practically cut off for years, but we will not be content if our group of friendly supporters remains purely Canadian. We want to catch the attention of Chinese who are interested in Canada.

COMMUNITY CONCERT ASSOCIATION ARTIST for the first concert of the season which is scheduled for Wednesday, December 1, will be William Kappell. Mr. Kappell has had a meteoric success as a concert pianist. In 1941-42 he won the Youth Contest of the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Naumburg Foundation Award, and the Town Hall Award. He has played as guest artist with all the major symphony orchestras on the continent. This year, a double engagement with the Boston Symphony was so enthusiastically received that he was re-engaged for three more appearances.

Beaver Season Set Dec. 1 To 21

An open season for trapping of beaver has been set for Dec. 1 to Dec. 21 with both days inclusive in the counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Haliburton, Hastings and other adjoining counties.

All persons trapping beaver must have a license as required by Game and Fisheries Act, and licenses will not be issued to persons under sixteen years of age. The limit for each trapper is ten beaver pelts, and he is given ten days after the season closes to dispose of the pelts.

It is unlawful for any person to shoot, or spear any beaver or to cuty spear, break or destroy any beaver house or beaver dam or to set a trap closer than five feet to a beaver house.

30-Hour Week Gets Attention

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 (CP). — The six-hour day and five-day week today came under brisk discussion at a meeting of the House of Commons reconstruction committee after representatives of the Standard Railway Brotherhoods suggested in a brief that such hours would be sufficient after the war.

John R. MacNicol, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Davenport, said he did not think a six-hour day would be suitable in Canada unless other countries took similar action.

W. L. Best, secretary of the Brotherhoods' Legislative committee, replied that railway developments have lessened the need for long hours.

F. D. McKenzie (Lib. Lambton-Kent) said he wondered if shorter hours could be granted without damage to the Canadian economy

24 Peg Players Move East For Title Game

WINNIPEG, Nov. 25 (CP)—Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers, Western Canada football champions, left for Toronto last night with only one thought in mind—beating Hamilton Wildcats in the Dominion grid final Saturday at Varsity Stadium.

The Bombers departed for the all-important struggle 24 strong, 22 players, Coach Reg. Threlfall and Manager FO. Syd. Halter.

Halter was appointed to the managerial portfolio yesterday when it was announced that Flt. Lt. Bill Cockburn, who has managed the team all season, would be unable to make the trip because of illness. Halter is a former president of the Winnipeg Rugby Cub.

Players making the trip are:

Backfielders—LAC. Johnny Lake, Ches McCance, AC2 Brian Quinn, AC2 Garnie Smith, Sgt. Dave Greenberg, LAC. Dan Capraru,, AC2 Norm Geller, Cpl. Vic Lattimer, LAC. Andy Branigan and LAC. Sammy Lavitt.

Outsides—AC2 Cliff McFadyen, Cpl. Don Durno, AC2 Albert Olson.

Middles—Sgt. Tiny Lucid, Cpl. Ruse Lugwig, AC1 Eddie Duncan.

Insides—Les Lear, Cpl. George Shields, PO. Bert Border, AC2 Ernie Ahoff.

Snaps—LAC Nate Shore and Sgt. Jim Sheldon.

Coach Threlfall, commenting on the title game, said Bombers were the best conditioned club he has ever led into a Dominion final. For team play, timing and the ability to play as a co-ordinated unit it was the best team he has handled since coming to Canada.

"They're in fine shape because of the fine weather we have experienced here this fall," he said.

"Instead of bothering them the lengthy layoff between the Western and Dominion finals has done them good. It has permitted extra time for the treatment of minor injuries suffered in the Western series.

"The team is not packed with individual stars as those in the past. It is a steady, strong, play-making team, that will take advantage of the other fellow's mistakes and get a lot of things accomplished."

Bombers will arrive in Toronto Friday morning, and will run through a workout at Maple Leaf Stadium in the afternoon.

The crimson-clad team was almost without the sign of an injury when it stepped aboard the eastbound train. LAC. Johnny Lake, who has been kept out of practices for the past 12 days with a leg injury, was reported much improved. Cpl. Don Durno, a first-string outside, was still being treated for water on the knee, but was named a sure starter.

The title game with Wildcats will mark the seventh time in nine years a Winnipeg club has represented the West against the East. Three times in these seven years Winnipeg aggregations have won the Grey Cup, emblematic of the Canadian senior championship.

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 25 — (CP). — New York hockey writers continue to ride the Rangers. The Mirror's Jim Hurley says Manager Lester Patrick, looking for players, "bearfed Coach Day of the Leafs in his dressing room after Sunday night's win, figuring that a victory might make Happy somewhat expansive. He offered Lester a shopworn minor leaguer, but the Ranger boss replied that he had enough of that kind already."......Scalped from Bobbie Rosenfeld's column in the Toronto Globe and Mail: "Joe Primeau, hockey coach of the floundering Toronto Fliers, tells this one about the once mighty Johnny Mowers. After Hamilton had plastered a 9-2 defeat against him, Mowers trotted into the dressing-room, slapped his stick down in disgust and bellowed: 'This is the last straw. When a goal judge starts telling me—me, the Vezina Trophy winner and twice a champion with Detroit Red Wings—how to play goal, then I give up.'..... (The goal judge offering advice was Ernie Worley.)"

Service hockey:

Quebec senior Hockey League's Montreal Army team, but there's still a better-than-fair Army team in Montreal's National Defence League. They have players like Johnny Mahaffy, Kilby McDonald, Fred Thurier, and—surprise; Jean Pusie, no less....Jack Park of the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder, reports Petawawa Army team of the Ottawa City League has been located at Cornwall several days, working out at the Cornwall rink, and comments it was not diplomatic to flaunt a group of players in the faces of the Cornwall fans who recently saw their own team broken up by Army regulations. Park mentions the Army ruling that soldier players must proceed with training "in normal manner" and comments that moving the Petawawa team 200 miles to Cornwall just to practice for a few days was inconsistent.

Incidentally:

Hec Highton, Chicago Black Hawks new goalie, played last year for New Westminster Spitfires in amateurs. The previous year he was with Tulsa Oilers in the American Association and for a time with a Wichita, Kas., war plant team....Don Metz, former N.H.L. star, is reported to have resigned his Army commission to transfer to the R.C.A.F.

After a week's absence from the basketball wars the C.G.E. girls will swing into action in the Ladies' League at the Y.W.C.A. tomorrow night when they meet the Normal School team in the first game of the weekly double-header. The Normal outfit made their first appearance of the season last week when they were beaten by a solitary basket and they hope to improve on that showing tomorrow night. On the other hand the Generals were just nosed out by St. John's in their initial game and they too will be looking for their first win of the campaign when they clash with the Pedagogues in the 7.30 o'clock fixture. Second place will be at stake in the second battle of the night which brings together St. John's and the Y Cadets. The two are tied at present with a win and a loss each and the winner tomorrow night will move to within half a game of the leading Transports who have a bye this week. The Y team is a young enthusiastic outfit who should improve steadily and they are liable to give the more experienced Church team quite a battle for the honors. The two games should be well worth seeing.

It is difficult to avoid a feeling in regard to Saturday's Grey Cup final game at Toronto that the Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers are likely to carry too much all-round power for the Hamilton Wildcats. Neither is a great football machine as compared with some of the finalists in the past but on paper at least Winnipeg would seem to be carrying more first string players than the Cats and it is a cinch that if the Hamilton team plays back to its form of last week the Fliers will tame them. They cannot afford to fumble as they did in that game with Lachine if they want to have any hope of bringing the coveted Grey trophy to Hamilton. The Cat mistakes last Saturday came close to being fatal and undoubtedly would have been if it had not been for a couple of breaks including some bad snapping by the Lachine team. Hamilton's chances are not helped either by the condition of some of their stars. Joe Krol, Mister Football, so far as the Wildcats are concerned has been under the weather for nearly a week and they cannot expect him to be at his best under the circumstances. We are calling the Bombers to pick up the marbles. They look to have the edge and would have to be decidedly unlucky to lose, the way we see it.
